Canadian Garden Service

BY GORDON LINDSAY SMITH

Columnists like to poke a little good natured fun at the garden seed catalogue, with its bright pictures and alluring descriptions, which comes along just about the time winter has reached its peak. But to the columnist and the rest of us a good seed catalogue is as interesting as a good novel at this season of the year and is much more satisfying reading than many novels, too.

For the person with a garden that will be coming to life again in a few short weeks, the seed catalogue is really indispensable. With it we can plan, make our gardens more interesting and beautiful and make them more productive, as well. Without the specific information in the seed catalogue we would be gardening in the dark.

A VITAL GUIDE

In addition to the bright pictures which, by the way, are actual photographs and not the conception of some imaginative artist, the seed catalogue tells us precisely when, where and which to plant. It informs of the hardiness and special likes in the way of soil and location of each flower or vegetable. We then know which will be best and most satisfactory for our particular garden. It also tells us the color of the bloom in the case of flowers and the days to maturity for the various vegetables. This again is vital information in planning. Heights are also given of most plants so that we won't have some big flowers hiding little ones or try to grow great bushy annuals like the bigger salvia, zinnias and marigolds in little teeny beds. With the information of the seed catalogue before us we can go ahead and plan and dream a perfect garden even if it is still 10 below outside.

THE CENTRAL PIECE

The new gardener is too much inclined to rush the season and get out digging hardly before the last snow drifts have melted. Much more harm than good results from this haste with most garden jobs. But there is one we can hardly start too soon. That is repairing, rebuilding the lawn or starting a brand new one.

Grass grows best when the weather is cool and moist and the sooner the seed is planted in the spring the better. Of course, we can't or shouldn't start to rake or dig while the soil is the least bit muddy. But even before the last snow goes we can put up a wire around the lawn to protect it from wandering children and adults who should know better. Then a little later we can smooth out any bumps and fill any holes and reseed. With new lawn to-be, too, we should start raking and levelling just as soon as the soil is dry enough. Grass, it should be remembered, is a plant just like a flower or vegetable, and if we want it to do well, we plant the best seed available in good fine soil. We will have more to say about this later on.

FREE PAINT TOOL

Cardboards on which shirts are returned from laundries are very handy as edgers when you tackle a paint job. Paint smudges on floors can be prevented by sliding such an edger along while you paint baseboards.

HANDY COFFEE CANS

A wise policy is to keep a couple of empty coffee cans in hand when you have any small paint jobs coming up. They are handy for mixing paint and wide enough to take a good sized paint brush which may not fit readily in a quart can. They make good storage containers for nails and screws, too.

NAILING BASIC

Proper nailing is a prime factor for getting the best service from hardwood floors.

Remodelling and Horticultural News

Wood Paneling Is Easy to Install For Luxury Walls

Wood paneling is becoming one of the most popular wall coverings for the home remodeller because of its ease of installation, permanence, economy and luxurious appearance.

Almost every commercially important species of wood is now being used for panelling and there are more than 100 commercial species. Woods with an even grain are used to create formal effects. Woods with knots, prominent grain, or other character markings are preferred for informal rooms.

If you want to give a small room sweeping and longer lines, install wood panelling with the boards running horizontally, before conventional panelling. Use the use of boards running vertically.

Interesting combinations of wood panelling and other wall coverings can be worked out by running the panelling only half way up and papering or painting the upper walls. Such wainscoting or dadoing is especially suitable for dining rooms, recreation rooms and hallways where you want lower walls that will take scuffs and kicks. Wood can take a lot of abuse and still look and feel almost like new after you install it. Low maintenance cost is one of its big advantages.

Nailing a Floor That Won't Squeak

For a squeak-free floor, use plenty of the right kind of nails. Screw-type nails eliminate splitting. Drive them through the side of the tongue at an agle of 45 or 55 degrees. Slant the first nail or two in each piece of hardwood flooring both vertically and horizontally pointing it toward the end joint. Always stagger end joints in adjoining strips. Don't drive the nails home. Sink them with a nail set to avoid marring edges of the flooring.

To Avoid Transplanting Shock, Sow Seeds Where Plant Will Grow.

Sow Seed in Garden for Flowers in Fast Time

When danger of frost has passed flower seeds sown directly in the garden will bloom sooner than plants started elsewhere and moved to the desired location.

The reason is that transplanting shock is avoided, allowing the young plants to develop without a check to the flowering stage. Shock, and resultant check in growth, is suffered by any growing plant that is transplanted. Unless it is offset by a much earlier start, or some other advantage, there is no good reason to invite it.

All annual flower seeds may be sown directly in the garden; and there are a number which should be because they are difficult to transplant. These include alyssum, California Poppy, godetia, kochia, leptosyne, linaria, lupin, matthiola (evening scented stock) —nasturium, dwarf phlox, poppies, portulaca and salpiglosis.

To avoid having to move the plant, seed should be sown exactly where each plant is desired. Sow three to five seeds to insure against failure of some seedlings from the disease and accidents which beset young plants. If several survive to the stage of vigorous youth, the excess plants may be moved to other locations.

The method to be followed in this kind of sowing should be the same that is used for sowing vegetables in hills.

Scoop out a shallow depression, and mix with the soil at its bottom a teaspoonful of balanced plant food; covering this with fresh soil so that the hole is nearly filled. Then sow the flower seeds, and cover lightly with porous top soil, or specially prepared covering soil. Mark the spot with a stake, so you will not disturb it with cultivating tools before the seeds sprout.

With flower seeds, even more than with vegetables, the depth to which they are covered, and the light, porous character of the soil that covers them, are important.

The practical way to proceed is to press the tiniest seeds into fine soil and sprinkle just enough earth over them to cover; while larger seeds are placed deeper, in proportion to their size.

The covering soil is more important than the soil below the seeds. If your garden has much clay, and you have a limited amount of humus, the best place for it is over the seeds. The main point is to prevent a crust from forming, and it will pay in many cases to prepare a special soil for covering. Mix a third of your best top soil, passed through a sieve, with a third coarse sand and as much peat moss or humus from the compost pile.

Now until the seeds sprout the soil must be kept moist; and this requires daily sprinkling with a fine spray taking care not to wash the seeds out of the soil.

Roll Roofing Is Easy to Handle On Flashing Job

All roofs need extra protection at points where junctions occur, such as around chimneys, ventilating stacks and in valleys formed by two slopes meeting at an angle.

Flashing is used to seal such joints. An effective and easy-to-handle flashing, widely used with asphalt shingles, is mineral-surfaced roll roofing.

An 18-inch wide strip of roll roofing is centered lengthwise in the valley with the mineral surface down. On top of this a 36-inch wide strip is placed with the mineral surface up. After this is nailed to the roof, the shingles are applied so that they cover most of the flashing and complete the sealing job.

Insulation Can Be an Easy Job

Adding insulation under a roof or over a ceiling is a popular do-it-yourself project. A man and wife team can handle insulation with little effort.

All you need in the way of tools are a staple gun, a sharp knife and a straight edge.

Insulation should be cut to fit snugly, leaving a flange of vapor barrier to be stapled to the studs or rafters. Wedge the batt or blanket in tightly with the vapor barrier toward the indoor side — not against the outside.

Staples should be no more than 6 inches apart.

Do It Yourself

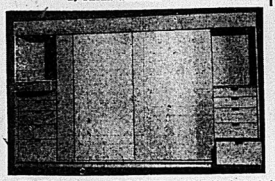
Here's How

TO DO IT — TO MAKE IT — TO FIX IT

By PETER WHITTALL

Solve Storage Problems

This is one of a series of columns by Peter Whittall on expertly-designed major projects by which the handyman can add beauty and utility to every room of the house.



House hunting, to some housewives, is really cupboard and storage space hunting.

And the lack of such space is often their main complaint about their present living quarters. No matter how big a room may be, dressers, bureaus and wardrobe storage cabinets always seem to take up too much room or "stick out" too much.

A 24-inch strip taken off a 12-foot end or sidewall of a bedroom will provide 144 cubic feet of practical and convenient storage space without appearing to take up any space in the room. On an eight-foot wall it would give 96 cubic feet.

The storage wall plan outlined today can be assembled by the average home handyman in 18 basic operations, using only a handsaw, hammer, screwdriver, plane and mitre square.

This 12-foot storage wall, finished to match or blend your bedroom decor, combines the advantages of closets, bureaux and dressing tables in one unit.

SIMPLIFIED DESIGN

Don't let the size of this unit awe or discourage you. The construction steps have been deliberately kept simple, with the beginner in mind.

The designer has also kept the critical housewife in mind and has included features that will permit this multi-purpose storage wall to take its place in any room, on any wall and in any company.

Perhaps the foremost feature of this storage wall is the four sliding doors, that by-pass each other. They slide on nylon rollers running in overhead tracks. The doors themselves are sheets of ¾" plywood, cut to size with a handsaw.

Another feature is the "Him" and "Her" built-in chests of drawers, each with its own illuminated mirror. The "Him" side has an outlet for an electric razor, and the top of the drawers is a more convenient (for shaving) six inches higher than the other side.

INDIRECT LIGHTING

Four porcelain light sockets attached to the inside of the valance board will provide indirect illumination for both dresser units and clothes closets. Square holes cut with a keyhole saw in the top strip of ¾" plywood and covered with clear or frosted glass, complete the indirect lighting system.

Shoe storage and shelf space are included in this plan, plus a full length wardrobe in the centre for those long, formal gowns. Building steps include a 2x4 floor frame and unit construction of each section. If you plan to cover a wall 12-feet long, then plan to build your storage unit in two six-foot sections, separated by the ¾" fir plywood partition or bulkhead in the centre.

For a 12-foot unit you start by ripping two full sheets of plywood down the middle to provide the ends and the sides of the chests of drawers. A similar operation on two other sheets of plywood will give you the two top and bottom pieces (floor and ceiling) for both units, with four 24-inch squares left over for dresser tops and drawer fronts.

The back can be sheeted in with ¼" fir plywood, or nailed directly to the wall.

BOX TOP

You might plan to box in the space between this unit and the ceiling with plywood. For neatness, add a moulding strip across the ceiling.

Fir plywood is available in sheets four feet wide and up to 16 feet in length, but for the home woodworker four by eight sheets are the most practical and economical. Dimensions for this storage wall are based on the use of this size with a minimum of waste.

LIQUID MASKING

Painting window sashes and frames can be speeded by masking the window panes. Sometimes wet newspapers will suffice. Masking tape around the edges is frequently used. However, you can get liquid masking material at paint stores and this is speedily applied. It peels off like adhesive tape removing paint streaks with it.

Metal Seal For Windows Saves Fuel

Metal weatherstripping is an inconspicuous, money-in-your-pocket earmark of a modern home, whether the house is ranch, colonial, contemporary or any other style.

Complete weatherstripping is supposed to save as much as 24 per cent on fuel bills, because the clearance around each window that lacks this protection can equal the leakage of a hole four inches square. The Weatherstrip Research Institute says tests have shown that infiltration around average windows and doors can account for 37 per cent of the total loss of heat in your home.

1. Don't paint — if paint accidentally gets on weatherstripping, remove it with steel wool and rub with wax to restore the smooth rust-proof finish. Paint on these runners will cause windows to stick or bind. Sash cord and pulleys never should be painted. Paint hardens sash cords and causes them to break.

2. Beware of Wires — Radio and TV antenna lead-ins should not cross weatherstripping unless it is notched to accommodate them. Jamming windows down on such wires will result in a poor fit, damage the weatherstripping and possibly interfere with good reception.

3. Keep Joints Clean — Particles of leaves and other debris in the grooves of weatherstripping will prevent tight closing. Periodic brushing will prolong the life of the weatherstripping and help it to keep dirt out of your home.

4. Keep Windows Locked — Locked windows are sealed tighter against air leakage in cold weather.

5. Caulk Outside Joints —All exterior cracks and crevices around window and door frames should be kept sealed at all times. Leakage also may occur around loose glass. See that the putty around panes is tight.

Scandinavian Nations to Quit UN Force Soon

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Dan. ish Prime Minister H. C. Hansen said Thurs. the four Scandinavian countries have decided on eventual withdrawal from the United Nations Emergency Force, perhaps within a few months. He said the main reason is "economic."

Hansen said the force is a financial burden on smaller countries, and that UN members are contributing to the Middle East unit now should assume a share of the work.

Hansen, arriving for a two-day visit with Prime Minister Nehru was asked about reports that Finland, Denmark, Sweden and Norway had decided to remain in UNEF no longer than another six months.

Hansen declined to give any specific time limit, but said defence ministers of the four countries had reached a decision at a recent meeting in Oslo.

Of the total UN Emergency Force of approximately 6,000, Denmark has contributed 300, Norway 460, Sweden 230 and Finland 250 men. Canada has about 1,100 army and air force personnel with UNEF.

Profit 2 Cents On First-Class Letter Rates

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian post office department averages 2.08 cents profit on first-class letters, the Commons was told Thursday. First-class rates for the first ounce are four cents local, five for out-of-town delivery.

Postmaster - general Lapointe told members that on air-mailed letters, on which the postage is seven cents for the first ounce, his department averages .67 of a cent profit. On foreign air mail, on which the rater differs according to geographic area, it makes .36 of a cent profit.

William Hamilton (PC — Montreal Notre-Dame-de-Grace), said he was glad that the post office had established "that every time a Canadian citizen puts a penny stamp onto a letter he is paying two cents more than the cost of transporting and handling that letter."

OPPOSED INCREASE

The Progressive Conservatives had opposed government moves in 1954 to increase by one cent the first-class mail rate.

"We fought it on grounds that first-class mail already was paying more than its share of the post office deficit," he said.

Mr. Lapointe said the department lost $1,2543 for every item carried in air-lift parcel post, 24 cents on every piece of second-class publication mail, .1 of a cent on third-class household circulars, .17 of a cent on common carrier flats and .1 of a cent on every registration. On fourth-class mail the profit was 2.5 cents an article.

Mr. Lapointe said the figures are averages based on a survey of mailings in October, 1953, and March, 1955.

New Federal Building Will Cost $12,000,000

TORONTO (CP) — A new 15-storey federal government building here on which ground will be made about June 1, will include a courtyard with trees and flowerbeds between supporting pillars, it was announced Thursday.

It will house the income tax division of the national revenue department, a post office and the Toronto branch of the National Film Board. Nine buildings are to be demolished to make way for the $12,000,000 structure at downtown Adelaide and Victoria Streets.

MAGAZINE INDICTED

CHICAGO (AP) — Confidential Magazine and its distributing company Thursday were indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of mailing obscene or crime-inciting matter and giving information on abortion.

Pickersgill Says Charges Made By Hees Untrue

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration Minister Pickersgill Thursday denied that he refused to consider the application of a Hungarian couple living in Toronto for permission to bring their daughter to Canada from Hungary.

In a brief Commons exchange, George Hees (PC—Toronto Broadview) said he has a letter from the minister in which Mr. Pickersgill did refuse.

Later Mr. Hees told a reporter outside the Commons that Mr. Pickersgill's answer "was one more of the many examples we have had recently of cabinet ministers deliberately misleading the House."

His exchange with th. minister began when Mr. Hees asked why the government refuses to allow "parents living in Canada to bring children living in Hungary to this country."

"MAKES NO SENSE"

Mr. Pickersgill said that, as everyone would expect, "the allegations on which the question is based are denied and therefore the question makes no sense."

Mr. Hees replied that he has a letter from the minister "which states exactly the opposite" and asked why the minister "is not prepared to explain. I would like an explanation right away, please."

Mr. Pickersgill said: "Anybody in Hungary "are treated in the same way as people in the countries behind the Iron Curtain and are subject to exactly the same investigations."

Mr. Hees: "Would the minister give me his reason for refusing, for a period of three years, to consider the application of these people to bring their child to this country?"

Mr. Pickersgill: "I have never made any such refusal."

Mr. Hees: "I have in this letter I have."

The Commons exchange ended there but outside the House Mr. Hees said he was referring to Mr. and Mrs. Spiro Perella of Toronto for admission to Canada of their daughter, Dafina Perelovzska.

Engineers Pick Up Easy Money Killing Worms

NEW LISKEARD, Ont. (CP)— Engineers on the Ontario Northland Railway, which stretches from North Bay to James Bay, have been picking up easy money killing wolves with their engines and collecting the three-pelt-wolf Ontario government bounty.

The Swastika branch of the Ontario department of lands and forests recently reported that two of its engineers had been severely victims of trains. The Swastika branch looks after a 5,400 square mile district in northern Ontario and New Liskeard.

Engineers and hunters are unlikely to displace farmers and trappers as chief bounty-collectors, Of the 19 wolves killed in the Swastika region this season, trappers got nine and farmers seven. A hunter got the other one.

Best hunting season for railway engineers is the fall and winter months when wolves are travelling, and getting in the way of trains. Wolves breed in the spring and early summer when females with the young ones get old enough to travel, a lands and forests official said.

Tolls Formula for Seaway Not Determined for Months

WASHINGTON (CP) — Senior Canadian and American officials charged with building the St. Lawrence seaway say it will be "months" before they determine what tolls will be charged when the seaway when it opens in 1959.

Lewis C. Castle, president of the United States St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation said:

The two officials held a day-long conference which included discussions on tolls, the dimensions of ships to use the seaway locks and coordination of work in the international rapids section of the waterway.

Chevrier said the two seaway authorities have considered the various formulas used on the Panama Canal and Suez and discarded them, but has no yardstick to cope with any formula suitable for the St. Lawrence.

One thing to be considered is that ships using the St. Lawrence seaway will have to come back out — it will not be a "through" canal in the sense Panama and Suez are.

Castle said public hearings probably will be held eventually to recommend shipping companies with the tolls formula but it was not likely the hearings would take place this year.

Chevrier said the tolls would be sufficient to enable the two governments eventually to regain the $413,000,000 they are putting into the seaway and low enough to attract traffic—"with the emphasis on the latter."

Castle said it now is expected government loans being used to build the waterway will be repaid in 50 years.

They reported engineering committees still are working on the problem of what dimensions to designate for ships using the locks, which could accommodate ships 730 feet long with a 75-foot beam and a 27-foot draft.

MILLARD SPREADS LABOR IDEALS IN AFRICA

Easily the best-known Canadian in Africa, Canadian union leader Charles H. Millard, right, is shown conferring with Rt. Hon. Dr. Kwame Nkrumah, prime minister of the new nation of Ghana, formerly the Gold Coast. In his new job as director of organization for the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions, Millard is the international Confederation of Free Trade Unions, Millard is preaching social and economic emancipation for Africa's 200,000,000 people. Adding urgency to his mission is the propaganda which the Communists are unleashing in Africa to woo the continent over to Moscow-directed trade unions.

Veteran Arctic Soldiers Say Real Problem in Clothing Not to Keep Warm But Cool

FORT CHURCHILL, Man. (CP) — The extent of cold when sub-zero temperatures are accompanied by high winds is the subject of Canadian Army experiments at the northern army base here.

Temperatures alone don't mean much to the army. They must be correlated with the wind velocity, to give the cold in terms of "windchill."

When the wind-chill count is 2,400, for instance, flesh exposed to air will freeze within 30 seconds. And a 45-mile an hour wind linked with a temperature of 38 below zero gives a windchill of 2,490, well past the danger mark.

At such a stage, the army says, nothing much is done except to keep alive. Fighting efficiency is cut considerably. Any forward motion on foot has to be made on a zig-zag course with the face protected at all times.

While such coldness is present men stay within snow-huts. Three or four small lamps are enough to keep the hut warm and will allow men to sit in their shirt sleeves. Huts are considerably warmer than tents in this weather.

Army clothing has little wool material and the heavy, soft furs forms are not worn. Nylon clothing has taken up the slack, and special boots have a rubber foot and a nylon covering.

Veteran Arctic soldiers say the real problem in clothing is not to keep warm, but cool. Overheated feet perspire and wet clothes soon freeze and become cold. The idea of the soldier keeping cool, all clothing has special ventilation flaps which may be opened, with the soldier gets too warm.

Another top item for northern survival is food. Army food packs have double the 2,200 calories contained in a normal army ration.

Col. D. G. Ketcheson, commander of the Fort Churchill army base, said the Eskimo excels the Arctic Canadian soldier only in his ability to work without bare hands in the cold.

He said Eskimos do not have the physical stamina that most people think. When they are tired they sit and rest, something which can not be done in war.

Chief of Naval Staff Frankly Discusses Defence Dilemma

OTTAWA (CP)—The dilemma faced by Canada's defence plan has been put in sharp focus for the first time publicly by Vice-Admiral Harry DeWolf, chief of naval staff.

Officials describe his speech in Hamilton earlier this week as one of the frankest and most important given by a Canadian service forces chief in recent years. A transcript of the address has just been made available here.

The problem posed by the naval chief: With the present manpower and financial ceilings for the armed forces and the present deterioration both political and military factors, where should Canadian defence focus its attention and which essential jobs should they do first?

He put one aspect this way:

"We the Canadian armed forces prepare for total war under ceiling as well as a financial one. Our effort in North America has been increasing steadily and has reached the point where further effort can only be at the expense of reductions elsewhere.

"As new commitments develop we will be forced to look for areas of compensating reduction. Where do we look?

"Sooner or later we must face a decision as to the relative value of our defence efforts at home and in Europe. Here again the problem is political as well as military but of vital interest to two of the services (army and RCAF). TO U.S.

"It is argued that eventually the (western) Europeans nations should provide the bulk of the manpower for their defence, leaving the United States to provide special weapons and specialized forces.

"We, at this time, have no special weapons to offer as compensation for manpower reduction. Our air division and brigade (in Europe) are our only significant contributions but numerically they are a small part of the NATO forces it is working to make and the German contribution is built up, will become a smaller part. However, the political importance of the presence of these formations is out of all proportion to their military strength.

"Thus we have a choice to be- tween our effort in Europe and our effort at home in a political context and one which the chiefs of staff will have to consider."

At another point, he said:

"The rising costs of maintenance place re-deployment re-threatening to push us through our present financial ceiling.

"This means that we must soon face up to the full implications of priorities, something we have accepted in principle but so far done little about.

"We have been aware of the inevitable effect of these factors since they developed a few years ago by some realistic economies and by eliminating low priority activities. However, economies alone or even minor reductions are unlikely to solve the problem."

BURNED SONS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Police are holding a 29-year-old Columbus mother who they said admitted burning two of her sons, five and two, with a "red hot" butcher knife after she "caught them playing" with her fire." Mrs. Mary A. Cunningham told police she burned the children because "that's the way I was treated when I did something bad when I was little."

Lapointe Denies Charge Made By CCF Member

OTTAWA (CP)—CCF Commons member Harold Winch Thursday charged Postmaster-General Lapointe with being "probably the greatest exploiter of labor" in the federal government.

Mr. Lapointe promptly denied the charge in the Commons. He said the large number of job requests he receives indicates that labor does not feel it is exploited by the post office department.

Mr. Winch, member for Vancouver East, referred specifically to the department's practice of hiring "temporary help" to sort mail at certain peak periods of the day, usually in the evening.

He said many persons work for years as temporary help at less pay than the postal employees receive.

CLAIMS EXPLOITATION

The government, he said, exploits and "gyps" labor by employing "temporary help" instead of hiring additional permanent staff at full pay.

Mr. Lapointe said the practice of hiring temporary help has been used for years. There was no question of cheating or exploiting employees because he directed and control the initial sale of one product."

CITES SAFEGUARDS

He further defended the marketboard practice saying that the boards are those or four democratic safeguards which can be employed to see that the producer gets a fair and running contrary to the common good."

These safeguards: 1. Marketing boards are elected by the producers themselves. A producer is usually vote to establish a marketing plan or to set up a board on its continuance or not; 3. Legislation must be enacted before a regulated marketing program can be initiated; 4. Government officials must be present to supervisory powers to help direct the program.

Dr. Hannam said that last census showed 470,000 commercial farmers in Canada and that a free enterprise producing unit. As a result producers could not regulate the overall production to conform to the needs of the known market.

Twenty resolutions were presented to the government with the subject of open market sales.

Dunlop Claims Opposition Fails To Prove Charges

TORONTO (CP) — Education Minister Dunlop said Thursday opposition members have failed to prove their charges that a teacher shortage exists in Ontario.

Speaking to the legislature during consideration of the education department's budget estimates, the minister said Liberal Opposition Leader Oliver "has not proved to me that there is a school or classroom that is not operating for lack of a teacher."

Mr. Dunlop, after giving a detailed explanation of measures designed to increase the number of teachers and raise their salary standards, told Mr. Oliver he did not know what was going on.

$1,955-$2 STARTS

The minister said the province made a substantial gain during 1956 in the number of teachers.

In 1955-52 there were 22,327 teachers employed in elementary schools, 990 of whom were not graduates but had permission and the rest on certificates.

In 1956-57 there were 27,633 elementary teachers, 26,390 holding certificates and the rest on letters of permission.

"There was a gain of 5,233 certified teachers in the school year period. The group included not more than 1,243 teachers taking summer courses "so that at least 3,719 were fully qualified."

FLIES CONTINENT

NEW YORK (AP)—A British turboprop airliner, the world's largest commercial-airliner, flew nonstop from San Francisco to Idlewild airport Thursday in six hours and 48 minutes. The plane, the British Britannia, is capable of carrying 133 passengers.

Provincial Legislatures Talk Municipal Financing

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Problems of municipal financing were discussed Thursday by provincial legislatures.

In Alberta, an opposition member said the province's estimated $50,000,000 oil-royalty dividends would be more than offset by the rise in municipal taxes.

Highway (CCF—Lethbridge-Taber-High River), who is also mayor of Taber, said the province's assistance ment by the Social Credit government this year, $4,500,000, of which one would be distributed among persons living in the province for five years was "a political prostidiction" to previous statements by the government.

He referred to a statement last year by Provincial Treasurer E. W. Hinman that the government will not have enough money to continue spending at the present rate and that municipalities would either have to curtail services or find new revenue sources.

He said cities will not be able to raise enough revenue from taxes they might have received in grants and that taxes will have to be increased to raise the extra $20 million a year needed for dividend—expected to amount to about $20 a person—would be in addition to additional municipal taxes the person would have to pay.

In New Brunswick, Fred Somers (PC—Saint John) and Arthur Richard (L—Kent) urged the Progressive Conservative government to increase the share of municipalities for education at least $2,000,000.

J. A. McCallister, president of the Manitoba Federation of Agriculture and Co-operation, presented a brief which said cash paid by western farmers for operating expenses increased by $353,300,000 in 1955 from $479,300,000 in 1950.

Federation President Defends Right of Hog Producers to Form Board to Sell Products

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. H. H. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, has defended the right of hog producers to form a regulated marketing board to sell their products as a safeguard against "large - scale" business corporations.

He told the annual meeting of the Ontario Hog Producers Association that consolidation of business and industry into larger units has been the trend in recent years.

He quoted sales of Massey-Harris-Ferguson which he said in 1956 recently amounted to $349,000,000 while 15 years before they had been about $50,000,000.

"In view of the tremendous bargaining power which these large corporations wield it seems to me not a little strange for serious criticism to be directed at rather unimportant regulation of a producers' marketing board whose purpose it is to direct rather than control the initial sale of one product."

CITES SAFEGUARDS

He further defended the marketboard practice saying that the boards are those or four democratic safeguards which can be employed to see that the producer gets a fair and running contrary to the common good."

These safeguards: 1. Marketing boards are elected by the producers themselves. A producer is usually vote to establish a marketing plan or to set up a board on its continuance or not; 3. Legislation must be enacted before a regulated marketing program can be initiated; 4. Government officials must be present to supervisory powers to help direct the program.

Dr. Hannam said that last census showed 470,000 commercial farmers in Canada and that a free enterprise producing unit. As a result producers could not regulate the overall production to conform to the needs of the known market.

Workers Return After Settlement Of 7-Week Strike

CORNWALL (CP) — Workers returned to the job Thursday after a seven-week strike against McNamara Construction Company Limited on a new hydro project on the south part of the Roosevelt Bridge at this St. Lawrence River city.

The International Union of Operating Engineers (AFL-CIO) and its 50 power-machine operators have returned to work on an anticipation of a settlement, expected to be concluded with contract signings today.

Work on the $7,000,000 high-level suspension bridge over the St. Lawrence south channel stopped Jan. 22 in a dispute over wages and union recognition. The union described the settlement as "most favorable" to the workers. They now would receive heavy rather than light construction pay, involving an increase of 40 cents an hour.

Ottawa Will Tax Payments Made By B.C., Alberta

OTTAWA (CP)—A difference of opinion has arisen over the taxability of special payments to certain residents of British Columbia and Alberta proposed by their Social Credit provincial governments.

Revenue Minister McCann said in the Commons Thursday that, one way or the other, they will be subject to federal tax.

Premier Bennett of B.C. commented later in Victoria that if "in view of the tremendous special payments to residents of that province "it would be one good reason why they should be thrown out of office."

"I am sure though that no federal government would do that," he added. "They wouldn't stop a provincial government from reducing taxes."

REPLIES IN HOUSE

In reply to Commons opposition questions on the matter, however, Dr. McCann said:

"Offhand, it is rather hard to determine in what category such payments as those of British Columbia and Alberta would be. I would have to look into the matter and provide for the tax position of that type of gift.

"The one thing is sure—it is either income or a gift, and it would be subject either to income tax or gift tax."

He made that statement in reply to George Hahn (SC — New Westminster) who asked whether the Social Credit government has announced it will make gifts to residents of citizens in the province who pay property taxes will be subject to income tax.

OIL PAYMENTS

Earlier, Margaret Aitken (PC—York Humber) referred to legislation now before the Alberta legislature to use one-third of the province's estimated revenue from oil payments to all Canadians over 21 who have lived in the provinces for five consecutive years.

The Alberta budget earmarks $11,000,000 for this purpose in 1957 and it has been estimated that individual payments this year will amount to $22. Miss Aitken asked whether this money would be included in taxable income.

Dr. McCann replied: "Yes, I think it constitutes revenue in the taxpayers' hands."

Liquor Laws Need Revamping Claim Resorts

TORONTO (CP) — Revamping of the province's liquor laws was requested Thursday by the Association of Tourist Resorts of Ontario.

The association told the legislature's committee on liquor control publicity that tourist operators had had difficulty with antiquated liquor laws they lost much lucrative convention business.

Fred Hall, vice-president, said many operators sold liquor to save customers a long trips to liquor stores. The association asked that resorts be permitted club licences.

Arthur Reaume (L — Essex North) said he had received letters from the government trying to please both sides on the liquor question.

"Some day they are going to make up their minds and come up with a sane, sensible deal," he added.

"Jest a Second"

"Sorry I couldn't stay daughter home late last night, Mrs. Jones. I know the noise didn't disturb you."

"No, it wasn't the Noise that disturbed me, it was the silence!"

Nat Fleischer's Ring History Crammed With Colorful Data

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP) — Nat Fleischer has been making a comfortable living out of boxing practically all his life—without taking a punch.

As unofficial historian, compiler of facts, figures and anecdotes, prolific writer and general all-around custodian of the ring game, he is without peer.

All of which is a prelude to introducing the 16th edition of his Ring Record Book and Boxing Encyclopedia.

In addition to the records of all current fighters, past champions and near champions and the histories of the various divisions, it also contains his own all - time rankings. He rates Rocky Marciano 10th on his list of heavyweights; Ray Robinson fifth among the welterweights, and Willie Pep seventh in the featherweight class.

Jack Dempsey received a record fee of $8,000 plus $5,000 expenses for refereeing a middleweight title bout in Manilla in 1936. Jack Britton and Kid Lewis fought each other 20 times with only one kayo, and a fellow named Hal Bagwell had 180 consecutive fights without a defeat.

Al Couture knocked out Ralph Walton in 10½ seconds of the first round at Lewiston, Me., in 1946, and the largest crowd ever to see a show was in Milwaukee on Aug. 18, 1941, when 135,132 spectators saw Tony Zale knock out Billy Pryor.

Joe Louis was knocked down 10 times during his career, and Willie Pep, in addition to being the youngest titleholder in 40 years, broke the receipts record for a featherweight indoors, never lost a decision, never fought a draw, and won the title 19 months after his first main event.

Georges Carpentier was the only man to campaign in all eight divisions, and Ted (Kid) Lewis fought in six classes from featherweight up. Battling Levinsky fought three main events at different locations the same day, a morning 10-rounder in Brooklyn, an afternoon 15-rounder in Manhattan, and an evening 12-rounder in Waterbury, Conn.

Quebec Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Quebec Aces need only a tie in their eight remaining scheduled games to clinch the 1956-57 Quebec Hockey League championship.

Aces assured themselves of at least a tie for the league's top spot Thursday night by whipping the last-place Shawinigan Falls Cataracts 3-1. They hold a 14-point lead on the second-place Chicoutimi Saguenéens who beat Montreal Royals 5-3.

FIRST SINCE '22

TORONTO (CP) — A Mount Royal, Que., rink, skipped by Mrs. D. M. Turnbull, won the William Robertson trophy, held by Ontario women's rinks since 1922. Mrs. Turnbull led her crew to a 15-11 final match victory Thursday over Toronto High Park, skipped by Mrs. J. W. MacDonald.

'Uulucky' Pros Top Pensacola

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Two pros who have had little success on the winter golf circuit so far are in the forefront at the start of the second round of the $15,000 Pensacola open tournament.

Mike Fetchick and Paul O'Leary took the play from more favored players by touring the 6,325-yard Pensacola Country Club course Thursday in 68, four under par.

For Fetchick, a 190 - pounder from Mahopac, N.Y., it meant the end to a tremendous slump during which he failed to scratch during the last five tournaments. The 32-year-old Fetchick has won only $547 on the winter tour so far. His earnings last year were $18,508.

O'Leary likewise has had little success on the winter circuit. The Bismark, N.D., pro's winnings so far on the winter circuit total $987. Fetchick covered the par 35-36 course in 35-33, O'Leary in 34-34. Fetchick regained control of his putter right at the start by sinking an 18-foot putt on the first hole.

Al Balding of Toronto led the Canadian entries with a one-under-par 71. His score card was 36-35.

Other Canadian scores were John Henrick, Ottawa, 36-36—72; Bob Wylie, Calgary, 37-35—72; Gerry Kesseling, Kitchener, 39-36—75; and Murray Tucker, Toronto 41-37—78.

Hamilton Evens Set With Marlies

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Cubs upset Toronto Marlboros 5-3 before 3,100 fans Thursday night to even their best-of-five Ontario Hockey Association Junior A semi-final at one game each.

Led by Murray Oliver's two goals, Cubs, fifth place finishers during the regular season, outplayed the Dukes who won the first game of the set 3-1 in Toronto and finished second during the schedule.

Joe Roe, Pat Baker and Ed Cook were the other Hamilton marksmen. Carl Brewer, Jim Murdoch and Henry Marczuk scored for Marlies.

The teams play the third game in the series at Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto Saturday afternoon and return to Hamilton next Monday.

PICK STADIUM SITE

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton parks board has called on engineers to survey a site for a proposed $2,000,000 civic stadium in the King's Forest area at the eastern city limits. A board member said the proposed plans call for the stadium to seat 35,000 to 40,000 at first, with provision for expansion to 100,000.

Training Camp Notes

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Scrappy little Lynn Lovenguth, a rookie at 33, enhanced his chances of making St. Louis Cardinals' Varsity with a sparkling three-inning stint in an intra-squad game.

A 24-game winner last year at Toronto, Lovenguth showed the results of winter pitching as he allowed just two hits Thursday, a leadoff single by Del Ennis and a hit by rookie pitcher Tom Cheney.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Kansas City Athletics finally worked in their first intra-squad tuneup game Thursday and guess who was on first.

Phil Cavaretta!

No, the longtime Chicago Cub first sacker and manager is trying a comeback. He's managing Buffalo in the International League this year and has been working out with the Athletics. There is a shortage of first baseman in spring training camp and he filled in.

Phil got a single, drove in a run.

Craig had to be relieved in an intra-squad game Thursday with a sore elbow. Furillo said both elbows hurt him when he swings.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Chicago White Sox can nose out the Yankees in the American League pennant race this year says Sox vice-president Johnny Rigney—if the top Sox players reach their potential.

Rigney went down the Sox and Yankees lineup man for man. He believes the Sox have the advantage at some positions and the Yankees at others. But his overall appraisal left the clubs almost even.

PLAN 10-MILE RACE

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Olympic club has announced plans to hold a 10-mile road race on March 16. The field will start from McMaster University, head out to Dundas and return on Highway 102. They will cover the distance twice. Entries have gone out to all Ontario track clubs and nearby clubs in the United States.

CORNWALL TONIGHT

Flushed with their initial 4-1 victory over the Belleville McFarlands, the Cornwall Chevies arrive in town this evening all ready and confident they will tack another notch to their belts in tonight's second tussle of the best-of-seven senior "A" semi-finals.

The Chevies came up with one of the best performances of the season against the McFarlands in Cornwall Wednesday night and they thoroughly deserved their victory. And saying that the Maes came through with a well-below par performance is not detracting from the Chevies good effort. From Gerry Devaney in the nets out, they played hands-up hockey, stayed on the ice and seized every opportunity that came their way. They were a vastly different squad to that which bowed 9-4 to the Maes in the final game of the schedule.

However things have been stirring in the McFarland camp. Tonight is the second game of the series, and a win by Cornwall will give them a big edge in the series. The team that wins the first victory on "foreign" ice usually ends up on the right side of the victory ledger when the whistles shrill the end of the series. The Maes simply cannot afford to lose tonight's game.

Or mayhap history will repeat itself in the playoff archives of Cornwall and Belleville. Two years ago the teams met in the semi-finals with the first game slated for the riverside city. Wha Hoppen? The Colts, as the Cornwall club was dubbed at that time, hung a 10-0 horse-collar on our side and came back to win it Other clubs said it was in the bag for the Colts. A lot of Bellevilleites thought likewise. But they hadn't reckoned with the fighting qualities of the senior "A" club of that year.

They hitched up their hockey britches. They went out there and belted the Colts to a standstill to bring the series count to 3-2. The sixth game was played in Memorial Arena and a fighting Belleville club went on to win it 4-2 and take the series by the same count. It could happen again.

SYL AFPS COMING

Sylvanus Apps, once the darling of Toronto hockey fans, and one time member of the National Hockey League ever produced will be in town on Thursday, March 21.

Syl, once the apple of Connie (The Little Pistol) Smythe's eye and who still rates over one hundred per cent in the big little man's opinion as an ambassador extraordinary, will be here in Memorial Arena on the occasion of the annual Police-Firemen brew—pardon, hockey classic.

But although the name of Syl Apps is synonymous with that of the Toronto Maple Leafs, the former National Hockey League star will be here mainly in the interest of the crippled kiddies of the city and district. Syl is that kind of a guy. Like other outstanding names in the sports calendar, he has reserved a big section of his heart for these less-fortunate children, and during his colorful career both off and on the ice has done a wonderful job in their interests.

And the limbs of the law with the city smoke-eaters will likewise be doing a grand job for the kiddies with their puck-chasing callisthenics. Chief of Police Walter Probert, Ontario Provincial Police Inspector A. McDougall and Fire Chief Gerald Vance and their merry men are going all-out to stage some fine entertainment for the public at a nominal admission fee.

Chairman Orliff "Boller" Lloyd, Lee Grills and other members of the Belleville Shrine Club, sponsoring organization, have gathered a hard-working committee which is finalizing plans for the big night.

Meanwhile the "Bobbies" and the Firemen are going quietly about their own plans. It is reported that two of the best teams ever to represent the two services will ice their hockey wares in the big classic, and each promises the other "he" is in for a big surprise. Practices, we are informed, have already started, scene of-these in camera. Personnel of the teams is still a deep dark secret and probably won't be divulged until just before the opening whistle.

All concerned with the game are giving their services gratis. Practically the entire proceeds will be donated to the cause of the crippled kiddies. All you are asked to do is spend a few cents for a ticket or two. Believe us, you will get full value for them, too.

The tickets will be on sale within a day or so, if not already. So be a good fellow. Buy one, two or a dozen. If you could use them, some appreciative soul of these children [illegible] they are to be helped, shucks, you wouldn't care if you had material or any other value for your money. You'd figure you'd already had it.

And remember, a man is never as tall as when he stoops to help a child.

Wings Wallop Beaneaters 4-2 Chicago Ties With Blues 2-2 As Penalties Take Their Toll

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Some National Hockey League coaches are still learning an extra man on the ice is worth two on the bench—especially when it's a question of getting goals.

Leo Lalonde of Boston Bruins received two minor penalties in a game with first-place Detroit Red Wings Thursday night. It cost Bruins a goal each time and made the difference in Wings' 4-2 victory.

It was a similar story in Chicago where two penalties to Black Hawks gave New York Rangers scoring opportunities. They capitalized on both to gain a 2-2 tie and mathematically eliminate Chicago's already slim chances to catch the playoff train. One of Chicago's goals also was scored with the opposition a man short.

In Boston, Alex Delvecchio scored goals and assisted on another to lead the Wings to victory. Vic Stasiuk put Boston into an early lead, but Detroit came back with three goals—two by Delvecchio and one by Norm Ullman—before the end of the first period. Ullman's marker came with Labine in the penalty box.

Detroit took a 4-1 lead at 3:07 of the second period when Lorne Ferguson hit pay dirt with Labine again off. Fern Flaman tallied at 8:21 of the same period to complete the scoring.

All goals in the Chicago-New York sawoff were posted in the third period. Ed Litzenberger's was first, for Chicago, followed by two for New York by Dave Creighton and Andy Hebenton. Andy Bathgate assisted on both New York markers. Johnny Wilson deflected a pass by Hec Lalande with only two minutes remaining and Rangers' Andy Bathgate in the penalty box to gain victory.

'Put Money Where Mouth Is'

Minoso Not a Bettor-But Taunt Lays Lettuce on Line

To practically guarantee that Minnie Minoso, your Cuban comet, hits well over .300 and may even capture the American League batting title, just bet he can't accomplish either.

Minoso is not a betting man. Actually, he's made only two wagers in his life. His first was in the winter of 1953 when he accepted a dare because he wouldn't bat over .300 for Chicago in 1956. He won that one. Last December he wagered he would win the Cuban winter league batting title. He collected on that one, too.

Normally a good-natured person who ignores jeering and jibes, his Latin blood boils whenever he believes his playing ability is being attacked.

OVERHEARD TAUNT

That's how he felt the day he accidentally overheard a fellow Cuban tell a friend:

"That Minoso may be a big fish down here in Marianao, but he's little minnow up in the States. Here he scares all the pitchers but in the big leagues he bats .288. Down here Minnie is great big lion . . . Up there he is just a little mouse."

No little embarrassed when he found himself face to face with his tarta. Minoso's critic nevertheless held his ground. He offered to bet Minnie $1,500 that'he wouldn't hit over .300.

"I never like to brag," Minoso said. "I consider myself very lucky guy and always try to be the best I can. But that fellah get under my skin. He keep heckling and heckling and finally I say to him, 'okay, wise guy, put money where mouth is. We go to bank and put down cash.'

SOME JOKE

"Well, most of season I hit around .301 to .305. I hear nothing from big mouth. Then, with maybe 12 or 13 games to play, I get hot streak and make four hits in one game, then get three hits in next and my average she is now .316. Next day I get telegram from him saying he only joking and wants to call bet off. I answer him right away, 'bet is on. If joke, can laugh when I collect $1,500 from bank.'"

Minoso ended up the season with that .316 average—collected his bet. He rejoined Marianao club for the Cuban winter season, but after a month of play was hitting only .200.

"Ruben Rodriguez, vice president of the Marianao club, he keep after me, calling me a .240 hitter," explained Minnie. "He's wearing a fine watch which cost $350. I get angry and say I bet him that watch I win the batting championship. He say okay. He think he go sure thing because I'm about 100 points behind Al Baro, who's leading the league.

"Well, at end of season, only two players hit over .300, Baro and Minoso. Baro just made it but Minnie he hit .312 to win the championship—and the watch."

Larks Fans Swamp Office for Grey Cup Tickets

MONTREAL (CP)—So far as Montreal Alouettes' office is concerned, the 1957 Grey Cup headaches have already started and petite Nicole Paquette is swamped by requests for tickets.

Miss Paquette, office secretary, said Thursday the requests currently are pouring in at the rate of 100 to 125 a day—and the big game in Toronto Varsity Stadium nearly nine months away.

That isn't all. Requests from football fans for season tickets for Alouette home games next season are rolling up at the rate of 150 to 200 a day. Nearly one-quarter of this number never had season ticket before.

STEADY TRADE

But if all of last season's ticket holders renew their contracts—and it seems no football fan ever dies or moves somewhere—there's little that can be done about seat-changing.

As for new requests for season tickets, acknowledgment cards are being sent out.

Requests for Grey Cup tickets are being filed at the same time. At the moment the fans don't seem particularly concerned whether Montreal or Toronto, or a bunch of new players—will even be within shouting distance of Varsity Stadium next Nov. 30. The main idea is to get tickets.

Sugar Hart, Byars Fight Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) —Garnett (Sugar) Hart and Walt Byars, a couple of ambitious welterweight newcomers who have almost forgotten how defeat tastes, collide in a television fight at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Hart, a slick-boxing, power-punching 21-year-old from Philadelphia, has won 12 straight over a span of nearly two years. Byars, 25-year-old Boston boxer and holder of the New England 147-pound crown, has an unbeaten streak of 10 bouts since the same period.

Despite the impressive records of both, Hart has been made an almost prohibitive 4-1 choice for the 10-rounder which will be telecast and broadcast (NBC-CBC 10 p.m. EST).

Redlegs Birdie Is Chirping Seven Starting Positions Set

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

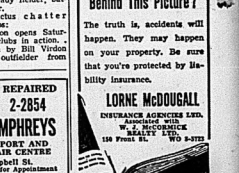
The aggressive skipper has seven positions in his starting lineup set with the start of the spring training exhibition games only a day off. But it's anybody's guess who will wind up as the regular third baseman.

Four players are involved in the scramble to succeed erratic Ray Jablonski, who was traded to Chicago Cubs last winter.

They are Alex Grammas, obtained from St. Louis Cardinals last May, Don Hoak, dealt by Cubs in the Jablonski transaction, rookie Hal Bevan and veteran utilityman Rocky Bridges.



Grammas handled third base in the latter stages of the 1956 campaign, as Jablonski rode the bench and finished with a .243 batting average. He always has been a fine defensive player and now has impressed in the spring workouts with a display of hard-hitting.

Hoak and Bevan also have shown well both at bat and afield in the Redlegs' intra-squad games. The fiery Hoak, who came up with the Brooklyn Dodgers, hit .215 for Chicago last season. Bevan, who had brief trials with .302 for Havana in the International League in 1956.

And if none of the trio can fill the bill, Tebbetts has the versatile Gus Bell and Steve Boros, batting Rocky, a steady fielder, batted .211 last year.

Granni and Cardus chatter around the camps:

Baseball season opens Saturday with all 16 clubs in action. . . Plastic cup worn by Bill Virdon saved Pirates' outfielder from serious injury Thursday when he was struck on the head by a wild throw on an attempted pickoff. . . Giants' owner Horace Stoneham admitted absence of Ruben Gomez and Ramon Monzant from camp was fault of transportation arrangement mix-up and apologized to both players. . . Mugsant will not be able to report immediately due to his mother's illness in Venezuela. . . Holdout Willie Miranda telegraphed Orioles from Havana but refused to agree to terms. . . Yanks' Mickey Mantle used for pinch hitting purposes only in weekend exhibition with Cards. . . Southpaw Johnny Podres of Dodgers, who blanked Yanks in seventh game of 1955 world series, retired seven straight batters in first inning-equal appearance since navy discharge.

West Superiority Again Asserted In Canadian Curling Championship

Matt Baldwin's Alberta Rink Undefeated With 8 Victories; East Lucky to Finish Third

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

KINGSTON (CP)—Two things are certain about the outcome of the current Canadian curling championships: A Western Canada rink will win the title and it should take some extraordinary play to deprive Mat Baldwin of his second crown since he first won the honors in 1954.

Eastern rinks faced this sad prospect today when the 10-game week-long competition entered its final two rounds. The West's superiority in the game is old hat—its provincial champions have gone on to sweep everything in sight in 23 of the 27 previous championships.

WEST HAS FIRST FOUR

The West, led by Baldwin's Edmonton rink with an unbroken string of eight games, went into the final two rounds of the round-robin tournament occupying the first four places. There's no hope of an Eastern Canada rink placing higher than third.

Baldwin has proved so far to be the deadliest shotmaker of the 44 curlers represented here from British Columbia to Newfoundland. He demonstrated it Thursday with two clutch wins — 11-8 over Northern Ontario in the seventh round and an extra-end 13-10 B.C., rink which had led championship hopes shattered by three losses—13-11 to Saskatchewan and 12-9 to Ontario before meeting Baldwin.

Saskatchewan, represented by the Campbell brothers from the small town of Avonlea, won two of its three games Thursday, 13-11 over British Columbia and 13-7 over Nova Scotia. Sandwiched between was a tough 10-9 setback by the Manitobans who were upset 14-8 by New Brunswick in the morning round and defeated Ontario by the same score Thursday night.

The situation regarding the championship boiled down to a couple of ifs.

NEEDS ONE WIN

Baldwin, who shares his time between looking after his oil-well business and curling, needed only one victory to clinch the title. He was drawn against Manitoba in the 10th round and Nova Scotia in the final round.

If he lost both—and rinkside observers figured this as a remote possibility — and Manitoba and Saskatchewan won their final two games, the rinks would end in a three-way tie. The skips would toss for the lyre and the championship decided tonight.

Manitoba was drawn against Northern Ontario in the afternoon round and Saskatchewan had games against Quebec and Newfoundland.

A sellout crowd of more than 3,500 watched Thursday night's games, featured by the Alberta-British Columbia match. They weren't disappointed.

The lead changed hands just about every two ends. British Columbia, which had to scramble from behind for four of its six victories, tied the score at 10-10 on the 12th end but Baldwin, with last shot on the extra end, ran up a three count to win.

Prince Edward Island went into Thursday's games without an entry in the win column. The Charlottetown rink defeated Nova Scotia 13-5 in the seventh round, lost 13-7 to Quebec in the eighth and ended the day's play with a 12-6 decision over Newfoundland.

Quebec also beat Newfoundland 15-11 and New Brunswick 14-7. Ontario won two of its games—11-8 over Northern Ontario and the upset 12-9 decision over British Columbia.

Frank Mahovlich Wins Tilson Memorial Trophy

TORONTO (CP) — Frank Mahovlich, star left winger and centre with St. Michael's College Majors, was named winner of the Albert (Red) Tilson Memorial Trophy Thursday as the "most valuable and gentlemanly player in the Ontario Hockey Association junior A series."

Mahovlich received six first-place votes of a possible eight to defeat Eddie Shack of Guelph Biltmores. The St. Michael's star, leading farmhand of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, scored 52 goals in 49 games this season.

The trophy is presented annually by the Globe and Mail in memory of Red Tilson, a former junior star with Regina and Oshawa teams, killed in the Second World War.

Durocher Guests Sports Banquet

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Some 300 fans paid a total of $7,500 Thursday night to attend the first annual sportsmen's dinner here and hob-nob with a crowd of international sports celebrities headed by baseball's Leo Durocher, former manager of Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants.

Proceeds go to the London Rotary Club Crippled Children's Fund.

The event was hailed as a big success, even though one of the top star guests couldn't attend. He was Rocky Marciano, retired heavyweight boxing champ, who had other engagements he didn't succeed in breaking.

It looks funny to see master bridge players do the foolish things, the world championship match was a real comedy. One of the big jokes would seem to be the time they select to double. Time after time in the first 50 deals, each side was defeated but the other side never doubled for penalty. All of a sudden both sides decide to double and neither defeats the contract.

NORTH
♠A K 7 4 3 2
♥ J 9 8 5
♦ K 7 6 2

WEST
♠ J 8
♥ Q 7 6 5 4
♦ 10 9 5
♣ 8 4

EAST
♠ Q 8
♥ A K 10 3
♦ Q J 8 4
♣ Q 7 5 3

SOUTH
♠ 10 9 6 5
♥ 9 8 4
♦ K J 10 6 2
♣ A K

In room one the bidding went like this:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	Pass

In room two the bidding went like this:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	Dbl	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	4 H	Dbl
Pass	Pass	Dbl

In each room the opening lead from east was a heart king. When it held the first trick, east shifted to the lead of a low diamond that was worth with diamond king.

This was done in both rooms. It was the only way to let declarer make his contract. Because he then lost only two diamonds and the heart that was taken in the opening lead.

Why each made such an atrocious second lead is way over my head. It is certainly not a lead that any good rule would approve. And any second lead but a diamond would have defeated four spades.

If east and west had any doubts of defeating four spades they could have bid five hearts. By losing only a spade and two clubs it is down one, which is better than letting opponents make game.

Trappers Nip Wolves 5-4

NORTH BAY (CP) — North Bay Trappers, league-leaders over the entire Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior A southern group schedule, forged ahead in the round robin finale Thursday night by turning back Sudbury Wolves 5-4.

Some 4,251 fans, largest crowd of the season, jammed Memorial Gardens to see Trappers sail into a 4-1 lead early in the third period, then battle grimly to hold the edge.

Left winger Stan Maxwell, who scored the winning goal against Wolves in the last playoff here, scored the ultimate winner in this one too. His goal at the 15:36 mark of the third frame put Trappers ahead 5-3, with Wolves shaving the margin to a single goal in the dying minutes.

Sudbury sharpshooters were Armand Lemieux, Hub Beaudoy, Andy Milne and Nick Tomiuk. Other North Bay scorers were Hugh Barlow, Gerry Cahana, Bill Needham and Abe Gosselin.

Canadiens Lose Bert Olmstead

MONTREAL (CP)—Bert Olmstead, Montreal Canadiens left-winger, became the club's latest casualty when examinations showed a small crack in a right ankle bone. His foot will be put into a cast for about a week.

The club said Thursday Olmstead was slashed on the ankle in a game in Detroit a week ago. Coach Toe Blake said he is undecided yet who will fill in for Olmstead on the line with Jean Beliveau and Bernie Geoffrion, but possibly Don Marshall will be given the assignment. Marshall normally works at centre on the club's third line.

BILL WILSON SIGNED

TORONTO (CP) — Outfielder Bill Wilson has signed his 1957 contract, Rudie Schaffer, general manager of Toronto Maple Leafs International League baseball club, announced Thursday.

SPORT IN BRIEF

SCRATCH KHALED

ARCADIA, (AP)—Prince Khaled California's hope for starters in the three-year-old division this year, was withdrawn from the Kentucky Derby Thursday.

Tommy Taylor, who trains Prince Khaled for Gen. W. W. Kratz of Santa B a r b a r a, announced the colt will be held out of racing until the Hollywood Park meeting opens in May. Prince Khaled suffered a cut on his left front leg when a lead pony kicked him last week.

PAY RECORD PURSE

TORONTO (CP)—A record total of $2,260,185 in purse money will be paid to Ontario owners during the Ontario Jockey Club's 1957 season, which opens at Fort Erie Friday, April 12.

There will be two meetings in 1957 at each of Ontario's three tracks — the Fort Erie Jockey Club, Old Woodbine and Toronto the $13,000,000 New Woodbine.

John J. Mooney, general manager of the Ontario Jockey Club, who announced the total, said that purses on the Ontario tracks have increased almost 500 per cent in the past 15 years.

AT THE BELLE — The bitter rivalry of brothers Charlton Heston and Tom Tryon is backgrounded by the rancher-carpetbagger wars in Texas in "Three Violent People", playing tonight and Saturday at the Belle Theatre. Anne Baxter, above, plays Heston's wildcat wife, Gilbert Roland also stars, Forrest Tucker and Bruce Bennett's comedy is in the large scale outdoor drama, in Technicolor and VistaVision.

Canadian and U.S. Scientists Join Forces and Solve Problem Of How to Control Warble Fly

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian and United States agricultural scientists have joined forces in attempts to solve an old problem —how to control the warble fly. A solution would save cattlemen millions of dollars a year.

"Results of preliminary tests are most encouraging," Dr. Cecil H. Twinn, top veterinary and medical entomologist in the Canadian agriculture department, said in an interview.

"However, the experiments are still in the preliminary stage and the chemicals we are using may not be the ones we need," Dr. Twinn said.

"There are still many tests to be made and nothing will be released to the public until the government is convinced it is safe."

Entomologists and veterinarians are working on the project at Lethbridge, Alta., and Kerrville, Texas. Their aim is a method of killing the warble fly in the larvae stage, before it damages the hide and meat of cattle and causes down the production of milk cows.

One of the biggest contributions on the Canadian side has been the discovery by entomologist Jerry Weintraub at the department's science service laboratory at Lethbridge of a means of raising the warble fly in captivity.

"Now we can have a given number of warble eggs laid on a cow and determine just how many cattle grubs are affected by test chemicals," Dr. Twinn said.

WIDESPREAD PEST

The warble fly, main pest of cattle, is found in all parts of the continent where cattle are raised. There are two species in Canada: The cattle grub or heel fly and the northern cattle grub or large warble fly. Both species are found at Lethbridge.

The fly lays its eggs on the hairs of the legs and lower parts of cattle. The larvae bore their way into the cattle and eventually reach the back after travelling through the tissues for nine months.

John Sharp, Dr. Twinn's assistant in the agriculture department's science service headquarters here, says present methods of treating the fly "aren't as effective as we could wish because they are applied after much of the damage is done."

Derris powder is sprayed or brushed on the backs of the cows to kill the warble larvae, but by then the larvae have completed their growth through the animal and caused the damage.

The method of internal treatment has been tried before, but the chemicals being fed the cows in the current experiments are entirely new and have scientists believing they may be on the right solution.

Stars Flock to Palm Springs For Weekend Spot in the Sun

At The McCarthy

By BOB THOMAS

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—This evening, the freeways and highways of southern California will be clogged with limousines, foreign autos and plain family cars heading for this booming spot in the sun.

Such stars as Bing Crosby, Dinah Shore, Frank Sinatra, Joan Davis and Liberace will aim for their sumptuous homes here. Lesser citizens will jam the town's stopping places, from the 200-room El Mirador Hotel to six-unit auto courts. All are seeking sunshine and rest.

Those lures have brought Palm Springs and the surrounding desert amazing prosperity. Everywhere you look there are signs of the boom — bright new hotels, cafes, and rows of pastel-painted houses that stretch out into the mesquite country.

Year - round population has more than doubled to 15,000 since the 1950 census. This can be swelled by 20,000 more on a busy weekend. The number of homes has increased a third in four years. Swimming pools are considered more a necessity than a luxury—there are over 1,200 of them.

CASH IN ON BOOM

Hollywood people, who helped pioneer Palm Springs, are among those cashing in on the boom. For instance, you can buy a keg of nails at Alan Ladd's hardware store or a bolt of satin at Hoagy Carmichael's interior decorating shop.

You can park your trailer at the Blue Skies Park, owned by Crosby. Danny Kaye, Claudette Colbert, Phil Harris and others. Or you can build in hotels owned by Horace Heidt, Bill Goodwin, Polly Bergen and the Jack Wrathers (Lone Granville).

Why do the stars make the 100-mile journey from Hollywood so often? The sun, for sure; it's often 10 to 15 degrees warmer than Los Angeles, and no smog.

"But mostly it's the atmosphere," said a local booster. "There's virtually no night life here, except at the clubs. The stars know they can get away from the Hollywood hubub, the autograph fiends.

"We've been lucky that we've always drawn the better class of Hollywood people," added Ward Rivold, publisher of the prosperous Desert Sun, which went daily a year ago. "They're solid citizens who give Palm Springs a good name."

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according the stars.

For Saturday, March 9, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A time for sensible precautions, extra care in dealing with others. Keep emotions well controlled, thus keep out of trouble. Day encouraging for military and government interests, vigorous activities.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Stimulating, perhaps exciting, influences for day's activities. Winter and water sports, other outdoor activities favored. Fine rays for military interests, railroading, too.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Stirring and eventful possibilities, but avoid recklessness. A good day in which to try out new ideas, promotions, unique stunts.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Lunar aspect suggests extra care in personal contacts, dealings with family, relations. Keep calm but don't let yourself be talked out of your rights.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Your Sun and Jupiter suggest restraint, especially in arduous tasks, dispensing information — especially about finances. Day is not unfriendly to good work in any field, however.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Calmness and good judgment urged — especially in handling others' affairs, making agreements, decisions. Be keen, sharp, but not overforceful. Have some fun.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Misuse of energy, talents, money, anything worthwhile, should not be tolerated. Interests, hobby, good entertainment to-tions to work may be more frequent than usual but try not to lose temper. Patience can smooth over day's weak spots.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — A pleasant, friendly outlook. Take full advantage of your all-round knowledge for handling difficult situations, irritating persons. By so doing, you can gain.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Don't heed those who make statements without foundation, background. Do understand people and their needs; can often supply judicious information. Do so now.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — During free time enjoy art, music, good reading. These refresh you mentally, help to better your efforts. Keep your sense of humor intact.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Today encourages vim and vigor in activities that require same. Maintain a sense of humor and in turn you will receive wholehearted cooperation, benefits.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — You can take the kinks out of things today by overlooking trifles and getting important tasks done quickly, thoroughly. Make time for recreation, reading, a

You born today have many delightful qualities; are kindly, sympathetic, unassuming, very talented and capable. It is up to you to cultivate these God-given assets and, through them, benefit greatly. Honesty and lack of self-aggrandisement are yours. You have a tendency to heed the boastful talk of some (who probably know less than you) and be impressed with it. Recognize your own fine attributes, put them to work for you instead. Don't fear the future, face it and make it a constructive, progressive one. Birthdate: Amerigo Vespucci, navigator, discoverer of All Saints Bay, Brazil.

Mr. Tweedy
by Ned Riddle

"Am I correct in assuming that this is your first try at deep sea fishing, Mr. Tweedy?"

ONTARIO

He said he did not know whether the proposed federal contributions of up to 50 per cent of the cost would lead to provincial tax deductions. The federal government would not insist on something on which it had no right to insist.

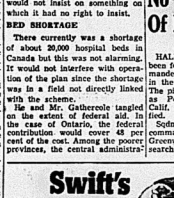
BED SHORTAGE

There currently was a shortage of about 20,000 hospital beds in Canada but this was not alarming. It would not interfere with operation of the plan since the shortage was in a field not directly linked with the scheme.

He and Mr. Gathercole tangled on the extent of federal aid. In the case of Ontario, the federal contribution would cover 48 per cent of the cost. Among the poorer provinces, the central administration would pay up to 72 per cent of the cost.

Mr. Gathercole said Ontario did not get all it sought. On almost all federal deals, it invariably ended up at the short end of the fiscal stick. Mr. Martin replied that he did not want to quarrel with Mr. Gathercole but thought the federal formula was a "very generous one." It was only fair that the poorer provinces should get increased aid.

Dr. Sawyer said he doesn't like the plan because it was aimed primarily at covering persons already covered by existing plans.



Dr. Klein argued that experience has shown that provincial insurance schemes lead to a heavy burden of work on hospital staffs. The quality of service could deteriorate, he declared. He suggested that the Ontario hospital commission should administer the plan dealing with hospital care but that the diagnostic service aspect should be administered by the medical profession.

Sunday School Lesson

Forgiveness Must Be Unlimited

By ROY L. SMITH

There is very great danger that Jesus' general statements of principle shall be interpreted to be specific laws. It was one of the characteristics of His teachings that He did not attempt to lay down a precise set of rules for life. Instead, He laid out principles which were to govern in all cases.

When He said, for example, that one was to forgive until 70 times seven, He was not trying to be mathematical. Instead, He was trying to be general. He was saying that forgiveness must be unlimited.

FOR SAKE OF FORGIVER

In saying that a man must forgive without limits Jesus was not concerned greatly about the person who was in need of forgiveness, but about the one who could never know peace of mind or purity of soul until he had forgiven.

The prescription Jesus offered was not for the man who worked the injury, but for the one who had been injured. It often happens that the one who has suffered suffers more from his own reaction than he does from the original wound.

ANGER IS A POISON

The psychologists and the physiologists have come up with some extremely interesting facts concerning an old affliction — bad temper. They agree in saying that anger is a poison.

There is something almost weird about the way the emotions stimulate glandular action. One emotion, such as fear, will stimulate glands that pump one kind of secretion into the blood stream. Another emotion, such as hilarious joy, will inject an entirely different type of secretion into the blood.

The biologists have a fantastic story to tell about the electrical effects generated by emotions, and the resultant molecular action inside the glands. And this thing we know now to be a fact; anger stimulates a glandular action that has a positive effect upon the human nervous system.

Long before anyone had ever heard the word "psychology," and also long before anyone had ever mentioned the matter of psychosomatic law, Jesus of Nazareth was using the principles that underlie the science.

> The uniform Sunday School lesson for March 10: "Unlimited forgiveness," Matthew 18 through 20.

When He said that one must learn to forgive if he hoped to live inside the Kingdom of Heaven He was not laying down an arbitrary principle. He was not in fact, originating anything. He was only reporting on the law that was already operating.

There can be no peace of mind, such as the kingdom of Heaven offers, for that person whose blood stream is clogged with the poison that anger injects into the bloodstream. This is not a matter of theology or morals. It is a simple pathological fact which no man can ignore or evade.

THE KINGDOM IS EXACT

The Kingdom of Heaven of which Jesus had so much to say is not a matter of theological theory. It is, in fact, a very precise and exact spiritual status which is governed by undeviating law. The law of gravity, for example, does not play favorites. Neither does the law of forgiveness.

The rules are very simple. We forgive and we are forgiven; as we forgive we are forgiven. There is a very intimate relationship between our forgiveness of our neighbors and God's forgiveness of us. This is at the heart of the Lord's Prayer which all of us repeat, at least on occasions.

There is a sense in which it can be said that the kingdom operates on the "cash and carry" basis; we forgive our neighbor and the peace of being forgiven flows in upon our own lives. The willingness to forgive is the price we pay for being forgiven.

Egypt Rejects Big Three Plan On Canal Tolls

Policy on Israeli Ships Not Decided Says Nasser

CAIRO (AP) — Egypt rejects a Western Big Three proposal for a neutral agency to collect Suez Canal tolls and split the proceeds with Egypt 50-50, information director Abdel Kader Hatem said today.

"The Egyptian government will not accept any such proposal because it violates Egypt's rights accordingly to the 1888 Convention on the Suks Canal," Hatem said in an interview.

Britain, the United States and France told UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold last month they favored payment of tolls to the Suez Board or some other neutral international agency when the canal gets back in business.

HALF TO EGYPT

The collection agency, under their plan, would give Egypt half the income after operating costs and keep the rest until the toll issue is finally settled. The total previously estimated at about $100,000,000 a year.

Hatem's declaration came as UN salvage authorities awaited assent from Cairo to final clearing of the 103-mile waterway.

President Nasser meanwhile has ordered a new Suez Canal city and French ships will be allowed passage through it. He would not say how much ships, barred from the canal since the Israeli war, would be allowed passage.

Nasser's statement was made to R. Karanjia, editor of the Indian weekly Blitz. The Egyptian president said he has communicated his views to Hammarskjold.

TWO OBSTACLES

Nasser expressed the hope the canal would be open to seagoing ships by the end of this month.

Egyptian engineers have two obstacles on the 841-ton tug Edgar Bonnet, sunk midway in the 103-mile waterway near Ismailia during last fall's fighting. They said they had to remove the engines from the vessel before it could be raised.

Lt.-Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler, head of the UN salvage operation, told Egyptian authorities had not given him final permission to remove the Edgar Bonnet and the 1,461-ton Egyptian frigate Abukir, sunk four miles above the canal entrance to Port Said.

START AT ONCE

He said his salvage crew was ready to start work on the Edgar Bonnet "right away." He predicted it would take three or four weeks to lift it from the channel.

Meanwhile, eight small vessels, all under the flag of the Suez Canal Friday — the first large movement of shipping since the Suez was blocked more than four months ago.

With the end apparently in view to physical barriers in the canal, Sir Wes Gallagher of the Associations with Egyptian President Nasser over how the canal will be operated, Nasser ordered the nationalization of the canal last July 26 and Egypt set up the Suez Canal Authority to direct its operation.

Reports said the West is prodding Nasser cautiously for an answer to the 14-nation proposal for collecting canal tolls, which totalled $100,000,000 annually in the past. It leaves the World Bank or some other neutral international agency collecting the tolls.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: It looks like another day of grey skies and occasional wet snow for the lower lakes area. About one inch had fallen in the Lake Ontario, Niagara and Georgian Bay centre regions by early today and about another inch or so is expected.

For Sunday cloudy skies with occasional sunny intervals and a few scattered snowflurries will prevail throughout the province and it will be a little colder than Saturday.

DUNCAN DEFENDS GOVT. GUARANTEES OF HYDRO BONDS

Says Atomic Energy Will Mean Big Savings

TORONTO (CP)—James S. Duncan, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission has defended the government guarantees of commission borrowings against accusations that they would harm the credit standing of the province.

Speaking Friday before the legislature's committees on government commissions he said that the guarantees are showing no signs of affecting Ontario's credit standing.

John Wintermeyer, (L—Waterloo North) said the guarantees would jeopardize the credit standing of Ontario. He said Hydro's present contingent liability of more than $1,000,000,000 would be doubled within 10 years.

Mr. Duncan said the guarantees are required if Hydro is to raise the necessary money it needs.

He told the committee that Ontario will save "staggering amounts" of money through atomic energy rather than imported coal to generate electricity.

"The first atomic power station will be available in 1962, he said. "In 10 years Hydro will be generating more power by nuclear energy than now is produced by water power in Ontario."

Ross Whicher (L—Bruce) told the committee that Hydro's expansion is not following the principle of providing electricity at cost.

The matter has been discussed by military leaders of the two countries but, it is understood, has not reached the government level.

Officials say they regard warm-word extension of the radar warning lines spanning Canada as a problem of great economy. Without such an extension, Russian bomber forces could outflank the warning lines by sea.

U.S. Suggests Canadian Navy Share in Radar Watch at Sea

OTTAWA (CP) — The United States has suggested informally to Canada that the Royal Canadian Navy share the burden of keeping radar watch off the Atlantic and Pacific seaboards.

However, informants add, Canada is unlikely to comply because defence officials feel that the RCN has neither enough ships nor manpower for such a task together with its other commitments.

northern latitudes, to watch for aerial end runs and radar-equipped planes approaching northern skies.

In the joint Canada - U.S. defence plans for North America, the U.S. has been given responsibility for this task but officials here say the U.S. navy would welcome Canadian assistance.

Government officials already has its hands full in building and shaping a force to meet the submarine menace.

They look on the major threat from the submarine from the standpoint of its ability to torpedo ships but from the view that it can launch guided or ballistic missiles.

Duplessis Says Attitude Will Be Maintained

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Duplessis says the "anti-Communist attitude of his government will be maintained" despite the Supreme Court of Canada decision holding Quebec's padlock law ultra vires of the legislature.

At a brief press conference Friday, the premier declined to say whether the decision may be appealed to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council in London. The province has the right to appeal since the case was started originally in the Superior Court. Social credit were abolished in 1949.

Mr. Duplessis said he shall respect the decisions of the tribunals, but it is certain the anti-Communist attitude of the Quebec government will be maintained."

The padlock law, or Communist law was passed by his government in 1937 at the request of the late Archbishop Camillien Villeneuve, Archbishop of Quebec.

It was declared ultra vires the law has rendered incalculable services and that it clearly stated that it vented the spread of unhealthy Communist propaganda based on hatred of God to the Queen and on atheism."

Mr. Duplessis, also attorney-general for Quebec, said it is a "serious mistake" to contend that the province is trying to set up "final authority" in a case of padlock. The province clearly stated that the decisions of the attorney-general could be contested before the courts.

Hammarskjold Left With Job Of Guarding Mid-East Peace

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — Dag Hammarskjold today began work on, long-range measures aimed at preventing a recurrence of Israeli-Egyptian conflict.

The problem was left in the secretary-general's hands Friday night when the General Assembly adjourned its regular 11th session after hearing an official report that Israel had completed withdrawal from the Gaza Strip and the Sharm-el-Sheikh area.

The assembly adjourned subject to the call of its president if action is needed on either the Middle East or Hungarian problems. Delegates made it clear, however, that they are looking to Hammarskjold to carry on private negotiations on measures to be taken next.

One of the most pressing problems is that of seeking agreement for UN forces to be stationed on both sides of the 1949 Palestine armistice line to prevent renewal of raids across the border from Egypt and Israel.

Many delegations feel that such an arrangement is necessary in stabilizing the border area. Although Israel has expressed firm opposition, Hammarskjold is expected to urge Premier David Ben-Gurion to reconsider.

Another problem is working out an agreement for the administration of the Gaza Strip which will replace the "initial" arrangement now in effect. Hammarskjold's view, any administrative arrangement for Gaza must have the consent of Egypt.

Portland Mayor Will Face Test By Lie-Detector

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mayor Terry D. Schrunk of Portland, Ore., faced a lie-detector test possibly today, on his denial that he accepted a $500 bribe to call off a gambling raid.

Robert F. Kennedy, counsel for the Senate committee investigating alleged labor-industry racketeering, said he is trying to arrange a truth test for Schrunk.

Schrunk, a Democrat, swore Friday he never accepted the bribe, and he agreed to undergo the lie-detector test.

"Half a dozen other witnesses have told the committee of the alleged bribes of Schrunk in 1955 while he was sheriff of Multnomah County Portland.

HOLD LEADER TALKS

Municipalities Will Benefit by Extra $10,412,000

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government expects to pay at least $18,000,000 in the 1957-58 fiscal year to municipalities in lieu of taxes on federal property.

This was indicated Friday by an $8,587,000 item in supplementary estimates, in addition to $10,412,000 provided earlier in the main estimates for the fiscal year beginning April 1.

Under the new Municipal Grants Act, now on its way through Parliament, the federal government would pay municipalities the equivalent of full municipal taxes instead of the present system of making grants only when assessed value of federal property in a municipality exceeds five per cent of the municipality's total property assessment.

SWANS ARRIVE

LONG POINT, Ont. (CP)—Arrival of the season's first flock of whistling swans in the Long Point Bay area of Lake Erie was reported Friday by conservation officer Jack Miles. About 35 birds were sighted.

FINANCIAL POLICY INDICATES EARLY CLOSING OF HOUSE

Further Estimates Tabled by Harris

OTTAWA (CP) — Some political observers see an early dissolution of Parliament in the works Friday when the government has been doing its latest financial business with the Commons.

The government is about ready to call for the breaking of parliament and set election by summer, but there appeared a good possibility that the expected timetable could be stepped up.

This followed from the fact that Finance Minister Harris, in tabling further supplementary estimates Friday, did this not only to provide for spending that will end's March 31 but also for the succeeding fiscal year.

The supplementary estimates of around $110,000,000 for the two years did not amount to much against the government's overall spending—better than $5,000,000,000 a year now—but they gave rise to some election speculation.

DROP IN BUCKET

For the coming year starting April 1—election year, that is—Mr. Harris's supplementary estimates amounted only to about $20,000,000, a relative drop in the bucket against the overall total.

However, it is highly unusual for the government to table supplementary estimates on top of its basic estimates for a fiscal year. Normally, when starts, Harris brought down his main estimates in the budget.

Some political thinkers figured he could be getting rid of odds and ends of finances mopped up, the government preferring to clean house after getting from Parliament an authorization for enough money to carry on the 1957-58 business for a month or two.

But this would dictate a fall session of Parliament but would make for a fast cleanup of the present session after the presentation of the Harris budget, now expected March 26.

Friday's supplementary estimates for 1956-57 and the previous years each pushed the prospective totals for its year to a new high. The latest, the sweeping government spending, topped only by the $5,332,000,000 for the fiscal year.

For the current year that ends March 31, about $89,000,000 that Mr. Harris added to the previous estimates brings the total up to the peacetime peak of $5,137,000,000. Most of this was for upward revision as government spending slumps and jumps.

For the year starting April 1, the approximately $19,000,000 which Mr. Harris added to his spending program Friday would bring out a total of $5,332,000,000.

Congress Party Wins Third State

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru's Congress Party today won its third state legislative majority in India's second general election.

Latest returns gave the Congress party 191 seats in the 328-seat Madhya Pradesh state legislature. The combined opposition had 43 seats with the balance still undecided.

The Congress party already has two majorities in Andhra and Assam states.

Latest figures for all 2,906 seats at issue in 13 state assemblies:

Congress 1,700, Communists 32, Praja Socialists 62, other parties and independents 660.

In Parliament race for 494 seats, Congress held 30 seats to 6 for the combined opposition.

Balloting ends March 14.

Will Not Obey Church Segregation Law Say South African Anglicans

CAPETOWN, South Africa (Reuters)—The Anglican Church Friday was reported to have served notice on the government of Prime Minister Johannes Strijdom that it will be "unable to obey" a government bill for church segregation.

In a letter published Friday by legal sources, Dr. Geoffrey Clayton, who died Thursday, the church criticized a clause in a bill that would make it illegal for any person—without first obtaining authority—to conduct a church, school, hospital or entertainment business in any urban area if it is to be attended by both races.

The letter said: "We desire to make it clear we regard this clause as an infringement of religious freedom."

Before he died Thursday, Dr. Clayton instructed his chaplain that upon his death he would prefer to be cremated and "my ashes ... interred somewhere where there is no color bar, not in a cemetery reserved for Europeans."

Dynamite-Wired Thug Terrorizes Bank Customers

Sharp-Shooting Constable Wounds Bandit in Neck

MONTREAL (CP) — A lone, discreetly disguised gunman kept employees and customers of a busy bank quaking in terror for 20 minutes with threats to set off 29 sticks of dynamite before being shot and wounded by police Friday.

A key found in the youth's possession later led police to a time-bomb device containing five more sticks of dynamite and recorded to go off in Central Station. A municipal taxicab driver reported he had allowed the contraption to go beyond the time set for its explosion—3 p.m.

The youth, disguised in an absurd false nose, dummy glasses and a rubber bathing cap, kept dozens of police officers at bay outside the bank by fingering a switch attached to six dynamite sticks he had in the pocket of his coat. He carried 33 more sticks in a bulging duffle bag.

SHOT IN NECK

Finally Joseph Perron, a sharp-shooting police constable, stalked behind the dynamite and shot the youth through the neck. He toppled in a chair from which Inspector Lansing Into unconsciousness, said:

"You may have me now, but at 4:45 p.m. three places in the city are going to be blown to Kingdom come."

It was about seven hours later that the explosive, following up the discovery of a parcel locker key in the bandit's pocket, found the dynamite in Central Station, the busy Chief terminal here.

Police identified the youth as Andre Bolduc, 21. He was described as "doing well" in hospital.

Sgt. Leo Plouffe, police bomb expert who dismantled the wiring on the youth, said he was carrying enough dynamite to "pulverize 20 cable yards of solid rock."

The constable said that in the city station could "have blown us all through the roof."

STRIKE FEARFUL BLUNT

Following the discovery of the device fearful police launched a search of the CPR's Windsor Station and bus terminals. They found no bombs but arrested Lionel Detective-Lieutenant Marc Morrice said late Friday night: "I'm satisfied we have found everything there is to be found."

A brief record of events started as a police chase of a stolen taxi. Two policemen intercepted the stolen car and the stable Elmo Trepanier approached the driver with a gun drawn.

The youth opened his coat, showed the dynamite, and said: "You fix and I'll fire and we'll both go to heaven."

Pipeline Repair Work Is Started

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — The Iraq Petroleum Co. IPC announced that work on repairing the damaged pipelines through Syria started today.

The company spokesman said a 20-man British repair team had arrived here and was being escorted by the Syrian desert to conduct emergency repairs on the pipelines. The team is following the British-French attack on Egypt in July.

Syria had refused permission of the work until Israeli forces evacuated Egypt and the Gaza Strip. The emergency repairs are expected to take about a week.

Mid-East Motion At Last Ready For Signature

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's signature today formally inaugurates a new United States program for blocking Communist expansion in the Middle East.

More than two months after he asked Congress for these special powers, Eisenhower arranged to sign a resolution under which military forces and money are pledged to help any Middle East nation threatened by Communist attack or subversion.

The Senate and the House of Representatives completed action on the resolution earlier this week, approving it by big margins.

The resolution declares a readiness to use U.S. forces to counter open Communist aggression provided a country under attack asks such aid and Eisenhower deems such a step to be necessary.

FOLKEIGN AID

It also authorizes Eisenhower to spend up to $200,000,000 in available foreign aid funds between now and June 30 to furnish military and economic help in the Middle East.

Ambassador James P. Richards plans to leave Tuesday on a presidential mission to explain the resolution. The mission also is empowered to make recommendations for military and economic assistance allotments to carry out the resolution's aims.

Instead of providing advance authorization for the president to use troops, the Senate changed the resolution to declare that if the president does it necessary "the United States is prepared to use armed forces" to help requesting nations repel armed aggression from countries controlled by communism.

Guilty of Theft

TORONTO (CP) — A young brokerage firm messenger, whose travels ranged from Vancouver to Halifax, was convicted Friday with $59,000 of his firm's money, Fitzgerald and Company Ltd.

Malcolm E. Milton, 18, of Toronto was remanded until March 18 for sentence. He had been employed as a messenger by the brokerage firm for eight days when he fled Jan. 30 with $58,000 in non-negotiable cheques and $1,200 in cash. The money was to have been deposited in a bank. Police in Halifax arrested him.

He was thrown in a city trash can.

Makes no Headway

OTTAWA (CP) — A Social Credit proposal to put political affiliations of federal election candidates on ballot paper made no headway Friday in 20 minutes of Commons debate.

The measure was supported by two CCF speakers, but Finance Minister Harris said the government would detract from the independent position of members elected to the Commons.

At present the federal ballot lists only a candidate's name, address and occupation.

"You'd Think That We Were Heroes' Says Canuck Dazed by Gaza Cheers

GAZA (CP) — Canadian and United Nations troops—beleaguered the problems and pitfalls of governing Gaza's Arab multitude—staggered today that the UN may have to recruit additional manpower to help it run York.

Meanwhile the United Nations relief and works agency teams which have been looking after most of the Gaza Strip's 200,000 Arab refugees in the strip are pitching in to help the military men in their new duties.

Canadian service corpsmen, working around the clock on the buildup of men and supplies, still are getting hearty cheers and salutes from Gazawis but difficulty getting under way because of the press of thousands trying to shake hands and congratulate them.

Another difficulty is language. Few Gazawis speak English and the Canadians speak no Arabic.

Among other transport men returning the hearty welcome were Sgt. Terry Hodgins of Scugog, Ont., Cpl. Ron Bell of Lake of Camp Borden, Ont., and Toronto.

UNEF patrols have moved in behind the withdrawing Israelis appear slim in the face of the Arab throngs but they are getting warm co-operation and apparent genuine respect. Some exuberant Arabs defied the curfew Thursday night to explode land mines and fire rifles in the air, but patrolling infantry and Yugoslav armored cars forced a general observance of regulations.

CITY and DISTRICT NEWS

FIRE CONFINED TO CAR CUSHIONS

City firemen were called to the rear of the Spencer Mast Locker Friday afternoon when the cushions of a car owned by Jack Platt were reported afire. Damage from the fire, believed to have started from a cigaret, was confined to the cushions.

"Y" Swimming

Twelve members of the Belleville Y.M.C.A. Speed Swimming Club participated in a 44-yard free style handicap race Friday evening.

J. Hutchinson, M. Angus, J. Peoples, F. Lewis, H. Uens and D. Craig qualified for the semi-finals beating three other swimmers each to qualify.

The semi-final proved to be very exciting as two swimmers, Craig and Angus were eliminated, leaving J. Hutchinson, J. Peoples and H. Uens and P. Lewis for the final.

Fourteen-year-old John Peoples won the final heat swimming the distance in 30 seconds, followed by H. Uens, J. Hutchinson and P. Lewis, who placed second, third, and fourth, respectively.

Swimmers participating were: G. Gill, J. Hutchinson, P. Lewis, A. Taylor, R. Foste, D. Craig, M. Angus, H. Uens, P. Peoples, B. Farrow, J. Peoples and J. Scott.

Brig. W. Pedlar To Be Speaker At S. A. Rally

Brig. Willison Pedlar, divisional commander of the Ontario Divisional Division of the Salvation Army will be guest speaker at the rally to be held in Centenary Church Wednesday at the Salvation Army Citadel on Pinnacle Street.

The Divisional Headquarters of the Salvation Army is located in Belleville with Brig. Morgan Flanigan in charge.

The Mid-Ontario Division of the Salvation Army extends from Whitby to Kingston and from Picton to Fenelon Falls including such centres as Kingston, Oshawa and Peterborough.

Because the geographical setup is so extensive it was decided at the beginning of the year to divide the division into three regions for the purpose of holding monthly Holiness Rallies.

Rallies have already been held in Kingston, Gananoque, Campbellford, Tweed and Peterborough.

Legion News

By CHRIS F. LEGGAT

Ten teams entered for the District Playdowns. Trenton, Whitby, Campbellford, Peterborough 1 and 2, Bowmanville, Cobourg, Oshawa, Hastings and Belleville. Members from Branch 99, were Chas. Marriatt, Jack Fenton, Jack Young, Howard Benn, Harold Frazer, and Clarence Reed. Trenton won the playdowns followed by Whitby and Campbellford.

Peterborough 1, Campbellford and Peterborough 2 finished the doubles in that order.

The players were guests of the Whitby Branch, Canadian Legion. In their now quarters they can seat 300 in the banquet hall, the basement accommodates 100 comfortably. There is a dart room, TV room and library. Sounds like a perfect set-up for a Legion hall. Belleville is very active in sports this year, thanks to Clarence and his committee and Branch 99, is getting to be well known. Maybe we don't do so well in prizes but the players have a good time and are good sportsmen. A good example is Percy Badger, Powell once said "Play the game, whatever it may be, and not be merely onlookers and loafers."

Marmora Blanks Madoc 5-0 For Series Lead

MADOC (Special) — The visiting Marmora Millionaires handed Madoc a stunning 5-0 shutout here last night to grab a 2-1 lead in their OHA Intermediate "C" series semi-final series.

The fourth game in the four-of-seven series is slated for Marmora on Monday night with the fifth in Madoc on Wednesday.

Over 1,000 fans witnessed a terrific hockey game all the way with Marmora finally wrapping it up in the third. They took a 2-0 lead in the first and after a scoreless second period pushed home a trio in the final twenty minutes.

Earl Killian spent a busy night in the Marmora nets and played a terrific game to earn the shutout. Madoc fought hard all the way but somehow had to be good to cop the decision.

Bill Jones opened the scoring at 14.06 of the initial session and at 18.40 G. Mantle made it 2-0. Trumble tied the third at 2.50 of the third with Brooks and Mantle completing the scoring at 8.07 and 14.00.

Referees Vern Goyer and Red Carson managed to keep matters over the route, with Madoc drawing the fine.

The Mantle-Brooks-Jones line paced Marmora's attack, massing eight points. Bill Jones scored a hat trick each fired a goal and two assists while G. Mantle registered two goals. Trumble scored the other marker while Darrah, Earl Counsell and Doyle picked up single assists.

SUMMARY

First Period

Marmora—Jones (Darrah, Brooks)	14.06
Marmora—Mantle (Jones)	18.40

Second Period

No Score

Third Period

Marmora—Trumble (Cousins, Doyle)	2.50
Marmora—Brooks	8.07
Marmora—Mantle (Brooks, Jones)	14.00

Motorists Lining Up to Procure Licences, Permits

Just about the busiest spot in Belleville for the next few days is going to be the office of Fred T. Symons, local auto licence issuer who says that approximately 40 percent of car owners and operators' permits are still to be sold.

First indication of the annual last minute rush to procure markers was the appearance of the licence seekers started to show. The deadline for markers is March 31st.

It was the same this morning with the queue extending even down the street outside the door.

"We've put about 4,000 licences out still to sell and only five days to do it in," stated Mr. Symons this morning, "The maximum the office can handle is about 300 licences a day."

"It looks as though the police are going to have a field day next Friday, because as many cannot get all the licences out," he said.

Police Blotter

Family squabbles, ordinary drunks, minor motor vehicle accidents and a theft car kept the city gendarmes busy yesterday and Friday night.

George J. Kent, 45 Holloway Street, reported that early yesterday afternoon he had parked his car on Front Street while he visited a restaurant for half an hour. When he returned the vehicle was gone.

This morning police had still not located the 1938 model coupe.

Slippery Roads Result in Rash Of Accidents

Slippery snow-covered pavements and roadways were listed as a contributing factor in a rash of minor motor vehicle accidents occurring in the city and district during the past 24 hours.

Sum total of the mishaps was property damage with only one person reported injured. He was given treatment at the hospital and allowed to go.

Last night a car driven by Arthur Bristow, 17, of R.R. 2 Belleville, went out of control at the corner of Moira and Coleman streets and slid into a house on the corner. Bristow was charged with careless driving.

Also in the city just before midnight last night, cars driven by Ormel B. MacMullin, 112 Golfdale Road, and William Delbridge, 34 Chatsey, collided on MacDonald Ave. Mr. MacMullen was northbound when Mr. Delbridge car veered to the side of the road, the collision resulting. Total damage was about $175.

A car driven by Donald George Welch, 203 Victoria street, was westbound on Bridge street when it struck a light standard at the John R. Bush Funeral Home, damaging it to the extent of about $100. Damage to the car was $200 police said.

Friday provincial police reported a two-vehicle mishap at Cannifton involving cars driven by David Jeffs, Toronto, and William E. Crooks, Cannifton.

This morning a car driven by Russell E. Hill was involved in a one-vehicle accident at Marysville, while in another one-vehicle accident David Wheeler, whose address was not learned, was slightly injured and received treatment at the hospital.

Smelts Appear On Local Market

It was fresh fish day on the market today.

Silvery smelts, which only yesterday were swimming merrily in Lake Ontario, lost their freedom in fine gauge nylon nets set close to shore on Brighton Bay. They passed out cold on ice. Some are expected to be in sizzling shape on the whole thing today.

"I'm said smelts taste like trout, are easy to clean, and cost only 35 cents a pound.

Eggs were in plenty again, listing the one-cent gain of last week and settling at the previous level. 47 cents for extras, 42 for large and 40 for medium.

Flowers, both cut and potted, are coming into bloom. Cut tulips, double-bag for 7 cents each and potted roses in the bud were available for $1.50.

Spring fashions were also to the fore with cheerful blouses and hat dresses priced at 25. Delicately crocheted doilies and centrepieces were bargains at 50 cents each.

Homemade fudge was offered for only 60 cents a pound on the sweets counter with cakes and biscuits at two pounds for 35 cents drawing a steady trade.

All the staples continued to be offered. Creamery chicken and fowl brought 60, 50 and 45 cents respectively.

Meats, delicious and Sweets were in the 75-cent bracket while Russets and Spys were high but at 80 cents.

Vegetables were steady all along the line with parsnips at 70 cents a pack and cabbage prominent at 10 cents each.

TO REPLACE WATCH

PARIS (AP)—The Paris Chamber of Commerce has unanimously agreed to replace the watch that Louis Blériot carried across the English Channel in 1909 with a modern chronometer.

Revenue Minister Qualifies Views On Tax Liability

OTTAWA (CP) — Revenue Minister McCann Friday qualified his views on the federal tax liability of proposed Social Credit payments in Alberta and British Columbia.

"We are holding an open mind" on the matter, he said Friday in reply to a Commons accusation by Solon Low, national Social Credit leader, that Mr. McCann Thursday prejudged the tax position of the payments.

Thursday, the minister had said it was rather hard, offhand, to determine the category which this money would fall into, then added: "But one thing is sure — it is either income or a gift and it would be subject either to income tax or gift tax."

He referred to legislation before the Alberta legislature to divide a fund of oil conservation royalties among Canadians resident in the province for five consecutive years and to the B.C. government's plan to rebate $20 each year on municipal levy on each home-owner in that province. The Alberta payments have been estimated as amounting to $22 each.

ASKS OPEN MIND

Mr. Low asked Dr. McCann to keep an open mind on whether the payments should be declared to be taxable "until he has given the whole matter full and earnest study."

"Rather than prejudge the matter will he carefully consider and that this dividend might be a return of capital, or possibly be in the nature of a certain co-operative payments to shareholders that are free from income tax."

"We will be very glad to give the whole matter consideration and I am not in any way prejudging the matter at all."

Liberals Will Hold Convention At Marmora

Liberals of the Hastings-Frontenac Federal riding will hold their convention at Marmora town hall on Wednesday, March 13th, to name a candidate to contest the coming election.

Ex-Warden Elmer Wood of Huntingdon township will definitely be in the running as a candidate for the convention, while Dr. T. Warner of Yarker and John Davidson of Havelock, are also expected to allow their names to stand.

Principal speaker at the convention will be William Henderson, M.P. for Kingston. Riding association officials will also be named at the convention.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By CHRIS. F. LEGGAT

The 4th Kiwanis Scout Group held their Father-and-Son banquet on Friday, March 1st at the Kiwanis Centre.

Tables were set down to a grand dinner served by the boys' mothers.

District officials present were: Mr. A. S. Robb, I. A. president; Cliff Watson, secretary-treasurer; Phil Allcorn, A.D.C., Cubs Harry Smith, D.S.M., and Mr. F. J. Lancaster. I.A., treasurer. Mr. Lorne McDougall, group committee chairman acted as chairman for the evening. The singing was led by Phil Allcorn who rendered "Alouette" by popular request, receiving good support by everybody, especially the Cubs.

The toast to the fathers was given by Queen's Scout Gordon James and replied to by Mr. Heard.

Norman Gerow, Cubmaster, presented the following badges: Collectors' badge, Allan Heard, Scot Jameson, Don Taylor, House Orderly to Cub Dominic Ramasco; Tenderfoot to Ken Rydman; Swimmer to Cub Jeffrey Eastwood. Jimmy Lee received his 1 year service star.

C. S. M. Harry Smith presented second class badges to Scouts Jim Davis, Larry Campbell, Stewart Eyre, Richard Hall, Malcolm Gilpon, Cyril Coughlan, John Wetton, Paul Ripby, Cam Wallbridge, Roy Eastwood, and Dick Rowland.

Mr. McDougall expressed the thanks of everybody to Mrs. Wallbridge and her able assistants for the grand meal they had provided.

Mr. Bill Riley showed two films which were shown by Mr. Hall and with the singing of the Scout Vesper song, the 4th Group brings came to an end, another wonderful evening to remember.

Don Allan is Scoutmaster of the 4th Troop. He was A.D.C. Scouts for a number of years and is one of the most active and useful members of Scouting in Belleville. We are indebted to Don for the above article.

Cub Larry Freeman would have received his swimmer's badge if his name had been sent in promptly by. The man who is responsible will be told about it Larry.

COUNTY OF HASTINGS
NOTICE OF
BRIEF CLOSING of MADOC-FOXBORO RD. at MOIRA LAKE BRIDGE

The reconstruction work now being done on the above road, between Madoc Village, necessitates the closing of sections of the existing Pole Lines of both the Bell Telephone Co. and Ed. Hyden, on that 2½ mile section.

The various operations, including blasting, are being carried out by all parties concerned, so as to produce a minimum of inconvenience to passing traffic.

Since one Pole must be erected on a mid-channel pier of the present Bridge, it will be necessary to CLOSE BRIDGE, for about one hour only, as the preliminary work has been done, ahead.

This will be done at NOON on TUESDAY next, March 12th. Only if severely adverse weather prevents this, will it be postponed until the following day, Wednesday, March 13th, 1957.

Truckers, Bus operators and the General Travelling Public are hereby requested to make their plans accordingly.

School Problem Discussed by Town Council

CAMPBELLFORD — Hector Macmillan addressed the town council at the regular monthly meeting, relative to the situation at the Campbellford Public School. The school has now reached full capacity and there are two basement classrooms. Mr. Macmillan stated that in two years the schools will not be able to handle the pupils. In presenting the budget for the year, he estimated expenditures at $64,-307.00, of which salaries make up more than $45,000.00. Estimating the government grants and subtracting these from the expenditures, the amount required to be raised by levies is $38,593.50, or an increase of $10,531.91 over last year.

Councillors O'Sullivan and Thompson were absent from the meeting and Mayor Maybee presided.

Request for grants from the Music Festival committee and the Seymour Agricultural Society were left until the budget is made.

The N.E. Northumberland High School Area Board invited council to a meeting in the Public School Hall on March 20th. Discussion concerning accommodation for pupils will be the order of business.

Police Chairman asked council re one hour parking, and it was decided to let the law effect, offenders to be warned for a period of time before prosecution under the by-law.

Deputy-Reeve Nicholas brought up the question of the gravel lane between the river and Highway No. 30, stating that if council is going to do anything with this property it should be planned and if not the government should be asked for a grant. It was left with the Property Committee to bring in a report.

After much discussion, it was decided to allow Frey Fry $125, extra on his contract for building a garage for the Seymour Fire Truck free of charge, as of building.

The agreement with Seymour township re the fire truck was returned for minor changes.

A communication from Canadiens Free, Linton and Nicholls, was named by Mayor Maybee to bring in a report relating to employees' benefits, such as sickness, accident, etc., and time lost on this account.

After the passing of the payshest, council adjourned.

A Lift for Living

The Bible Is a Book of Hope

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Expectancy quickens energy, any tests have been made of it. Two persons are sitting in a room. One expects the arrival of a long-ed-for v i s i t o r; the other has no premonition of his coming. The former will hear the first faint step by the distance, long before the latter notices anything. Expectancy sharpens our mental faculties and increases our physical powers.

Expectancy is a stronger word than hope. It carries the element of confidence. To expect a thing is to look forward to it as very probable or certain. I may hope for a visit from my friend although I have no word of his coming. I expect it when I have had some intimation of his coming by a report or letter. Moreover, expectancy carries the note of immediacy as well as of certainty. Expectancy is composed of something more solid than such stuff as dreams are made on.

Hope sometimes partakes of the delusive exaspiant of daydreaming. Dickens referred to "the hope of happy inexperience" and left immortal illustration of it in the person of Mr. Micawber, who was always waiting for "something to turn up."

"GOD OF HOPE"

Because hopes so frequently seem but daydreams, many conclude that it is more realistic to look on the dark side than on the bright. Such persons think themselves mentally superior to those who go to church and accept the promises of our Christian hope. The God of our Lord Jesus Christ is called in one place "The God of Hope." The Old Testament tells the history of a Hebrew people who survived through hope — people catching the vision of a coming Deliverer.

And when we turn to the New Testament, it opens with faces alight with the hope of a Redeemer. And it closes with a seer named John, a refugee if you please, catching the vision of a new Jerusalem wherein is the tree of life, whose leaves shall be for the healing of the nations. Truly, indeed, the Bible is a book of hope.

Is all this hopefulness to be called mere wishful thinking? No, we can hardly call the Hebrew prophets and the Christian pioneers wishful thinkers, since they were willing to die for their hopes. They did not close their eyes to unpleasant facts. Rather, they were "seers"; they saw beyond the visible and the immediate to the invisible and the eternal.

Any ordinary person can count the apples on a tree, but it takes foresight to see the tree in an apple. Johnny Appleseed had such foresight and hope and he left a trail of fruitfulness across our American frontier.

Anyone can see ruins left by bombing. Many parts of the world are so strewn with ruins the people are hopeless about ever attaining a better world. But seers are hard to see. The "seers" are those who see the seeds and start cultivating them.

BALANCE

In 1809 the eyes of the world were on Napoleon, who was making Europe bow before him. Hitler did in the 1940's and as the Kremlin does in the 1950's. But in that year of 1809 Abraham Lincoln was born in a Kentucky cabin and William E. Gladstone, the future famous prime minister of Britain, opened his eyes in an English crib.

That same year saw the birth of Alfred, Lord Tennyson and Elizabeth Barrett, who were to enrich England's literature, and Oliver Wendell Holmes, who was to brighten America's literary sky. In that same 12 months were born Chopin and Mendelssohn, to make their immortal contributions to music.

All those babies of 1809 attracted no public attention at the time. But they were to enrich the future beyond measure. Today the world's gaze is fastened on the tensions of the Middle East and the dozens of other trouble spots. Let's face them realistically but not pessimistically. Balance the bad news with the good news of the babies of 1957.

Speaking personally, I had a new granddaughter born recently. I think she is a "world-seer"! And that is what babies are — "world-beaters." There is always a new crop of babies born each day to keep this old world green and growing.

That is what the seers see. That is our reason they believe in The God of Hope.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED' E. WILSON

WINTER SPECIES PLENTIFUL

Most of us imagine that there are no birds but English sparrows, starlings, and pigeons in the city during the winter months; but both professional and amateur field naturalists know otherwise. If we go for a walk on the outskirts of towns and cities for the express purpose of finding birds, they will really be found — provided the weather acts in a gentlemanly way. A big wind means a small count, because feathered folk are keeping under cover; a cold or misty day may spoil visibility naturally has a similar ending, because all colours are grey. But given a calm, sunny day, the watchful eye will discover quite a variety, even though the temperature be low.

Special tactics are needed to see some of our residents. Both the great horned and the screech owl will be sleeping quietly, and only a thorough search will disclose them. The big owl may be on a branch of a big, old, fir close to the trunk; the little owl will probably be sitting in the entrance to its hole in some dilapidated stump.

NORTHERN VISITOR

We might come upon a visitor from the north, here on the extreme cold of the Arctic. Most of these are seed eaters, like redpolls and snow buntings, that arrive in large flocks to perch on weeds that are sticking up out of the snow. But the very large snowy owl comes down from the barren lands when lemmings are scarce, and goes to our garbage dumps for mice and rats.

Then there is always the chance of meeting a group of gypsies, as evening grosbeaks or crossbills, or the odd crow or robin that has decided to brave the winter here.

Like ourselves, birds require more nourishment to withstand the cold. A lump of suet attached to a tree in your back yard sometimes brings a downy or a hairy woodpecker, and a window feeding tray on which you have scattered breadcrumbs, seeds, and raisins might attract the odd purple finch or tree sparrow, as well as starlings and english sparrows.

The favorite feeding time is twilight, so as to get as much food as possible to last during the long winter night before dawn allows them to feed again. Sometimes a coming storm darkens the sky at mid-day. Then, look for birds on your tray, preparing for a period when their food is locked.

As darkness falls, birds go to roost, selecting their nest around a branch in the way nature provided, so that even a big wind cannot dislodge them.

Days and Customs of All Faiths

Did Longinus Pierce the Lord?

Friday, March 15 — In the Gospel according to St. John, chapter 19, verse 34, it is written "... one of the soldiers with a spear pierced His side." This, of course, took place at the Crucifixion. The apocryphal Gospel of Nicodemus enlarges on the incident and gives this soldier a name — Longinus — and the record has been that a St. Longinus has for centuries appeared in the Christian calendar.

The details behind St. Longinus are most dubious. That some soldier did pierce the Lord's side is a matter of accepted fact, but beyond it all is legend.

The very name Longinus is open to question. It is suspiciously like the Greek word for "lance," which probably means how soldier's name is not really known. Besides, it requires some fanciful thinking to make a saint out of the pagan who administered the final coup de grace in the tragedy of Calvary.

Unsupportable tradition has it that when this soldier thrust his spear into the Lord's side some of the precious blood flowed down the weapon and touched his eyes, whereupon he saw all with a new and miraculous clarity. He at once understood and believed.

This belief was strengthened by the events — the earthquake and the darkening of the sun — that followed, and he joined with the little Christian group, received instructions from the Apostles, gave up his military career and devoted the remainder of his life to spreading the new faith.

FEAST OF ESTHER

Friday, March 15 — Today is the Jews' one great secular (non-religious) festival, based on something that never happened and yet is always happening. Its theme is the indestructibility of the Jewish people in every generation and in every land, tyrants have sought to destroy us," and one after another the tyrants have disappeared and been forgotten, while the Jews live on, one of the oldest of peoples, yet ever young in vitality and power.

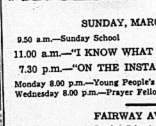
Today is Purim, the hilarious, unrestrained "feast of the light heart." The Purim story is told in the book of Esther, the strange fact about which is that is the only one in which God is not once mentioned. It is a story not unfamiliar in fiction, of how a beautiful woman captures the heart of an enemy king and saves her people from disaster. The wicked prime minister, Haman, plots the extinction of the Jews, but Esther turns the tables on him and he ends swinging from the gallows he had built for Jewish leaders.

Scholars say this could not have happened historically, and yet it is more true in essence than many textbooks. For it deals with a fact proven over and over again through the centuries. No one knows who wrote this novel, but whoever did was as both an observer and a prophet. He saw that peculiar quality of the Jews which makes them able to weather oppression and tragedy and to emerge confident if not unscathed.

The general theme of Purim — that is, deliverance — is frequently applied to the smaller scene. Wherever Jews have been delivered from the hand of an enemy or even from the caprice of nature, they are likely to say a Purim has taken place.

In various cities around the world local Jews celebrate local Purims in commemoration of some providential rescue, and many Jewish households have their own family Purims in memory of a time when they or their immediate ancestors were saved from some threatening calamity. Such local or family Purims, of course, are not necessarily held on this same date; the 14th day of the month of Adar.

No special ritual attaches to the observance of Purim, probably because it is not fundamentally a religious festival. It is just a time of joy and good food, of patriotic dramatizations and of special gifts to charity.



On the day before Purim — the 13th of Adar — the Jews keep the Fast of Esther. But it is not a strictly ordained fast, and most Jews do not observe it.

SAFETY BELTS OR 2,000 LIVES?

In recent years considerable time, thought and money have been invested to reduce the number of automobile accidents.

When a national campaign was launched after the war to educate the public on safer driving through posters, the press, radio and television, it was confidently predicted that accidents would be reduced by half.

In evaluating the results, traffic authorities are now surprised and disappointed to note that their best efforts have done no more than to reduce the toll in Canada by 10 per cent to 2,799 killed and 65,655 injured during 1956.

While a 10 per cent reduction in the face of a rising volume of traffic is a commendable accomplishment which must be maintained and expanded, it is obvious that a more satisfactory decline will not be achieved unless new and far more drastic measures are adopted to: 1. Prevent accidents; 2. Reduce the incidence of deaths and injuries caused by accidents.

As regards the prevention of accidents, it appears extremely dubious that any new methods will be found capable of bringing about an appreciable lessening of the present toll.

As long as drivers continue to be victims of unfortunate circumstances where fateful split-second timing makes the difference between life and death, as long as they drive when drinking, as long as they are careless and as long as they are criminally negligent — automobile accidents will be part of our daily living.

Since human nature is unlikely to change in any of these respects, little hope appears to be in reducing the incidence of death and injury in accidents, combined with continued effort to reduce these unfortunate occurences to an irreducible minimum.

Until such effort has been made to prevent accidents, extremely few safety measures have been adopted to prevent injuries and death.

It is somewhat fanciful that, while the best efforts of the government, the courts and the police have resulted in a mere 10 per cent lowering of the accident rate, the use of a simple device would save the lives of 2,000 Canadians every accident scene a year. Dr. President Eisenhower, shocked by the realization that 36,000 persons were killed on U.S. highways in 1954 (40,000 died in 1956), set up a board of inquiry to test and determine the life and injury saving qualities of safety belts in cars.

After a detailed series of tests, this board testified that of the 36,000 killed, 24,000 would still be alive had proper safety belts been used and possibly 8,000 of the remaining 12,000 would have been saved. Nearly half a million injuries, many permanent, would have been prevented.

This measure would afford a minimum of 66 per cent of lives saved compared with the 10 per cent achieved without the use of safety belts — the kind of result the safety campaign people once merely dreamed of.

If President Eisenhower accepted the results of these experiments in 1954 and if this information came to the attention of Canadian traffic authorities, as it presumably has, why has the compulsory installation of safety belts not become law before now? That is an interesting question.

Perhaps the law makers have been deterred by the thought that people would not take advantage of this safety device, but if safety belts were installed in all cars, people would at least have the option of utilizing this protection.

POLICE PURSUIT IS DANGEROUS

The St. Thomas Times - Journal notes that the latest Jaguar sports car now being offered to Canadian sport lovers is designed to hit 170 miles per hour. This high powered racer, which has scored many triumphs on world tracks, is expected to smash the standing record of 120 m.p.h. for Canadian highways established by an Ontario driver last fall.

With the "Jag" travelling at near airplane velocity and all other full size cars capable of top speeds ranging from 110 to 140 m.p.h., the advisability of replacing police pursuit with radio communication and road blocks is now apparent.

The futility of chasing runaway cars at full throttle has been illustrated only too often of late.

Police should recognize only fast enough to prevent backtracking while radioing for roadblocks ahead.

Wild pursuits at uncontrollable speeds will in many cases bring death and injury to innocent people using the highways.

MODERN HAZARD OF THE NORTHLAND

Jim Curran of the Sault Ste. Marie Star may have been right when he used to contend that he had "never met a man who had been eat by a wolf," but Northern Ontario's wolves nevertheless are a menace to life and limb. The Kenora men proved that the other day, when they came within an ace of death while wolf-hunting. Their plane stalled and crashed as they flew low for a good shot at a fleeing wolf. The wolf is probably bragging loudly about the big bird he dragged down out of the sky.

Honey will make a drunken person sober, reports the New York State agricultural experimental station at Geneva, N.Y. The reference is to honey from bees, not the honey the drunk has his arm around.

RESURRECTION

The roses sleep the winter through,
And some have said
Who've stood each leafless branch in view:
"They must be dead."

The stems like sticks are old and dry,
No life appears;
Perhaps, like us, they also die
With ageing years."

Take not for granted solemn death.
With sun and rain
They may awake again to breath
And live again.

Milk in the Old Days

By John Gould in the Christian Science Monitor

One of our professors recently made hangars on a farm radio program and said good milk is 37 per cent grain, 21 per cent machinery, and 9 per cent hard work. Malcolm MacCormick, veteran radio farm editor, thereupon thanked him, and he no doubt returned to his experimental station to make some mathematical relationships. In view of many memories and wide experience, as well as close association with the old-time production of what we mistakenly called milk, I can see that times have changed. We used to get 100 per cent milk, composed of 98 per cent hard labor and 2 per cent cut-up potatoes, and grain was something you gave bossy so she'd stand still while you milked her.

This was pretty much so. We had to keep two cows, so one would be milking while the other was dry, and when you got both milking production was more than ample. We never sold any milk, since the family around about also had two cows, at least, so an important adjunct of every cow's keep was the fact that excess milk was dumped for the pigs and used in cooking for the pigs. Pigs went with cows, and you might as well keep two as one.

Our milk had nothing added, and was kept in its native condition. A gallon pitcher would be filled, we had several such, night and morning, and the word used in "stirring the milk" was a precious. Grandma, grace, and taking the napkins out of the rings. I can remember when Grandma Mother would get seated, and then would take up the task of "I'm going to stir the milk!" She would bring the long-handled fork used for frying bacon, and with it around in the milk. If one didn't upstairs was again throughout the whole and we could pour our glasses full. If one didn't upstairs and without first stirring the pitcher, we'd get a glass of cream, and a curd result which was a mite too thick for drinking.

Since each cow's has been declare uncustitutional, perhaps I should explain that the cream content then was considerably more than the law now allows. The law didn't exist upstairs was put in pans on the cool cellar floor, and after about two days the cream would be skimmed off for butter. The skimmed milk then went back to the cows, in our unenlightened fashion, for feeding pigs, cottage cheese, and occasionally painting a henhouse. When modern chemists discovered casein curds and commercialized it, a lot of old-timers who had been using it for generations and didn't know it. I can't recall that we ever referred to this skimmed milk as "nonfat," but that's what it no doubt was.

But I wanted to speak about the grain. If modern milk is 37 per cent grain, I can see why we didn't get it in the olden days. During the years when a cow could get all the green grass she wanted, and by breaching could pick put a few carrot tops, pea vines, and petunias, we didn't feed any grain. But the winter, when the mows gave down field-cured sweetness, packed away in 2,000 pound a cent machinery, we used to give them a little. When a cow dried off, being about to freshen, we did give her a couple of handfuls of bran and middlings. This was supposed to "make bones," but probably research has since exploded this. I think we chose bran because it was cheapest and we had a bin of it for the pigs anyway.

The other cow, still giving milk, got her two boy's handfuls of "dairy ration." This really cost money, because it ran nearly as a dollar and a quarter a bag, and I think it was just run-of-the-mill sweepings with low-grade molasses added so the cows would relish it. It still gave one handful, and the grain had to be scattered well among the oats in the manger, or the greedy bossy quite a time to find it and clean it up. Then the grain period milked her. Our grain program must have gone to one tenth of 1 per cent, concentration factors and all.

But our cows were not neglected. We were able to offer considerable refinement, not possible in the assembly-line milk factory of today. We would take out a couple of milking pails of hot water from the stove, and with it with the milking pump would so bossy would have a warm drink. Winter water a scant notch above freezing. Then a dash of cow's teeth ache so she'd stick her head in the pail and turn her lips back, so we warmed her water and made her like us.

Then we cooked potatoes. Only those who have done it know what it's like to go into the vegetable cellar with a lamp, a lantern, and sit on a box while you cut up a mess of potatoes. You have to cut them up, as whole potatoes will choke a cow. Big, healthy boards and shoots shut ont all light and sound, and the potatoes have only kept its own flavor and climate. More than once the oxygen burned low and my lantern went out. I have me to grope my way up again with a jug of kerosene. Sometimes we cut up turnips, but you could only give a cow so many turnips before they'd spoil the taste. Mother ran tests on this, and she could feed turnips when nobody else could. But cows like turnips, and they were always glad to see some coming. Of course, they didn't produce any. Turnips would pass our stringent modern requirement, but we didn't complain about that. We didn't know any better.

Grain of Salt Needed Here

Toronto Teegram

A German firm, so it is reported from Frankfurt, is on the verge of introducing aromas to movie theatres. Not from a baking village, but when noses as well as eyes and ears will be catered to entertainment for the full enjoyment of a film.

At present the firm appears to be concentrating on the diffusion of perfumes and such aromas as the languid lady loafs on the lounge the nostrils of the audience will be conscious of the fragrance of violets or as the lovers wander through the woods the patrons will be no less titillating than the arbored aromas.

But the possibilities do not end there. From perfumes and scents to other odors is a natural step. A scene of a house on fire will smell like a fire; the odor of fish will waft from a fishing village, and no scene of an ox revolving wheel on the spit will be authentic without the redolence of roasting meat.

There is a tantalizing thought in the movie house pervaded with the fragrances of newly-made bread and hot blueberry pies, of cooking bacon and eggs, of baking cakes and scones and steaming stews and savory sauces. A scene of a Thanksgiving dinner or Henry VIII at table will be almost too appetizing a trial to endure.

And what with three-dimensional pictures it may not be a trial at all. Moviegoers will not merely see the custard pie, smell it and hear it as it flies through the air, but taste it as it splatters on the face of the clown — at which point people will recall with nostalgia the unintrusive, silent and odorless movies of the Mack Sennett period.

Black Cars Coming Back

Milwaukee Journal

Well, she soon will be riding in automobile show is that black cars are starting to come back into fashion. A Green Street visitor was told that ostrich plumes will be adorning women's hats this week. And a customer in a Milwaukee clothing store found last week that his favorite brand was now complete with vest—although vests have been "out" since Second World War days.

Mother, you had better begin looking for grandpa's whiskery cup; Sonny Boy will be demanding it one of these days as the "newest thing".

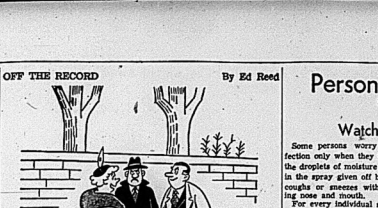
TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE RICH MIND

God has bequeathed to each one of us an inheritance greater than anything material in all the world —that mind of yours and mine. This mind is a veritable mine, with hidden grandeur, which only await digging deep into it, to discover the key to life's happiness and knowledge that can be far better than gold.

Emerson once wrote that "no matter how often defeated, you are born to win." And so we are. In this mind of ours are all the elements that combine to give us the success that one seeks. It only awaits our will and effort to discover its choicest treasures.



Life, and all that there is in this world, is revealed in the mind. And it is the mind, deeper, and with a purpose, find most of them. Life all around us, and at our doorstep, and life's Light shows us to the path of all the great wonders of creation if we will but use our eyes and look about. God is a guide to His humblest creatures.

It is significant that this mine of the mind never exhausts its riches. In fact the more it is mined the richer it becomes, since there is room for all the knowledge of the world that we choose to place there. Wonder of wonders! There are no limits to the capacity of the mind. Memory, the weight of the brain can be measured, but not the limits of the dream through it. As Wendell Phillips once said, "the biggest brains do not go to Congress." No. They are busy carrying on the work of the world.

Through the eyes of the mind we can look out upon all the world, and with Nature as a guide we can keep adding wealth to this mind of ours distributing, far and wide, the accumulated knowledge we have gained, inviting others to do the same. The rich mind is immortal!

Watch Out for Spray

Some persons worry about infection only when they see or feel the droplets of moisture or mucus in the spray given off by one who coughs or sneezes without covering nose and mouth.

For every individual so infected, scores are similarly infected unaware — via germ or virus — of the laden droplets of moisture or mucus in the spray given off from the mouth in quiet conversation.

One difference between sneeze or cough spray and conversation spray is a matter of effective range. Sneeze or cough spray may carry ten or twelve feet; conversation spray carries not more than five feet.

Another difference is that you can see and feel the droplets of sneeze or cough spray, but as a rule th droplets of ordinary conversation spray are invisible and inpalpably fine so that you are unaware that you are in range.

Except in ancient movies via TV and in the plate glass show window of the modern hospital, the nineteenth century hospital, the only purposes of gauze masks is to stop spray droplets. Even when such masks are made of not less than four thicknesses of gauze or 8 threads to the inch fineness — as most are not — they are not very efficient as masks should be. The Silvers mask, on the other, hand, is not only efficient but more comfortable and less ugly, though not so dramatic — and hence the extensively operated and the cast of the Movie Window Scene hang onto it as long as it seems to impress the customers.

Now I'm a crackpot, I admit, but I do not believe that every body should wear a mask as part of his or her everyday attire— except in time of epidemic fin. for example. But if you imagine everybody masked, please don't make it the picture melodramatic. Let people wear Silver masks, which are no more conspicuous or ridiculous than the horn-rimmed spectacles affected by odd characters with the Hollywood complex.

Whether the mask is made of cheesecloth or of washed fly-by safety film or other transparent material, persons in certain occupations should be required to wear one constantly when at work.

Barbers, hair dressers, cashiers, ticket sellers; ticket sellers; conductors on busses, trains, or streetcars; waiters; clerks at delicatessen counters; nurses, throat and ear specialists; ophthalmologists and optometrists; anesthetists.

Even though all this seems far-fetched and you don't believe you can catch anything via conversation spray, you're stuck with the idea now, and it is bound to make you just a little more careful of casual exposure to infection when you can.

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

TRUE NATURE OF OUR WORK

How does your work affect you? Is it a pleasure or something that is always on your back? Does it make you watch the clock and long for the day when you can retire and be through with it?

Most people should be glad of the greatest sources of our joy. Thomas Edison once declared that he never did a day's work in his entire life—it was all play, he said. Dr. Edward Everett Hale, who did much to marshall the forces of scientific medicine and surgery against the scourge of tuberculosis wrote, "The struggle has brought me experiences and left me recollections which I would not exchange for the wealth of the Indies."

The principal factor in the life of practically everyone is the daily task to which he or she is committed. Some people drag through their work and, it is distressing to behold, they no longer cannot enjoy their work they can really not enjoy anything.

Remember the words of the Lord, Jesus, "My Heavenly Father worketh hitherto and I work." For 30 years he worked in a carpenter shop, and we can imagine that he was a good carpenter and a happy one. Then he went out to do the greatest stupendous work humanity has ever witnessed because one end of it rested upon the earth and the other in heaven. And your work and mine has its dignity and heavenly aspects, if we only have eyes to see its true nature.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

From Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, comes the story of a trapper who asked the provincial government for permission to live-trap some beaver on his trap line and transport them to an area in which he has a tourist camp.

When investigated by the biologists of the wild life department, it was discovered that the trapper had in mind to trap, not a few years ago, was full of submerged small lakes which had been maintained by beaver dams. Not so long ago, a zealous trapper over-trapped to the point where this is what is called wild life management, practical employment of wild life by the beaver was the conclusion to destroy the beaver dams and so drain the lakes. It was decided to remove the beaver population.

It is tough to be a biologist, and tougher to be a trapper. Of course, each case has to be studied and judged on its merits. This is what is called wild life management, practical employment of wild life by the beaver was the conclusion as we humans are concerned. The beaver dams are a source of joy to the live-trap the beaver off the toodammed trout streams and transport them to the locality where beaver dams are the secret of good fishing. This is possible what will happen. In time to come, it doubtless will happen, and over doubtless, a wild life management increases in importance. Meanwhile, it is tough to be a beaver.

Really Hates Controversy!

Cornwall Standard Freeholder

It is said that "a woman has a right to change her mind," and there's one woman who is sure to take full advantage of that right, if total strangers too.

She is Mrs. Mary C. Kelly, whose search in a file of old workers' compensation cases located the fact that Mrs. Kelly apparently was the New York's "Mad Bomber."

Miss Kelly is eligible for $26,000 in reward money offered for information leading to the conviction of that genial menace. Maybe Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy has been made the sole judge of the validity of reward claims. But under the auspices of the Apex Club. There was a large and appreciative audience.

Miss Kelly has taken the stand, for some reason, that she will not even apply.

Why not? She doesn't exactly like it. The only possible clue in the letter stating her decision is its declaration that personal prejudice to any action which may involve me in a controversy of which I want no part.

Apparently she doesn't like controversy. Most persons feel that way. Not many, however, dislike controversy so much that they would pass up a shot at $26,000, even before taxes, rather than risk the possibility.

But if everyone hated controversy so emphatically, the world would be a better place to live in. There would be no wars, and no mad bombers. While considering Miss Kelly's right to change her mind, many individuals will take off their hats to her in recognition of a fortitude which, were they in her shoes, they would hardly be able to muster.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Want Your Husband to Retire? Use Health, Financial Angles

... ... By Thomas Collins

How can a wife talk her husband into retiring when he is only 61 and the company won't make him go until 65?

Many wives are asking this question. This week one asked it urgently.

"I'd rather have a husband in the living room making $353 a month," she said, "than to work on one in the cemetery making $785. And I'm actually afraid my husband will kill himself if he tries to keep on until 65. . . How can I make he..' quit!"

Conceding that a couple at 61 has enough money to live on — and $253 is enough—here are five steps a wife might consider:

1. Discuss with your husband the basic purpose of life. There's only one life for each of us, you know. That purpose might differ with different people, but it certainly is not to work for somebody else for $785 a month. A man is supposed to work to live, not for other way around. And once he has the substance to live on, there may be some sort of moral obligation on him to live, instead of work. A man who is always always telling him he can't work after 65 There's no reason whatever he has any business wanting to work after 61, if it isn't necessary.

This discussion will shift your husband thinking.

2. Ask your husband where he thinks he's going, if he works on until 65. If he has no crown on his head and it is unlikely that he'll get one in four final years. And he's too old to kid himself about this.

GIT DOWN TO MONEY

3 Then get down to money. A man who has been in business until age 61 is no fool about a job. He knows he can't walk out and get another one. He knows he can't walk out and get another one back. The job he has is his only chance to have a good job for the rest of his life. He wants to get a lot more about it than his wife does. He'll be a fool to be talked into quitting now, he must be assured he'll always have enough money not to go begging. Can you help get into the bankbook yourself, talk to investment brokers and bankers and help your husband decide, with reasonable certainty, that there will always be enough money?

4. Find something for your husband to do that will lure him into retirement See that he retires not from a job but to a new life. And don't drag out a hobby. Hobbies are like children's toys to a man who has fought his way through the business world until age 61. Can he start exploring? Can he write or paint? Or study music? Would he like a trailer? Would he like to set up a gift shop on the front yard or an Arkansas exhibit? Would he like to be a preacher? A teacher? Something must lure him.

5. Men do die — usually before their wives do. And jobs do kill them. But you will not convince your husband that either of these statements is true.

One of the strangest things of our times is that no man ever believes he will die. And no man ever stops thinking that he can conserve, or recapture, his youth.

So insist that your husband check at his office to see just what pension he will get if he retires now, just what company benefits, like insurance and hospitalization, he can retain, and then make him sit down with you and figure how much it is costing him to go to his job every day. With transportation, lunches, income tax. Social Security, and this and that figured, he'll see his salary is much less than he thought.

With all the done, start telling him how the lines will go out of his forehead and the weariness will go out of his walk—how once more the two of you can have fun together—if only he will fight his way free of the 40-hour-a-week monster that holds him captive.

Here is how the wife who prompted this column figured the financial angles of her husband's retirement: They had $18,000 equity in their house, $8,000 in stocks and savings and $12,000 cash value on her husband's life insurance—for a total of $38,000. She figured to invest this in public utility stocks at 4½ per cent for $142 a month. Her husband's pension at 61 would be $111, as against $240 at 65. She said it was stupid for her husband to risk his life for four more years for $128 more in pension. Anyway, social security started at 65. As for cashing in the insurance, she said, "I'd rather gamble on $142 and a husband than a lot more money and a widowhood."

Your Car

Know When Dash Warning Lights Need Attention

By EUGENE MILMOE

With the ignition switch on, the generator warning light on the dash should light up. If it doesn't, a bad bulb or loose connection is the likely cause, with sticking circuit breaker contacts occasionally the problem child. An engine speed is increased and the generator is charging the battery, the light goes out. Should it remain on, generator or regulator trouble is probably to blame.

Check for a loose or faulty pressure switch on the engine, or a defective bulb, if the oil pressure warning light does not work when the ignition is turned on.

In cases where the light will not go out until the engine is well accelerated, an inaccurate pressure switch is usually the one and only trouble. If the warning light remains on at all speeds, however, a defective engine unit or low oil pressure can be the reason.

M.S. writes: "There's a ticking noise from my speedometer and the indicator needle is very jumpy. It can't be lack of lubrication because I took care of this only recently. What type of trouble would you suspect?"

(A) You will probably find that a cable kink is responsible.

S.Q. asks: "My car, a 1953 six-cylinder model, is equipped with a 6-volt battery. For more starting power and better ignition, I'd like to try a 12-volt battery. Will it help?"

(A) On the contrary, it's harmful Merely changing to a 12-volt battery will not convert the entire electrical system. Several other units in your car, such as the coil, generator, etc., are designed only for 6-volt use.

From W.R.: "I have a 1950 sedan which, except for a little engine roughness, has rarely given me trouble. But now, after 41,000 miles, a peculiar condition has arisen. The motor will continue running for a moment or so after I switch off the ignition key. It will not happen if I drive only a mile or so — but it always happens when the car is driven for a half hour or more."

(A) A build-up of carbon in the engine is the probable trouble When engine temperature is quite high, carbon deposits can actually be hot enough to ignite the fuel mixture. Thus, combustion occurs without a spark from the plugs—a condition known as preignition.

(A) When the crankcase remains full or mysteriously becomes overfilled in winter weather, overchoking or constant slow driving is to blame. Either condition causes oil to be diluted by fuel, and also steps up engine wear.

W.B. writes: "I would like to know why the crankcase in my 1950 eight-cylinder car appears overfilled during the winter season. There are no apparent water bubbles on the dipstick. Could it be that the automatic choke also steps up engine wear.

Lawyer Explains Meaning of Act In Legislature

TORONTO (CP) — An explanatory note, intended to express in simple language the effect of the Municipal Subsidies Adjustment Amendment Act, 1957, has given rise to considerable head-scratching at Queen's Park.

The act was introduced Thursday in the legislature by Municipal Affairs Minister Warrender who offered this explanation:

"The amendments provide that a rural municipality, part of which is annexed to an urban municipality, is entitled to a per capita payment for the first five years immediately following the annexation on the assessed population of the annexed area at the time of annexation at the per capita rate to which it was entitled on the day immediately preceding the time of annexation; and the urban municipality is entitled to a payment for the first five years at per capita rate equal to the amount by which the per capita rate to which it is entitled exceeds the per capita rate to which the five years per capita grants for the population which has been built. In addition, the per capita grants for the annexed population with five years shall conform with those already being paid the municipality which did the annexing.

Collaborationist Badly Beaten By Mob in Gaza

GAZA (CP)—A theft flare-up of violent feeling against Egyptians suspected of having collaborated with Israel during its 125-day occupation of the Gaza Strip broke out Thursday, but was quickly brought under control by United Nations forces.

One Egyptian was reported severely beaten by a mob in front of the police station before Danish troops got in to break it up. The Egyptian was taken to hospital. Another Egyptian former Palestine policemen were reported being pressed into service as police auxiliaries to restore looting, which started on a small scale behind the withdrawing Israeli forces before UN troops could consolidate their positions.

WELL RECEIVED

The UN forces generally were well received by the Egyptians in this disputed area, but in several sections of the city large groups started to gather, shouting pro-Egyptian slogans.

They were quickly and peacefully broken up by UN troops.

Patrols on the line which formerly marked the border of Israeli-occupation in this zone were increased as several hundred Egyptians, carrying Egyptian flags and slogans, gathered to enter the Gaza Strip.

UN officials who stopped most of them at Rafah, entrance to the strip, say they wouldn't interfere with movements of UN troops and supplies, said they were afraid the Egyptians may try to detour through heavily-mined fields to return to Gaza.

Garden Notes

Blue Flowers for Borders, Cutting

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

There is a scarcity of blue flowers. Almost any gardener will agree to this statement. But, when I began looking for blue flowers I found there were quite a number of blues both in the perennials and the annuals. Why has this fallacy sprung up in garden circles? Perhaps it is that blue flowers do not contrast with their green background as sharply as the other colors and do not impress themselves on the memory as vividly as the pinks, the yellows and the white flowers.

This year would be a good time to experiment with some of the blue flowers for the border and for the cutting garden. Blues are especially good for flower arrangements. Florist resort to dye using chrysanthemums and carnations when blue flowers are not available, In the border blue flowers contrast well with white, yellow, orange, rose or pink blooms.

For the back of the border tall blue delphiniums are good. The newest hybrids grow to a height of six to seven feet. They are called "pacifics" but the new Pacific hybrids seldom last more than two seasons. The Chinese delphinium are less tall, more branching and sturdier. Blue Sapphire is a light blue in the best in this class. Saphire is a good darker blue.

Himalaya poppies have four inch blooms in Cambridge blue and grow three feet tall. There is also a blue poppy produced by Watkins and Simpson of England. Seed is available in Canada—two to three feet.

Aquilegia (columbine) offers three strains. The McKana giants have immense blooms three inches across with three inch spurs. Mrs. Scott Elliot strain also has very large blooms. Both of these have a blue variety as well as several other colors and combinations of colors. Aquilegia Akitensis has fig blue flowers with olive markings and white tips. This is an early type.

Monkshood grows three to four feet tall and has long spikes of bloom. Barkers or Fischeri are the best.

VARIED SHADES

Canterbury bells belong to the campanula family. You will find many members with a variety of different growth habits, low and spreading tall spires and more compact forms. They are usually blue shades in this family. Veronica too offers several varieties of shapes in blue flowered plants. Many veronica types bloom from June to frost.

A splendid blue salvia Blue Bedder Farinacea has spikes of soft powder blue with grey-green foliage. This should be more popular. It is quite lovely.

Platycodon, or Chinese bell flower is another three footer. Mariesi is good.

Isaac House strain of perennial scabious has handsome lavender blooms. These are unusually good for cut flowers, and for the border.

For the front of the border or for dry walls pick campanula garganica. Also good for planters.

Among the annuals you will find several blues suitable for bedding, cutting and edging.

For cutting you will find cornflower to be a favorite, They last well and the new hybrids are much larger than the old type, there is a double strain. There is also an annual scabiosa in blue shades. This is also known as pincushion flower. Pick Imperial Blue.

Annual larkspur has also been hybridized and the new plants have good spikes for arrangements. Don't forget to plant some of the new powder puff asters in blue—and other colors for mixed bouquets in late summer.

For bedding choose Amible a light blue or firmament-indigo verbena, asters, stocks, Browallia major or cynoglosum (Chinese forget-me-not). These are compact plants in light or darker blue.

For a blue edging plant pick ageratum, blue think is one of the best in the new strains. Royal marine, a low bushy morning glory, is new, Lobelia is still a favorite edging plant for beds and window boxes. The tiny flowers are saphire blue with fine wiry stems and tiny dark green leaves.

Impatient gardeners will like these two annuals which can be planted April first and produce blooms by the end of June — Southern star (Oxypetalum) has blue star shaped blooms with silver veins, and Swan River daisy (brachycome) Little blue star is the best with fine lacy blooms, compact plant and summer long blooming season.

Toronto Man Found Dead In His Car

TORONTO (CP) — Thomas H. Johnston, 34, was found dead in his car Thursday night, two hours after he allegedly attempted to shoot a 23-year-old woman.

Johnston was found slumped in the back seat of the car in suburban York Township, a rifle across the knees. Coroner H. J. Graham said he died of bullet wounds.

Jacqueline Lynas told police that two hours earlier she had been in the car with Johnston and after a discussion he took a rifle from the trunk and fired at her through the window of the car, The bullet grazed her head.

She said she flagged a passing motorist who drove her to the police station.

The Face on the Stamp

Father of the Horseless Cart

Some people complain because they are not allowed to drive as fast as they would to on the highways. Well, they should have been driving just before the turn of the century in England, when a man with a red flag had to walk in front of each car to determine the rate of the speed.

Of course, at that time motor cars were still in their baby shoes. The ancestors of our modern automobile did not have any of the luxurious features of our cars today. They crept along like snakes and looked clumsy and ridiculous compared with our modern streamlined vehicles.

But when the first horseless carriages appeared on the road, they caused a breathtaking sensation and gave the signal for the start of one of the mightiest industries of the world.

It would not be fair to say that the invention of the motorcar was the idea or work of one single man. It developed step by step, until one man put together what had been done before him, combined it with his own fantastic ideas and thus shaped the car we know today. In fact, he became the builder of the first practical motorcar, replacing the horse that used to draw the carriage with a powerful gas engine.

NIGHT TESTING

He tested his first model car secretly at night so he would not scare anybody or have people laugh at him. Whoever heard the strange noise of a rumbling vehicle driven by an invisible force, was shocked if not stunned. A few years later, Nicolaus Otto founded the first car manufacturing company in his native Germany, but even sold the rights to make his automobiles in other countries.

And so his invention ignited the world showing others the way to the great future of a motorized age.

The inventor was an exceptionally skilled man. Tools and machines had always fascinated him, in fact they were the only things he was interested in. When he travelled abroad, he studied the development of motors and their latest progress, rather than the sightseeing attractions. Whatever he did, he planned carefully ahead, working with precision and patience. He even took the time to go to Russia and study the oil production in order to find out wheth-

Dept. to Study Planting Of Whitefish and Pickerel

KENORA, Ont. (CP)—A study to determine the value of whitefish and pickerel plantings in Lakes of the Woods and Rainy Lake will be made by the Ontario lands and forests department.

The department will try to find out in the long-term study whether the catch of the two species is being increased by plantings of young from hatchery stock.

Each lake will be double-planted every second year rather than being planted each year as now is the custom. Every second year's harvest of fish will receive increased hatchery support.

Scale samples will be collected each year to determine the age of fish. It is felt that by adequate sampling the catch of fish from hatchery-supported years can be compared with the catch from the lakes' natural production.

The study may last at least 10 years because pickerel and whitefish are five or six years old before they are caught in commercial nets.

A special study has been conducted in the Bay of Quinte on Lake Ontario during the last 10 years which indicates that the planting of whitefish has little effect on the population in those waters.

Planting of pickerel eggs in Minnesota lakes over the past some years ago because it was felt the effort was not increasing the population.

Biologists and fisheries managers have since learned the value of planting eggs and spawn of pickerel and whitefish. Studies during the last 25 years have indicated the reproduction in most lakes is more than adequate to keep the size of the lake, its fertility and the influence of weather the controlling factors as far as the number of fish is concerned.

Pals, Pioneer Girls Enjoy Social Evening

On Thursday evening the Pals of the Pioneer Girls of Christian and Missionary Alliance Tabernacle met for a social evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Anderson.

After the singing of a hymn and prayer, all joined in singing favorite choruses, accompanied by Miss Grace Veley at the piano.

Mrs. Kenneth Dixon, leader of the Pilgrim group, gave out the prayer lists and letters to each Pal.

Mrs. E. Pickard and Mrs. R. Atyio favored with a duet.

Mrs. F. Hawley, presented a challenging address to the Pals, encouraging them to take a definite interest in their group.

Miss Lois Wright gave another reading, after which all enjoyed games, supervised by Mrs. Reed Rollins.

Refreshments were served with Mrs. Palmer and Mrs. Pickard pouring tea.

Mrs. R. Rogers moved a vote of thanks to the hostess for her hospitality.

Senior Citizens Belleville Club Holds Euchre

The March meeting of the Senior Citizens of Belleville Club was held Wednesday last in the Quinte Wanis Centre, with president Fred Cooke emceeing.

Entertainment was by the S.P.E.E.D.-O.'S., Belleville quartet, which was under the direction of Mr. A Evans. The quartet sang many favorite numbers, and in some of the better known choruses the audience was invited to join in, much to their enjoyment.

The meeting was opened by singing the "Birthday Song" and a silence was observed in respect to one of the club members, Mr. George Bongard, who has passed on.

Eleven tables of euchre saw some keen competition with the winners being Mrs. Thorne, Mrs. Thomson, Percy Crozier and John Mumbo. Bridge, Skat, Pinochle games and other games were indulged in.

The lucky draw was won by Mrs. McFarlane.

To round out a fine evening, refreshments were served by the ladies of the club under the convenership of Mrs. Samsin.

Harmony Studio Club Students Present Numbers

On Wednesday evening the Harmony Studio Club met at the home of Mrs. E. Veley. R.M.T. Mrs. C. Scott, who was presiding, opened the meeting with a cordial welcome to a large number of pupils and parents.

The musical numbers for the evening were played by pupils from grade one to grade five. The following numbers were enjoyed by all: Grade One: Steven Long "Marching Trumpets," by R. Berlin; David Kendall, Irvine, "Minuet" by J. S. Bach; "Sonatina," by M. Clementi; Rose Handley; Two Jan Waters, "A Dance" by Teleman, "Lavender Blue," arranged by M. Williams; Eleanor Abbott, "Minuet" by W. A. Mozart, "Study No. 2," by C. Czerny; Joyce Sweetman, "Bourree" by J. S. Bach.

Grade Two: Donald Irvine, "Minuet" by J. S. Bach; "Sonatina," by M. Clementi; Rose Handley; Two Jan Waters; Moretti Penny Cavers, "Minuet in G" by Bach.

Grade Four: Patricia Shorey, "Minuet" by J. S. Bach; "Sonatina" by J. Hayden Lynch; Thompson, "Bourree" by Mozart, "Study No. 1" by Czerny; Carol Shorey, "Allegro" by Kuhlau, "Bourree" by W. A. Mozart; Marilyn Phillips, "Study No. 5" by C. Czerny.

Grade Five: Daniel Irvine, "Minuet" by J. S. Bach; "Sonatina," by M. Clementi; Rose Handley; Two Jan Waters; Moretti Penny Cavers, "Minuet in G" by Bach.

Grade Four: Patricia Shorey, "Minuet" by J. S. Bach; "Sonatina" by J. Hayden Lynch; Thompson, "Bourree" by Mozart, "Study No. 1" by Czerny; Carol Shorey, "Allegro" by Kuhlau, "Bourree" by W. A. Mozart; Marilyn Phillips, "Study No. 5" by C. A. Bach, "Sonatina" by M. Clementi; Laurie Rowbotham, "Minuet in D Minor" by Bach, "Study No. 1" by Czerny; Patricia Carter "Gavotte in G. Minor" by J. S. Bach, "Study No. 2" by Wenzl; Gran Hancock, "Allegro" by Kuhlau; Carolyn and Patricia Shorey, "Minuet" by Haydn.

Grade Five: Sandra Burns, "Minuet in G. Minor" by Bach, "Study No. 2" by Stamaty; Roberta Button, "Rondo" by W. A. Mozart; Ruth Ann Hunley, "Study No. 1" by C. Czerny.

During the evening, Miss Veley who was passing from grade three to grade five played the following a number: "Spring No. 1" by Berenz, "Minuet in G" by Bach, "Sicilian Mood" by Bilton.

Also during the program Eileen Hancock, who is preparing for her grade eight music examination in June, played the following pieces: "A Gavotte," by Beethoven, "Study No. 16" by S. Heller.

The special request number of the evening was a duet, "The Clarinet Race," by E. T. Paul, played by Mrs. Veley and Grace Veley.

This - - - and That

BY HARRIET STEVENS

The weekend thought:
"These things are the world hash knows
Is mostly rice
Than of the world hash knows
A shall rise
With flame of freedom in the souls,
And light of knowledge in their eyes."

Slavery was abolished and forbidden within the British dominions one hundred and fifty years ago come May first. The history of philosophy reveals that many of the greatest thinkers never dreamed of including human chattels, or for that matter even artisans, in their select group or in the pleasures of their Utopian states. There is a sad and tragic tendency to forget or to discard the great contributions of the British story. Our continent, which often looks disparagingly at the Commonwealth, was decades after 1807 reaching the state of enlightenment of 'No Slavery.'

The British Act signed the death warrant for many fabulous fortunes made in the traffic of human beings who could be sold at the auction block. On the north west coast of Africa, in a colony known as the Gold Coast, the British navy, enforcing the new law, caused such financial disaster that the colony was nearly abandoned. However, men of fortitude persevered.

The story is not one long record of cruelty and misery all the time and the distasteful episodes. One hundred and fifty years have been climaxed this week as the independent Dominion of Ghana takes its place as an equal partner within the family of Commonwealth nations and the United Nations.

This is education week in Canada. It is doubtful if any development over the last century can more significantly vindicate the power of sound education born at the grass roots and be led along a hard but upward path towards fulfillment. Ghana's dream is only partly fulfilled. Her struggle has just begun. It is to be hoped that the unconcealing and genuine friendship of every Commonwealth nation closes about Ghana to aid, sustain and support her quest within the comity of nations. Let there be no vacuum in Ghana. Everyone will not be her friend and there will be those who hope for her failure.

Let us do our part to see that the latter shall not be, and that a lofty race will continue to arise; that the flame of freedom will be kept alive in their souls; that the light of knowledge shall be kept bright in their eyes.

Ghana is opening its High Commissioner's office at Ottawa and Premier Kwame St. Laurent has promised to open our office in Ghana immediately. The United Kingdom must have been justifiably proud Thursday to sponsor Ghana for membership at the UN.

The power of the printed word. An amusing note. At least twice a day, five days a week, we pass a small church just east of Belleville. At the front of this little church there stands a large, clear-plastic sign which forbids parking at the front of the church. Evidently the church members placed the sign there to be observed. Obviously it is not observed. Cars are parked so tightly about the sign that it is all but hidden from view. The use of the English language to change the concerned attention of such authorities as the Government of Canada. If the words on a sign mean nothing, why is the sign there? Surely it is as futile as actions just to show that words "don't mean anything."

We overheard a comment which, if true, is disturbing. It is of sufficient concern to be made mention of since no harm can come from attention being drawn to it; if true, and we hope it does occur, East of Belleville, there is a new housing development with only one single bus service. Women and girls who have found it necessary to be in Belleville at night have been taking the bus to Hershimer and Bridge Streets. It is only a short walk from the bus stop, across an orchard to the new development. We understand that the women and girls have been advised to stop using this path at night because there is danger of molestation. This is serious and, if true, demands an investigation.

There are two interesting anniversaries for March 10th. In 1876, the first complete sentence by telephone was spoken by Alexander Graham Bell when he said, "Mr. Watson, come here, I want you."

In 1880, the first group of British Salvation Army members arrived in the United States to start the branch of their movement in that country.

Tips Distributed On Way Out Rule At Most Vacation Places

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

There are two sure-fire ways of attracting mail with this column. One is to write about resorts, the other to write about tipping. Either subject brings a deluge of queries about how to tip at resorts.

The big difference between tipping the cupped palm at a resort hotel and at any other kind of hotel is that most tipping at a vacation place is done when you check out. It is inconvenient and embarrassing to pass out tips once or twice a day to people whom you'll see every day for two weeks. At a commercial hotel you're here today and gone tomorrow and so is the shirt of employees with whom you first came in contact.

There are a few exceptions to this service-now-tip-later rule. One is the bellhop who handles your luggage checking in and out. That's hard work, considering all the baggage, golf clubs, fishing poles or skis a resort guest is likely to have.

Regardless of what you'll tip the bell captain for distribution among himself and the boys for the many little favors you'll be asking during your stay, the guy who wrote back to room or unroom you is entitled to payment on the spot at the rate of 15 or 20 cents a bag.

Another exception would be employees with whom you come in contact only infrequently, such as the night porter or room service waiters. It's less complicated to tip them as you go whenever you use their services.

BELL CAPTAIN

Speaking of the bell captain, bear in mind he earns his pipe for what he knows more than for what he does. He knows how it makes all kinds of reservations for guests, handles all arrangements and devious other matters likely to throw the guest for a loss if he's on his own.

Few resorts are so large they have more than a single bellhop, two bops, all of whom can be taken care of with a half dozen through the captain when you check out. Remember the boys at the rate of 25 to 50 cents per person served. But don't overlook the captain.

Of course, some of the happiest here, if the place is so big you never see the same bellhop twice, tip as you go.

There is a major difference between resorts in their entertainment plan, where your meals are included in the tariff; and European plan resorts, where all your meals wherever you eat, hotel dining room or elsewhere.

Obviously on the European plan you'll tip the usual 15 per cent as you go, should you take some of your meals in the hotel. But if you're dining out, you'll tip at the end of your stay, usually at the rate of 50 cents to $1 a day per person for the waiter or waitress, and half as much for the bus boy, who is really an assistant waiter at the typical American plan resort.

Others you'll want to know about:

Children's governess — Very hard work, as every parent knows. At least 50 cents a day for each child.

Room maid — At least $2 a week for stays of a week or more. One dollar is optional for shorter stays.

Night maid—A nominal dollar a week if she is encountered on shoe shining, dress pressing, or ironing and turning down the beds.

Recreation or maintenance man— An optional couple of dollars for a stay two weeks or more if he has been called occasionally for leaky faucets and broken door locks. Of courses, beyond this fee is paid as is the management's responsibility. Tip generously, but often as not you'll find him a handy man for fixing personal items like suitcase straps and stuck zippers. Depending as you go is acceptable here.

MAITRE d' HOTEL

Maitre d' hotel — 'tickliah con; depends very directly on how much attention he pays to you, how you, if any. Anything from nothing on up to any figure you can afford for special diet dishes, favorite items not on the menu and extra attention to the preparation of sauce bearnaise according to your old family recipe. Some guests tip on each visit to the dining room, anticipating the best. However, $3 a week when you check out is a fair average if he's earned anything at all, with a slightly higher figure when he's a short stay.

Pool, cabana, or beach attendants — $2 a week per person. Attendants not to be confused with pool manager or lifeguard. He is the only attendant himself in a small hotel, expects nothing.

Solarium attendant and masseur (or masseuse) — About 20 per cent of the massage and steam bath bill.

Housekeeper — Nothing really required, but careful observation of maid work should earn her $1 or $2 a week.

Dance, ski and swim instructors — They're well paid for lessons, but if they've been particularly satisfied with the results they frequently give $5 or $10 per week, especially when the instruction involves children.

Social director, room clerks, manager, shop concessionaires —Never anything.

Over 100 So-Eds Attend Spring Season Opening

The spring session of So-Ed opened on Wednesday evening March 6th at the local Y.M.C.A. with over 120 people present in attendance. Many of these signed on for the full session which will continue for eight consecutive weeks until April 24th. Registration for spring ladies has been closed both for full registration and one night attendance due to maximum quota being reached. Registration for men will continue until the end of September. All their quota are filled.

Prize to a talk by the chairman of the committee and while the registration of members took place, numerous games of skill were available for participation. A person's skill at these games was assessed and at the conclusion a prize was awarded to the most dextrous competitor. Miss Shirley Askey won this prize which took the form of a box of chocolates.

CLUB ACTIVITIES

Chairman Gerry Hiles gave a short talk to the assembly on the various club activities noting that these could only be as successful as the members wished them to be. He urged everyone to take a full part in all phases of the organization and that any constructive criticism was at all times welcomed by committee members.

Bren Neal, chairman of interest activities, described the activities for the session and introduced the respective instructors as follows: Basketball dancing, Jean Vickers and Dávid Shantz; handicrafts, Doug Smith of Doug's Hobby Shop; amateur dramatics, Stu Robb of the Belleville Theatre Guild.

The groups dispersed to their various locations for a short introduction to their instructors and their respective choice.

At 10 p.m. coffee was served followed by dancing until midnight. The dancing took the form of mixers to get the group acquainted. Eliminations during prizes were won by Diane White, Reed and David Spencer.

It is to be hoped that the enthusiasm of those at this first night augurs well for the future.

Tania L. Daniell To Speak Here

On Monday evening in Queen Alexandra School, Ann Street, the Women's Canadian Club will have as its guest speaker, Mrs. Tania Lng Daniell, well known journalist, who will speak on "The Exciting North."

TANIA L. DANIELL

Mrs. Daniell has travelled extensively through Canada's northland since coming to Canada for New York Times, and has witnessed great changes, due to accelerated pace of development of the immense and potentially wealthy part of Canada, from the now debunked days of trade to the real social development, of the impact on native Eskimos and Indians of the white man's civilization; the construction of the DEW line and the airfields in the Arctic regions and the astonishing operation of building a modern, scientifically planned community in the bleak, isolated wastes of the Mackenzie River delta. She was one of a small group of officials and reporters, who journeyed by 'plane to what is to be the "New Aklavik."

Mrs. Daniell, who was born in Eltham, Kent, went to school and in England, at the Malvern School for girls. Mrs. Daniell is the daughter of Mrs. Carbonne. Entering journalism in the 30's, she became a staff correspondent in Europe for the Herald Tribune, and later for the New York Times. She was the first woman correspondent to be sent to Normandy, and the first to enter Berlin after the armistice. She was the latter part of the war, the only woman in the U. S. S. (counter intelligence).

With this background, Mrs. Daniell will bring much of vital interest to Canadians.

Christ Church Contact Club Enjoys Evening

The entertainment was in the form of a court whist under the direction of Myra Greene and her group.

Fun and laughter prevailed as girls who had never played before mixed with many more experienced professionals.

A pleasant hour and a half was enjoyed and many new friendships were cultivated from the informal atmosphere of the evening.

Lucky winners of prizes were: high, Thelma Saunders; low, Marion Hinson; hidden score, Florence Lennox.

After the game and over the president, Alice Wonnacott, made the following announcements to the membership:

Next Monday's meeting will be a bowling evening with each to be done on layette and bazaar articles;

Evelyn Clarke won the contest to name the Contact Club bazaar and coffee evening. Evelyn's suggestion was "Coffee Delight Night" which was considered the most attractive for the event.

The social evening was brought to a close with refreshments served by the hostesses, Joan Ford, Phyllis Hume and Joan Ford.

Front Road W.A. Plans Coming Events

The monthly meeting of the Front Road United Church Ladies' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. G. Ray, on Thursday. The president, Mrs. H. McMullen, opened the meeting and Mrs. J. Monteith led the devotional, using "Faith", as the theme.

Mrs. Monteith read the Scripture lesson from Hebrews 11: 1-16. In the first verse of this lesson "faith" is defined as "the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen".

In an article on "Faith", read by Mrs. Monteith, faith determines the way one thinks and acts. One should examine herself to see if her faith is real, has it passed through periods of testing, or is it just an inherited faith. Be not anxious or strain for faith, just God, forget about self, and faith will be intensified in you.

An article "A Bible Faith", read by Mrs. C. Reid, emphasized that "there is but one faith, and that is the faith that came through from the Father to His people on earth. Faith is born in the soul. If we have faith our heart looks to Jesus as our personal Saviour and God and Lord."

Two other articles, "Faith in Guidance", and "Faith in Divine Guidance", read by Mrs. G. Bradshaw and Faith in Future Life," read by Mrs. C. Brown.

BUSINESS SECTION

The next meeting for a pot-luck supper to be held in the church hall on April 8, with Mrs. C. Reid in charge of games. It is also hoped that everyone connected with the church and the Sunday School will be present.

The annual pie social will be on a Wednesday evening, later in April. Program conveners for this event are Mrs. R. McMullen, Mrs. C. Brown, Mrs. C. Reid, and Mrs. G. Ray.

During the roll call, each member displayed an apron she had made. These aprons will be sold at the fall bazaar. Other items for the bazaar which will be of special interest to children, will be toy animals, cut from cloth, and then stuffed. Mrs. McMullen showed the group one animal she had made. She had cut out patterns for several others and asked for help in sewing and stuffing them.

AUCTION

A few items remaining from the previous fall bazaar were auctioned off to the members who readily bid for each item.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Glenn Bradshaw.

AWARDED $61,000

CHATHAM (CP) — Mrs. Rosalyn Reisner and her three young children of Dover Centre were awarded a total of $61,000 in damages by a Supreme Court jury here Friday in a lawsuit over the death of her husband, 32, in a highway of things hoped for, the evidence accident last June. Judgment was given against Norman Myers, 19, also of Dover Centre, driver of the other car.

Stories of Famous Hymns

By HORACE B. POWELL

O JESUS, I HAVE PROMISED

O Jesus, I have promised
To serve Thee to the end;
Be Thou forever near me,
My Master and my Friend;
I shall not fear the battle
If Thou art by my side,
Nor wander from the pathway
If Thou wilt be my Guide.

O let me feel Thee near me,
The world is ever near;
I see the sights that dazzle,
The tempting sounds I hear;
My foes are ever near me,
Around me and within;
But, Jesus, draw Thou nearer,
And shield my soul from sin.

O let me hear Thee speaking
In accents clear and still;
The murmurs of self-will;
O speak to reassure me,
To hasten or control;
O speak, and make me listen,
Thou Guardian of my soul.

O Jesus, Thou hast promised
To all who follow Thee,
That where Thou art in glory
There shall Thy servant be;
And, Jesus, I have promised
To serve Thee to the end;
O give me grace to follow
My Master and my Friend.

Dr. John Ernest Bode, an English clergyman, wrote this famous confirmation hymn about 100 years ago when his own children—two sons and a daughter—were to be confirmed.

It was sung for the first time at their confirmation service, where Dr. Bode officiated, and today its popularity has carried it into almost every hymnal.

Dr. Bode, who was born in 1816, became one of England's most distinguished pastors and preachers, as well as a widely known writer of hymns and poetry. After being educated at Eton College, at Christ House, and at Christ Church, Oxford, he took the holy orders in 1841 and became rector of Westwell parish in Oxfordshire, in 1847. Fifteen years later, he was called to serve another prominent rectorship at Castle Camps, in Cambridgeshire.

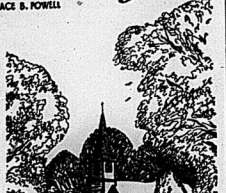
The writings for which he is best known are his Bampton lectures, written and delivered in 1855, his "Ballads From Herodotus", "Hymns From The Gospel Of The Day For Each Sunday And The Festivals Of Our Lord", and a booklet of poems.

His confirmation hymn is the best of all his songs. The tune to which it is sung is known as "Angel's Story" because it was composed by Arthur Henry Mann for Emily Miles's beautiful hymn-poem, "I Love To Hear The Story Which Angel Voices Tell".

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

FRIENDLINESS IS IMPORTANT HERE



Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

This is a medium-size town in which we live, if it is a very hospitable one, and also there is a certain pride taken in observing the social amenities. Now a group of my friends and I are faced with a problem. Several months ago a new family moved here, and we all went quite soon to call, leaving our cards or a note when no one was at home. None of these calls was returned, and so most of us haven't had any opportunity to get acquainted with this family, even though we did want to be hospitable.

I was fortunate in finding them at home when I went to call, and I had a most enjoyable visit and found the family very charming in their manner and very friendly in their attitude. After church last Sunday I met the husband and wife, and during our chat, she told me that she was planning to give a tea very soon, inviting "all the kind people who have called on us."

Some of my friends think this would not be proper, but I think I should return our calls before she gives her party. But I think we should accept her invitation in the spirit in which I'm sure she means it. Not accepting it for such a superficial reason would be, I think, ridiculously stuffy. Do you agree with me? I would like to have you publish your opinion in your column.—Ann.

Indeed I completely agree with you. There are many reasons why you and your friends should accept this obviously kind invitation, which it is sung is known as "Angel's Story" because it was composed by Arthur Henry Mann for Emily Miles's beautiful hymn-poem, "I Love To Hear The Story Which Angel Voices Tell".

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THERE'S SUCH A THING AS MENTAL INFIDELITY

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

Is it possible for a woman to be in love with two men at the same time?

I'm a wife 30 years old with four children. My husband has always been good to me and there isn't one thing I can complain about in any way. But for some reason an old boy friend of mine, who has never married, is constantly on my mind.

He lives in a city not far from here, and once in a while he calls me up and a very few times has come to see me in the afternoon. He's told me that he still cares for me, and I don't know what to say to him, because I keep wondering if it could be that I still care for him. If not, why do I keep thinking of him so constantly?

I truly love my husband and my children, and I want more than anything else to keep my family happy and together, but I don't know what to make of my feelings for this other man.—Mrs. W.

Dear Mrs. W.:

You aren't in love with two men at one time. You're not in love with the old boy friend at all. It's just your feminine vanity that's flattered to hear him tell you he still cares for you.

When women marry, they know that they automatically place themselves out of the reach of other men; that they no longer have the right to any romance other than that which they make of their marriage. But, and quite naturally, even knowing all this doesn't make them indifferent to the way other men feel about them, and it does their ego no end of good to believe they're still capable of arousing romantic feelings in those other men.

On the other hand, even though it's natural for women to feel this way, they have no right in the world to indulge themselves in such feelings. For if they do so, even though there is no actual infidelity there certainly is what I might call mental infidelity to the husband they claim to love and who loves them.

You've made it quite clear that you're happy in your marriage and in your home, and that you just to go on this way. The only thing for you to do, therefore, is to tell this man to stay away from you completely, neither coming to see you nor phoning you nor writing to you. And don't give him the idea that you're suggesting this because you're afraid, if he continues to keep in touch with you, you may weaken. Be sensible enough to tell him that it's for his own good, and for his own best interests, he is to make other women friends so that eventually he may find someone with whom he feels in love.

You're an extremely fortunate woman to have a happy marriage and a happy home. Why would you want to risk the interests of your family and your own peace of mind by indulging in a mental flirtation with a man who, apparently, is not worth it?

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

QUICK-CHANGE ARTIFICES TURN SQUARE-FACE TYPE INTO OVAL BEAUTY

If face is square, a bang or soft wave placed over the temple lends a flattering oval appearance.

Why be a "square" when a few pencil curls can give your face a madonna-like oval loveliness? How and where to introduce the curves have been the lifelong objective of the nationally-famous Eddie Senz of New York, make up artist and hair design originator for the important beauties of screen, stage, television and society. Some of his devices for literally changing structural types are brief and simple.

Says Mr. Senz, "The angular face needs softening—a disarming, feminine highlighting and frame that will immediately destroy natural squareness and shift it into the more oval type. Begin by arching the brows, curl the lashes up, curve the mouth out. Make it full and wide. Draw your cheek rouge down as far as your jaw, and work it over the outer side of your cheeks. Blend it carefully so the color fades very lightly and delicately as it reaches the outermost areas. Bring it under the chin to soften the bone structure and create the illusion of a more rounded outline.

"Whatever your choice of foundation and powder use both so that the delicate transparency of your skin can be seen. A heavy, opaque finish, especially for the square face, detracts from, instead of adding to, the soft, feminine feeling you aim to achieve.

As he views the square face type, Mr. Senz sees her a lovely near-val structural type with a few new accents on her hairstyle.

"Once more you must avoid and eliminate all angular lines. Thus, for more flattery, choose a design with height to one side of the head instead of a flat top arrangement. Allow a few wisps of hair . . . a bang . . . or the curve of the wave to dip down over the hairline onto the forehead near the temple. Part your hair high at one side and curve it back; never part it in the middle.

"Have the side hair waved up and off the face, but cover part of your ears, and keep the back soft with waves started or swirled instead of horizontal, and ends feathered up close to the nape.

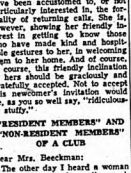
"Have the side hair waved up and off the face, but cover part of your ears, and keep the back soft with waves started or swirled instead of horizontal, and ends feathered up close to the nape."

Local Exhibit Of Paintings Will Be Held

Once again it is time to start preparations for the annual East Central Ontario Amateur Art Exhibit. The travelling art exhibit was the result of a meeting held in Port Hope three years ago by representatives from Belleville, Madoc, Bowmanville, Peterborough, Cobourg, Campbellford, Port Hope, Oshawa Warkworth, Colborne, Trenton, Kingston, Bancroft, Haliburton and Picton, and it was evident from the beginning that the interest in, and enthusiasm for, painting as a recreation and study is widespread and very real.



Painting is as old as civilization itself, and through the ages the history of the world has been depicted on wall and canvas. There seems to be an urge in the human race to express itself in color and design. It is the hope and aim of the originators of the travelling exhibit that the exhibition will help to inspire and encourage the amateur artist, in future years, to can grow in stature and excellence with the hope that it may bring to those who paint the realization of their secret ambitions, and to those who merely enjoy looking at pictures what talent and unexpected talent is in their midst, and what is being accomplished to cultivate it.

To be made this travelling art exhibit, each centre must have its own local exhibit. Belleville's exhibit will be March 22nd in the Arts and Crafts rooms at King Edward School, on North Front Street.

All amateur artists in the Belleville district (those not engaged in full-time painting as their main gainful occupation), are invited to submit any original work in any artistic media, oils, water-colors, pastels, etc., which has been done recently, either to the Recreation office or take them to the arts and crafts room Monday, March 18.

Pictures brought in must be framed, with screw eyes and wire on back, and must be (without frame) minimum 10 x 12, maximum 24 x 30. To insure broad representation we ask that no more than three pictures from the individual artist be accepted for the local art exhibit.

These pictures will be hung in the arts and crafts room prior to the judging and during that time three judges will come in and select five paintings to be entered in the travelling art exhibit. However, these winning pictures will not be announced until our local exhibit, to which everyone is welcome.

Fresh green vegetables and greens won't spoil in the refrigerator compartment if you wrap them in paper towels or put them in paper bowling. If you don't, the towels will absorb moisture which accumulates in the bottom of the container.

RELIGION FIRST, THEN ROCK 'N' ROLL

The Rev. Mr. P. M. Leach of St. Andrew's Church, London, swings an attractive teenager into a rock 'n' roll step during a session in the church hall. The teenagers gather after evensong in the hall and play records on the church gramophone. The teenagers run the dances themselves, but Mr. Leach insists that no one attends unless they have first been at the service. Since the rock 'n' roll sessions started, Mr. Leach says that there has been a marked increase in attendance both at the church and the dance.

Readers' Saturday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

Re your column about freezing meat pies . . . I have been freezing chicken pies . . . made the crust as you told to do . . . lined individual pie dishes with it, put in filling, covered with unbaked pastry with no vents, wrapped and put in freezer . . . when wanted proceeded to 425 deg. cut slits in top of frozen pies and baked 45 minutes . . . pies were 4 inches across by 1 1/4 inches deep. Pies went direct from freezer to oven. We thought they were grand . . . for filling I boiled chicken tender, cooled then removed meat from bones . . . added cooked carrots and peas or whatever I had on hand . . . one tin of butter mushrooms . . . also thickened chicken gravy. Chilled . . . secret of nice bottom crust is to leave filling in refrigerator all night . . . gravy is set and does not soak crust . . . we buy half a pig and a hind quarter of beef . . . is there any way to judge from retail advertised beef prices what we should pay for a beef quarter? A butcher told us once there was no saving . . . I'm sure a lot of your readers would like to know about buying meat for the freezer . . . and if there is any great saving in the price of the meat . . . A Steady Reader.

ANSWER:

Thanks for your method of making chicken pies to freeze. Yes, there is a definite saving in buying a quarter of beef, but it must be good quality and should be hung 3 weeks. Read pages 53 to 57 in Bulletin 504 "Frozen Foods" issued by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Parliament Bldgs. Toronto. Another large buy is this: There is no saving in buying a quarter of beef if your family won't eat pot roast, stewing beef, fat. Remember you will pay same price for fat as you do porterhouse.

QUESTION:

Made your pineapple cheese cuts, but saw no advice to bake here is another type of cheese cake (Courtesy "Homemaker") Two eggs well beaten, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup sieved cottage cheese, 1 1/2 cups crushed pineapple drained, 2 tablespoons flour, teaspoon vanilla, 1/4 teaspoon salt. Mix well with beater, place on base reserving a little for top. Bake 1/2 hour at 325 deg. Bake 8 crushed fine graham crackers.

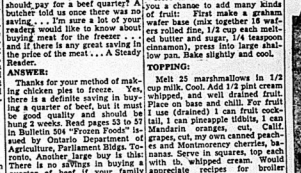
SATURDAY

Creamed Crabmeat in Patties or on Toast OR Scalloped Crabmeat, Fluffy Boiled Rice or Green Rice, Harvard Beets, Carrot and Green Pepper Strips, Cheesecake, Coffee.

Here is a dessert which gives you a chance to add many kinds of fruit: First make a graham wafer base (mix together 16 wafers rolled fine, 1/3 cup each melted butter and sugar, 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon), press into large shallow pan. Bake slightly and cool.



TOPPING:

Melt 25 marshmallows in 1/2 cup milk. Cool. Add 1/2 pint cream whipped, and well drained fruit. Place on base and chill. For fruit I use (drained) 1 can fruit cocktail, 1 can pineapple tidbits, 1 can Mandarin oranges, cut, Calif. grapes, cut, my own canned peaches and Montmorency cherries, bananas. Serve in squares, top each with th. whipped cream. Would appreciate recipes for broiler meals. "Homemaker".

ANSWER:

The pineapple Cheese Cuts are the basket. Thanks for both of these recipes. Watch for broiler

Lilly Dache who does such beautiful and elegant hats is most interested in the girls who she hopes will be wearing her important toppers. To encourage them in the ways of the fluffy she has done a delicate series of Dachettes. Here is one, a "chukker" bonnet shallow enough for a pony-tall hair-do. Stitched petti-purl straw is the material and it ties under the chin with the added interest of a red, red rose. Now what could be sweeter and more youthful!

GOALIES RECORD BY GAMES

Jacques Plante of the Montreal Canadiens hasn't allowed more than five goals to be scored against him in any game this season. In National Hockey League games played up to the morning of February 28, it is interesting to see how many goals a netminder allows during most games.

Plante, for example, had one goal scored on him in 15 contests. Two goals escaped him in 11 tilts. In 10 games he allowed three goals, while four goals were notched against him in five games. Most goals he allowed in any one game was five and this happened twice. Plante also leads in the N.H.L. in shutouts with seven.

Glenn Hall of the league-leading Detroit Red Wings has had one goal scored against him in 19 games. In 14 games he's allowed two goals, and in 10 he's allowed three. Most goals Hall has He was beaten for five goals three times and seven times for four goals. Hall had four shutouts up to February 28.

Rookie Ed Chadwick of the Toronto Maple Leafs has a fine record for a first-year goalkeeper. Seldom has he allowed more than four goals to be scored against him in a game. Six times in 59 games this happened. He had five goals beat him three times and six goals beat him three times. Chadwick allowed one goal in 11 tilts, two goals in 12 games three goals in 14 games and four goals in 12 games. He recorded four shutouts during this time.

Al Rollins, twine-bender of the sixth-place Chicago Black Hawks, has had three goals beat him in most games. Out of 58 goals scored against him in games up to the morning of February 28, three goals were tallied against him in 22 games. In six games one goal escaped him and in 10 he was beaten twice. Four goals were counted against Al in seven contests and five goals beat him in five jousties. He had six goals get past him in five games and in two games he was beaten seven times. Rollins registered two shutouts.

In the 15 games Don Simmons has played with Boston the recorded two shutouts, allowed one goal in a game three times, two goals in a game four times. He has allowed three goals and once four goals and on two different occasions he allowed five and six goals respectively.

Lorne (Gump) Worsley of the New York Rangers has had 186 goals scored against him in 58 games. He had three shutouts during these 58 games, too. Worsley's record reads as follows: 1 goal allowed per game 7 times; 2 goals per game on 15 occasions; 3 goals per game 7 times; 4 goals per game 11 times and five goals a game six times. Lorne has been beaten for six goals on four occasions. He's been beaten for seven twice and for eight once.

LESS PENALTY MINUTES THIS SEASON

Every National Hockey League team with the exception of the Boston Bruins have decreased their time in the penalty box this season. The Bruins increased their time by four minutes.

A year ago on February 28, Chicago had 695 penalty minutes. For approximately the same number of games and on the same date this year the Hawks have 638 minutes. This is a reduction of 57 minutes.

The team showing the biggest decrease in penalties this year is Toronto. Last year the Maple Leafs had 858 minutes in penalties. For approximately the same number of games this year the Leafs have a figure of 695. This is a reduction of 163 minutes. Detroit Red Wings show the second biggest cutback. Last year they had a total of 704 penalty minutes. This year they have 532 minutes. A reduction of 172 minutes.

Canadiens show a decrease of 151 minutes. Last year they had 866 minutes and for approximately the same number of games and on the same date this year they show 715 minutes. New York Rangers are 43 minutes less than for a corresponding period a year ago. Last year the Rangers had 786 minutes while this year they have 742.

The Boston Bruins have been leading the N.H.L. in penalties almost throughout the 1956-57 season. They had 842 minutes on February 28, while on the same date a year ago they had 838 minutes. There is a reduction of 682 minutes for all six clubs this year over last.

West Sweeps Four Top Spots With Favored Sasky Second; Matt Baldwin Hero of Tourney

ALBERTA

Here are the 1957 Canadian Curling Champions, the Alberta foursome of William Price, left, Art Kleinmeyer, Gordon Haynes and Matt Baldwin, skip. Baldwin skipped the Canadian championship in 1954 but he has an entirely different crew this year. Fourty-four curlers from 11 provincial rinks competed in the round-robin championships, which concluded Friday.

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

KINGSTON (CP)—It wasn't a bit surprising to skip Matt Baldwin of Edmonton when his Alberta rink won the Canadian curling championship for the second time in four years. He knew he was up for the big one.

"We were in a horrible rut all year and we knew we just had to get really good," the 30-year-old winner said Friday after giving Alberta its sixth title in the history of the "world series" of curling.

Baldwin, with the title already in hand, polished things off in the afternoon draw with a 12-3 victory over Nova Scotia to go through the bonspiel undefeated.

ONLY TEN

He was the 10th skip in the 28-year history of the event to do so, the most recent being Billy Walsh of Manitoba in 1952 and Don Oyler's Kentville crew from Nova Scotia the year before.

A 7-4 victory over Manitoba in the morning round enabled Baldwin to become the second team from Alberta to win the Macdonald's Brier Tankard twice.

The western provinces grabbed the first four places. Saskatchewan was second with eight wins over the 10 rounds and British Columbia and Manitoba wound up with 7-3 records.

WEST USUALLY WINS

Only five times in the 28 years the event has been played have Eastern rinks come away with the national crown.

Saskatchewan had been close favorites to take it this year but the Campbell brothers from Avonlea, who captured every major event they entered up to now, weakened where they were supposed to be strongest — in the clutch.

Skip Garnet Campbell dropped his first game to Baldwin in the fifth round, an 8-7 game forced into an extra end when Garnet missed a so-so shot with his final rock.

In the eighth draw, with a one-point lead going into the final end, the brothers missed key shots and wound up with a 10-9 loss to Manitoba.

PLAYED IT TIGHT

Manitoba, represented by Howard Wood Jr. and a winning crew, played it tight Friday morning in the payoff game against Edmonton. It was a rock an end for a while as Baldwin led 3-2 after six.

But Baldwin and his mates Bill Price, Art Kleinmeyer and Gordon Haynes, pulled firmly ahead in the seventh when they counted two. Baldwin drew in for shot with four stones sitting in the ring and a measure gave him second shot rock.

With Alberta up 6-4 going into the final end, skip Wood tried a runner with Alberta sitting shot rock and succeeded only in knocking his own out of the house. Alberta counted with Baldwin not having to throw his final rock.

British Columbia, off to a flying start with six wins only to have their championship hopes crushed by three losses Thursday, nailed down a share of third place Friday morning with an 11-7 victory over Northern Ontario.

Curling Champs To Be Honored

EDMONTON (CP)—Mayor William Hawrelak says Matt Baldwin and his Edmonton rink will be honored by the city after the team returns from Kingston where it won the Canadian curling championship. "We've nothing planned definitely yet for Baldwin and his team because this will depend on when they come back," the mayor said Friday night.

Bilts Take First From Irish 6-2; Teeps Nip Flyers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Michael's College Majors may need more than the return of Bobby Boucher to keep up with Guelph Biltmores in the semi-finals of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

The league champion Biltmores won the first game Friday night, a 6-2 verdict at Guelph. Majors were stopped by the determined shutheading of Bruce Gamble.

Whether Boucher, high-scoring former star with Montreal Junior Canadiens, can make enough difference in St. Michael's attack remains to be seen. He was given a rest after losing weight in recent weeks.

The win gave Guelph a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven series. The teams meet Sunday at Toronto in the second game.

TEEPEES TAKE FLYERS

At Barrie St. Catharines Teepees dropped Barrie Flyers 4-2 and took a 2-0 lead in the best-of-five junior-finals. Barrie plays at St. Catharines tonight in what could be the last game of the series.

Tim Hook and Bob McKnight connected for St. Michael's in the first period. Majors drew 12 penalties and outshot the winners 30-20 before 4,200 Guelph fans, a full house.

Dodgers Move To LA in 1958

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"We've got the Dodgers." The Examiner quotes Mayor Morris Poulson as saying when he returned by air Friday from Vero Beach, Fla., where he conferred with Walter O'Malley, head of the Brooklyn Baseball Club.

"We went there with a mission and we accomplished the mission," said Poulson. "It's too late to get the Brooklyn team this year, but we'll have the Dodgers in 1958."

Poulson said that while construction of a 80,000-person stadium was in the picture, he had discussed with O'Malley the feasibility of using Wrigley Field for week-day games and Memorial Coliseum, seating 100,000, for Sundays and holidays until the new stadium is completed.

IBC on Spot

Judge Rules Big Boxing Body Violating Anti-Trust Laws

NEW YORK (AP)—Boxing men the world over wondered today what will happen next in the case of the government versus the International Boxing Club.

Federal Judge Sylvester Ryan touched off the bombshell Friday by ruling the sprawling IBC was a monopoly and conspiracy in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act in the promotion of world championship fights. The ruling was only on title fights and not on the weekly non-title bouts promoted on Wednesday and Friday nights by the IBC in coast to coast radio and television programs.

Just how this alleged monopoly will be broken up by court order remains to be seen. Judge Ryan directed both the government and the IBC to submit proposed decrees within 30 days. Hearings then will be held before a final court order is handed down.

COULD APPEAL

That wouldn't necessarily end the legal action. There were indications that if James D. Norris, president of the IBC, and his associates named in the civil suit, thought a final ruling by Judge Ryan was severe they would appeal to the Court of Appeals and, if necessary, to the Supreme Court. This takes plenty of time.

In the "what happens next" guessing game, observers also felt the government might try to clip the IBC's empire this way: Force the IBC to relinquish some of the big arenas it controls (Madison Square Garden in New York, Chicago Stadium, Detroit Olympia, etc.), nullify the club's exclusive contracts with champion fighters and make it give up either the Saturday or Friday night network show.

Judge Ryan, in his 59-page opinion of the civil suit, tried last April, decided that the IBC of New York, the IBC of Illinois, Madison Square Garden Corporation, Norris, who is president of all three and Arthur M. Wirtz of Chicago, Norris' principal associate, were "a combination and conspiracy in unreasonable restraint of trade and commerce in the promotion and promotion of professional world championship boxing contests."

CHAMPIONS TIED UP

The court ruled that Norris and fellow defendants held a monopoly in the promotion of world championship fights in certain divisions, and in broadcasting, telecasting and motion picture production and distribution of these fights, and further violated the anti-trust law with the exclusive service contracts with champions in certain divisions.

As a result of their activities between 1949 and 1953, Judge Ryan said the defendants acquired sufficient power to exclude competitors in promotion of championship fights.

The IBC, on advice of counsel, confined its comment to one statement by Norris:

"The court's decision was, of course, a disappointment to me," he said in the statement. "All I can say at the time is I hope the wars will not be prevented from continuing to present Wednesday and Friday night fights which have proved such popular television and radio attractions.

"We already have contracted for the Gene Fullmer-Ray Robinson fight to be held in Chicago on May 1. After that we hope to continue with our summer plans. This will depend, however, on the terms of the decree which will be entered to carry out the court's decision.

The court has directed both the government and us to submit proposed decrees within the next 30 days and there will be a hearing on these at a later date."

FIVE FIGHT FOR NORRIS

The IBC declined to disclose which champions it had under the "exclusives," but it was learned it had three tied up—lightweight Joey Bowen, welterweight Carmen Basilio and middleweight Gene Fullmer.

Charlie Johnston, manager of light heavyweight champion Archie Moore said, "I don't know whether our contract with the IBC has run out or not but it makes no difference. Norris always offered us the most money, anyway."

Through the years, the promoter who has the heavyweight king on his side, has wielded the big stick in the sport.

McFarlands Square Series With Decisive 6-0 Victory Over Cornwall

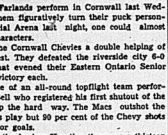
Unleash Brilliant Effort As Gordie Bell Blanks Chevies With 1st Shutout of Season

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

After watching the McFarlands perform in Cornwall last Wednesday night then seeing them figuratively turn their puck personalities inside out in Memorial Arena last night, one could almost swear they had dual ice characters.

Last night they gave the Cornwall Chevies a double helping of their hockey fare at its best. They defeated the riverside city 6-0 in a brilliant exhibition that evened their Eastern Ontario Senior "A" semi-final series at a victory each.

And riding the pinnacle of an all-round topflight team performance was Goalie Gordie Bell who registered his first shutout of the season — and chalked it up the hard way. The Macs outshot the Chevies 29-20 on the night's play but 90 per cent of the Chevy shots were deadly and labelled for goals.

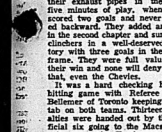


Wind whistle Coach Jockey Horsfius there were thirteen guys in front of him who teamed in a collective effort that had the reported 2350 fans ina cheering frenzy practically the whole 60 minutes of play. Every man on the club came up with a sterling performance, the fact that the six goals were evenly distributed was evidence of that.

If there was one player who deserved special mention it was Jockey St. Hilaire. The little guy played a terrific game going and coming and a goal over the eye did not slow down his efforts. He came up with a hefty goal and an assist and otherwise was a fierce checking wolf-skilled Chevy forwards saw them in the Chevies side all night.

It was senior "A" playoff hockey at is best with the McFarlands and Hec Farlands starting off a terrific pace that was never let up during the entire game. They were travelling with all stops out at the final whistle as they were at the start of hostilities.

They and the Chevies back on their exhaust pipes in the first five minutes of play, when they traded two goals apiece, then settled backward. They added another in the second chapter and made the clinchers in a well-deserved victory with three goals in the final frame. They were full value for their win and none will deny them that, even the Chevies.



It was a hard checking heavy-hitting game with Referee Andy Bellemer of Toronto keeping the tab on both teams. Thirteen penalties were handed out by the official six going to the Macs with only one of the Chevies sentences proving costly, the penalty killing efforts of both teams being that close and effective.

RENE ST. HILAIRE
. . . Bumblebee on Skates

when six penalties denoted the hardest checking. Bell was terrific as the desparate Chevies drove hard to break the egg, but the McFarland checking, especially that of the St. Hilaire, MacDonald, Willie Menard line was very effective.

MacDonald and Jeanette drew joint penalties and Crawford followed a few seconds later. Two men short, the Macs defense put brilliant and Payette almost scored with Benoit tripped.

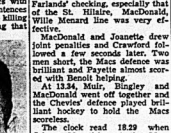
At 13.34, Muir, Bingley and MacDonald went off together and the Chevies could not play advantage. The clock read 18.29 when Johnny Muretich put the Macs three goals in front on a beautiful solo effort. He picked up the puck at the blueline, raced in weaving through the Cornwall defence, flashed across the goal mouth and backhanded a beauty past Devaney. Cornwall outshot the Macs 8-7 in this period.

GORDIE BELL
. . . Laid Chevies Egg

The game resumed its terrific pace in the third period and Bobo Bobenic put the Macs four goals up after two minutes when he drove Johnny Muretich's pass behind Devaney. Johnny carried the puck in, but Bell felt he lobbed the rubber to Bobo who made no mistake.

Pete Payette and Neil Burke hauled down penalties within three minutes of each other and it was while the latter was off that the Macs fired their fifth goal of the game, Bep Guidolin's high angular blast finding a top corner. Minnie Menard and Paul Payette were in on the skipper's goalgetting foray.

The Chevies were dangerous at times and on not a few occasions were robbed by Gordie Bell's save the Bell brilliance, and the stubborn effective checking of the Mac defence. They failed to hard in the third period in an effort to "break the egg" but the Macs had taken large gulps of victory and were not to be denied.



There wasn't any doubt the Macs were out for victory in the opening period. They played a dashing hard-driving game going both ways and easily had the margin of play outshooting the Chevies 13-5.

They grabbed a early two-goal lead and Devaney's brilliant net work kept the score to that point was. Crawford drew the first blood of the game on a ganging attack tieing home Gordie Bell's rebound with Paul Payette in on the play.

Bobenic drew the first penalty of, the game and Ike Hildebrand drew the second but there was a brilliant job of penalty killing.

With a second of Bobenic's penalty to go, St. Hilaire and W. Menard broke away. St. Hilaire weaved cleverly through the Chevies defence and partly offstride backhanded a hard corner shot to put the Macs two up. Bolley and Muir drew penalties later in the period but both defences held and no scoring damage was done. Bobenic went off again as the clock read 16.41.

leading Toronto by seven points. All three teams meet here three before the schedule ends. That leaves Toronto in a vague position. With enough determination, and a windfall of luck, they just might make it.

A loss to Rangers tonight, however, and it looks like curtains for Toronto's young, inexperienced crew.

Leafs have eight remaining games, Rangers seven.

Elsewhere, Canadiens play the last-place but currently rampaging Chicago Black Hawks twice, Montreal tonight and in the windy city Sunday.

Boston tangles with Detroit by five points, and Red Wings have a game in hand.

Bruins are on the road for both weekend games, at Boston this time, then they're received successor and at New York Sunday.

The other game has Toronto at Boston Sunday.

Carp Becoming Serious Problem To Game Fishing

WINNIPEG (CP)—Carp is becoming a serious problem to game and commercial fish in Manitoba, says S. Sigurdson, fisheries director.

Carp not only eat the eggs and young of other fish but are also bottom - feeders, and uproot the vegetation used as food by other species.

They first appeared in Manitoba about 1923, when a few were discovered in the Red River. Since then they have spread to most Manitoba lakes and rivers. There is only a limited market for carp itself. One commercial fisherman at Selkirk, Man., ships 20,000 pounds a year to the United States.

The provincial government now has undertaken a spring removal program to rid the province of the predator. Spring is chosen because at that time of year the carp from large schools and are easily netted.

The program received an unexpected boost early in February when thousands of carp were stalled by a dam near Westbourne, Man. The fisheries department was able to net 200,000 before they moved back upstream to Lake Manitoba.

Westbourne, where the carp population suffered the sudden setback, is 30 miles northwest of Winnipeg.

Want Playoff Gravy

Roasted Leafs Prove Tonight If Habs Win Flash in Pan

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto hockey fans may find out tonight whether their Maple Leafs are still burned up about the roasting they've been getting in the papers lately.

Roundly flogged by sportswriters for their alleged inability to skate with the rest of the National Hockey League, Leafs responded violently Wednesday night.

They outskated, outshot, outbumped and outscored the mighty Montreal Canadiens, winning 3-1. And the Habs, only three points out of first place at the time, certainly didn't roll over and play dead.

As one writer put it, Canadiens could smell that first place money.

Leafs, on the ot er hand, have less lofty aspirations. All they want is to get into the first four, the last playoff spot.

Whitby Wallops Kingston 6-0, Windsor Eliminates Chatham

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

This was definitely not a Cinderella year for Chatham Maroons of the Ontario Hockey Association senior O series playoffs.

Maroons, who last year surged from season-long mediocrity and went all the way to the Allan Cup finals, were booted out of the semi-finals by Windsor Bulldogs, losing the game 6-5 and the series 6-2 to Windsor Bulldogs.

The win shot Windsor into the best-of-seven semi-final series with Dutchmen, with the best-of-seven Dutch playoffs starting Sunday at Windsor. Bulldogs were regular-schedule champions of the league.

At Chatham, a crowd of 3,300 saw Maroons twice give up the lead before bowing to Bulldogs.

Walter Pawlyshyn scored the winner for Windsor in the third period, breaking a 2-2 tie. It was Pawlyshyn' second goal of the night. He also assisted on Windsor's second tally, by Frank Battaglia.

At Whitby, George Samolenko, Gordie Myles, Fred Etcher, Ted Ivan, Gordie Bodine in the game Sinden scored for the winner. Bobby Attersley had two assists. Six players saw action in the game.

Playing at Belleville, Floyd Crawford, Bep Guidolin, Keith MacDonald, Johnny Muretich, Bobo Bobenic and Pete Payette found the mark.

Thomson, Wall Lead Pensacola

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Peter Thomson of Australia and Art Wall Jr., of Honesdale, Penn., University basketball and golf star, held a two-stroke edge in the golf field today into the third round of the $15,000 Pensacola open golf tournament.

Thomson, winner of the British Open the last two years, played a steady game and came up with his second straight 69 Friday for a six-stroke total of 138 at the end of 36 holes.

The 25-year-old Wall, from Pocono Manor, Pa., unleashed a hot putter for a four-under-par 66 to go with his opening 70. He sank a 25-footer on the 17th hole after earlier canning 20-and 14-foot putts.

Among golfers in six strokes off the pace are two more three Canadians: Al Balding of Toronto, 71-73; Murray Wall of Toronto and Bob Wylie of Calgary, each with 72-72.

John Henrich of Ottawa, 72-77—149, and Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener, Ont., 75-74—149 were eliminated.

STAR DEAD

DURBAN, South Africa (AP)—Nigel Cockburn, 4, former South African Davis Cup tennis player, died Friday after a lengthy illness. He played on South African teams from 1949 through 1952.

Training Camp Notes

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—Bob Scheffing, making his debut as manager of the Chicago Cubs, will be experimenting all over the map in the Cubs' exhibition opener against Baltimore.

Only regular at second base and Walt Moryn in right field resemble any part of last year's lineup. Bob Rush will be the starting pitcher but he'll be relieved early by newcomer Elmer Singleton and Gene Fodge.

Landis, up from Memphis, has been a standout in intersquad games that manager Al Lopez feels the right handed slugger deserves a shot.

Opening on the mound for Chicago will be Billy Pierce, 1956 top-yield bonus player. Derrington, a left handed rookie, will help the club this year and not be carried as "dead weight."

"I'm sure Billy Pierce will be some immediate help for us," said pilot Lopez. Chuck Comiskey, "After all, Bob Feller won in the majors when he was only 17."

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves opening day infield season tonight against the defending champion Brooklyn Dodgers will include the services of Joe Adcock, long a thorn in the Dodger side.

The big Milwaukee first baseman injured back and shoulder muscles in batting practice Thursday and was left behind at the Braves training camp at Bradenton for further treatment. Adcock will also miss Saturday's game with the Dodgers, but hopes to be ready for the St. Louis Cardinals on Monday. He'll be replaced by Frank Torre.

Switch Game For Better Crowd

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) —A game between Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds and Sudbury Wolves, scheduled for Friday night, will be played here tonight instead.

Officials of the Northern Ontario Senior Hockey Association said the game was postponed in the hopes of drawing a bigger crowd for the game.

APPROVE TITLE FIGHT

PARIS (AP)—The world boxing commission has officially approved the April 1 bout in Paris between Mario D'Agata of Italy and Alphonse Halimi of France for the bantamweight title fight. Both fighters agreed that the winner would meet Raul Macias of Mexico, within three months.

Mantle's Knees Bother Yankees Also Mantle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The 16 major league clubs got down to serious business today when the all-star tilt took the field for the opening of the exhibition season to some players — rookies and old timers alike — it was a mighty important day.

There is the case of Mickey Mantle, the triple crown winner of the New York Yankees last season. His ailing knees have been bothering him again and the club is openly worried about the condition. So, for that matter, is Mantle.

He was scheduled to try it out for at least a few innings against the St. Louis Cardinals at the Petersburg, Fla. No matter how it feels afterward, Mantle still plays or does not see action during the spring, so fearful are the Yanks that he will aggravate the injury.

TEST ROOKIE

Against the Yanks, Card manager Fred Hutchinson will test bonus baby Lindy McDaniel, probably for the middle three innings. This presents a fine opportunity for the youngster to make an impression.

However, McDaniel wasn't the only rookie who was scheduled to see action. Others, his mates hoped, were on hand. Some 30 Redlings were down for three-inning stints. Some of the rookies were to start with their best from the start while others plan to have the regulars under wraps for at least a few more days.

Rookie manager Jack Tighe of the Detroit Tigers, for example, was to send the same starting lineup against the Boston Red Sox at Sarasota as he expects to use opening day. Jim Piggin, retained from Kansas City during the winter, is the only newcomer. He will play third base and Ray Boone will switch to first.

Tigers will be the only regular in the Red Sox lineup was Jim Piersall in centre field. Billy Consolo, the high priced bonus player, will get a thorough look-see by manager Mike Higgins.

Byars Genes 'Sugar' His Lumps

NEW YORK (AP)—From comparative unknown to clamorer for a title shot in one brief night—that's the story of Billy Byars.

Shifty, cunning, and sometimes daring, Byars, a 5-1 underdog, piled up enough points to win, 5-1-1, 21-year-old Hart to win the decision and the plaudits of the small crowd of around 2,500 in Madison Square Garden.

The win stretched Byars' unbeaten streak to 14 and gave him a 17-2-1 record for his 2½ years of pro boxing, a record he learned in the marines. The loss snapped Hart's winning string at 12 and gave him a 26-4-1 record. His record is 20-2, including 18 knockouts. Byars weighed 144¾, Hart 145¾.

Vandalism Foolish, Costly Habit

Fortunately for those who go afield each year, fishing rod or shotgun in hand, farmers are patient, long-suffering folks who put up with far more indignities than would the average city-dweller under like circumstances. How they stand the needless abuses of their tacit hospitality remains a mystery.

So many people are inclined to take the outdoors pretty much for granted. They climb into their cars, drive out into the country, and, once there, do just about as they please, regardless of consequences. Unfortunately, the results of their misdeeds are not direct to them but at those who, unwittingly, follow in their footsteps. Let's take a look at some of the outstanding performers.

Consider, for example, the mutilators of highway signs. Sometime when you think of it, stop and take a close look at a highway marker. They are well-made affairs, stamped from sheet steel and enameled — not painted to make them weather-proof. They are not cheap, and you and I, the motorists, pay for them.

SIGN-BUSTERS

Yet Mister Sign-buster will come along with a shotgun or rifle and use one of these as a target. Then that battered sign will be replaced. And what has this vandal accomplished? Nothing save waste a shell and wilfully destroy a piece of public property.

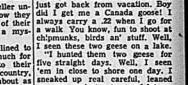
Not only that, but there is always the risk that the marksman may miss the sign. The gun has been aimed on a line where it could do damage to humans or automobiles. Even when that slug goes, what it may hit after it passes the sign, obviously is a matter of pure conjecture. Too bad more of these fellows can't be apprehended.

Then there is the chronic fence-buster. There, without doubt, is one of the lowest forms of animal life. Some of them, mind you, actually carry wire-cutters in their pockets so that they need not take the trouble to climb over barbed wire fences. The fact that livestock is thus set free—stock which must be found and herded home by the farmer—is not important.

Always we have with us the tree-destroyers. There isn't one of them who can distinguish an oak from a hickory-bush. Young trees are to them simply "bushes," for they think nothing of hacking one of these to pieces simply because the leaves or the blossoms please the eye. Of course, we have laws but the wardens can't be everywhere at once.

Perhaps the worst of the whole sorry crew are the litter-bugs, those unspeakable animals who carry with them .22 rifles with which they delight to shoot at birds that are protected by law.

Yes, I'm getting mad about this deplorable situation. I've had enough of it. I'm going to do something about it. Maybe I can't do much, but there is always the chance that I can do something.



I was riding home from work one day in a New Haven train out of New York when our group was joined by a man who had just been made a deputy sheriff of Westchester County. He showed us his new, shiny badge. The fellow was a stranger and it is sincerely hoped that he remain in that category.

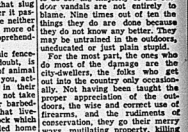
PROUD "HUNTER"

"Hey!" he announced to all, "I just got back from vacation. Boy did I get me a Canada goose! I always carry a .22 when I go for a walk. You know, fun to shoot at chipmunks, birds an' stuff. Well, I seen these two geese on a lake.

"I hunted them two geese for five straight days. Well, I seen 'em in close to shore one day. I sneaked up real careful, leaned my rifle against a tree and let go. Got the (deleted) right through the neck, slick as a whistle."

"What did you do with it?" I inquired.

"Do with it? What could I do? The law ain't in in July. I left it lay there on the ground."



"Don't you know," I told him, "that's cruelty to animals and only once. Evidently that pair of geese had chosen that lake as their nesting ground. You kill one of them. Not only will the other one not mate again, but he will be left deserted and the eggs or goslings left to die. No doubt about it, you have broken up a home and a family of." I left the group and walked to the Caboose to await arrival at my station.

Viewing the matter objectively (that is, trying to convince myself to do so) the majority of the outdoor vandals are not entirely to blame. Nine times out of ten the things they do are done because they have not been taught better.

Many of the damages are done by children, the kids who get out into the country only occasionally. Not one of them has taught the proper appreciation of the outdoors, the wise and humane use of resources, and the rudiments of conservation, they go their merry and thoughtless way, killing trees, killing or wounding wildlife, while many, filling on their elders in anig these same lines, Gradually things are bound to be better as matters have stood in the past they surely couldn't have been much worse.

42nd Street, Filmed 25 Years Ago, Again Shown on TV

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This week it was 42nd Street revisited—25 years later.

Ordinarily I shun the old movies on TV. Most of them are like long-ago sweethearts who didn't age well. You shudder when you view them and wonder how you ever could have been enamored in the first place.

But 42nd Street was irresistible; I had to see it again. I had seen it three times as a lad and thought it the greatest ever. How would it stand up?

I was prepared for the worst. Vintage musicals generally hold up rather poorly. And 42nd Street was the start of the modern tune-do films. Broadway Melody preceded it by three years, but it owed its allegiance to the stage.

Today's viewer would find 42nd Street ridden with cliches. There are the explosive producer (Warner Baxter), the temperamental star (Bebe Daniels), the show's pompous angel (Guy Kibbee), the wise-cracking chorus girls (Ginger Rogers, Una Merkel in bit parts), the jaunty juvenile (Dick Powell) and the wide-eyed girl who takes over when the star breaks a leg (Ruby Keeler).

The stage numbers might draw snickers from the younger crowd, too. The show opens with long lines of girls kicking their long legs at the sky. And you see the Busby Berkeley trade mark—the circled chorus moving arms, legs and satin ribbons to form roseate patterns as seen from above.

But, by George, the picture wasn't bad. Sure, it was trite. But you must remember that 42nd Street was the pioneer. The movies that followed reworked its plot and techniques, in much the same way, Oklahoma! seems cliche-ridden today because it was the forerunner of the modern play with music.

Most of all, the picture had pace. It moved along breezily so you didn't have a chance to get bored. Makers of the current crop of over-long epics could take a lesson.

Speaking of wasted talents—there was Ginger Rogers, who made one fleeting appearance in 42nd Street. This was H. B. Warner, the man who had starred in Birth of a Nation.

HUNTERS TOP SPENDERS

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California deer hunters and anglers spend four times as much money a year as is spent for admission to all sporting and theatrical events in the state, the fish and game department reported Friday. The department said a survey of 6,000 California outdoorsmen showed sportsmen spent $487,000,000 shooting and hunting in the state that year.

There are days when even the best bridge players are unable to lay up a cent. Even when they do right, if not hampered by the rocks of distribution, duplication values may get them.

Here is world championship deal number 56:

In room one the bidding by the American team went like this:

North	South
1 ♥	3 ♠
3 ♦	3 ♥
3 ♠	6 ♥

In room two the European team bidding was like this:

North	South
1 ♥	3 ♥
4 ♠	4 ♣
4 ♦	4 ♠
4 ♥	Pass

In room two the bidding was more intriguing but not as good as in room one. The jump takeout to clubs is more revealing than the jump assist in hearts on the first round.

However, each room got to six hearts which should be reached even if the contract was defeated in each case. Let south trade a small diamond for a small spade and an endplay will make it.

Room one went down only with a seven undoing. He took both top trumps and stripped both black suits. Then he threw east in with a third trump and the return saved declarer one diamond loser.

Room two overlooked this opportunity to save a trick. Like a pinochle player might, he took the diamond finesse. This lost him both diamond tricks besides a trump.

To rate as master, man, at least do the best you can.

Aussies Uncover New Mile Star

MELBOURNE (AP) — Herbert Elliott, 19, from Western Australia took over John Landy's mantle as Australia's top miler when he beat Olympian Merv Lincoln to win the Australian mile championship in 4:06.4 at Olympic Park today.

First to congratulate the new champion was Landy who declared "Here is the greatest natural runner I have ever seen."

Quebec Hockey

OTTAWA (CP) — Ron Atwell's overtime goal gave Trois-Rivieres Lions a 2-1 Quebec Hockey League victory over Ottawa Junior Canadiens before about 2,000 fans Friday night.

Atwell took a pass from Bob Kabel to score the deciding goal at 2:07 of the sudden-death overtime period. It was Ottawa's seventh loss against five wins and a tie in their abbreviated QHL schedule.

Signed by the Brooklyn Dodgers to "pinch hit" for laughs at forthcoming games, circus clown Emmett Kelly is seen rehearsing his routine at Vero Beach, Fla., on Shigeru Fujita, a visiting player from Japan. Other visitors to the National League champions' spring training camp included Mayor Norris Poulson of Los Angeles, who is hoping to lure the Dodgers—who will have to vacate Ebbets Field by the end of the '59 season because the property has been sold — to his fair city.

Minor Hockey

The peewee semi-final got under way with a pair of close games at Memorial Arena this morning, one ending in a tie and the other decided by a single goal.

The Maple Leafs pulled out a 1-0 victory over the Red Wings while the Canadiens and Rangers fought to a 3-3 deadlock. Both games were the first in two-game, goals-to-count series with the second finishing slated for next Wednesday night.

Maris, Fred Spafford and Brian Skinner each tallied once for the Canadiens with Spafford and Skinner also dragging assists. Jimmie Woodcock had a goal and an assist for the Rangers with Mott and Jimmie Ross also scoring. Carrigan and Brian McBride each assisted on one goal.

Rosewall Wins

CHICAGO (AP) — Australian Davis Cup star Ken Rosewall scored in one of his few professional victories against Pancho Gonzales Friday night when he turned in a 2-6, 6-3, 10-8 triumph.

It was Rosewall's only triumph over the Californian in 26 games of the current pro tour.

Pancho Segura defeated Australian Dinny Pails, 8-6, in a one-set preliminary match. Rosewall and Pails then combined to defeat Segura and Gonzales, 8-5, in a one-set doubles contest.

CBC To Telecast Stanley Cup Series

TORONTO (CP)—The CBC will broadcast and televise the best-of-seven National Hockey League series for the Stanley Cup, it was announced Friday.

TV coverage will be limited to an area extending from Quebec City to Winnipeg. Radio coverage will be coast-to-coast.

Cupid Asks, Gets Extension for Czech Romance

PRAGUE (Reuters) — Czechoslovakia has bowed to the demands of romance and extended for 48 hours the visa of Harold Connolly, Olympic hammer throwing champion from Boston, Mass.

His visa expired Thursday midnight as he attempted to gain Czech permission to wed 23-year-old Olga Fikotova, Czechoslovakia's only gold medal-winner at the last Olympic Games.

The two athletes met and fell in love in Australia.

The Czech government extended his visa 48 hours Friday to enable him to leave today for Vienna where he plans to apply for another Czech visa.

The second visa would enable him to marry and bring his fiancee until the government decides whether to allow the girl to marry him and settle, in the United States.

Miss Fikotova, a medical student, says she and Connolly are hopeful approval for the wedding might come in "two or three weeks time."

The two athletes, trying to hurdle political barriers, took their plea to Czechoslovakia's president Antonin Zapotocky. They said he held out "good hope" for chances of getting government permission to wed.

Three Favorites In Net Playoffs

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Three favorites, Moylan and Eddie Moylan of Trenton, N.J. wound up in today's semifinals of the Southern tennis tournament.

Moylan ugfet fourth - seeded Giuseppe Merlo, Italian Davis Cup player, 6-2, 6-1 Friday.

Mervyn Rose of Australia, who arrived late, moved into the semi-finals with two victories—6-1, 6-2 over Don Platt of Toronto and 6-4, 6-4 over Armando Vieira of Brazil.

In doubles semi - finals, Rose-Candy opposed Gardnar Mulloy of Dewey and Moylan and Seixas-Flam oppose Llamas and Francisco Contreras of Mexico.

At Santa Anita

ARCADIA, Calif. (CP) — Willie Shoemaker rode Scotsman's Bond to victory in the $10,000 Noor Allowances feature at Santa Anita Park Friday.

His time over the 1¼-mile grass course was 2:00 4-5. Prince of Grefine was second and Dark Armor third.

It was a big day for veteran jockeys, with Shoemaker having two other winners, Johnny Longden three and Eddie Arcaro two.

Shoemaker also scored with Ole Vic in the second race, and Blue Vic in the sixth. Longden's winners were Revada in the first, Marked Action in the second, and Firmament in the fourth. Arcaro had Classy in the fifth - and Tavana in the eighth.

At New Orleans' Fair Grounds, Ramrod, a four-year-old gelding owned by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fain of New York, equalled a 14-year-old track record in winning the $10,000 Consolation handicap.

Jockey Robert Lee scored the big horse to the front in the first few yards of the 1 1/16-mile event and was never headed. The time of 1:43 4-5 matched the record set by Vulcan Gorman in 1943 and tied by Marriage the same year.

The race was for horses finishing worse than second in last week's $50,000 New Orleans handicap. Jim's Whim was second and Perfecter Third.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Monday, March 11, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A auspicious period for starting new and worthwhile projects and maintaining present level of production. Don't overtax yourself, however. Let your sense of humor smooth over rough spots.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Be your own booster without really bragging. Others are willing to help you, so accept the aid of proven friends. Keep busy time-wise with enthusiasm and, when finished, enjoy a hobby.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Note advice to Taurus. Appropriate the marketable ideas prevalent now and expand to your advantage. Day favors business interests, family affairs, civic matters.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Grand aspects to encourage you. Associate with those who can offer intelligent, broadening outlook. Keep abreast of the time, news, saleable methods for bettering your position.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Like Cancer, your influences are among the best. Make full use of good opportunities. Establish a program progressive enough to lead you to new gains. Be jovial, confident.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Proceed with your usual affable, result-getting methods. In using your immense store of energy, don't overdo. Aid others to adapt themselves to current problems, and help them solve them.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Your keen foresight will be a big asset today. Some can know. Inventions, creative cloudy periods should not deter you. Never be called upon to arbitrate the difference of friends. Use your natural talent for mediation.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Animating, refreshing aspects! A great day to start a new week — either with new projects, ideas, and methods, or just to press on with matters already started. Make it your day!

November 23 to December 21 — (Sagittarius) — Your Jupiter is one of the many well-aspected planets now. You can have an invigorating, interesting and productive day if you do your share to make it so.

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn) — Reap all the good you can from this encouraging day. New ventures equally sound with familiar matters; professions, industry, inventions, aeronautics favored.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — The aspect of Uranus suggests that you avoid extremes, but do go ahead briskly to make the progress possible in new fields of endeavor, in improving and increasing value of present assets. A day for brain work.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — "Where there's a will, there's a way" is a pertinent slogan for today. Some can know.

DYNAMITE

Constable Trepanier backed off and the youth drove away. The constables lost the stolen taxi in traffic but soon an alarm call turned in from the Toronto-Dominion Bank on St. Lawrence Blvd., in the north end of the city.

THOUGHT IT JOKE

Clerks at the bank first thought it a joke when the youth entered in his strange disguise. But the bandit started waving a gun and began to take dynamite sticks out of the duffle bag and place them on the counter. He also displayed those in his coat and warned:

"If there's going to be any trouble, a thousand persons will die."

The youth fired two shots, one through the counter and another through the clock.

Police, who surrounded the building when clerk Louis Beaupre tripped the alarm, backed away when the gunman started fingering the switch connected to the dynamite. Terrorified customers and bank employees stood helpless as the youth ordered manager John McFarlane to bring him a chair and two more "the two chief officers."

KICKED WINDOW IN

"I figured it was the only possible way out," he said later. "So I took careful aim, said a silent prayer and let go. Thank God I hit him with the first shot."

Sgt. Ploufle, the police ballistics expert, said the bomb found in Central Station was "live and dangerous" despite the fact that it did not go off as scheduled. The contraption was found in a leather briefcase by two investigating detectives.

RIPPED OFF WIRE

Sgt. Ploufle, called to the scene, first asked for a bucket of oil to soak it in. Then, apparently fearful it would go off at any moment, he decided against pulling and ripped the wires from the dynamite.

Pale and panting after the tickle-ish job, he returned to other detectives 100 yards away and said: "It's ok now."

"I'm not ashamed to admit it," he said later. "I got scared and I prayed hard while I was taking it apart. If anything had gone wrong, I wouldn't be here and neither would lots of other people."

Sgt. Ploufle said "it could have killed 1,000 people and rocked the whole building" if it had gone off at the five o'clock rush hour when commuters jam the station.

PACKED CAREFULLY

He said the dynamite, detonator and clock had been packed carefully with hooks and cotton wool to deaden the sound of the ticking. He also found a second alarm clock, not wired, a new tooth-brush, an unopened bottle of hair lotion and a booklet on stamp collecting in the briefcase.

Mrs. Claire Gorup, a customer in the bank when the bandit entered, said she could think about was her 13-month-old baby.

"It's funny, but I just kept thinking of him," she said.

There were a lot of people inside the bank when he came in. He just kept saying 'I'm not kidding. I'm not kidding.'

"He put a duffle bag on the floor, opened it and took out the dynamite sticks. He put some on the counter and behind the gun around his finger. I could see my self six feet underground. He would finger the little switch connected to the sticks and say 'a thousand people can die.'"

LOCKED IN ROOM

Three other women customers — Lise Carrigan, 18, Clodette St. Onge, 17, and Mrs. Helen Bourget, 22, slipped into the ladies' room and locked themselves in.

Manager McFarlane said the bandit appeared calm, calling for chairs to be set out and sending a messenger to the vault.

McFarlane was in his office with a customer when he heard a shot. He came out to face the bandit who told him, in French, to lock the door. McFarlane said he did not understand French and the man repeated the order in English.

Customer Louis Rose gave this version:

"I was in the bank making a deposit when in walked this man. He was carrying a bag like a brief case under one arm. He pulled out sticks of dynamite.

GAVE WARNING

"He then warned us not to try anything funny. He fired a shot at the clock to show us the gun was loaded.

"I intend to get out of here by tying dynamite onto two of your backs," he said. 'And if anybody tries, to shoot me I'll blow up with you.'"

Then the manager asked him what he wanted to do and he said: 'I want all the money in the bank.'"

GET NEW BOATS

MOSCOW (AP) — Volga boatmen are getting two new kinds of boats. One is a 65-passenger diesel craft with a top speed of 44 miles an hour. The other is a vessel that can be broken in sections that may be moved about for maintenance loading or unloading. They are described in the trade union paper Trud.

9 Africans Die In Street Fights Between Tribes

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — Police armed with machine-guns stood guard today in the African township of Daveytown near here to prevent a renewal of rioting in which nine Africans have been killed.

Another 16 persons were in hospital with severe injuries after street fighting between Swazi and Zhosa Africans. Police said the trouble resulted from the slaying of a Zhosa African.

Police in Johannesburg itself also are on guard against a threat of rioting over the African boycott of city-township bus services after a fare increase.

Friday night about 200 Africans were involved in another riot in Johannesburg at a beer hall where they were told they could get no matured beer—only fresh beer.

Police arrested hundreds of non-Europeans on minor charges after Africans flung beer mugs and other missiles at the beer hall and passing cars.

The Week's News

Canadian Press Staff Writer

A nation of Negroes hauled down the Union Jack and hoisted a red, green and gold emblem to proclaim new independence within its the Commonwealth.

The beat of tribal drums provided rhythm for thanksgiving rites as Ghana—named after an ancient African kingdom—was born in a blaze of excitement and celebration, the first Negro-governed country in free, Queen Elizabeth ruled by the Duchess of Kent.

Nkrumah said he cherishes "the warmest feelings of friendship" for Britain and other countries, and Ghana would never be neutral in world affairs.

HELP TODDLER

Britain suggested that Canada assist Ghana, and the British West Indies Federation which she is being formed.

The Canadian government began studying assistance to the federation, which may become an independent dominion next year.

No specific terms were mentioned but officials said the aid directed with any financial aid from Canada would be comparatively modest, possibly in the neighborhood of $5,000,000 to $10,000,000.

DEV IS BACK

Ireland brought back her beloved old Eamon de Valera to prime minister in an election that was generally quiet despite some action by the Irish Republican Army.

De Valera—affectionately known as "Dev"—returned to power by defeating Prime Minister John A. Costello's coalition government.

Now 74 and almost blind, the onetime fighting crusader for Irish home rule and his Fianna Fail (men of destiny) party have a steep road to climb. Ireland is plagued with unemployment. And the IRA has been acting up, staging raids into Northern Ireland while ballots were being counted in the north.

GAZA REVISITED

The blue and white flag of the United Nations was raised over the Gaza Strip, ending 125 days of Israel occupation of Egyptian soil.

UN expeditionary force troops—including Canadian elements—took up positions as the Israelis moved from Gaza and the Gulf of Aqaba areas. The Israeli departure from the field of victory in the October-November invasion went off quickly and quietly after Premier Ben-Gurion won a stormy vote of confidence in the Israeli parliament.

Canada's Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, UNEF Commander entrusted with maintaining order in the explosive disputed areas, ordered the Arab residents to behave.

SUEZ BLOCKADE

State Secretary Dulles of the U.S. asked Egypt to stop dragging her feet in reopening the Suez Canal. Prime Minister St. Laurent spoke more strongly in the House of Commons, saying he hopes it will not become necessary to use force to overcome resistance to United Nations majority decisions on Suez clearance.

St. Laurent said:

"It is quite true that unless there is acquiescence—and there should be acquiescence—in the attitudes adopted by the majority of members of the UN the only alternative would be the use of force to overcome resistance, and I hope that that will not become necessary."

NEHRU APOLOGY

Prime Minister Nehru sent a shocked apology to Queen Elizabeth for a "wholly intemperate" article in the magazine Economic Review, published by the All-India Congress, which supports him.

The magazine had made acid comment on a speech which it attributed to the Queen during her recent visit to Pakistan. She spoken by President Iskander Mirza, spoke of the "civilizing" work of British and Canadians in past times.

Nehru explained the magazine's regular editor was away when the article appeared and "I deeply regret the publication of this note which is wholly intemperate and in bad taste."

FELLOW CANUCKS

Fisheries Minister James Sinclair said some fishermen in Newfoundland and Nova Scotia do not regard each other as fellow Canadians.

Custom dies hard, the minister said, although Newfoundland had been a member of Confederation for eight years.

He was commenting on an incident earlier when employees of a federally-subsidized bait depot in Newfoundland refused to sell bait to the Nova Scotian fishing vessel, apparently considering them foreigners.

DOCTORS' TEAMWORK

General practitioners and specialists were urged by Health Minister Martin to work together as a team, not in competition.

Martin said in a speech within the specialities that some of the greatest advances in medical science have been made and unless there is greater consultation and co-operation between specialists and general practitioners, the benefits of these advances will not be widely distributed. "

MISSING LINK

A young Swedish antropology student said he wants to search in British Columbia for a relative of the abominable snowman of the Himalayas.

Rene Dahinden, 26, who has lived 39½ months in Canada, said he is convinced that Indian legends about Sasquatch, a primitive mountain giant, are based on fact.

Dahinden said he would ask the centennial committee to help him organize an expedition in connection with 1958 celebrations.

The Sasquatch, said by Indians to be a hairy monster, probably is "scaply sliled" was the abomination swoman of the Natal mountains, said Dahinden.

Would Make Banks Provide Needed Mortgage Money

Bank of Canada Proposes Use of Savings Deposits

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament was informed today of a revolutionary proposal by the Bank of Canada to change the character of the chartered banks and swell the flow of mortgage money from this source.

The plan, as outlined by Governor James Coyne in his annual report, would prevent the banks from using savings-account money for short-term loans and instead would direct all savings deposits into long-term mortgages, government bonds and other long-term investments.

At the same time the central bank would step up the country's money supply by whatever there is an "adequate" amount available to banks for short-term customers —those who borrow for a few months or for a year or so.

CONSIDER CREDIT CONTROLS

Mr. Coyne warned that the "serious" inflation of 1956 has not been fully arrested and suggested the government might want to consider direct controls over the distribution of available credit to remove regional discrimination.

The governor appeared to be under him that there would be no large tax cuts in the government's 1957-58 budget, to be brought down next month.

Mr. Coyne said a continuation of last year's rise in living costs —three per cent in seven months —would be "dangerous."

He estimated that the deficit in Canada's foreign trade in goods and services would be a record $1,400,000,000 in 1956, double that of 1955, and considered that would be "disturbing to think of an import surplus of such size."

Aussie Essay Gives Cure for Drunk Drivers

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—A Sydney schoolteacher recently asked her class of seven - year-olds to write essays on highway safety, drunken drivers and prevention of highway accidents.

One story was so good she forwarded it to the New South Wales Road Safety Council, which released it to the press. It reads:

"My dad never meets with accidents. He never gets stunned or staggers across the street or gets knocked down by cars.

"What dad does is go to the hotel and get two or three crates of beer and put them in the back of the car.

"He then drives home, puts the car in the shed, takes the crates into the sitting room and after tea he takes off his boots, gets a big glass, lies down on the carpet, opens the crates and bottles, and off he goes.

"He's sure not to meet with any accident. He cannot even fall down, as he is already on the floor. He cannot get run over as he is indoors, and he cannot hurt anyone else as the car is in the shed."

Head of Queen's Says Great Need Educated People

TORONTO (CP) — Principal W. A. Mackintosh of Queen's University said today Canada's greatest need in the critical years of growth ahead is not money or industrial expansion but well-educated people of integrity.

But he told the Canadian Club here that it appeared nothing except "catastrophe can divert us from the course which has been 350 years in the making."

The text of his speech was released to the press in advance of delivery.

The present era, he said, was "remarkable" as could readily be seen by the growth of the economy's invasion of heretofore desolate regions in search of undiscovered wealth.

But it was necessary—if Canadian civilization were to be kept in perspective—to remember that its greatness had to await the scientific advancement.

VITAL PERIOD AHEAD

"Our greatest need in Canada for the period that is ahead of us is not industrial resources or capital, though these are needed," he commented. "It is trained educated persons of integrity. These will provide the elements out of which a great nation and a satisfying community life can be built."

EAT LESS, REDS

HONG KONG (AP) — China's Red government Sunday called for a tough new austerity campaign. Capital construction was ordered trimmed and the peasants were urged to eat less. The economy drive was coupled with a campaign to increase production.

Today's Chuckle

The coed concluded her prayers with a modest appeal: "I'm not asking for much, but please send my mother a son-in-law."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: A weather system, extending from Manitoba to Iowa, is moving eastward about 25 m.p.h. and spreading clouds across the entire province. The precipitation is spotty, starting as snowflurries in southern Ontario, then changing over to rainshowers, and as snow in the north country, changing to freezing drizzle.

Southeasterly winds in advance of the weather system are bringing milder air into the western portions of the province, and this mild weather will spread eastward during the next 24 hours. For Tuesday most of the precipitation will end, but relatively mild weather will continue throughout the entire province.

ALEUTIAN QUAKES CONTINUE, TIDAL WAVES DAMAGING

Two Killed in Hawaii, And 154 Left Homeless

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The nervous northeastern rim of the Pacific continued to tremble Sunday night in the wake of Saturday's mighty earthquake in the Aleutian Islands.

The restless earth that sent tidal waves crashing like villages in Hawaii and Japan rumbled again Sunday at 7:39:23 p.m. PST (10:39:23 p.m. EST) and the University of California seismograph at Berkeley was still registering the shock 2½ hours later.

Research assistant John Dennis said the new quake appeared only a vigorous aftershock, appeared again to be in the Aleutians.

Meanwhile the U.S. coast and geodetic survey office in Honolulu reported that Mount Vsevidof on the Aleutian island of Umnak was belching smoke Sunday after lying dormant for 200 years. Geologists said the new activity began stirred to life by Saturday's earthquake.

In Hawaii, where waves ranging from three to 20 feet high battered the beaches Saturday along northern shores of the islands, 154 people were left homeless

Sudbury Man Asphyxiated Swallowing Egg

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Accidental deaths in Ontario over the weekend exceeded those for all other provinces in Canada.

A Canadian Press survey conducted from 8 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Sunday showed that 11 people died accidentally in Ontario. Traffic accidents claimed nine, drowning one, and one man, Ivo Jerzyk, about 40, of Sudbury was asphyxiated when he tried to swallow a pickled egg whole in a dare.

Quebec was second highest with seven deaths recorded, two of them and three children died in a fire that swept through their Grindstone Island home.

Alberta, with two traffic deaths and one each in drowning, Manitoba and British Columbia with three traffic were the only other provinces with deaths.

Ontario deaths:

Mrs. Reinhard Ehrlich, 29, of Kitchener when husband's car overturned Friday.

Ivo Monique Lainglon, 36, of Salford, and Mrs. Ralph Godfrey, 33, of Mornington in a car-crash Saturday.

James Joseph Walsh, 37, and Mrs. Marion Hall, 40, victims of a car-truck collision near Woodstock Friday.

Harold Ogden, 29, of Hamilton when car crashed into ditch.

Saturday night, Mr. Sturgeon Falls drowned when car plunged through ice into the Sturgeon River Sunday.

Brule Lacal, 49, of Woodview, in three-car collision Saturday.

CANADIANS SHARE D.F. AVIATION AWARD

James N. H. Greenshields, right, of Cobourg, and Lew Tarry, of Toronto, Canadian pilots with the Photographic Survey Corporation are among the nine British aircrew awarded the Johnston Memorial trophy for taking part in the British Government's Antarctic expedition in 1955-56. The award is the British equivalent of the McKee trophy, Canada's premier aviation award. They flew together in one of the two Canadian Canso amphibians, which last year started a 60,000 square mile aerial survey of the Grahamland Peninsula in the U.K. The trophy ill be presented by the Duke of Edinburgh at a banquet in London, April 3.

See Little Hope of Blocking Nasser's Full Suez Control

WASHINGTON (AP)— Western officials now are reported seeing little chance of blocking Egyptian President Nasser's drive for full operating control of the Suez Canal.

The future of the Suez—together with consideration of alternative means of transport—probably will rank high in talks next week in Bermuda between Prime Minister Macmillan and President Eisenhower.

Eisenhower's special ambassador to the Middle East, James P. Richards, will leave Tuesday on a tour of 18 Middle Eastern countries. His visits will be limited to explaining U.S. policies and plans for strengthening the region against Communist aggression and studying possible military and economic aid programs. Officials normally will go to Cairo to confer with Egyptian President Nasser but reports have expressed doubt his visit will have any effect on the future of the Suez Canal. They think the pattern of the canal's future will have been worked out tactically by that time.

Richards is not expected to offer either economic or military assistance to Egypt or to Syria.

Britain Does Not Plan to 'Tiptoe Out of Europe'

PARIS (Reuter)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan said here Sunday the British government has no intention of tiptoeing out of Europe.

"Any plans to cut its European forces must be in line with economies, the British prime minister said, and "the changes which we have decided to make our forces in Germany at once more effective and less costly in manpower and money."

Macmillan conferred Sunday with French Premier Guy Mollet on European defences, passage through the Suez blocked Canal and other world problems.

He spoke at the Bourget airport before flying home to London.

He said Britain had "gone out of its way" to contribute to the pattern imposed by the last war.

"This is extravagant and inefficient to be good allies we must be economically sound and that we have the right pattern of forces to meet our responsibilities.

"So, far from contemplating a withdrawal from the continent of Europe, we are trying to devise ways of drawing closer to Europe."

'Butterfly Tasted Rather Sweet' To Birds? That's Anybody's Guess

TORONTO (CP)—The learned professor smacked his lips, thoughtfully dusted his fingers and said: "The butterfly tasted rather sweet."

So Dr. F. A. Urquhart, Toronto zoologist, gained another supporter for his rebel theories which have stirred a heated controversy among North American lepidopterists.

Dr. Urquhart recently reported that the Monarch butterfly, a brilliant orange insect native of North America, tastes like dry toast. The observation aroused some naturalists in Canada and the United States. This, they said, refuted a belief of butterfly experts that the Monarch has a bitter taste and so is scorned by predatory birds.

What's more, they said, it actually is a tasty delicacy like the Viceroy, a butterfly similar in color to the Monarch but much more tasty, mimicked the Monarch and so escaped bird attacks.

Dr. Urquhart, Dr. Urquhart, head of the Royal Ontario Museum of zoology and paleontology, invited several colleagues to sample some Monarchs and test his findings.

Eight hundred in a lecture hall watched Dr. Urquhart, Dr. Dymond and Dr. A. M. Fallis accept the butterflies. Dr. Fallis apparently tipped on the treat, produced two slices of bread and proceeded to eat the butterfly. Dr. Urquhart declined.

Dr. Dymond and Dr. Fallis popped the butterflies into their mouths and chewed. Dr. Dymond said it indeed tastes like toast; Dr. Fallis thought it was sweet.

Dr. Urquhart admitted his taste tests are not conclusive.

To humans, he said, the Monarch tastes like toast.

To birds? That's anybody's guess.

World Financier Outlines Proposed B.C. Development

VANCOUVER (CP) — Quiet-spoken and mild-mannered, one of the world's richest men has spoken of his $5,000,000 gamble to develop a remote corner of British Columbia.

Dr. Axel Wenner-Gren, Swedish financier of many interests, told a press conference:

He will be "greatly disappointed" if his $5,000,000 survey of a 40,000 - square - mile wilderness area north of Prince George, B.C., does not result in a plan to develop there.

He knows there is "quite a bit of opposition" to his scheme but this will disappear "when all know what we intend to do there."

He is obliged to build a 400-mile railway through the area and he wants it to be a transcontinental system —"the most modern railway system today."

"But I don't think the government would insist we build the railroad if we find there is nothing to develop up there," he said. Even with subsidies, the privately-owned financier would be reluctant to build the railroad unless there is a reasonable chance of developing it fully.

His associates included Arne Johanson, master director of the Alweg Co. of Cologne, Germany, which manufactures monorail systems. Dr. Wenner-Gren is accompanied by Mrs. Wenner-Gren.

Mr. Johanson said he had "complete faith" in the feasibility of the monorail to open up the northern country.

Hans Lundberg, president of Lundberg Explorations Ltd., Toronto, said his company will begin immediately a survey the trench area for its mineral content. It will be an aerial survey with the use of magnetometers.

Mechanical Fan Prevented Fires

MONTREAL (CP) — A mechanical fan which could be a lifesaver in a fire was demonstrated and an explosive mixture was burned in the presence of newsmen here today.

The fan, which was developed by Canadian Industries Limited, is intended for use in mines, grain elevators and other places where explosive dusts are present.

The dust mixture was ignited by striking flints in the presence of the dust. The fan, which was turned on at the same time, sucked the flame in the direction of the fan and extinguished it.

A lighted match was then put in the mixture and the fan again sucked the flame in the direction of the fan and extinguished it.

A spokesman for the company said the fan could be used in flour mills, grain elevators, coal mines and other places where explosive dusts are present.

British Build Trader With Ready to Sta

LONDON (Reuters)—The British Government announced today its decision to strike the world's biggest merchant ship, a 100,000-ton tanker capable of doubling 1,000,000 miles a year, one of the building of nuclear-powered ships.

The government also announced plans to back demands for a 40-hour week for dockers and a $2 an hour. Employers have been saying it would cost them $200,000,000.

Unions already have threatened a strike if the employing workers. The strike would affect near 500,000 workers and cost $250,000,000 a week.

A dispute over the 40-hour week could cripple the country's economy, the government said today predicting that it will retaliate by order a strike if the unions do not call off the strike.

Unions instead of a nation-wide strike.

Unions in both disputes are asking 10-per-cent wage increases. The government has suggested that the unions "moderate" their demands. It has rejected the employers' offer made today predicting that it will retaliate by order a strike if the unions do not call off the strike.

Unions instead of a nation-wide strike.

South Africa Not Applie

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa's Government has made clear it does not intend to enforce his (segregation) when it becomes a member of the Commonwealth.

J. H. Vilioen, the Minister of Mines, said bluntly recently that the application of racial discrimination legislation to non-whites would be considered clearly on each both in relation to the Commonwealth and internationally.

This statement was made by the Nationalist Party in Parliament for Vereeniging, Mr. Vilioen.

He advanced the argument that it would be a thing in his power to patient's recovery, and that it would be against preferences for blood

Acres of Marsh Grass Afire Across Bay

City firemen answered two alarms over the weekend, one for a marsh fire at Rossmore, and the other to the 2nd concession of Thurlow where a car was reported afire.

Acres of marsh grass south of Rossmore were reported afire and firemen kept a close watch to guard against its spread where it might cause damage.

Sunday afternoon firemen were called to Thurlow where a car owned by R. Green of 93 Cannifton Road, had caught fire. Firemen said the car was badly damaged by the blaze, the origin of which was unknown.

Capt. J. L. Adams Of Fire Dept. Dies in Hospital

Captain Joseph L. Adams, 63 Belleville Fire Department, died in the General Hospital on Saturday following a coronary sustained about 13 days ago. He was in his 63rd year.

Born at Tofield, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Adams, Captain Adams had been a member of the Belleville Fire Department since September, 1929. He was promoted to lieutenant in 1940, and in January, 1953, was made captain.

Held in high esteem by his fellow workers he was a very popular member of the local fire department. He was an ardent hunter and always took in the deer hunt.

Prior to joining the fire department, Captain Adams worked for the Belleville Public Utilities as an electrician for 11 years. Since joining the department he had acted as electrician for the fire department. Captain Adams came to Belleville from Millbridge 38 years ago.

He was a member of Christ Church.

He is survived by his wife, the former Kathleen Davidson, one daughter, Mrs. Ed (Bettie) Butcher, and three grandchildren, Ronald, Bessie and David Butcher. He was the last of his family.

The funeral will be held Tuesday afternoon from the John R. Bush Funeral Home under the auspices of the Belleville Fire Department. Rev. Canon Chaplain, Archdeacon J. B. Creegan will conduct the service.

Youth Killed in 3-Car Collision East of City

A blown front tire was said responsible for a three-car crash on No. 2 highway six miles east of the city this morning which injured all three drivers involved, one of them fatally.

Fatally injured in the crash which saw one man pinned in his vehicle, was Earl Waite, 30, of R.R. 4 Belleville, who died an hour after the accident in Belleville General Hospital.

Admitted to hospital with still undetermined injuries was Cecil Duffield, Desoronto businessman and salesman, while a third man, Donald Cranston, Toronto, received treatment at the hospital but was not admitted.

Mr. Duffield was pinned in his car which had to be pried open by provincial police before he could be extricated by ambulance drivers.

Mr. Waite was picked up unconscious at the side of the road which ended up against the fence across the ditch on the south side of the highway. His car was badly wrecked as was that of Mr. Duffield's.

Mr. Cranston's car was damaged on the left side.

TWO GOING EAST

Police said that both Mr. Waite and Mr. Cranston were proceeding east with the Cranston vehicle following. A tire on the westbound Duffield tire blew throwing it out of control into the path of the Waite car, then bouncing off and striking the Cranston vehicle.

Mr. Duffield's car came to rest on the south lane of the highway. Mr. Cranston's a few feet away on the south shoulder, while Mr. Waite's car was spun around coming to rest with its rear slammed against the fence.

Dr. D. C. McVicker of Desoronto and Dr. F. R. Ross, Belleville, attended the injured. Mr. Waite and Mr. Duffield were taken to hospital by Bush's ambulance. Belleville Provincial Police investigated.

OSD Senior Girls Win First COSSA Crown

Playing outstanding games throughout the tournament, the Ontario School for the Deaf senior girls' basketball team won its first COSSA championship on Saturday.

The senior team won the COSSA Hay of Quinte title for the past two years in a row. Three years ago the junior squad won the Quinte crown.

Barbara Beaumont had two and Patsy Bishop seven. Other players on the team are Jean Drury, Lillian Kluka, Donna Insull, Doris Williams, Marilyn Bishop and Nancy Moon.

Marilyn hit the basket for 23 points in the Bracebridge victory with Evelyn Caldwell good for seven points against the Georgian Bay champions. Barbara Beaumont had four points and Patsy Bishop two.

The rest of the team played fine basketball in a supporting role.

Much credit is due to the girls' coach Miss Beth Wilbur, athletic director of the school, who brought the girls up to championship form.

The championship climaxed several years of endeavor on the part of the OSD girls. Defeated sometimes by narrow margins, they "came back" the next year and gave their best. They are worthy champions and thoroughly deserving of their newly-won laurels.

Police Blotter

City police are investigating damage to a truck owned by the Moira Secondary Schools which was said taken out of its garage some time over the weekend and damaged beyond the road yard. A telephone pole in the yard was found broken. Police the truck was damaged about one of the headlights.

Theft of several electric extension cords was reported by Acme Plumbing and Heating workers from a contract job at the Albert College Manor on Highland Ave.

And a Parkwood Heights boy was struck in the leg by a B.B. shot. Police are investigating.

Nets Sturgeons

THORNBURY, Ont. (CP)—Sturgeon nettings of 1,000 pounds and more have been made this winter by Clem Loubeed, a commercial fisherman, in nearby Nottawasaga Bay and around Christian Island in Georgian Bay. Thornbury is about 14 miles west of Collingwood.

Tullibee, a species of Great Lakes whitefish, also has been netted in quantities of almost 800 pounds at a time.

Two Seriously Hurt in Collision At Intersection

Injured when the car in which they were riding was in collision with another vehicle at the intersection of West Moira and Yeomans Streets, two men were admitted to Belleville General hospital shortly before noon Sunday.

In hospital with brain injury and a severe cut on the forehead was Joseph Henry Seamon, 70, of McArthur's Mills, and Isaac Wannamaker, 63, of R.R. 1, Bloomfield, driver of one of the cars, who suffered a fractured hip.

Police said the two men were riding in a car proceeding north on Yeomans when it was involved in collision with an eastbound car driven by Daniel Reilly, 22, of Reilly, R.R. 2, Belleville. Mr. Wannamaker told police that he stopped at the stop sign before attempting to make a left turn, when he heard the siren and saw the car until it was too late to avoid the collision.

Mr. Seamon was thrown from the car onto the pavement when the two cars collided. The injured were taken to hospital by Bush's Ambulance.

Damage to the Reilly car amounted to about $300 and to the Wannamaker car to about $350. Police Constable Jack Parker investigated, assisted by Detective Harold Reid.

Car Accidents Cause $2,000 Damage

TRENTON (Special) — Property damage resulting from traffic accidents investigated by police here during the weekend. Since Thursday night, the local police investigated more than a score of car crashes, estimating cost of repairs and replacements would run more than $2,200. In one accident between two cars the total damage was placed at more than $1000. A hit-run driver Saturday night sideswiped Howard Tackaberry's car and then sped off across town. Police found his car abandoned in the Dundas street Tire parking lot on Front Street in Trenton. Later the driver showed up at police headquarters and reported his version of the accident. He claims that Howard Tackberry was making arrangements to have a crumpled fender, door, headlight and grill fixed.

City Softball League Holds First Meeting

Seven teams were represented yesterday at the season's initial meeting of the City Softball League, held at the Dundas Street hotel.

Several teams expected to enter were not represented so it was decided to hold the election of officers until the next meeting, expected to be some time in March.

The league operated very successfully with ten teams last season, with the Bell Telephone and Bland was president and Leroy McBrien was secretary.

Teams represented at yesterday's meeting included the Bank-Industrial Acceptance Corporation Combines, the Police, Bandaras, Brown's Bread, Corbin Lock, Bell Telephone and Meadowsmoke.

The entry deadline was set for April 1st with an entry fee of $15 per team. All players must be bonafide employees of the company for which they play.

IN MEMORIAM

SEELEY. — In loving memory of a dear husband, Wilmot Seeley, who passed away March 11th, 1946; also our father, Wilmot Seeley, on February 13th, 1952.
Gone from us, but leaving memories
Death on earth we cannot take away.
Memories that will always linger,
While upon this earth we stay.
—Ever remembered by wife and mother, Mrs. Seeley.

DENIKE. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Forest Denike, who passed away March 11th, 1952.
We will always remember the way
He loved to play
The little things you said and did,
That we will always keep
Far down the lane of memories,
Where he will be found.
Until the stars forget to shine,
Until the heavens fall,
He lovingly remembered by wife and son.

HART. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Joseph Henry Hart, who passed away March 11th, 1952.
Sadly missed and sincerely true,
Loving and giving the whole of the year,
A cherished smile, a heart of gold,
To him God gave the world could hold:
Happy memories, fond and true,
From us who thought the world of you.
—Sadly missed and loved always, by wife Louise and family.

NICKLE. — In loving memory of a dear husband, Frederick Nickle, who passed away on March 11th, 1952.
Sadly missed by one who loved him,
As I walk through life alone.
—Sadly missed, Ethel.

NICKLE. — In loving memory of a dear father W. John Nickle, who passed away on March 11th, 1952.
The hour was great, the shock severe,
We little thought the end was near;
Death's angel came with silent tread,
The pain of parting without farewell.
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the scars conceal.
That lies within our hearts concealed.
—Remembered by sons, daughters and families.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to thank the doctors, superintendent, nurses and attendants for their kindness rendered to me while a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

Members Graded For Higher Belts In Judo Club

Saturday night at the YMCA members of the Hatashita Judo Club of Belleville were graded for higher belts by a team of instructors from the Hatashita Judo Club of Toronto. After the grading, Frank Hatashita of Toronto instructed the adult class in a double foot sweep take down.

During the grading exercises local judoka demonstrated various throws and engaged the Toronto judokas in a fight.

Mr. Hatashita expressed pleasure over the spirit of members of the Belleville club and invited them to go to Toronto soon for a tournament with members of his club.

Mr. Hatashita was accompanied by Miss E. McCrimmon, Chuck Morgan, Ray Samson, Bud Moore and Chick Johnson.

In a few weeks the founder of the Hatashita Judo Club will go to Japan to further study judo techniques.

PRODUCE MARKET

The egg market was reported steady this morning with offerings sufficient for a fair demand.

Country dealers are quoted on graded eggs delivered Toronto: A large size, oiled wooden cases, tenderable lots, 39 cents. Eggs, in fibre cases, graded: A large 36; A medium 35; A small 33; B 33; C 28. Wholesale to retail: A large 41; A medium 40; A small 38; B 38; C 33.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market was slightly easier today in active morning trading. There were about three losses to every two gains in all sections.

Trading was heaviest during the first hour in two weeks. Volume at 11 a.m. was 1,817,000 shares compared with 1,438,000 at the same time Friday. For the sixth straight session, the high-speed ticker-tape fell five minutes behind floor transactions shortly after the open.

The industrial index showed virtually no change from the previous close. Page-Hersey Tubes had the heaviest loss, down 1½ points to 113. Most other price changes were fractional, losses holding an edge.

The base metal index lost a bit more than one-quarter of a point, mainly because of a 1¼ point loss by Noranda, at 50, and a ¼-point dip by International Nickel, at 98⅛. Atlin-Ruffner lost 13 cents at 92. With a turnover of nearly 300,000 shares among juniors, Pardee Amalgamated gained 15 cents at 61 among actives. Only 11 issues were lower.

Fell on Head Into Pie After Plane Upset

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Seven persons were injured Sunday, none severely, when an Eastern Air Lines plane touched a Standiford field runway, bounced 200 feet, then overturned and skidded about 100 feet on its back.

Thirty-one passengers and three crew members were aboard the two-engined craft.

Cause of the crash was undetermined.

Harvey R. Hall of Toronto, wound up with custard pie on his head.

"The stewardess had just served some of us lunch," Hall said, "and after the plane crashed and stopped skidding, like a fool, I released my seat belt. I fell down on my head into the pie."

Retiring C.N.R. Engineers Honored by Rail Brotherhood

With over 150 in attendance the annual Pensioners' Banquet of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Division 189, held in the ANAF auditorium, proved a highly enjoyable affair.

The guests who enjoyed a turkey dinner served by the ANAF ladies' auxiliary, were welcomed by Chief Engineer A. Clarke, who was chairman for the function. The master of ceremonies was Brother Lambert "Doc" Doherty.

Featuring the evening were the presentations of gifts to retiring brothers and their ladies. These included Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Kerr, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Buck, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. L. "Joe" Hart and Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Charlton. The presentations were made by Brother Larry Grey and Sister Gladys Grey. The toast and response to the pensioners were made by Brother E. L. Goodman and Brother Joe Hart.

Another highlight of the banquet was the presentation of 40 year membership pins to Brothers R. W. (Hickory) Fairbairn and W. (Gib) Hamilton. The presentations were made by assistant Grand Chief, W. Carpenter, with impressive remarks. The "pinning on" ceremonies were conducted by Bros. Frank Hamilton and William Hammett, Jr.

After the banquet some forty prizes were distributed to various winners by the master of ceremonies.

VARIED PROGRAM

Entertainment consisted of vocal solos by Mrs. Anne Davidson, Mrs. Mary Plumpton and Ed Brown and a duet by Mrs. Plumpton and Mr. Brown. Mrs. Grace Wilson and Mrs. Harwood provided the piano accompaniment.

Addresses were given by various speakers including Mrs. Winslow of Toronto, grand Canadian representative of the Grand International Auxiliary to the B. of L. E. Brother C. Hartley, assistant Grand Chief Engineer, Montreal; Bro. A. Galaway, superintendent of motive power and car equipment of Toronto; Brother W. Buswell, Hamilton, general chairman Central Region; Brother R. Dixon, Montreal, vice president and also brother James Payne as master mechanic and new divisional master mechanic.

Guests at the banquet came from Hornepayne, Montreal, Ottawa, Niagara Falls, Mimico, Lindsay, Hamilton, Toronto and Stratford. Also present was the Rev. Everett Smith, who gave the invocation.

The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing to the rhythms of Dan Fairman's orchestra. The committee in charge of the banquet included Albert Clarke, chairman, Ernest Goodman, vice chairman and Allan Vanstone, secretary.

ANAF Notes

All members who can sing an Irish song are reminded that March 16th is the date and the clubroom is the place. Entertainment chairman Wally Willmott, says there will be plenty of chicken wings and a good time for all in attendance.

Dart playoffs continue on Monday night and rousing battles are assured until the finish. These games are worth watching, fellows.

Comrades, do you realize that having your blood typed at the hospital may save your life. Each member of the club should make a special effort to have this done as soon as possible and give the results to sick chairman Henry Drury. We have one of the finest blood bank systems in Ontario but without your co-operation it can not function properly and may endanger the life of some loved family. This blood bank has proved of inestimable value to quite a number of ANAF members and is just one of the many benefits you receive while being a member of this organization.

Y Floor Hockey

The Belleville Y.M.C.A. Junior Floor Hockey House League played Saturday afternoon with two games played.

The "Peepees" captained by Stu. Muirhead won the first game defeating the "Grubs" 12 to 9. Muirhead and Murphy scored one each with Don Hoke scoring two brilliant goals giving the Peepees a one goal lead at the end of the first period. Hook was the high scorer for the "Grubs" pulling the hat trick scoring three goals in his losing effort. The score remained fairly even up to the last period when the Peepees scored four to win in fine style. Second and third period scorers were Muirhead 2 goals, 3 assists, Turner 4 goals 2 assists, N. Kinkaid 2 goals, Wilson 1 goal, Hook 2 goals, Hurst 2 goals 1 assist. Valcamp 3 goals, 2 assists.

The second game was rugged with 16 goals scored and 17 penalties handed out. The combination of the passing combination of the "Rockets" three star players, D. Skinner, Peppo Spooner and D. Blakely kept the "Y" Knots captained by B. Yorke busy every minute of the three periods. Both goalies, D. Tulk and J. Miller played a good game with Tulk stopping 26 of the 33 shots on goal, Miller also displayed fine net minding ability stopping 21 out of 30 shots. Marksmen for the "Rockets" were Yorke with 4 goals, Avery 3 goals 1 assists and Hilchon with 1 goal. John Green and Campbell.

COUNTY OF HASTINGS
NOTICE OF
BRIEF CLOSING of MADOC-FOXBORO RD.
at MOIRA LAKE BRIDGE

The reconstruction work now being done on the above road, South of Madoc Village, necessitates the moving of sections of the existing Pole Lines of both the Bell Telephone Co. and the Hydro, on that 2¼ mile section.

The various companies operations, including blasting, are being carried out by all parties concerned, so as to produce a minimum of inconvenience to passing traffic.

Since one Pole must be erected on a mid-channel pier of the present Bridge, it will be necessary to CLOSE THE BRIDGE, for about one hour only, as the preliminary work has been done, ahead.

This will be done at NOON on TUESDAY next, March 12th. Only if severely adverse weather prevents this, will it be postponed until the following day, namely Wednesday, March 13th, 1957.

Truckers, Bus operators and the the General Travelling Public are hereby requested to make their plans accordingly.

Say TCA Captain Could Have Saved Passenger's Life

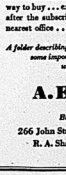
OTTAWA (CP)—A joint Canada-United States board of inquiry said today the captain of a TCA Viscount could have taken action which would have prevented the death of one person and injuries to five other passengers before an emergency landing July 9, 1956 at Windsor, Ont.

The report said one of the plane's four propellers became uncoupled from its engine over Flat Rock, Mich., pierced the cabin and killed one passenger and injured five others.

The plane, flying between Chicago and Montreal with intermediate stops scheduled at Toronto and Ottawa, was commanded by Captain R. D. Smuck, 40, and was piloted by Capt. A. C. Adamson, 34, first officer.

BASIC PROCEDURE

The report said "maintaining a low airspeed to reduce r.p.m. (revolutions fer minute) of an uncoupled propeller is the basic procedure in use for reciprocating engine-propeller combinations and is widely known.



"Despite this, the captain (Smuck) ordered that an emergency descent be executed. The board for inquiry) concludes that had a moderate airspeed been maintained, failure of the propellor as subsequently happened would not have occurred."

The report said "the matter of an uncontrolled decoupled propellor such as occurred in this instance had not been anticipated with respect to Viscount aircraft and was not touched in Viscount training or manual material. However, the fact that the sound of overspeed decreased with decreased airspeed and increased with an increase in airspeed should have alerted the crew to the necessity for maintaining a moderate airspeed during the descent."

Peoples led the League for the day scoring 6 goals for the "Y" Knots followed by teammates D. Skinner with 2 goal 1 assist, Blakely 1 goal, 1 assist and Rengeruy with an assist.

60 Oxford Students Planning Trial Emigration to Canada

LONDON (CP)—More than 60 Oxford undergraduates will fly to Canada this summer on a trial emigration scheme.

The students, who are chartering an airliner for the trip, will survey job prospects and opportunities before making a decision about emigrating. The majority plan to take vacation jobs to pay for the return fare of £98.

The trip is being organized by two Christ Church men, Richard Whatmore, 22, who is in his second year in politics, philosophy and economics, and 21-year-old freshman David Mitchell-Innes, who is reading for a degree in modern history. Both have been to Canada.

LUMBER WORKERS

"One thing is definite," Whatmore said: "We all plan to obtain permanent jobs before emigrating."

Meanwhile, air line officials in London said thousands of prospective emigrants have been applying for aircraft seats following the United Kingdom's decision last week to extend for three months the cheap emigrant air fares to Canada and the United States.

An airline spokesman said the £81 special air fare from London to Montreal "saves about £10 over the sea and rail services."

INTEREST IN CANADA RISES

About 5,000 people are leaving Britain each week to start a new life in the Commonwealth. Lengthy queues still form each day outside the Canadian immigration offices in London.

Interest in Canada is so high that two newspapers, The News Chronicle and The Evening News, are running a series of articles on how Britons who already have emigrated to Canada are making out and letters-to-the-editor columns regularly feature correspondence on the pros and cons of emigration.

Senators Plan To Question Beck

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators prepared today to dredge up more facts on Teamsters Union president, and seize his financial records unless he agrees quickly to co-operate with their committee. Beck indicated he would comply.

The teamster chief returned unheralded from Europe Sunday, dodged reporters at New York, refused to be interviewed in Chicago, and flew on to his home in Seattle.

Arriving there Sunday night, Beck said "I don't think so" when he was asked whether he would wait for a Senate hearing. He also expected to go to Washington Tuesday soon. Beck declined to answer any other questions.

BIGGEST U.S. UNION

Beck's Teamsters Union—biggest in the U.S.—has been the focus so far of a special Senate committee's search for evidence of racketeering influences in labor and industry.

Queen Visits Maid in Hospital

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth went down to the slums of London's East end Saturday to spend 40 private minutes at the hospital bedside of her maid.

Miss Margaret Macdonald, a 72 year-old Scotswoman who is just plain Bobo to the Royal Family, was taken ill with a sinus infection while accompanying the Queen on her recent visit to Portugal. She has been the Queen's maid for 30 years.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market was slightly easier today in active morning trading. There were about three losers to every two gains in all sections.

Trading was the heaviest during the first hour in two weeks. Volume at 11 a.m. was 1,817,000 shares compared with 1,438,000 at the same time Friday. For the sixth straight session, the high-speed ticker-tape fell five minutes behind floor transactions shortly after the open.

The industrial index showed virtually no change from the previous close. Page-Hersey Tubes had the heaviest loss, down 1½ points to 113. Most other price changes were fractional, losses holding an edge.

The base metal index lost a bit more than one-quarter of a point, mainly because of losses of 1¼ each by Noranda, at 50, and a ¼-point dip by International Nickel, at 98½. Atlin-Ruffner lost 13 cents at 93 with a turnover of nearly 300,000 shares moving. Lorado, Pardee Amalgamated gained 15 cents at 1.41 among issues on which other lu sues were lower.

Fell on Head Into Pie After Plane Upset

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Seven persons were injured Sunday, none severely, when an Eastern Air Lines plane touched a Standiford field runway, flipped on its nose, bounded 300 feet and skidded about 100 feet on its back.

Thirty-one passengers and three crew members were aboard the two-engined craft.

Cause of the crash was undetermined.

Harvey R. Hall of Toronto, wound up with custard pie on his head.

"The stewardess had just served some of us lunch," Hall said, "and after Diane crashed and stopped skidding, like a fool, I released my seat belt. I fell down on my head into the pie."

Retiring C.N.R. Engineers Honored by Rail Brotherhood

With over 150 in attendance the annual Pensioners' Banquet of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Division 129, held in the ANAF auditorium, proved a highly enjoyable affair.

The guests who enjoyed a turkey dinner served by the ANAF ladies' auxiliary were welcomed by Chief Engineer A. Clarke, who was chairman for the function. The master of ceremonies was Brother Lambert "Doc" Doherty.

Featuring the evening were the presentations of gifts to retiring brothers and their ladies. These included Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Kerr, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Buck, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. L. "Joe" Hart and Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Charlton. The presentations were made by Brother Larry Grey and Sister Gladys Grey. The toast and response to the pensioners were given by Brother E. L. Goodman and Brother Joe Hall.

Another highlight of the banquet was the presentation of a 25 year loyal membership pins to Brothers W. V. (Hickory) Fairbairn and W. (Gib) Hammett. The presentations were made by assistant Grand Chief W. W. Poynter, with impressive remarks. The "pinning-on" ceremonies were conducted by Bros. Poynter, Fairbairn, Hammett, Jr.

After the banquet some forty prizes were distributed to various winners by the master of ceremonies.

VARIED PROGRAM

Entertainment consisted of vocal solos by Mrs. Anne Davidson, Mrs. Mary Plumpton and Ed Brown and a duet by Mrs. Plumpton and Mr. Brown. Mrs. Grace Wilson and Mrs. Hartford provided the piano accompaniment.

Addresses were given by various speakers including Mrs. Winslow of Toronto, grand auxiliary representative of the Grand International Auxiliary to the B. of L. E. Brother D. E. Beatty, assistant Grand Chief Engineer, Montreal; Mr. J. Gallivan, superintendent of motive power and car equipment of Toronto; Brother W. Bell, Mr. Hamilton, grand chairman Central Region; Brother R. Dixon, Montreal, who was unable to take brother James Payne as master mechanic and now divisional master mechanic.

Guests at the banquet were from Hornepayne, Capreol, Ottawa, Niagara Falls, Mimico, Lindsay, Hamilton, Toronto and Stratford. Also present was the Rev. Everett Smith, who gave the invocation.

The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing to the rhythms of Dan Fairman's orchestra. The committee in charge of the banquet included Albert Clarke, chairman, Ernest Goodman, vice chairman and Allan Vanstone, secretary.

ANAF Notes

All members who can sing an Irish song are reminded that March 16th is the date and the clubroom is the place. Entertainment chairman Wally Willmetts, says there will be plenty of chicken wings and a good time for all in attendance.

Dart playoffs continue on Monday night and rousing battles are assured until the finish. These games are worth watching, fellows.

Comrades, do you realize that having your blood typed at the hospital may save your life. Each member of the club should make a special effort to have this done as soon as possible and give the results to sick chairman Henry Drury. We have one of the finest blood bank systems in Ontario but without your co-operation it can not function properly and may endanger the life of one of your family. This blood bank has proved of inestimable value to quite a number of ANAF Veterans and is just one of the many benefits you receive while being a member of this organization.

Y Floor Hockey

The Belleville Y.M.C.A. Junior Floor Hockey League held a Saturday afternoon with two games played.

The "Teepees" captained by Stu. Muirhead won the first game defeating the "Grubs" 12 to 6. Muirhead and Murphy scored one each with Don Woodley getting brilliant goals giving the Teepees a one goal lead at the end of the first period. Rose was the top scorer for the "Grubs" pulling the hat trick scoring three goals in the first period. The score remained fairly even up to the last period when the Teepees scored 5 to win in fine style. Second and third period scorers were Muirhead 2 goals, 3 assists, Turner 4 goals 2 assists. N. Kinkaid 2 goals, 2 assists. T. Hoek 2 goals, 1 assist, goals 1 assist. Valcamp 3 goals, 2 assists.

The second game was rugged with 18 goals scored and 17 penalties handed out. The smoothness and passing combination of the "Rockets" three star players, D. Skinner, J. Hopkins, and D. Blakely kept the "Y" Knots captained by S. Yorne busy every minute of the three periods, both goalies, D. Tulk and J. Miller played a good game with Tulk stopping 26 of the 33 shots on goal, Miller also displayed his net minding ability stopping 21 out of 30 shots. Marksmen for the "Rockets" were Yorne with 4 goals, Avery 2 goals 1 assists and Hilchon with 1 goal. John

Say TCA Captain Could Have Saved Passenger's Life

OTTAWA (CP)—A joint Canada-United States board of inquiry said today the captain of a TCA Viscount could have taken action that would have prevented the death of one person and injuries to five other passengers before an emergency landing July 9, 1956 at Windsor, Ont.

The report said one of the plane's four propellers became uncoupled from its engine over Flat Rock, Mich., pierced the cabin and killed one passenger and injured five others.

The plane, flying between Chicago and Montreal with intermediate stops scheduled at Toronto and Ottawa, was commanded by Captain R. D. Smuck, 40, and was piloted by Capt. A. C. Adamson, 34, first officer.

BASIC PROCEDURE

The report said "maintaining a low airspeed to reduce r.p.m. (revolutions per minute) of an uncontrolled propeller has been for many years the basic procedure in use for reciprocating engine-propeller combinations and is widely known.

"Despite this, the captain (Smuck) ordered that an emergency descent be executed. The board (of inquiry) concluded he had a moderate airspeed been maintained, failure of the propeller as subsequently happened would not have occurred."

The report said "the matter of an uncontrolled decoupled propeller such as occurred in this instance had not been anticipated with respect to Viscount aircraft and was not treated in Viscount training or manual material. However, the fact that the sound of overspeed decreased with decreased airspeed and increased with an increase in airspeed should have alerted the crew to the necessity for maintaining a moderate airspeed during the descent."

LONDON (CP)—More than 60 Oxford undergraduates will fly to Canada this summer on a trial emigration scheme.

The students, who are chartering an airliner for the trip, will survey job prospects and opportunities before making a decision about emigrating. The majority plan to take vacation jobs to pay for the return fare of £26.

The trip is being organized by the Christ Church men, Richard Whatmore, 22, who is in his second year in politics, philosophy and economics, and 21-year-old freshman David Mitchell-Innes, who expects to major in history. Both have been to Canada.

LUMBER WORKERS

"One thing is definite," Whatmore said. "We all plan to obtain employment before emigrating."

Meanwhile, air line officials in London said thousands of prospective emigrants have been applying for aircraft seats following the United Kingdom's decision last week to extend for three months the cheap emigrant air fares to Canada and the United States.

An airline spokesman said the £81 special air fare from London to Montreal "saves about £10 over the sea and rail services."

INTEREST IN CANADA HIGH

About 5,000 people are leaving Britain each week to start a new life in the Commonwealth. Lengthy queues still form each day outside the Canadian Immigration offices in London.

Interest in Canada is so high that two newspapers, The News Chronicle and The Evening News, are running a series of articles on how Britons who already have emigrated to Canada are making out. Letters-to-the-editor columns regularly feature correspondence on the pros and cons of emigration.

Senators Plan To Question Beck

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators prepared today to subpoena Dave Beck, teamsters Union president, and note his financial records unless he agrees quickly to co-operate with their committee. Beck indicated he would comply.

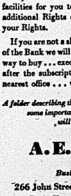
The teamster chief returned unheralded from Europe Sunday, indicted yesterday in Seattle, refused to be interviewed in Chicago, and flew on to his home in Seattle.

Arriving there Sunday night, Beck said "I don't think so" when he was asked whether he would wait to testify before what he has expected to go to Washington "very soon." Beck declined to answer any other questions.

BIGGEST U.S. UNION

Beck's Teamsters Union—biggest in the U.S.—has been the focus so far of a special Senate committee's search for evidence of racketeering influences in labor and industry.

Queen Visits Maid in Hospital



LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth went down to the slums of London's East end Saturday to spend 40 private minutes at the hospital bedside of her maid.

Miss Margaret Macdonald, a 22 year-old Scotswoman who is just plain Bobo to the Royal Family, was taken ill with a virus infection while accompanying the Queen on her recent visit to Portugal. She has been the Queen's maid for 20 years.

NOTICE OF BRIDGE CLOSING of MADOC-FOXBORO RD. at MOIRA LAKE BRIDGE

The reconstruction work now being done on the above road, South of Madoc Village, necessitates the moving of sections of the overhead Pole Lines of both the Bell Telephone Co. and the Hydro, on that 2¼ mile section.

The various operations, including blasting, are being carried out by all parties concerned, so as to produce a minimum of inconvenience to passing traffic.

Since one Pole must be erected on a mid-channel pier of the present Bridge, it will be necessary to CLOSE THE BRIDGE, for about one hour only, as the preliminary work has been done, ahead.

This will be done at NOON on TUESDAY next, March 12th. Only if severely adverse weather prevents this, will it be postponed until the following day, namely Wednesday, March 13th, 1957.

Truckers, Bus operators and the General Travelling Public are hereby requested to make their plans accordingly.

PADLOCK LAW INVALID

The Supreme Court of Canada has ruled that Quebec's "padlock law" is ultra vires.

In this decision eight of the nine justices agreed. The lone dissenter was Mr. Justice Robert Taschereau. The Canadian Press report mentions that he is a Quebec Roman Catholic, but too much weight should not be attached to that fact for three of the judges who differed with him were also Roman Catholic and one of these was also from Quebec.

More interesting than trying to attach significance to the religions and places of residences of the members of the Court is a comparison of the reasons advanced by the eight judges for holding that the padlock law was beyond the legislative powers of the province. Though they reached the same conclusion, there was an interesting variety in the comments they made.

Chief Justice Patrick Kerwin said that "it is sufficient to declare that the act is legislation in relation to the criminal law over which . . . the Parliament of Canada has exclusive legislative authority."

This does not comment on the desirability of the law. But Mr. Justice Rand, supported by Mr. Justice Kellock, did deal with this aspect of the case. Mr. Justice Rand held that, while the law aims at suppressing the evil doctrine of communism "it could just as properly have been the suppression of any other political, economic or social doctrine or theory."

To those individuals and organizations who, from the first, have regarded the padlock law as a threat to civil liberties, this will be regarded as the most important aspect of the act empowered the Quebec attorney general to issue a closing order on any house used for the propagation of communism or bolshevism. It went to considerable pains to define "house" so that the definition was wide enough to include every conceivable kind of building, but it did not define communism or bolshevism. It is difficult to escape the suspicion that, since those who drafted the law were careful to define "house," their failure to define communism was not an oversight but was deliberate, so that the attorney general was free to make his own definition and apply the law as he saw fit. That such a law is a threat to more than communists is obvious. It makes the property of every person subject to the whim of an official, rather than granting to all the protection of the exclusive right to property.

Mr. Justice Kellock, in supporting Mr. Justice Rand, significantly added that legislation such as the padlock law is not, in relation to civil rights, a matter of simple provincial jurisdiction, but is of a dual, or local or private nature. One would appear entitled to interpret this as expressing Mr. Justice Kellock's conviction that the civil rights of a resident of Quebec are the concern of residents of all other provinces, that every Canadian has a right to be concerned about the civil liberties of every other Canadian, in no matter what province he may reside. With this view we are in hearty accord. If Canada is to be a nation, there are certain rights which must be enjoyed by all Canadians.

Justice Abbott, formerly Canada's finance minister, dealt with an entirely different aspect of the case. Probably because of his former service as a member of Parliament, he was interested in the effect of the padlock law in the political realm. He maintained that the act interferes with the Dominion Elections Act, which gives candidates the right to explain, criticize, and discuss in the broadest possible manner "such matters as the qualifications, the policies and the political, economic and social principles advocated by such candidates or by the political parties or groups of which they may be members."

Views as to whether the Labor-Progressive party should be banned in Canada may differ, but surely most people will agree that if Parliament is going to ban the party and decide to permit it to run candidates for Parliament, no other authority in the land should be permitted to override this decision and make it impossible for the party to do what Parliament says it has a right to do.

Finally, it is interesting to note that in the case on which the Supreme Court gave its ruling there appears to have been no question that the padlock law was applied in the manner in which it was designed to be used. The legality of the law was challenged by John Switzman, a supporter of the Labor Progressive or Communist party. This was the law, and those cases, if there have been several, in which doubt could be cast on whether the padlocked property had ever been used by communists.

OLD PROBLEM RETURNS

Remember when the diversion of water by Chicago, from Lake Michigan through a drainage canal into the headwaters of the Mississippi system, was the bone of contention at any Canadian Great Lakes port?

That was in the thirties, when low water threatened many harbors. The Chicago diversion got all the blame.

Then high levels ensued. Engineers found waves pounding at doors which were once separated from the lake by yards of gleaming sand and nobody cursed Chicago any more.

Now, however, Chicago is seeking permission to divert another 10,000 cubic feet of water per second and protests are being heard from lake ports in both Canada and the U.S.

This is the right time to protest, before permission is granted. Sight ought not to be lost of the fact that in the coming years the national need of this lakes may fail again, which would make the effects of any further diversion of water more damaging.

JUST FOLKS

LATE

It seems to me I'll never be
The first to catch the bravest fly
I watch for him above, below,
But all I ever see is snow.
While others into print will burst
To boast they've seen a robin first.

I would be grateful, yes, and glad
If happy luck like that I had,
But through my windows all I spy
Is ice and snow banks drifted high,
And bare of leaf my maple tree
No robin draws for me to see.

I sit beside my window pane
And sadly look at snow or rain,
And if a robin should return
I'd be the last that fact to learn.

My robins never can contrive
To be the first ones to arrive.

I'd think it triumph and success
To write a letter to the press
And boast, despite a wintry scene,
A robin in a tree I'd seen.
And every year it makes me sad
To think that no such luck I've had.

I'm sure that it would thrill me through
To be a robin first to view,
I'd dance with joy to hear him sing
And my one out there shivering.
But this still seems to be my fate;
My robins always get there late.

Censored Out Blushes

By John Farkin in the Hamilton Spectator

Early in the last century, Dr. Thomas Bowdler, a pious young Scot, became deeply concerned about words and phrases in Shakespeare's plays which he thought, might bring maidenly blushes to the cheeks of innocent young ladies. So, he decided to do something about it and the result was a censored version of Shakespeare.

Nothing is added to the original text; but those words and expressions are omitted which cannot with propriety be read aloud in a family," the worthy doctor explained.

Like many other self-appointed censors, both before and after him, Bowdler was mistook his own prejudices for truth. Knowledge hides, but innocence. Many a young lady must have scorned off to read in secret just those parts the doctor had so conscientiously deleted.

Censorship is often one of the weapons of tyranny and it assumes many disguises, claiming always to serve the good suffered reverses, he invented a third force, Necessity, which controlled the actions of gods and men and worked for righteousness. Trouble with the "censors" was that they were.

Attitudes today are much more liberal. There is still a need for constant vigilance, particularly when the line which divides obscenity from literature, "treason" from art, enlightenment and propaganda becomes difficult to define and dependent upon man, who can never be far from perfection.

When Dr. Samuel Johnson's first English Dictionary was published a lady accused him of defining oats as a food usually fed to "Madam," said Johnson severely—"You were looking for there."

Censorship, whatever its form, must reflect a mandate from the public's attitude to morality, which in its turn changes with each generation.

In Victorian days the fishily medical book was locked in the bookcase to prevent young people from learning the secrets of their own bodies, knowledge which might shock, and for some people, corrupt. It is hard to think that this encouraged young lockpickers, or the author's royalties. Equally discovery that the piano key also fitted the bookcase and desk was a boon to lovers. Available for private perusal, did not seem to occur to Victorian parents.

Women blushed and fainted, but were made immune by corsetors; men proposed formally on bended knee and asked for a maiden's hand. Even as late as 1909, the more "advanced" novelists were attacked for their "coarse" and a dainty ankle." (Today a novelist using such a phrase might be suspected of some form of fetishism).

Louisa May Alcott, known for her day as the "highly moral" tales like Little Men, Good Wives and Little Women (translated so recently as 1919 in London), commented on Huckleberry: "If Mr. Mark Twain cannot write something better to tell our purebred daughters, he had better stop writing for them."

Needless to say, today it is one of the best-loved of all children's classics and one can search its pages in vain for anything that would "lead astray" a normal child. (An abnormal child will go astray anyway, without Huckleberry Finn or any other book).

The First World War did much to break down barriers of hypocrisy and prudery, but for many years a conscious naughtiness prevailed.

When H. de Vere Stacpool's Blue Lagoon made its appearance in the early twenties it was spoken of in whispers and regarded as the acme of daring. In many homes copies were hidden and people only admitted having read it to those friends who, like themselves, were "modern".

Nowadays, if it is read at all by intelligent people. It is regarded as trash and their reaction is as little affected as if they had read some of the modern literary garbage which masquerades as "human" behind sensational covers.

In Britain the Lord Chamberlain reads all plays before paid public presentation. In 1928, he banned John van Druten's play, Young Woodley, which described how a 16-year-old schoolboy fell in love with his housemaster's wife. Angered by this decision (which may not have been a desire to protect the reputation of English boarding schools rather than public morals), van Druten left England and settled in the United States.

Britain has always been neck-and-neck, and sometimes a little ahead of the United States in adopting liberal attitudes towards the arts. But just now the Lord Chamberlain asked Arthur Miller to delete or alter a scene in his latest play which hinged on an incestuous relationship, despite the pleas of critics that Hamlet is based entirely on the same situation receives more presentations than any other play and has been before the public for more than three and one-half centuries.

Censorship — covert or overt — is corrupting, frustrating and, occasionally heavy-handed, but always controlled by the impeccable maintain sence of balance and the power to defend what they regard as freedom in each generation.

Presley Fad Now on Wane

Brockville Recorder and Times

The Toronto Star, after observing the recent rock 'n' roll session in Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens, comes to the conclusion that this fad seems to be dying out, and that perhaps today's young adults have had all that word 'teenagers') are not quite as impressionable as they used to be. On both counts we agree.

Today's generation of older adults is better off than the last one in that not so many years ago young adults in Canada were when Benny Goodman reigned. Then, as now, everybody said "this crazy jazz business must be crazy." Then, after that, North had Frankie Sinatra, the crooner, and swooning bobby-soxers roamed the land. Again the same judgment was made — "crazy". It is well to remember that today the Goodman and Sinatra fans are getting to be middlegreed people, and are now too old to be very interested, or, if anything. Yet those people of the very old Presley fans are the greatest viewers with alarm of the rock 'n' roll craze.

Today we have Elvis Presley. Personally we don't care for Mr. Presley because he has to be a poor musician, a worse than poor actor, but we don't view him with the alarm that Mr. Presley is just a fad and a passing one at that, and that the adults said it all the sooner he will pass.

Young people, in this generation, as in others, suffer a forget frustrations, mental and physical, which are inherent in the necessary demands of civilized living and conduct and so now and then must blow off steam. Much better the outlet be crazy jazz than many.

After Presley and rock 'n' roll there will be other fads, make no mistake, but we are about that they will be any more lasting or any more profitable. People from one generation to another really don't change a great deal.

Sometimes we older adults may forget this fact.

March 11th., 1907

The annual meeting Avenue Baptist Church was dedicated yesterday. The pastor, the Rev. Charles H. Emerson, chanted the services and the sermon were delivered by the former pastor, the Rev. Vernon H. Cowsert, of Western Baptist Church, Toronto. He delivered a sermon of the surveys reflected much credit on his successor. Rev. D. J. Smith. Mr. Kelly took the solo part in the morning in a fine manner and Miss Florence Moon rendered a vocal solo in excellent voice. Had dedication and services been postponed until next Sunday it would have been exactly thirty four years since the first meeting of Baptists took place in this city in 1873. Rev. Charles Lang, who came to this city from England in 1870 and now resides on Yeomans Street, was the prime mover in organizing the meeting in the Market Church in Belleville. The congregation worshipped first in Marble Hall opposite the upper bridge and later in the court house. The first church building cost $1,000.00 and stood upon the southwest corner of Colborne and Moira Streets west. It was dedicated on May 22nd., 1874. In 1896 the church was exchanged with Mr. Robert Bogle for his residence on the corner of Pinnacle Street and Victoria Avenue which was used by the congregation until it was demolished in order to erect the new church on the present site. The former church, occupied by Mr. Bogle for his business college, was destroyed eventually by fire. Only two of the original congregation are now living, viz. Mr. Lang and Mrs. (Dr.) Treay.

Home Makes Readers

Fort Worth Star-Telegram

The English department of 3 New York City vocational school has resurrected the problem adolescent with new vigor. And, in fact, a majority of the students are important readers. But less than 50 per cent of the boys showed in written reports that they had ever made out of the pages of a book.

Involved in this problem is the "erroneous feeling" of knowledge in a system where discipline has been abandoned for which books are acquired in the early years. But they are found in the home that has fine literature on its shelves rather than in the school. It is doubtful that the school can overcome this deficiency in the family.

Teachers are and have been many homes in America where there is not a single book or even "only trash" without any lasting merit. Youths of all economic groups have had the chance of opportunity to learn from the written wisdom and art of the past because their parents are not interested in reading. But even to such people, "forbidden fruit" in letters is usually at a premium.

The New York school, however, has had modest success in capitalizing upon the curiosity, tastes and interests of adolescents — although it is problematical that they were transformed into readers in the proper sense of the term. That must come from the home.

First Aid for Spasmodic Croup

"When I was a very small child," relates Mrs. O.F.K., who certainly does not agree with me when I say croup is never serious, "I had a bad attack of croup, and if my mother had not administered kerosene I certainly would not have been here to tell the story. I threw up a huge mass of phlegm, and it stands to reason I would have choked to death. . . ." (O.F.K.)

Kerosene is not so poisonous as gasoline, naphtha, benzine, or carbon tetrachloride, but nevertheless kerosene poisoning may occur if the kerosene swallowed accidentally or intentionally is not removed by a vomiting, or by stomach tube or "pump."

Formerly I had a pamphlet on croup, but the demand for information and advice about croup fell off to such an extent that I gave it I erased it from the list. If infants or young children ever do have croup nowadays, it must be under a more fashionable name.

Spasmodic croup is "catarrhal" croup, as it was called in horse and buggy days, and is comparatively rare today, for these reasons:

Second, because most people know that C B I (any common respiratory infection) is "contagious," and so they try to avoid out of the range of cough, sneeze, and conversation spray.

Third, because young children are not so much coddled with excessive clothing and overheated living and sleeping rooms.

In any case the best first aid for croup is a good emetic — and the child can't keep down. A teaspoonful of Syrup of Ipecac is traditional for a baby, but is slower than all outdoors. It may take 15 to 20 minutes to produce vomiting. It is hard enough to wait 10 minutes after the child is strangling for air. It is intolerable in an emergency when you believe the child has swallowed poison. Try an emetic which is almost instantaneous — copper sulfate. Vial of corrosive sublimate (bichloride of mercury) and hypo powder are found "in every" baby eating the tablets. In my emergency bag I always have a dime of per sulfate solution ready for such use. The baby emptied its stomach of the potash solution without hit bottom. Perhaps this explains why I have always associated Dr. Abraham Jacobi, the Father of Pediatrics, with Hypodermic, and not Father of Meticulous. To my mind they were both legendary figures — I never met either giant.

GOOD BRAKES

"There undoubtedly I realized I had no brakes."

My friend was telling of a harrowing experience. Here was a truck right in front and traffic stopped in every badly and suddenly no brakes.

Because the engine ran all the time and brakes are used only occasionally, we sometimes do not realize how important they are. Importance of brakes shines out when called upon suddenly to use them. Likewise in everyday life. We often fail to appreciate the value of our brakes. Nerves going to each organ which cause the organs to work, but there are nerves which keep it from working too much. Our lives are a mass of desires and aspirations. We push forward. But we must also restrain. Having desires is not enough. There must be inhibitions.

Moral conduct depends upon giving scope and capacity for inhibition and the extent that it does. Capacity for moral conduct consists in doing good things and substantially refraining from bad. Both the doing and the abstaining are necessary. Alcohol and habit-forming drugs are destructive to moral character because they destroy the inhibitive effect they have on moral inhibition. When our moral brakes get out of order we do certain bad things which later may shame or regret.

LEARN TO ACCEPT

One of the most important things to learn in life is to accept what comes to you, and if possible, overcome them with courage and accept them heroically. Complaining about what we do not like and your nervous is liable to suffer greatly. The prayer Rosin writes from church, occupied by Mr. Bogle for his business college, and he destroyed eventually by fire. Only two of the original congregation are now living, viz. Mr. Lang and Mrs. (Dr.) Treay.

cept all experiences as life is sent to us. The significance of life is not what you find and you will find yourself entering into the experiences and the pattern of each. This truth is enough to inspire any of us toward a triumphant life, even of petty worries and discouragements. Look to God. Create a prayer Room within your heart. Be kind to your body, and to all of God's creatures and nature. Like people and they will like you!

Nature there are order and design. The birds about my window and the animals of the wild accept their order as created and fear all their conditions of life with eternal wisdom live out their time with no complaints. To-day I have my feelings in a tree outside my library, nestled close to each other, and I wondered if they were cold. They seemed to accept the cold as a natural sequence.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

One of my schoolmates was never known to laugh as a boy; and though I have met him hundreds of times and been in his company dozens of times in the past fifty years never have I seen him laugh.

When others laugh, all he does is tighten his facial muscles slightly in a sort of frigid smile; and instead of his eyes lighting up as most people's do when smiling, his take on a look of suspicion, as though he were thinking of something—perhaps something her ridiculous we are to laugh.

As a boy, he played with none of us, but worked hurriedly in and from school, on this legs; he was an indoors boy; a good but labourious scholar.

As my generation slogged its way into manhood, we had the various ways, that my serious, somber type would be successful. He was just grave, solemn, serious, unsmiling. When he got off the bus with his brief case, umbrella and spats, prim hat, stooping carefully out the bus door, a neighbor or mine moved over to sit with me. "Here comes Mr. Success," I said. "My firm just completed some dealings with him. He's worth fourteen million dollars!"

assume a quality of authority in their bearing, radiate a sort of assuming. My school chum still was to be seen wandering soberly in the home-bound five o'clock crowds, with his old brief case, umbrella and battery hat on head, like a frustrated elderly book-keeper employed by a miscellaneous firm.

He was always a friendly, kindly person, without any enormous interests with others. He was interested in the things of something else, and always hurrying.

I sat beside him in the bus the other night, and we exchanged remarks about the weather and youth. I congratulated him on what I had heard of his success. He was not embarrassed. He was just grave, solemn, serious, unsmiling. When he got off the bus with his brief case, umbrella and spats, prim hat, stooping carefully out the bus door, a neighbor or mine moved over to sit with me. "Here comes Mr. Success," I said. "My firm just completed some dealings with him. He's worth fourteen million dollars!"

Many Stars of Sport and Show Business Fall Into Hot Water Over Alleged Tax Arrears

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. treasury is pondering the tax troubles of celebrities who soar to dizzy money-making heights for a few years and then fade into comparative obscurity.

Numerous past and present stars of sport and show business, such as Joe Louis, Charlie Chaplin, Ethel Barrymore and Ethel Waters have fallen into hot water over alleged tax arrears long after their earning power has apparently dwindled.

Former world heavyweight champion Louis, for example, says he can never get out of hock unless the government agrees to a compromise. He owes about $1,250,000.

The old Brown Bomber claims the government has tapped him for a grand total of $2,350,000 in taxes and penalties. That, he says, is $50,000 more than his entire take-home pay from purses earned during his 12-year title career. Louis quit the ring in 1951 at the age of 37.

Other big money earners, such as movie stars and major league baseball players, complain that the heavy federal tax bite during their peak earning years leaves them only a few crumbs to live on after they have gone downhill.

How do these people fall so far behind? Why didn't they pay the taxes when due? And why does the government wait so long to start collecting?

Treasury officials say each case is different. And frequently it takes a whole battery of tax lawyers to unravel the tangled skein of a single taxpayer's affairs. It all takes time.

In the Joe Louis case, for example, the treasury starts digging into the ex-champion's tax returns. How much did he make? How much did he spend? How much was he entitled to deduct for training camp expenses, managers' fees, and so on?

"I never will know where all the money went," the ex-champ says mournfully.

CAN'T KEEP UP

"Joe is on a treadmill," says George Reeves Jr., of Norfolk, Neb., chairman of a fund-raising campaign to get Louis off the tax hook. "If he made $1,000,000 a year for 10 years, he couldn't get ahead."

Here's why!

For one thing, the federal income tax on $1,000,000 would be around $900,000. Theoretically, if Louis earned $1,000,000 a year and didn't spend a cent on himself for living expenses, he could clear up the million-dollar tax debt in 10 years.

But the revenue service finally got around to figuring out how much Louis owed, it charged him six per cent interest on the original amount—and he has to pay six per cent annual interest on the interest. His Chicago lawyer, Aaron Payne, says interest is piling up at a rate of $275 a day.

South Sumatra Joins Rebellion In Indonesia

The latest revolt caused open concern today among Jakarta officials already trying to cope with rebellious groups who have seized power in central Sumatra, much of that island's northern sector and the islands of East Indonesia.

There were warnings of new defections as the sprawling nation of 80,000,000 waited tensely to see whether President Sukarno would carry out his controversial plan to bring Communists into the government. The rebel leaders still generally promised allegiance to Sukarno, although they demanded an end to the government of Premier Ali Sastroamidjojo.

Rumblings of discontent came from Borneo, world's third largest island and least explored territory in the 3,000-mile archipelago.

Local sources said the only thing that has delayed an outright coup in Borneo has been a political squabble among island officials.

As the Jakarta government's authority shrank to a small remaining part of North Sumatra, word spread the cabinet would hold an emergency session Wednesday.

Informed sources said Sukarno might offer some compromise to his "guided democracy" plan which would permit him to save his own face and yet satisfy the anti-Communist forces.

In each of four revolts, rebel leaders have accused the central government of draining the bulk of their areas' incomes from exports and spending the proceeds in Java.

Gaza Rabble-Rouser Stopped When St. Laurent Mentioned

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GAZA, Egypt (CP)—The tumult and din of an Arab demonstration appeared to be subsiding, and a truck with a public address system bellowed out warning of the curfew hour.

I was riding in a Canadian service corps truck, heading out of this strange city on patrol, and we paused momentarily at the city square to allow a crowd to clear a path.

A wild-eyed youth brandishing a big sword leaped onto the hood of our truck. He twisted himself to look into the cab and asked: "You Canada?"

He received a rather frightened nod from me.

He then called to the crowd for a responsive chant—which is the pattern of demonstrations here. This was given, but not with the energy of earlier yells.

"Who is your leader?" the young Arab asked me.

I was tempted to say Queen Elizabeth, but on sober reflection thought it better to stick to politics and replied that the leader is St. Laurent.

This stopped my inquisitor briefly and then he tried it, in a high voice. It didn't sound like St. Laurent, and the responsive chant was unintelligible.

To our relief, the rabble-rouser jumped with his sword from the truck and we moved on amid some handclapping.

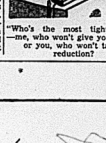
"Cheerleaders," who carried army rifles, fired them in the air intermittently. I kept watching their careless aim and the bullets seemed to skim people watching from upper floor balconies.

Nobody dodged, and nobody seemed to care.

Among those in the crowds were Arabs who had been jailed by the Israelis before the UNEF take-over for curfew and other infractions.

They had been quietly released and taken by jeep to their homes at night and none spoke of ill treatment. This relieved tension around the prison where windows had been broken in protest against continued holding of prisoners regarded as patriots.

Meanwhile a pileup of refugees returning to Gaza dwindled when the UNEF tackled the problem by admitting all those who could prove they were former residents.



I saw some of these refugees carrying newly-painted placards, banners and flags from Egyptian-held territory. The propaganda was not of the type to be held in attic storage and brought out for patriotic occasions. It obviously was part of a well-organized program.

The problem of supply for 250,000 Palestine refugees who have been in this area for years headed toward solution by a near-agreement with the Israelis on continued use of the ports and joint rail facilities. This is a UN relief agency problem.

Fire Destroys Five Buildings

LES EBOULEMENTS, Que. (CP)—The local school, four residents and a restaurant were destroyed by fire Saturday, the flames at one time threatening to wipe out a greater portion of this village of 2,000 population 10 miles from Quebec.

High winds, with snow, helped the fire to spread quickly. Volunteer firemen found themselves handicapped by a meagre water supply and resorted to use of a snow plow and blower.

NAGY MOVED

VIENNA (Reuters)—Imre Nagy, premier during last October's Hungarian revolution, and several of his chief associates have been moved to Bucharest, Romania, reports reaching here said Sunday.

Inco Research helps Canada grow

A vast network of Inco mines and plants now obtains 14 elements from ore once thought to contain only copper. Millions are being spent each year for Inco research to recover new products and develop better methods.

NEW WEALTH FOR CANADA FROM INCO ORES

IMAGINE—14 elements from one ore deposit! But it wasn't always that way. At first Inco ore was mined for one metal—copper. It turned out that the ore contained more nickel than copper. To make use of the ore at all, research had to work out a method of separating the nickel from the copper.

Since that time, Inco research has developed ways of recovering twelve other elements, most of which are present in the ore in minute quantities.

Gold and silver came first, recovered from the sludge left after refining nickel and copper. Then one after another came platinum, palladium, rhodium, ruthenium and iridium; selenium and tellurium.

Sulphur gases are recovered in large and increasing quantities for conversion into industrial products.

After several years of cobalt oxide production, electrolytic cobalt was added to the list of Inco products. In 1955, a 19-million dollar plant was built to obtain exceptionally high-grade iron ore previously lost in the slag.

Thus does Inco research continue to develop new products and processes that help stimulate the growth of Canadian industry and provide jobs for Canadians.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE PARTY

Mrs. Mandy Jones, Point Anne, was pleasantly surprised on Thursday evening when her children and neighboring friends assembled in honor of her birthday. Games and dancing were enjoyed, after which Mrs. Jones opened the many gifts received by the crowd in which she is held. After expressing her appreciation thanked for the lovely remembrances and the kind wishes which accompanied them, refreshments, suiting the occasion were served.

Two W.A. Members Receive Life Membership Pins

The devotional and business meeting of Christ Church Afternoon Branch of the Women's Auxiliary was held on Thursday with Mrs. H. Wright at the piano, President, Mrs. B. Godden, led in prayers. Special prayers were offered by Mrs. C. Dwyer and Mrs. J. Frith.

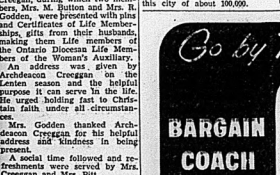
Reports were given and accepted and future activities discussed.



The president of the Evening Branch, Mrs. Mason, who was present, extended an invitation to their meeting on Monday evening when Miss Lloyd will entertain with slides of her trip to Britain and the continent.

A short service was conducted by Archdeacon J. B. Creegan, during which two members, Mrs. M. Hutton and Mrs. B. Godden, were presented with pins and Certificates of Life Membership, gifts from their husbands, making them Life members of the Ontario Diocesan Life Members of the Woman's Auxiliary.

An address was given by Archdeacon Creegan on the Lenten season and the helpful purpose it can serve in the life. He urged holding fast to Christian faith under all circumstances.

Mrs. Godden thanked Archdeacon Creegan for his helpful address and kindness in being present.

A social time followed and refreshments were served by Mrs. Creegan and Mrs. Pitt.

Weddings

HART - BRADY

Tall standards of pink snapdragons and white baby 'mums adorned Cooper United Church, Cooper, Quebec, on Saturday, March 2, at 2.00 p.m. for a very pretty wedding when Bessie Ada Brady, of Madoc, R.R. 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brady became the bride of Clifford Robert Hart, of Plainfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hart, The Reverend J.F. Lane, pastor of the church, officiated, assisted by Mr. E.V. Lewis.

Mrs. Fred Bailey, of Cooper, provided the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. John Druif, of Marmora, who rendered "I'll Walk Beside You," and "Through the Years."

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. J. H. Brady, the bride was lovely in her floor-length bridal gown of white nylon net over taffeta, featuring a fitted bodice with deep lace trim inserted with rhinestones. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was caught to a circular headdress of seed pearls and leaves. She carried a white Bible topped with white roses, stephanotis, white streamers knotted with rose buds.

Miss Joan Chapman, of Cooper, attended the bride as maid of honour. She wore a floor length nylon net in ballerina length, with matching pink headdress, white gloves, and carried bouquet of white, and blue 'mums, were bridesmaids.

Mr. William Brady, of Cooper, attended his brother as groomsmen. Messrs. Arthur Hart, and Garnet Hart, both of Plainfield, were ushers.

The reception and buffet luncheon was held in Cooper Community Hall, with six girl friends of the bride, as servers. The bride's table was appointed with white damask, centred by a three-tier wedding cake, which the hall was prettily decorated with pink and white streamers, and white wedding bells.

The bride's mother, wearing blue crepe with pink and white feathered carnation corsage, received the guests. She was assisted by the bride's groom's mother, who was attired in light blue crepe with white accessories, and corsage of pink and white feathered carnations.

For travelling to Montpitville, Ottawa, and other eastern points, the bride donned a light blue dress with platinum grey fur jacket, matching accessories, and corsage of pink roses, and the groom and Mr. and Mrs. Hart will reside in Belleville.

The bride, previous to her marriage, was honored at a linen shower held at the home of Mrs. W. B. Godden, Belleville, and a miscellaneous shower at the home of Miss Joan Chapman, as hostess, at which friends from Cooper and Remington attended.

JUST MISSED CITY

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)— The U.S. Air Force Saturday recovered the remains of a Matador guided missile which escaped from White Sands proving ground Feb. 21 about 25 miles west of here. State police said the missile landed in mountainous country 75 miles and almost directly west of this city of about 100,000.

Capacity Attendance at Wesleyan Methodist for Day of Prayer

"For what are men better than sheep or goats that nourish a blind life within the brain, if knowing God, they lift not hand of prayer both for themselves and those who call them friend? For on the wide nerve cord that extery way bound by gold chains about the feet of God." So said Alfred, Lord Tennyson.

Perhaps another gold-en link in the unbroken chain of prayer was forged at the Wesleyan Methodist Church when Belleyan Methodist Church when the Protestant churches of the city met for the World Day of Prayer, with Mrs. J. B. A. Spearman, wife of the pastor of the church, presiding.

The impressive service, based on the theme: "Who Shall Separate Us?" (Romans 8:35), prepared by Serena Vassady, formerly of Burma, and adapted for use in Canada by a committee in the Women's Missionary Council of Canada, was presented by Mrs. James Cordes, of Holloway Street, Bridge St. United to worship given by Mrs. A. E. Berry, of Victoria Avenue United Church, Mrs. Abbett, of Bridge St. United read the Scripture from Romans, chapter 8, and Mrs. Arthur J. Bennett, representing St. Margaret's-on-the-Bay, gave the account of a church bombing in one of the devastated countries of southeastern Asia, during World War II. As the church was going up in flames, the congregation began to sing the 30th Psalm, on which the hymn, "O God, our Help in Ages Past", was founded.

WHO SHALL SEPARATE US?

Other church representatives who gave appropriate readings: the Salvation Army, by Mrs. C. Burton, on the theme "Living Stones", with the congregation answering the questions, "Who Shall Separate Us from the Love of God? Famine? Nakedness? Peril? Sword?" the last by Mrs. M. Fuller, on Christians behind the iron curtain; Mrs. Percy Thompson, on the enduring peace of Christ as a possible answer to fear; Mrs. Cleveland, Mrs. C. Bailey, on the necessity of preaching the Gospel; Free Methodist, Mrs. Kemp, on man's extremity is God's opportunity; Tabernacle United, Miss E. Horton, on the use of the offering received, "prayer and giving".

Following the offering, Mrs. Moore, of Tabernacle United Church, rendered the appointed solo, "One World", accompanied at the piano by Mrs. R. M. Hubbs, while Miss Helen Spearman presided for the singing of the hymn.

The intercession and committment portion of the service was taken by the following: Mrs. V. Weir for St. Andrew's Presbyterian, on the unity of the church in all branches and its effectiveness in witnessing to the power of the Gospel; Christ Church, by Mrs. R. Godden, for the nations and all the Royal family, and for all in authority over us; The Christian and Missionary Alliance Tabernacle, by Mrs. A. Henderson, for peace with justice and righteousness throughout the world, and the unity of nations; St. Thomas' Anglican; by Mrs. S. Leach, for forgiveness, cleansing, and consecration; Bethesdan United, by Mrs. J. E. Kuntze, for dedication of self, and all activities. As the First Pentecostal Church was not represented the benediction, following the hymn, "The Day Thou Gavest, Lord, is Ended," was given by Mrs. Spearman.

Miss Madelen George, missionary on furlough from India, gave a reading about the "Indescructability of God's Love", mentioning some of the stresses in this land ago which press against, and hinder prayer and meditation, and the great need of prayer, especially of intercessory prayer which is both a privilege and a responsibility.

She stressed the need of more missionaries; the need of more Bibles and medical supplies as well as good used clothing for warm climates; clothing that was sturdy, and could stand being pounded on the rocks in washing; and clothing that was not set with buttons or full of bolts. In referring to the clothing, Miss George told of how happy seven lepers of the leper colony were when she and a friend presented them with seven khaki shorts, and T-shirts. They are so thankful for these things, she said. "Give and it shall be given unto you, heaped up, pressed down and running over.

The hymns used throughout the service were the well-loved old hymns of the church, and included: "O God Our Help in Ages Past"; "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross"; "In Christ There Is no East or West"; and "The Day Thou Gavest, Lord, is Ended." It was a fitting closing to the day and see the large assembly of women lifting their hearts to God in praise.

The offering received from the World Day of Prayer is used on several ways, among which are: Canadian Mission Press; British and Foreign Bible Society; Upper Canada Religious Tract and Bible Society; the Address; Christian Literature in the Ukrainian, Hungarian, French, and Italian language; Foreign Bible Societies; Christian Literature in Scandinavia, and many other Christian activities.

Last year a total of $29,767.00 was received for the furtherance of the Kingdom of God.

St. Margaret's E.B. Plans 'Festival Tea'

The members of the Evening Branch of St. Margaret's Church Guild were privileged to view the film, "The Service of Holy Communion" at the home of Mrs. Wm. Todd recently. Rev. L. Arthur Page was present and explained the various parts of the service. Two solos were shown and enjoyed by all. The president, Mrs. A. Watson, opened the meeting and all joined in singing, 'The Day Thou Gavest Lord is Ended'. Mrs. R. Pickering read the Scripture lesson which was followed by prayer.

Business concerning the May-time Festival tea and bake sale was discussed. Mrs. Robt. Wood kindly offered to look after the sale of tickets.

After the meeting closed refreshments were served by the hostess and members of March group.

Tabernacle WA Pledges $1000 to Pew, Carpet Fund

The Women's Association of Tabernacle United Church held its February meeting in the church parlor on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. F. Davidson, president, opened the meeting with a short poem "Postern Gates of Prayer", followed by the hymn song. Mrs. F. Paul, acting secretary, recorded the minutes and 22 members answered the roll call by stating they had made 29 visits.

The manse committee reported a new refrigerator had been placed in the manse and Mrs. R. Rowley expressed her appreciation of this.

One thousand dollars was voted to the new pews and carpet fund and a buying committee of the president, secretary and treasurer was appointed.

Group No. 1 had charge of the devotional and program which included the Scripture taken from 1 Corinthians 8; readings were given by Mrs. T. Church, Mrs. G. F. Lent, Mrs. R. Rowley, Mrs. R. Lockyer spoke on "Moderation in Abstinance". Who said in part: "we should be willing to sacrifice some of the church to meet man's appetite but rather men should be helped to overcome and to meet the highest-first, not second class-standards of God." Canada has almost the worst record in the world for drunkenness, most of them are due to alcohol consumption."

Tea was served by Group No. 1 at the close of the meeting, and the ladies enjoyed a St. Patrick's luncheon in the attempt to ascertain how many years the organization has been in existence.

Course to Help Secretaries Will Be Offered

TORONTO (CP) — A three-year correspondence course believed unique in North America will be offered this fall to help private secretaries to handle executive-type problems.

The course, to be launched by the Association of Administrative Assistants or Private Secretaries in co-operation with the extension department of the University of Toronto. It will include English, psychology, economics, business law, accounting, business organization and human relations in business.

The association was formed here in 1951 by 30 secretaries who felt senior secretaries with wider training could be of more help to company executives.

It is hoped the course—open to both men and women—will set up executive secretarial standards across Canada. Minimum requirements for admission will be Grade XIII standing in Ontario or its equivalent.

VALUABLE INSTRUCTION

"The knowledge required by a senior secretary is extensive and varied," said Henrietta Reddon, director of the correspondence education set up under Ontario laws.

"Training in basic technical skills is taken for granted and it is our hope that this correspondence course will provide basic information for the more academic kind which is so necessary in today's business world."

The association has three branches. The first was organized here six years ago, another in Hamilton in 1955 and the third in Ottawa last year.

Monthly meetings include discussion periods when members exchange experiences and views. Members-at-large in Toronto branch include secretaries in Windsor, Kingston, Brockville and Sault Ste. Marie in Ontario and others at Noranda, Que., Winnipeg, Regina and Calgary.

"As far as we know, we are a unique organization in Canada," Miss Reddon said, "and the first to give a correspondence course."

Mary Pollock, Montreal, First Woman to Be Named An Assistant Bank Manager

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's first woman assistant to a bank manager had a hard time finding a job 20 years ago.

"I lasted five months to get a stenographic job—anywhere," recalled Mary Pollock, who has just been named assistant to the manager of a Sherbrooke Street branch of the Bank of Montreal here.

But in 1936 it wasn't easy. The only place I was sure I did not want to work was in a bank."

But after applications to "all the usual places" the bank offered her a job, replacing a stenographer who was having an appendix operation.

HELPS CUSTOMERS

"The job lasted a few weeks," Miss Pollock said in an interview. "The manager found me work for another week at head office. Next came a four - day post with a chemical company — then nothing.

When the stenographer who had had the appendicitis operation later quit to get married, the branch assistant remembered Miss Pollock and asked her to come back. She's been with the bank ever since.

Munroe Brown, public relations manager for the bank's head office, says the Sherbrooke Street branch depositors maintain that they could not get along without Miss Pollock.

"If you talk to bank customers, you'll see why we broke precedent by giving her an appointment," he says. "Now she will run the branch, along with the manager, with a very real hand in interpreting branch policy."

The new post means not only advancement for Miss Pollock, but another step forward for women in banking. In the '30s, Miss Pollock said, girls were just beginning to be allowed to talk to customers. From 9 a.m. until 4 p.m they typed, and thought they were lucky to earn $15 a week.

Since then a number of Canadian banks have named women as assistant accountants, and several girls now have full charge of savings' departments, Mr. Brown said.

Catholic Lending Library Names New Executive

A new executive was elected for the Belleville Catholic Lending Library on March 8, at a regular meeting. Mr. Brogan was elected president, Mary MacDonald, vice-president; D. Marrocco, secretary-treasurer.

Committee chairmen elected, to assist their own committee members are as follows: bookbinding, Mrs. F. Peterborough; publicity, Mrs. L. Daley; ways and means, S. McKenna; and works committee, P. Geary. Miss Gerry Soaft, 53 Burton St., was appointed Librarian.

It was reported that since the move to new quarters in St. Michael's Academy, book circulation had increased several hundred per cent. About $100 worth of new books had already been purchased during 1957, and it was this amount every have to be increased considerably to meet the demand. Circulation in the children's section was particularly heavy and in every instance the children's loan cards at a special rate should be made available.

The present library hours are from 7.30 to 9.30 on Wednesday evenings and on Sundays after Masses. However many requests have been received to have the hours extended, and attempts will be made to have this done if sufficient regular volunteer workers are available.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

TALK WITH YOUR DOCTOR ABOUT THIS

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I've been married five months and I'm expecting a baby in eight more months. But it's not my husband's baby.

It happened when my husband went away for a few days on a business trip, and he doesn't know about it yet. I love him very, very much and he loves me, and I don't know how to tell him or what to say or do. I don't want anything to break up our marriage.

How can I tell him? I'm 17 years old. — Pat

Dear Pat:

Are you quite sure your coming baby isn't your husband's? It doesn't seem to me that you can safely assume this. Since your husband was away for only a few days, I would say there was sufficient doubt on the point so that it would be a mistake to tell your husband that you were to have the child of another man.

Your wisest plan would be to talk this over with your doctor and see what he says. He may be able to set all your fears at rest, and you'll then be very glad that you didn't put doubts in your husband's mind.

It was very and indeed that you were not able to use more self-control, especially since you tell me you love your husband and don't want anything to happen to your marriage. Much of the trouble, of course, stems from the fact that you married too young, and the rest from not having formed standards of conduct, and developed sound principles, that would mean enough to you so that you really lived by them and did not allow yourself to be persuaded to go against them, or even toy with the idea of doing so.

I sincerely hope you have learned enough from this experience so that you'll never again be untrue either to your husband or your own knowledge of what is right.

DON'T GET INVOLVED IN THIS, ALICE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

Through an organization that I heard of, I got the name and address of a young man in Italy who knows English, and have been exchanging letters with him for the past six months. In this way, we have got to know each other very well. In fact, he has told me that he cares very much for me and I, on my side, feel that I reciprocate his feelings.

He is very anxious to come to America, but hasn't yet found a way.

Could I have him come here to visit me without intending to marry him? After all, I've never seen him and so can't be sure of my feelings for him but I want so much to see him in person.

— Alice T.

Dear Alice T.:

What kind of an organization is this from, which you got this young man's name and address, and have you any reason for believing that it's a legitimate one?

However that may be, you would be very foolish indeed to get involved in the machinery of trying to aid him in coming to this country.

In the first place, this organization may be a complete phony.

In the second place, it is not at all likely that there is anything you could do to help him get here. He's not your fiance, nor is he a relative, and our State Department is certainly not interested in bringing a young man here only for the sole purpose of having you look him over as a future husband.

And in the third place, it's entirely possible, even probable, that the young man's chief interest in you is to try and work you in some way to further his plan of getting into the United States. Once here, he may quickly develop interests of his own that wouldn't include you.

This whole thing is thoroughly foolhardy, and you would be the first part of that word if you had anything whatever to do with it.

LENTEN DIET CONTRIBUTES TO HEALTH AND BEAUTY

"Neither my neighbor nor myself happen to be church-goers," informs a reader, "but I remember hearing that some publicized the Lenten diet and commented on how good it was for the figure. Both my neighbor and I decided to follow it for the prescribed six weeks but, after a couple of days, I lost my will power and went back to my three big meals a day. My neighbor stuck to it, however, and, by Easter, she had lost nine unwanted pounds. I was really envious—and mad at myself. I wonder if you would print this diet again, because this year I'd like to try it. If I could get into a suit even a half size smaller by Easter, it would make me very happy. — Mrs. K.D."

Yes, Mrs. K.D., we'll be very glad to give you this diet again—not only for you but for any others who may be unfamiliar with it, and would like to lose a few pounds between now and Easter—and perhaps an inch or so. More important, however, is the fact that on this diet, while you lower your food consumption, your menus will contain an abundance of vitamins and minerals which contribute to a radiant complexion. Instead of pale, bad, best of all, a feeling of renewed vitality and energy that's impossible to experience when one overeats.

Summed up simply, the Lenten diet consists of one main meal per day at which meat is served (except on Friday) the other two meals being meatless and not, together, exceeding the amount of food consumed at the main meal. This allows for a plenitude of fish, which is rich in minerals and, especially in the fatty types such as salmon and mackerel, Vitamins A and D. It leaves room in the daily menu for eggs which abound in all of the vitamins and many of the minerals, besides supplying a goodly supply of necessary protein. And, perhaps above all, the Lenten diet encourages the consumption of leafy salads, fresh fruit and vegetables, the finest vitamin sources possible.

A Lenten diet, followed scrupulously, permits of no between-meal snacks except fruit, beverages as milk and fruit juices. And, as any dietician would point out, these are the best possible "snacks" you could have even on a strictly non-religious basis. It almost seems as though the architects of the Lenten fast had health and beauty in mind when they laid down the dietary laws for the forty days preceding Easter. They didn't, of course, but all of us could profit by them.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

HOSTESS BOTHERED BY THE GUEST-ON-A-DIET

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Today two of my very close friends and I were complaining together about this increasing problem of the guests (generally women guests) who accept a hostess' invitation to dinner and then, when they come, eat practically none of the food served, explaining that they are "on a very strict diet." This is certainly infuriating! They sound (and look) so self-righteous when they explain about their diet.

I love to cook, I do all my own cooking, I have a very special pride in planning what my husband calls a "noble menu" when we invite guests to dine with us, and this means that I spend many hours the day before the dinner and the day of the dinner preparing for and cooking the dinner. (To say nothing about the cost of the foods.) Then of course it's just wonderful to be greeted by the sappy explanations of these dieters. Would it rock their world if they just forgot about their diets for one evening? If this would be impossible, why in the world don't they explain to me, when I call to invite them, that they are on a diet? What is your suggestion, Mrs. Beeckman, about how to cope with this discurtesy? — H.T.E.

Your question clearly points up a situation that is a maddening problem to many a hostess today, when diet seems to be mixed with. This discourtesy you describe is a colossal lack of consideration, and really is inexcusable. Dieters can be so ridiculously dramatic and self-centered about their diets that they are completely lacking in consideration for a thoughtful and kind hostess like you who takes such pride in being a fine hostess and a fine cook. If you're not brave enough to intimate that they might "forget about the diet for the time evening", I wouldn't be that brave!) the only solution is for you to say to each guest whom you are inviting and whom you think might possibly be on a diet, if she or he will please tell you what they can eat so you can, as an alternative, prepare these foods.

THE RESPONSIBILITIES OF "GODFATHER BOB"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be a godfather soon. Is it my place to give the christening fee to the clergyman? And do I give a gift to the new baby? If so, what? — Godfather Bob

Well, Godfather Bob, it definitely is not your responsibility to give the christening fee to the clergyman. This is the responsibility of the child's father. But you should give your godchild a christening present. You may give one of the traditional presents of silver: silver porringer or cup, or (more popular today) a small silver set of silver knife, fork, spoon, or only the spoon or a pusher; or a small silver tray, perhaps inarked with the baby's name, your name, and the date. Or you may, if you wish, start a savings account in the child's name, adding to this, in whatever amount you wish, as a birthday or Christmas or graduation present. And incidentally, Godfather Bob, if there is a social gathering at the parents' home after the christening, you are the one who has the honor of proposing the first toast. "To the Happiness and Health and Welfare" of your godchild.

Ode To A Turnover

By Mary Moore

It handsprings were sprung over turnovers
Or earthwecks spun over fish
I'd spring and spin till Spring or fall(!)
For this dishful of fish is so swish.

Beautiful pictures of melt-in-your-mouth-looking turnovers filled with salmon came in the mail. I was so hungry and they looked so real I wanted to take a bit of the photo. Instead I wrote for the recipe for the highly photogenic pastry.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

MONDAY

Salmon Turnover, Broccoli, Carrot Rings in Parsley Cream Sauce, Waldorf Salad, (celery, apple, walnut), Canned Plums, Cookies, Coffee.

From a gracious Home Economist at the Department of Fisheries at Ottawa I received a prompt reply with the detailed recipe for the pastry. It may seem rule - breaking but produce flaky pastry it does.

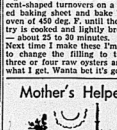
SALMON OR TUNA TURNOVERS — Filling:

One-half pound can salmon (or tuna), 1-1/2 tablespoons finely chopped onion, 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1/4 cup mayonnaise, pastry (see below). Drain and flake the salmon and mash the bone. Reserve salmon liquid to use in a soup or sauce. Combine flaked salmon, finely chopped onion, mayonnaise and Worcestershire sauce and blend well. Roll out Pastry: 1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1/2 cup best quality Canadian shortening, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup cold water (approximately). Sift the flour and salt into a bowl. Cut in half the shortening until the mixture resembles coarse meal. Cut in the remainder of the shortening coarsely. Add the cold water very gradually, stirring with a fork. (Each time a large ball of the dough gathers on the fork remove it to a piece of waxed paper placed beside the bowl and continue stirring and removing dough until the bowl is clean.) Form the dough into a ball with the hands, pressing gently but firmly. Wrap in waxed paper and chill thoroughly for an hour or longer. Roll out on lightly floured board to 1/8-inch thickness and cut into saucer-sized circles. Place 3 tablespoons of the salmon filling around on 1/2 of each circle. Moisten edges of pastry over filling to cover it and press the two edges of the pastry together with a fork. Place crescent-shaped turnovers on a greased baking sheet and bake in hot oven of 450 deg. F. until the pastry is cooked and lightly browned — about 25 to 30 minutes. Note: Next time I make these I'm going to change the filling to two or three or four raw oysters and see what I get. Wanta bet it's good?

22 Junior Girls Compete in YMCA Gymnastics

Twenty two Junior Girls (12 to 15 years old) entered in the annual Belleville Y.M.C.A. Junior Girls' gymnastic championship on Thursday.

Each girl competed on mats and trampoline demonstrating both compulsory and optional movements which provide judges Mrs. Wheeler, Miss Ziegler, Miss Jean Muirhead, Miss Helen McKenna, Mr. Diamantides and Mr. Heffernan ample opportunities to mark their gymnastic prowess.



A scoring system of five points for first place, three points for second place and one point for third place is used to decide the girl who will receive the highest gymnastic award — a victory crest, which was won by Patti Bradford who placed first on trampoline and third on mats collecting six points. Patti displayed almost to perfection with combination and form her greatest asset. Results:—

Miami Beach, Riviera in Neon, Land of Big Splash, Open Palm

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—It is a matter of historic fact, among the Kwakiutl Indians of Western Canada, that tribal chiefs used to gather for an annual feast with but one purpose.

Each hoped to prove he was the wealthiest man in the clan. For hours, they sat around the fire bragging of their property. To clinch this claim, a chief would throw 500 blankets into the fire. Another would toss in 806. Still another, 510. And so it went, each chief trying to outdo the other, each proving he was so rich he had blankets to burn.

In those days, the tribal rite was called potlach. In these days it's called conspicuous consumption. Which brings us to Miami Beach.

Miami Beach . . . Riviera in neon . . . land of the big splash and the palm—the open palm . . . the happy watering ground of the rink and all its mutations, of the big buck, the Cadillac, the blinding diamond, the wheel, the big wheel. . . .

DIZZY CONTRASTS

Also the little wheel, the little chief, with no blankets to burn. Pensioners, widows, stenographers who save all year for two weeks in the sun and—hope, hope, hope—matrimony. . . . Dizzy contrasts: uptown, rink; downtown, let-out muskrat. Uptown, gin rummy at 25 cents a point; downtown, a tenth of a cent. Uptown, swank dinners by candlelight; downtown, supper by subterfuge and smuggling. . . .

But the Miami tone is set by the big chiefs uptown. Hotels? Fabulous. Lobbies? You could play football in one, if it weren't for the Greek statues or the gold-tiled columns. . . . Swimming pools? Every one is "Olympic-size," regardless of dimension or shape. . . . Expensive? You can pay $100 a day for a room. That's without food.

Miami Beach, city of strange values. . . . In addition to the cost of your room, you can pay $100 a week for a cabana facing the ocean or $150 for a cabana facing the pool.

Miami Beach, city of staggering sights. . . . Along Lincoln Road: a blonde wearing blue denim pedal pushers, high wooden clogs and mink stole. . . . Around an elegant hotel pool, 200 people taking the sun or grimly playing gin. Only four in water.

Variety in single package. Within the white walls of one hotel you could wander from the hula hut through the ham-boo-ka lounge, the veranda room, the chuck wagon ("all you can eat for only $1.95") to the pagoda room, to 79 nosh ery (place for snacks).

Crowds lined up at Wolfies, Pickin' Chickin', other restaurants. Night life: Dog track, jai alai, supper clubs, night clubs, the Johnna bar (where the waitresses wear negligees), all-out strip joints and B-girls.

Now go down below 15th St., another world, another Miami Beach. Here life has a different purpose: to save blankets, not burn them. Here you find the pensioners, the widows and stenographers living in hotels where the rates are $8 a day and less. Or in small efficiency apartments rented from natives who spend the season in their garage.

Dinner out is dinner in small restaurant or cafeteria. Again a special world unto itself. Old chums from Brooklyn or Chicago's West Side are reunited. For the widows, there are professional matchmakers ready to arrange a wedding over the chopped liver.

To save money, strangers will share a hotel room. This, too, has led to fights: real hair-pulling contests, between old ladies, between sneezers and anti-sneezers, between advocates of the open window policy and those allergic to the night air.

Miami's two worlds, below and above 15th St., overlap somewhat. The two types of tourists worship the sun equally and both urgently require a deep tan for the folks back home. Both like to be reminded of the bad weather up north and, thus, Miami is one of the few cities in the world where a local paper will carry a banner headline on the temperature 1,500 miles away.

Miami, a city of leisure in frenetic motion . . . always building, re-building, moving north. Some 50 hotels built since the war. A 25-year-old hotel is prehistoric. A five-year-old hotel is merely old. A three-year-od hotel renovates or adds a wing, anything to suggest brand-new newness. . . .

Why the constant motion, the urge to burn so many blankets? The question was put to Dr. Jack Kapcham, social psychologist at the University of Miami. It was he who spoke of the Kwakiutl Indians. He added:

"It's part of our culture. You can find it among Texans and others of great new wealth. Some of these people can get a sense of self-esteem only by what they spend and the symbols of lavishness they have.

"To some people down here, the amount they lose at the track is more important to their ego than the amount they win. After all, anybody with luck can win a lot. Only a rich man can afford to lose huge amounts. . . ."

Now YOU'LL have a Sunday Newspaper

The first edition of The Sunday Telegram arrives this Sunday.

This means: for the first time Ontario will have seven-day press coverage that has been a recognized asset to civilized living for generations in most other areas of the free world.

The Sunday Telegram will have a character and personality different from the newspaper you now read six days a week. It will bring you the important world news but because you have more leisure, The Sunday Telegram also will interpret, analyze and review that news.

In the spirit of the day, when you have hours for reflection, The Sunday Telegram will present two pages devoted exclusively to religious news and discussion. Noted Canadian, U.S.A. and European churchmen, known for their sympathetic understanding of human problems, will contribute regularly.

As a family newspaper, The Sunday Telegram will satisfy most interests of the modern home. Seven sections, four of them the familiar size of your daily paper, will feature:

Complete sports coverage to midnight Saturday.

Guide to Modern Living for the ladies (husbands, too).

Full-length novel.

TV Weekly.

A section devoted to entertainment and the arts.

WEEKEND Magazine.

Plus the largest comics section in Ontario—all for 15¢.

We think you'll like it.

Three innings isn't much to crow about, but manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees may have helped himself to a pitching bonus when he gambled on taking little Bobby Shantz from the Kansas City Athletics in a 13-player deal Feb. 15.

The 31-year-old lefthander, who has won only 13 ball games in the last four seasons after his 24-7 season with the A's when they were in Philadelphia in 1952, looked like the Shantz of old Sunday at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Bobby, who has suffered a variety of ailments, bumps, bruises and broken bones since 1952, pitching the middle three innings of the Yankees' exhibition with the St. Louis Cardinals Sunday as New York won 9-6.

Pitching scoreless ball, Shantz held the Cardinal regulars to a pair of singles by Ken Boyer and Stan Musial, walked one batter and fanned two. He retired eight of the last nine batters he faced.

STENGEL ALL SMILES

Stengel, who had suggested the world champions take a chance on Bobby, was all smiles when Shantz finished his three-inning job. Shantz, the most valuable player in the American League in 1952, threw hard with a free delivery.

It was the earliest spring exhibition appearance for Shantz since his big 1952 season, and if his arm's right again the Yankees' pennant chances are riper than ever.

Baltimore Orioles, Washington Senators and Pittsburgh Pirates remained undefeated in the grapefruit-cactus circuit as all teams saw action Sunday after the exhibition season was inaugurated Saturday.

PIRATES TAKE TWO

Pirates made it two straight over Philadelphia Phillies, winning at Ft. Myers, Fla., 7-4. Hank Foiles got four hits, Bill Mazeroski had three, and Dick Stuart hit a homer to account for eight of the 13 Pittsburgh hits.

At Sarasota, Fla., big Jim Lemon's second homer in two days, a 400-foot blast over the left field wall, got the Senators off to a row spinging in the second inning as Washington defeated Boston Red Sox 4-1.

Milwaukee Braves defeated Brooklyn Dodgers 7-4 at Miami, Chicago White Sox downed Cincinnati Redlegs 6-4 at Tampa, Fla., the Athletics hammered Detroit Tigers 13-4 at Lakeland, Fla., and New York Giants went 10 innings to beat Cleveland Indians 9-8 at Phoenix, Ariz.

MAGLIE TOO SHOWERS

Sal Maglie started for Brooklyn and tried to go four innings the first time out, but was sent to the showers in the fourth. The Bayber was ravaged with all the Braves runs, and gave up homers to Wes Covington, Hank Aaron and Ed Mathews.

Detroit led the Athletics 4-0 after three innings, one on Al Kaline's homer, but Kansas City pounced on Hal Woodeshick, rookie southpaw, for eight runs in the fourth. The heavy damage was done by Vic Power and Jim Pisoni, both of whom blasted homers with a mate aboard.

The White Sox came from behind with three runs in the seventh inning, two of them on a double by Jim Landis, to lick the Redlegs. Landis had four straight hits, one a triple. Wally Post hit two homers for Cincinnati.

The Giants led Cleveland 8-2 going into the top of the ninth, when the Indians scrapped for six runs. Gail Harris won the game for Giants with a bases loaded single to run out. It was his third hit, and he drove in five runs.

Quebec Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Quebec Aces are the 1956-57 Quebec Hockey League champions clinching the title Sunday with an impressive 5-2 triumph over Montreal Royals.

It is their first championship since the 1953-54 season. They won it with 80 points and have seven games left to play.

The second - place Chicoutimi Saguenens increased their point-total to 66 Sunday by whipping Trois-Rivieres 6-1, but have only six games left. The victory pulled them nine points ahead of Valleyfield Braves, who are tied for third place.

Meanwhile, the tail-end Shawinigan Falls Cataracts handed Ottawa Canadiens, who play an abbreviated schedule in the QHL, a 12-3 defeat. It was the most one-sided victory of the QHL season.

WRAY SCORED THREE

Veteran Lulu Denis counted both Montreal tallies.

Bilts Two up On the Irish; Teeps Oust Barrie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Top hockey players sometimes fade sadly during a vital, short-term playoff series.

Sweeney won the championship with spectacularly persistent scoring through the regular season. In two playoff games against St. Michael's College Majors, he's scored five times, almost enough to beat Majors by himself.

Sunday at Toronto, Sweeney connected twice and led Guelph to a 6-5 overtime win over St. Michael's, and a 9-8 lead in the best-of-seven semi-finals.

THREE GOALS FRIDAY

He had a three-goal night Friday as Guelph won 6-2.

In other weekend games, St. Catharines Teepees made their way into the semi-finals, drubbing Barrie Flyers 6-3 Saturday to win the best-of-five quarter-finals 3-0. Teepees now go against the Marlboros-Hamilton winner.

Marlboros took a 2-1 advantage in that series Saturday, edging Hamilton 2-1.

Bob Boucher, returning to the St. Michael's lineup after a rest, counted twice for Majors, singles going to Frank Mahovlich and Louie Angotti.

GOALIE SAVED DAY

Guelph goalie Bruce Gamble, who drew two minor penalties, again saved the day for Guelph, turning aside 43 shots, St. Michael's Bob Savage stopped 34 in the high-shooting game.

At St. Catharines Saturday, Flyers kept Teepees at bay for two periods, then collapsed miserably. It was 2-2 after the first, and the second frame was scoreless.

Dick Cherry, Jack Kane and Marcel Tessier, just up from junior C ranks, counted for Flyers, who went out in straight games after finishing sixth in the regular season.

The Big Seven

Gordie Howe of Detroit picked up two goals in weekend games and retained a comfortable lead in the National Hockey League scoring race.

Jean Beliveau of Montreal remained in third place with four points during the weekend to boost his total to 76.

On the Tracks

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — The Llangollen Farm's Corn Husker, closing with a rush down the stretch, added the $115,900 San Juan Capistrano handicap to his brilliant record at Santa Anita Park Saturday.

Given a spectacular, come-from-behind ride by the master of stakes riding, Eddie Arcaro, the winner of the $100,000 added Santa Anita handicap two weeks ago came back to beat out Spinney for the $69,400 winner's purse.

Infantry, a long shot, pulled in third in the field of 13 at the end of the long haul, about 1⅝ miles over a soft and squishy turf course. The time was 2:35.

LOUISIANA DERBY

At the Fair Grounds in New Orleans, Clifford Lussky's pace-burning Federal Hill stole a long early lead and withstood a blistering stretch challenge by Shan Pac to win the $68,100 Louisiana Derby.

The son of Cosmic Bomb went under the wire 1½ lengths ahead of Shan Pac with Federal Judge, a 30-to-1 shot, taking the show spot.

Federal Hill's time of 1:49 3-5 tied the track record for the 1⅛ miles, set in 1943 by Marriage.

In Miami, Call Me Lucky, going in his best form, drove to a sensational victory in the $18,335 Magic City handicap at Gulfstream Park. In so doing, the colt completed a triple for Mrs. Ada L. Rice of Chicago, trainer Jim Conway and jockey Hedley Woodhouse of Vancouver.

Call Me Lucky scorched the one mile and 70 yards in 1:40 1-5, only three - fifths of a second slower than the world record set by Swaps at Gulfstream last winter.

Everglades Farm's Nance's Lad was second after setting a fast pace from the quarter pole. Flying Chief was third.

At Bowie, Md., Solar System, apparently liking a slow track, took command at the midstretch and slogged ahead to win the $29,950-added Barbara Frietchie handicap by four lengths in the good time of 1:13 for six furlongs.

The 1957 New England racing season opened at Lincoln Rd., with Oollrock, a six-year-old gelding winning the $10,000 Inaugural handicap by a length over Jacques Winphelmer's New Holland. Time for the seven furlongs was 1:32 1-5 on a heavy track.

At Bay Meadows in San Mateo, Calif., Count Chic found a sloppy track to his liking and galloped to a five-length victory over Fleet Charge in the $21,900 Bay Meadows handicap. The favored Battle Dance was a badly-beaten third.

TWO IN A ROW

Win, lose or draw, come heck, weather, highwater and income taxes, the McFarlands after a somewhat dismal start have proven to all and sundry, including the hometown armchair experts, that they are of "chips-down" calibre.

There are those who said their Friday night 6.0 victory over the hard-battling Cornwall Cheevies was something born of desperation, an effort to gain "face" with the hometown fandom after their 4-1 defeat in Cornwall last Wednesday. There are those who predicted dire results when the Macs went back to Cornwall yesterday.

The Macs by their sheer fighting spirit and "go-get-'em" aggressive both-ways play have definitely revealed they are a force to be reckoned with when the chips are down, and something big is at stake. They may not win the group title. They may not win the current, semi-finals series with the Cheevies. Stranger things have happened. But it cannot be said, after their performances here last Friday and at Cornwall yesterday, that they lack the potential.

Last Friday and Sunday they defeated one of the better teams in this senior "A" league. The Cornwall Cheevies who flashed a brilliant path across the horizon in the last half of the schedule to finish in second place by a comfortable margin, have been picked by many, and not a few in Belleville, to win this series. The Cheevies are a well-balanced squad. They have power in their offence and defence and have one of the best goalies in the circuit.

But they were beaten by a better club on the play in both the last semi-finals engagements. Now with perhaps desperation in their corner, they will bring out everything they have in their individual and team bags. They have to win. Their backers are on the short end of a 2-1 victory count in the best-of-seven series and two of the remaining games will be played on Belleville ice. They will be here tomorrow night for the fourth game of the semi-finals and this game is a must for the Cheevies. It has to be—or their backs will be tight against the proverbial wall when they play the fifth game in Cornwall Thursday night.

However, the McFarlands will have something to say about that. They have proven by their ability that they can defeat the Cheevies and are confident that the final whistle of tomorrow night's game will see them with a stranglehold on this series.

Their performances in their series victories have produced the same key players coming from the same positions. The defence spearheaded by the one-goal-in-two-games performance of Goalie Gordie Bell has been one of the outstanding features of their triumphs. Benoit, Crawford and Bailey have been bulwarks behind the blueline. Offensively too, this trio has shown its capabilities.

Up front, the second and third lines have not been too far behind the first string of shock troops. The points-getting has been fairly distributed attesting to the offensive ability of all three lines. Their play against the Chevies on Sunday was proof positive their Friday night 6-0 victory was no flash in the pan. They have struck an impressive victory stride and if it is maintained the odds are they will take the series and meet the winners of the Whitby-Kingston series.

But don't take that for granted. Anything can happen in a series of seven. It is the final victory that counts. And on hockey game nor series of games is over until that final whistle shrills.

Meanwhile the Whitby Dunlops, after defeating the fourth-place Kingston CKLC's in two straight games were halted in their stride Saturday night in Kingston, when the Limestone city crew snatched an 8-6 overtime win from the league champions.

The teams meet again tonight in Kingston and with the home-town atmosphere in their favor the CKLC's are confident they can square the series.

Down in western Ontario the senior "A" league of that district has resolved its finalists and this week the Windsor Bulldogs and Kitchener Dutchmen square off for the all-important best-of-seven series. The winners will meet the Eastern group winners, it is likely, unless the OHA has other ideas with regard to the NOHA participation in the all-Ontario playdowns.

Aston Villa Ties With Manchester

LONDON (CP) — Manchester United's drive toward the big three of English football — the league championship, cup final and European Cup—hit a slight snag Saturday when United was held to a 1-1 draw by Aston Villa.

Th e draw came on United's own ground. Four reserves were on the team as every effort was made to let the regulars rest and recuperate for a strenuous run in the European and English Cup competitions.

The match may well have been a preview of the cup final, as both teams are in the semi-finals. United playing Birmingham City and Villa meeting West Bromwich Albion.

Other important scores included Luton 3-1 over Arsenal, West Bromwich 1-1 against Tottenham, Preston 4-3 over Charlton and Everton 3-1 over Birmingham City.

United still holds a five-point lead over second-place Preston.

Leicester City defeated Lincoln City 4-3 in the second division, increasing Leicester's first-place lead to eight points over Stoke City and Manchester City, tied for second place in points but Stoke has the better goal average.

Industrial Hockey League

Osterhout Shells may have walked through the Industrial league regular schedule with ease but the National Steel midgets are not in the least impressed.

Vic Morris' young crew came from behind three times yesterday to gain a 3-3 draw with the Shells in the first game of their two-of-three final series for the championship. The second game will be played next Sunday.

Elliott scored his second goal to give the Shells the lead but Gary Goyer stickhandled in to beat Dolan for a 2-2 game, George Calbury put the Shells ahead for the third time but Pat Azzelstine fired a pass from behind the net from the blueline to provide the final 3-3 score.

OSHAWA RINK WINS

ORILLIA (CP)—Bruce McClure of Brampton and Bill Trewin of Oshawa each won three games in the top event for the Wainwright Trophy as the 12th annual Orillia bonspiel started Saturday. They will return Friday to play five other daily winners in the weekend bonspiel.

Beaten by Bruins Then Blues Hawks Whip, Tie Canadiens; Bathgate, Labine Head Snipers

By The Canadian Press

It's too late to do any good this year, but Chicago Black Hawks are flexing some mean muscles. Since they acquired University of Toronto student Eric Nesterenko and reshuffled their lines, Hawks have gone about the National Hockey League upsetting everybody's applecart.

First they manh- - - Toronto Maple Leafs, who at the time entertained hopes of making the playoffs. Now they have turned on Montreal Canadiens, who would like to get into first place.

Montreal managed only a split with Hawks in two weekend games. Two wins would have moved them to within a point of faltering Detroit Red Wings, who lost two games.

DETROIT LOST TWICE

Detroit, still leading by three points, lost 4-2 to Boston Saturday and 3-0 to New York Rangers Sunday. Montreal outlasted Chicago 6-4 Saturday, then lost a 3-1 verdict in the city, fluffing a vital chance to gain on Detroit.

Elsewhere, Toronto Maple Leafs practically voted themselves out of the playoffs, earning but one point in two weekend games. They lost 2-1 to Boston Saturday, then blew a lead with seconds remaining Sunday and settled for a 3-3 tie with Boston.

At New York Sunday, Andy Bathgate, the big-bodied sniper-ducer in Ranger history, scored two goals and assisted twice to lead the Rangers to their win over Detroit.

It was New York's seventh straight game without a defeat and was played before 15,325 fans. Bathgate now has 70 points, including 26 goals.

Lorne Ferguson scored for Detroit early in the first, but after that it was all New York. Dean Prentice and Andy Hebenton, with his 20th goal, counted the other Ranger tallies.

Bruins, who trail Montreal by only two points, fired four goals in five minutes Saturday to rout Detroit. Leo Labine scored twice for Bruins, who handed two more Sunday against Toronto—singles going to Real Chevrefils and Jack Caffery.

Gordie Howe got both goals for Detroit, lifting his season's total to 41st of the season, and 350th in 11 NHL seasons.

At Toronto Saturday, Bathgate scored the winner minutes after he returned to the Leaf lineup. First aid room where he took six stitches to close a head wound.

At Montreal, Jean Beliveau scored his 31st and 32nd of the year to lead Habs. Singles went to Claude Provost, Henri Richard, Donnie Marshall, and Boom Boom Geoffrion.

At Boston Sunday, Vic Stasiuk's 20th goal of the year, with 35 seconds left to play, gave Bruins the tie. Labine shot both the other Boston markers.

Bruins lost the services of defenceman Allan Stanley indefinitely as the result of injuries he received when he was knocked down by a Leaf player during the second period.

Dr. Edward Browne, team physician, reported Stanley made probable torn ligaments in his left knee and internal bleeding from a thigh bruise.

WEST POINT, N.Y. (CP)—The U.S. Army cadets of West Point Saturday night defeated Royal Military College of Kingston 7-2 in the 20th meeting between the two military schools.

Playing before a full house of some 3,200 that included government officials of Canada and the United States, the U.S. Army demonstrated surprising skill and skating ability in piling up the largest number of points a cadet aggregation ever has accumulated in the series dating back to 1923.

Jim O'Connor and Larry Asbury were the big guns in the army arsenal. Each contributed two goals. For O'Connor, playing his last college game, it was a fitting climax to an outstanding career. The first classman from Arlington, Mass., was credited with two goals and two assists which sent his all time scoring record soaring to an unprecedented high of 61 points for the season.

Irate Western Fans Hang CAHA Boss in Effigy

FLIN FLON (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has Flin Flon Junior hockey fans upset—so much so that they have hanged in effigy CAHA president Jimmy Dunn of Winnipeg.

The reason is a report the CAHA has ruled that the Manitoba Junior Hockey League champion be allowed to acquire three additional players if it should reach the Western Canada junior hockey finals.

Flin Flon fans, whose Bombers went through the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League season with only five defeats and then won their best-of-seven semi-final in straight games, feel Bombers have a fair chance of reaching the western final.

Bombers have protested the report to CAHA head and the SJHL executive is investigating the legality of it.

However, Jimmy Dunn, president of the CAHA, said Sunday the ruling was "according to regulations and our constitution."

Whitby Bows to Kingston 8-6

By The Canadian Press

They are staging a rare dog-fight in the round-robin playoffs of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior A southern group.

With the double round-robin set turning into the stretch, North Bay Trappers and Timmins Flyers took six points, Greyhounds and Wolves are right on their heels, with five points each.

EASTERN UPSETS

It was a weekend for upsets in the eastern division of the Ontario Hockey Association senior A series.

Kingston CKLC's, who finished the regular season in fourth place, turned on the champion Whitby Dunlops for an 8-6 victory, cutting Whitby's lead to 2-1 in the best-of-seven semi-finals. Fourth game is at Kingston tonight.

Belleville McFarlands, third-place finishers behind Cornwall, shocked Cornwall Cheevies 3-1 and took a 2-1 lead in their section of the semi-finals. The teams meet again at Belleville Tuesday night.

Scorers for Dunlops Porkies and Timmins Flyers tied 3-3 in the first game of the best-of-seven Porcupine Mines Senior Hockey League finals.

SEVEN IN A ROW

At Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Saturday, Hounds made it seven wins in a 3-0 deficit with seven consecutive goals.

Nick Tomluk had two for Sudbury. Billy Watson and Gus Gustavsen scoring one goal each.

Hub Macey and Roy Partridge each fired three goals for CKLC's at Kingston Saturday. Johnnie Bukaczeski and Bucky Buchanan getting the others. Gus Gagnon, Tom O'Connor, Ted O'Connor, Sandy Air, Gord Myles and Fred Etcher scored for Dunlops.

FOR BELLEVILLE

Eddie Brown, Billy Amado and Bobby McNeil were the South Porcupine marksmen, Flyers' goals coming from Paul Balcer, Eric Prentice and Flo Guarda.

Meanwhile, in the OHA senior A western division, Windsor Bulldogs and Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen announced they are unable to agree on dates for their best-of-seven final series, which was scheduled to begin in Windsor Tuesday or Thursday. They said they will let OHA officials decide.

WON'T GO TO HUNGARY

DUBLIN (Reuters)—The Irish lawn tennis team decided Saturday night not to travel to Budapest to play Hungary in their European Zone Davis Cup games April 27, 28 and 29.

The Irish association said it considers it unsafe to send a team to Hungary. If the Hungarians insist the playing of the games be in Budapest, Ireland will concede. Belgium, due to meet the winners of the Ireland-Hungary games, is understood to have decided not to travel to the Hungarian capital.

Tighten Grip on Semi-Finals With Sparkling 3-1 Victory; Bell Holds Fort 114 Minutes

CORNWALL— The Belleville McFarlands "broke through the Cornwall Cheviies service" here Sunday afternoon, banging a 3-1 defeat on the riverside city club for their second consecutive victory and a tightened grip on the Eastern Ontario senior "A" semi-finals honor.

The win on "foreign" ice establishes the Billeville club favorites to take the series honors since they lead the series 2-1 and have the advantage of two home games against one away to clinch the right to enter the league finals against Whitby or Kingston.

The McFarlands, who defeated the Chevies 6-0 in Belleville last Friday night with a superlative display of two-way hockey, picked up where they left off here yesterday afternoon. Their defensive work was par excellence and with Gordie Bell again rising to near-sensational heights, kept their goal practically invulnerable.

Bell kept the Chevies forward lines at bay for two periods and 14 minutes before when Guy Henri scored the first and only Cornwall goal in 114 minutes and 24 seconds of hockey. He climaxed a brilliant performance with a final 90 seconds of scoreless play when the Chevies pulled Goalie Gerry Devaney and sent six attackers on the offensive in a last-minute desperation drive to snatch victory out of defeat.

On the offensive side of the ledger the up-front troops came up with a three-point performance of hard-driving goal-questing performance that paid off despite the 10-7 penalty edge against them. They scored the only goal of the opening period, split no-score honors in the second and fired home a pair of clicking markers in the third frame.

The game was another hard-hitting close-checking game with both clubs handing out bone-jolting body-checks. Referee Jimmy McEvoy of Ottawa handed out seventeen penalties, ten of them to the McFarlands with the teams splitting a pair of majors. These were given to Lionel Bolley and Jennie Muir in the first period following a jam-session.

Keith MacDonald, who has been one of the outstanding playoffs players, scored his second goal of the series with Minnie Menard and Moe Benoit coming up with their first markers. Paul Payette, Bep Guidolin, Rene St. Hilaire, Davy Jones, Johnny Muretich and Floyd Crawford added to their assists totals with singles. Guy Henri was the lone sharpshooter for the Chevies.

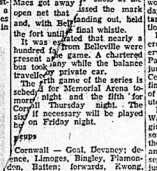
Three of the penalties were costly the Macs scoring twice with a man advantage and the Chevies getting their goal with Botley in the hoosegow.

LIONEL BOTLEY
. . . Buzzed Backer

The game developed into a hard-hitting affair from the start with Botley and Muir drawing stokers after three minutes of play for roughing. Tamonden went off three minutes later but Davey defaqd hefe. Then Botley got the gate at 9.23 and the Macs put the pressure, Minnie Menard scoring the only goal of the period a scrie with Bep Guidolin and Paul Payette.

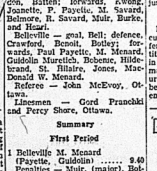
St. Hilaire and Benoit followed each other to the sinbin but the Chevies could not dent the Macs defence. The Limoges got the gate and Jones was thumbed off at 18.40.

The teams battled through a scoreless second period with both goalies standing pat. The Macs were assessed four of the five penalties handed out in this period but their penalty-killing proved excellent and no scoring damage was done. Pte Payette drew a hooking penalty at 19.07 after he pulled Davy Jones down from behind when the Belleville player was in the clear and racing in on Devaney. The penalty proved costly to the Chevies for forty four seconds after he third period started, Moe Benoit blasted the puck past Devaney for the Macs second goal with Johnny Muretich and Floyd Crawford getting assists.



Five minutes later Keith MacDonald widened the margin to 3-0 beating Devaney on a three-man sortie with Davy Jones and Rene St. Hilaire.

The Chevies fought desperately to narrow the margin and their hopes rose at 14.24 when with Botley off Guy Henri finally beat Gordie Bell for Cornwall's first goal in 114 minutes of playoff hockey. Moe Belmore was credited with the assist.



The Chevies kept up the pressure while holding the Macs scoreless and with 9 seconds to go Devaney was taken on the nets. The Chevies drove hard but the Macs got away from shots at the open net that passed the mark standing out, held and, with Bell making the final whistle.

It was estimated that nearly a hundred fans from Belleville were present at the game. A chartered special left Belleville early while the balance travelled by private car.

The fifth game of the series is scheduled for Memorial Arena on Friday night and the fifth for Monday night. The Cornwall if necessary will be played on Friday night.

Arwall Wins Pensacola Open

PENSACOLA, Fla. (CP) — Art Wall Jr., shot a six-under-par 66 for a total of 273 to best out Dow Finsterwald and Dillas Peter Thomson by two strokes in the finals of the $15,000 Pensacola open golf tournament Sunday.

Al Balding of Toronto was fifth, shooting 71-73-68-70—282 and winning $800. Bob Wylie of Calgary finished out of the money with 72-72-83-79—306.

An eagle three on the 485-yard eighth hole provided Wall with his winning margin. Thomson tried for an eagle on the same hole but ended up with a par five. The victory gave Wall top money of $2,000.

Wall, from Pocono Manor, Pa., had rounds of 70-68-69-66—273, beating par by 15 strokes. Thomson took second money of $1,500 with 69-69-67-70—275. Marty Furgol was third with 278.

Dow Finsterwald shot a tremendous 65, lowest round of the tournament, to tie for fourth with Walter Burkemo of Franklin Hills, Mich., with a 72-hole total of 279 over the 6,335-yard Pensacola Country Club course. They received $950 each.

Reds Blank Rochester 8-0; Buffalo Out

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Johnny Bower, a goalie who just barely failed to make a place for himself in the National Hockey League, has the consolation today of knowing he is the all-time shutout king of the American Hockey League.

He gained the title Sunday night when Providence Reds blanked Rochester Americans 8-0 and took a giant step toward winning their second AHL title.

The Reds, who defeated the last-place Springfield Indians 3-1 Saturday, now lead Rochester by five points. Each team has four games to play.

Americans, who had moved from last place to within a point of the league lead, saw their chances for the top spot fade when goalie Bob Perreault, who had been working at a two-goal-a-game average, let 15 get by him during the weekend which included a 7-0 loss to the Buffalo Bisons Saturday night.

BISONS OUT

Bisons, who dropped a 4-3 decision to Cleveland Sunday night, lost their last mathematical chance of gaining the fourth and last playoff berth when Hershey Bears edged Cleveland 3-2 Saturday before being walloped by the season's largest AHL score, 13-3, in Springfield Sunday night.

Bower, 31-year-old netminder from Prince Albert, Sask., who played a full season with the New York Rangers several years ago only to lose his job to Lorne Worsley, recorded his 37th shutout in 10 years in the AHL, breaking a record he had shared with Nick Damore of Hershey. It was his fourth whitewash of the season.

Fred Glover's goal at 13:46 of the third period gave Cleveland its 4-3 win over Buffalo, using Marc Edwards in goal for Harry Lumley who suffered a pulled leg muscle Saturday night. Bo Elik, Ken Hayden and Dan Poilaini were the other Cleveland scorers while Ken Wharram, with two, and Chuck Blair tallied for the Bisons.

Quinte Saints Win Senior Crown Juniors Bow to Oshawa in Finals

By MAC HAIG

The Quinte Saints, playing the last quarter literally on one leg, won the C.O.S.S.A. Senior "A" basketball championship Saturday by defeating a powerful aggregation from Oshawa 46-44. This is certainly an outstanding achievement since this is the first year of "A" competition for Quinte Secondary School teams.

The Saints, however, were not the only ones to cover themselves with glory. Q.S.S. was represented by three teams in the COSSA playdowns and all three teams reached the finals.

The Lil Saints were outclassed in the finals by the Oshawa Juniors 82-26 and the senior girls' basketball team also reached the finals before bowing to Barrie.

The boys' playoffs were held in Hart House in Toronto. The four semi-final games were run off in the afternoon with the two finals in the evening.

The forty-odd students who made the trip with the teams saw, without a doubt, the most exciting tension packed game of the year in the senior final. The Saints took the lead at the start and held that lead until late in the fourth quarter. They had a margin of from 5 to 13 points for the first three quarters. The score at that time as 28-21 for Quinte and they increased the lead to 13 points at one time in the third quarter. However, with about two minutes left in the third, centre Bill Dickey, still recovering from a sprained ankle, fell to the floor in obvious pain as severe cramps tightened in his legs. He was carried to the dressing room.

At three quarter time the Saints were ahead by 9 points. However, without Dickey's checking and rebounding, Quinte saw their lead dwindle to three points, the score being 44-41 with three minutes to go. It was at that moment that guard Ted Batchelor suddenly doubled up in front of the Quinte bench with severe cramps in his legs. Dickey, who had returned to the bench, was thus forced back into action. However, Oshawa managed to tie the score at 44-44. Batchelor's legs responded to strenuous massaging and he returned to action immediately. With 27 seconds remaining, Batchelor was fouled. Shooting 1 and 1 Ted made no mistake and both shots swished through the basket, neither even touching the rim. Dickey stole the ball from Oshawa and he and Batchelor killed the remaining time.

Ted Batchelor was the hero of the game with his winning points and his total of 21, high for the team. Bill Dickey played a magnificent game both offensively and defensively. Jim Green and Bob Elliott both played superb defensive ball. In fact, it was the defensive excellence of this high scoring team that won them the championship as this was the first time this season that Oshawa has been held to fewer than 60 points. Dick Pearce was a tower of strength under the backboards, coming down with rebound after rebound. Batchelor had 21 points, Dickey 11, Pearce and Eric Beeby 4, Green 3 and Jim Phillips 2. For Oshawa Chesbro had 14, Ed Kolodzie 11, Newey 9, Joe Kolodzie 8 and Voege 2.

To reach the finals, the Saints had to play Peterborough in the semi-finals. The score of this game was 44-27 and it lacked much of the tension of the final. The Saints had a terrible start and near the end of the first quarter were trailing 10-1. They got rolling in the second quarter and were leading 21-13 at the half.

Batchelor was high man with 18 points followed by Dickey with 14, Green 6, Beeby 4, and Pearce 2. For Peterborough Faulkner had 7, McArthur 6, Quaple 4, Brown 3, Dinsdale, Bishop, Harris and Morgan 2 each.

Oshawa defeated Orillia in their semi-final game, the score being 50-38. Oshawa will play the L'IL SAINTS DEFEATED

The L'IL Saints proved to be a very much under-rated team, and through tenacious play in the final game, they made an excellent showing as runners-up for the COSSA junior "A" championship. They had to play against the Barrie Juniors in their semi-final and the score was 50-35 for Quinte. Barrie had a much taller team than did Quinte but the lesson learned were not to be denied. The L'il Saints led throughout the game, and the scores by quarters being 16-6 at quarter time, 27-13 at half time, 36-26 at three quarter time and of course the final score 50-35. Roger Walters led the way in the high season scoring 21 points. Brian Hobbs had a commendable first half scoring 12 points. Don Masters had 7, Ritch Clarke 6 and Ron McBride 4. For Barrie Kirkpatrick and Garner had 8, Page 6, Boorman and Brown 5 each, Hunter and Phillips 2 and Smith 1.

In the final game, the L'il Saints were no match for the powerful Oshawa five, who won for the second consecutive year. They did not take long to establish their supremacy with the final score reading 82-26. For Oshawa Andrey had 30 points, Fuller 17, Maly 11, Lyons 8, Hronich 6, Meek 5 and Miklas 4. For the L'il Saints Walters was high man with 12 points followed by Dennis Clarke 4, Brian Hobbs, Don Masters, Richy Jacko, Paul Campbell and Ron McBride with 2 each.

GIRLS LOSE

Turning to the girls' Senior "A" team, it is obvious from the two scores that the teams were evenly matched. Quinte played Peterborough in their semi-final match and emerged victorious 39-37. Peterborough led at half-time 21-11, but the girls rebounded in the pressure and outscored their opponents 28-16 in the second half. Lynda Canning started to hit in the second half and this gave the others confidence and they had pulled up to even terms at three quarter time. Jane Townsend and June Reid were strong on defence. Lynda Canning was the top scorer as usual, with 24 points, followed by Joan MacDonald 11, Carolyn Hatfield 3 and Barbara Thrasher. For Peterborough J. Mahood had 22 points, P. Collins 11 and R. Todd 4.

In the finals Quinte met up with a powerful Barrie six who had defeated Trenton in their semi-final contest. By virtue of their 37-26 victory, Barrie retains the COSSA Senior "A" girls' championship for the third consecutive year. Barrie took command early in the half, leading 12-2 at quarter and 21-5 at halftime. However, in the second half the guard line, led by Dawn Danford and Joan Dickey, tightened up and the forwards began to hit with more authority. Lynda Canning scored 10 points in the third quarter but unfortunately fouled out early in the fourth. Joan MacDonald and Carolyn Hatfield took over the scoring and Quinte outscored Barrie 21-16 in the second half. For Barrie R. Dangerfield led with 14 points, followed by J. Smith with 12, M. Jackson 6 and J. Ayerst 5. For Quinte Lynda Canning had 13 points, Carolyn Hatfield 7, Joan MacDonald 4 and Barbara Thrasher 2.

WIN CHAMPIONSHIP

WINDSOR (CP) — Toronto Y.M.H.A. Whtcs claimed their fourth consecutive Ontario Amateur Basketball Association junior A championship here Saturday night edging Wdtsor A.K.O. 78-75. Toronto won the first game of the two-game total point series 83-83 at Toronto to take the series 163-118. They now advance to the Canadian playdowns.

Kirk Douglas Stands Best Chance for Oscar This Year

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Kirk Douglas stands his best chance to win an Oscar this year, but he won't be here to collect it.

He's leaving for Europe, where he will film two movies for his own Bryna Productions. If his third try for an academy award is successful, his wife Anne will have to accept it at the March 27 blowout.

"She's hoping I don't win for that reason," Kirk said. "She's getting nervous already."

The thing that's refreshing about Douglas: He makes no bones about wanting to win.

"Sure, I want it," he said. "Any actor would. I've gotten all kinds of awards—the Mexican oscar, the Japanese oscar. Now I want the real Oscar."

HOW ARE CHANCES?

What are his chances?

"How should I know? I only befar the good things from friends; naturally they're pulling for me. But that's no indication. They had me so convinced I was going to win the Oscar for Detective Story that I was working on my acceptance speech. Then I wasn't even nominated!"

So why isn't he ringing doorbells in Beverly Hills or wearing a sandwich sign in Hollywood and Vine? The answer:

"If I thought it would do any good, I would. But let's face it—you can't really campaign for an Oscar. You can't take out an ad (in the trade papers); United Artists (parent firm of his company) takes out an ad; I take out an ad. That's all you can do; just remember that you're running."

NOMINATED BEFORE

Kirk has been nominated before —for Champion and The Bad and the Beautiful. It weighs in his favor that he has been a bridesmaid but never, etc. Plus which his role as Van Gogh in Lust for Life has been honored by the New York

AT THE BELLE — Henry Fonda and Alfred Hitchcock's "The Wrong Man" starting today at the Belle Theatre.

AT THE PARK — A scene showing Vera Miles and her untamed friends in "Untamed Mistress" in which Clifton Webb is featured at the Park Theatre today. Constance Dowling is the name-heroine of "Fury at Gunsight Pass" starring Glenn Ford and Evelyn Keyes and Claire Trevor and Stuart Erwin.

Chevalier's Paris on TV Most Artistic Success

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—One hopes that the artistic success of Maurice Chevalier's Paris on NBC-TV last week also was a commercial success.

If it was NBC should turn producer Ted Mills loose on similar television ventures. Why not sign up Winston Churchill to do for England what Chevalier did for Paris? Why not ask Shirley Yamaguchi to show us the old and new ways of present day Japan? The possibilities are numerous.

Chevalier conveyed lucidly two basic ideas about the French which usually are difficult to explain to Americans: A Frenchman is a supreme individualist, and a Frenchman is torn between his traditions and the realities of modern life.

In dozens of panoramic and close-up scenes, in a few well chosen interviews, we did indeed see Paris as it is in the eyes of one who loves it. Anyone who knows Paris realizes that it exists more many in a state of flux, running through the streets by a large loaf of bread than by the night-clubs of Place Pigalle. The Frenchman's joy of life is less expressed at the Folies Bergere than in sipping an aperitif at a sidewalk cafe and watching the girls stroll by.

Because Chevalier knows these and many other things about his city, an American television viewer was able to see many Parises in one hour. The tourist sees in five days but staying at the Ritz.

Disneyland (ABC-TV, Wednesdays, 7:30 p.m. EST) continues to capture adults as well as youngsters. Last week's Man 'n' Flight demonstrated again that animated drawings are a fascinating means of conveying complex ideas simply. Like Disney's recent study of the atom, it was a production that bears repetition on the home screen.

Answer To Previous Puzzle

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Tuesday, March 12, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Emphasize your astute judgment, sense of balance and accuracy now. Day requires intelligent management, and good humor, too. Persevere, be ambitious but not overforceful. You can gain.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Stress sensible caution in all hazardous activities, and moderation in pleasure, etc. This should be a favorable period for study, research, analyzing, preparing for work to be done later.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Restrain yourself in some ways. In mental work, or if trying to solve difficult problems do not tax yourself to the point of fatigue, and do avoid anxiety. One can often attain more on uncertain days if he remains calm, reasonable.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Familiar matters, work for which you are trained and have talent should run smoothly, perhaps profitably, if you have faith and don't give up. Do what you must thoroughly, patiently.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Good vibrations linger from yesterday's fine Sun aspect, but other planets are not auspicious now, so be wisely careful; know where you're going, and what to expect. Work for good results.

August 24 to September 22 (Virgo) — You may be a tendency to rush, do things without calculation and proper forethought, perhaps undertake more than you could handle well now. Be on guard.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Be systematic, be accurate and don't heed advice indiscriminately. You have good judgment and intuition; don't hamstring either through hasty action or carelessly following direction.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Replace confusion with calm reasoning, and irritability with graciousness, and see how quickly the day's whole aspect will brighten and respond to good efforts. Make necessary changes calmly.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — This is not a day for a showy attainment perhaps, nor for big or immediate gains, but steady application to any good cause or work will return dividends. Maintain your sense of humor. Essentials sponsored.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — You can take a few restrictions in stride. Counteract tendencies toward laxity by stepping up your tempo intelligently. Be your kindly yet astute self and you will win goals, benefits. Faith!

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Review decisions, changes in plans, advice. Your interests will be served best by following through with a well planned schedule and adhering to trusted methods and aims.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Avoid indecision when determination and directness are the answer, also carelessness regarding your own needs. Known, familiar work and regular matters most favored.

COMPLETE TRADE PACT

CAIRO (AP)—Egypt and Czechoslovakia Sunday completed an expanded trade agreement. Commerce Minister Abdel Moneim Kaissuny said Czechoslovakia now has become the leading importer of Egyptian cotton, making a new trade agreement necessary. An announcement said that exchange of goods will total 50,000,000 Egyptian pounds (about $150,000,000) in 1957.

PIECE TOGETHER

Police said Dehlois had suffered a series of misfortunes during the last two months. In October his seven-month-old baby died. Then in January Dehlois had a serious accident with his truck, injuring his head and hip. Also in January, his house at St. Simeon, Que., in the Gaspe County, burned down. He had lost his job and last Wednesday his father-in-law died.

After his house burned down, Delois, his wife and three-year-old daughter moved into his parents' home here. He had been looking unsuccessfully for work.

Police said the dynamite the youth carried with him into the Toronto - Dorchester Bank in the north end of the city would have been enough to blow up the whole storey building if he had thrown the switch or if the constable's bullet had hit it.

The Canadiens, Barons, Maple Leafs and Red Wings will battle it out in the bantam semi-finals after qualifying Saturday morning.

Red Wings downed the Black Hawks 3-1 and 7-1 on the round. Maple Leafs blanked the Browns 2-0 and won the series 3-1, the Canadiens and Bruins tied 2-2 with Canadiens taking the round 4-3 while the Barons shut out the Ranger 2-0 for a 3-2 win on the series.

Dodgy Tuffs gained a shutout for the Barons' victory. The goals went to Larry Sedlak and Ron Morgan while Bob Jeffery and Bob Blaker each drew an assist.

Ted Hicks topped the Red Wing attack with a goal and an assist while Hubert Polster and Doug Dafoe had the other goals and Graydon Scott drew a single assist. Bill Genereaux was the lone Hawk marksman on passes from Lyle Adams and Jerry Moore.

Sonny McGtromon and Garry Duval fired the goals and gave the Habs the series while B. Lee, John Graham and Peter Weston had assists. Brock scorers were Ken Nolan and Robb Burr were Jackie Andrews earning one assist.

magnitude continuing for an indefinite period."

Reviewing steps by the central bank to restrain the expansion of money in the face of inflation, Mr. Coyne noted that he had held talks with various credit agencies to have them adopt voluntary credit restrictions. But he had got no agreement from the chairman of the companies, some of which received funds from large parent companies in the United States.

This had hampered bank monetary policy. The central bank had no control over the finance companies. In fact, all it could do was restrain the country's over-all credit. It could not prevent discrimination among regions or among distributors.

The voluntary talks had gone as far as they could go. If further results were desired, "some form of legally enforceable regulatory action would be necessary."

At another point, Mr. Coyne said:

"Direct controls to restrict certain types of borrowing and financing, including the provision of funds to Canadian subsidiaries by foreign enterprises, could reduce inflationary pressures. . . .

OTHER POINTS

He said also:

1. While Canada's total spending rose to a record $33,700,000,000 in 1956, about $1,200,000,000 represented the price rise. Spending was about $1,000,000,000 more than desirable from the viewpoint of "general stability and orderly economic growth."

2. Spending by consumers buying on credit reached a peak $2,465,000,000 at the end of 1956, an increase of $320,000,000 in the year, and some 7% per cent higher than the amount outstanding at the end of 1952.

3. Bank of Canada profits increased to $47,272,000 in 1956 from $42,937,000 in 1955. Because of a new method of valuing its securities, the bank also credited $42,-582,000 from its inner reserves to profit, turning over a total of $89,-665,000 to the federal treasury.

EXPLAINS PLAN

Mr. Coyne made clear his plan for revamping chartered banking operations is not aimed at reducing the volume of commercial or general loans but at expanding mortgage loans and other investments based on future increases in savings deposits.

In the past, the banks had generally used savings money for long-term investment, but in the 1956 scramble for loans, more and more of these savings were used to make short-term loans. The banks' mortgage lending came to almost a dead halt at the end of 1956. In fact, so heavy was the demand for short-term loans that banks even sold their holdings of government bonds at a loss to meet sufficient cash.

Under Mr. Coyne's new plan, the chartered banks would be split into two distinct operations.

They would continue to make ordinary commercial loans and in this field central bank monetary policy would continue to operate —these loans would be subjected to central credit restrictions.

The banks also would operate as so-called pure savings banks, free in a sense of deposits for long-term investment. The central bank would not exercise any restrictions in this field.

Damage estimates ranged up to $2,500,000.

No direct loss of life was reported because of early warnings but Paul O. Beam, a veteran newspaper man, and Sarah Park, Honolulu Star-Bulletin reporter, were killed in the crash of a plane photographing the waves.

Governor Samuel King of Hawaii said he was mailing full damage reports before asking for federal aid, but had declared a 10-mile coastal area on Kauai a disaster area and placed Maj.-Gen. F. W. McKinney, territorial civil defence director, in charge of disaster relief.

Hours after the alert had ended in Hawaii, nine foot waves crushed into fishing villages on Hokkaido, northernmost of the main Japanese islands. Police reported one house washed away with others wrecked and more than 50 flooded.

Midgets Defeat Campbellford 9-2 For Eastern Title

MARMORA (Special) — Marmora's hustling midget squad captured the Eastern Ontario OMHA Midget "C" hockey championship here on Saturday night when they downed Campbellford by a 9-2 score.

Marmora thus won the round 13-5 and will now meet Thornhill in the provincial semi-finals with the first game being played in Woodbridge on Tuesday night. Winners of this series will meet either New Hamburg or Port Elgin for the Ontario title.

The clubs battled on even terms for the first period with the score reading 1-1 but Marmora jumped ahead 6-2 by the end of the second and wrapped it up with three more markers in the final twenty minutes.

Dave Hanley played an outstanding game in goal for the winners, kicking out a number of dandied drives. This is Bedore's first year in organized hockey.

Rev. Osborne, Marmora defenceman, also turned in a fine game from his blueline position and aided the offensive with a pair of goals.

Wayne Ireland and Dean Lavender also blinked the light twice each while Marmora's next to last was Holland, Mike Doyle and Harold Maloney.

Bruce Johnston, lanky Campbellford's initial goal while Mike Holmes bagged one in the second period.

CLAIM FOR EGYPT

Banners proclaimed that the stamp-sized Gaza Strip—an area comparatively worthless in itself but priceless as an international pawn—belongs to Egypt.

In fact, one new banner Sunday hinted that more than Gaza belongs to Egypt, stating that the 26-mile strip 1 mile wide is integral part of Palestine, thereby grating on the nerve of the ancient quarrel between Arab and Jews.

UNEF troops—in which Canada supplies a significant and vital part—were not drawn into violent response by the celebrations.

A spokesman for Gen. Burns admitted the UNEF was having a little trouble" keeping the demonstrators in order" but he said no casualties had been reported.

"The UN troops have not fired on the crowds as Egyptians had fired on the UN forces, although provocation is growing a lot off shooting in the air to celebrate," he said.

CLAIMS ATROCITY

A big banner under a central arch here Sunday proclaimed "specifically" that the most inhuman massacre was committed by the barbaric Zionists" during the 1948 Palestine war.

A score of Arabs offered a score of witnesses as to just what the atrocity was.

EGYPTIAN VIEW

In Egyptian eyes, the administration the UNEF has set up in Gaza goes beyond the UN General Assembly's resolution setting up the international force.

Gen. Burns declined to say whether the Egyptian government is demanding formally that it remove control in Gaza. He said that such questions would have to be answered at UN headquarters in New York.

"All I know is that my orders are that UNEF takes over exclusively in the initial phase," he said. "How long the initial phase will last I do not know."

A similar view was attributed to Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, UN undersecretary and a member of the UN advisory commission on the UNEF. Bunche arrived in Egypt Sunday to confer on UN problems with Gen. Burns.

The Egyptian Middle East News Agency quoted Bunche as saying the UNEF's mission is temporary, that it is not an occupation force, and is without governing powers.

Britain Showing First Signs Of Getting Back on Its Feet In the Automobile Industry

By GEOFFREY MILLER

LONDON (AP)—Britain's automobile industry is showing the first signs of getting on its feet again after being knocked sideways by the blocking of the Suez Canal and the gasoline shortage.

Plants that have had their workers on three-day and four-day weeks are putting them on full time again and hiring new men. Production quotas are being stepped up to meet new orders from home, America and Europe.

Gasoline rationing is still in force and there is no definite pointer to when it is likely to end, although Power Minister Lord Mills has let out a hint that it may not go on very long.

But many Britons are going ahead with orders for new cars because instalment buying is now easier—and because they know this may be only a temporary favor held out by the government as a pick-me-up for the automobile industry.

EASIER TO BUY

Since R. A. Butler applied his credit squeeze as chancellor of the exchequer in 1955, all instalment buying has been on the basis of paying half down and spreading the rest over a maximum period of two years.

Now you can buy a car—but only a car—by putting down one-fifth of the price as deposit. You still have to pay the rest in two years, but you can start buying a new automobile with less than £100 ($280) cash instead of having to save over £200 as before.

With gasoline still on ration and more expensive than it has ever been in Britain before, Britons are going in for the smaller models that give them more mileage. The Austin firm is doing brisk business with its A-35, a 40-miles-to-the-gallon family car which went on the market just as rationing started. The firm reports "very large orders" from home and overseas for another new model, the larger A-55. A spokesman said orders for the A-55 between now and July total £14,000,000 ($39,200,000). Of these £8,500,000 worth are for export.

At Cowley, near Oxford, Morris Motors plans to increase overtime by four to six hours a week for each man to meet orders for the popular little Morris Minor. A Morris spokesman said many of these orders are from North America.

REOPEN CASE OF VANISHING CARIBOU

This April, baffled Canadian wildlife experts will once again attempt to crack the case of the vanishing caribou. Wildlife officers from the department of northern affairs, game departments of Saskatchewan, Alberta and Northwest Territories, will live for 18 months with caribou herds in the Canadian sub-Arctic. In order to examine as many animals as possible for disease and parasites, hunting methods used for centuries in South America will be employed. But instead of poisoned darts, the scientists will fire a narcotic-dipped dart into the rump of caribou, rendering the animal unconscious for an hour.

The Standard firm at Coventry says it hopes to double its sales of the TR-3 to America and has slashed its short-time workers from 5,000 to 200.

TAXES HIGH

Meanwhile the government has given no indication whether it will meet the industry's request for a cut in purchase tax when the budget is announced next month. At present one-third of the purchase price of a new car goes in tax.

Nor has the government said anything more about wiping off the extra tax on gasoline which it clamped on after the Suez Canal was blocked. Before rationing, gasoline cost four shillings seven pence ($5 cents an imperial gallon. Now it costs six shillings and a penny (94 cents).

Britons were promised the extra tax would last only as long as rationing, but the government has said nothing on the subject since.

Little Benny's Notebook

After dinner pop was smoking the 2nd half of his first cigar, and ma said, Do you remember Anita Alvarez, William?

The name is musical but unfamiliar, pop said, and ma said, She was the cute little woman with the big earrings who gave me Spannish lessons the year we were married.

Yes gods, what made you suddinly think of her? pop said, and ma said, Nuthing, I mean litterly nuthing. I haven't heard a word either from or about her in all this time, she said.

That's about as nuthing as nuthing can get, pop said, and ma said, I must say her continued silence is not very flattering to me. I mean we really became quite frendly in a social way, and I remember the day she left for Mexico and gave me her address. Well, I haven't had a line from her in either language from that day to this. My, and I really flattered myself that she liked me enough to let me hear from her. If it was only a picture postcard of a bull fite. Oh dear, sutch is life, ms said.

Have you ever written to her? pop said, and ma said, Well no, as a matter of fact.

Isn't there an old Spannish proverb to the effect that it takes 2 to make a correspondents? pop said, and ma said, Well yes, but after all, she was the one that went away. And what could I say to her after all this time? she said.

You might ask her if her earrings were berning on the evening of sutch a date, because you were thinking of her and mentioning her by name, pop said, and ma said, Well yes, that's a clever idea. I'll think about it, she said.

Probably being all she will do about it.

36,302 Units Turned Out In February

WINDSOR (CP) — Canadian auto manufacturers turned out 36,302 units in February, but were 24.4 per cent below production schedules.

For the January-February period automobile production totalled 67,793 as against 47,940 in the same period in 1956.

Ward's Auto Reports said this year's two-month total was only two per cent lower than the all-time record for the period of 69,157 cars in 1954.

With spring around the corner, there has been a hint of rising car production during the past two weeks, Ward's said. The week's totals were 9,029 cars and 1,682 trucks.

CREDIT CONTROLS MAY BE IMPOSED BY GOVERNMENT

Harris May Touch on Question in Budget

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is considering introduction, of some form of stand-by credit controls, it is learned, and Finance Minister Harris may touch on this in his budget Thursday night.

Authorities said this consideration results from federal fears over inflation and the report of the Bank of Canada that installment finance companies have not co-operated in imposing voluntary credit restrictions.

Not all parts of the government are reported to be in favor of federal controls, but it is understood that a strong segment of the administration is in favor of them and Mr. Harris may agree to their wishes.

GAVE HINT

A hint that something is coming was given by External Affairs Minister Pearson in a Toronto speech Monday when he warned of the dangers of inflation.

"Now we will have to watch with extreme care and skill the greater price pressures which may develop and take such measures as necessary measures to prevent the dread spiral of costs and prices from getting out of hand," he said.

The government last imposed special "controls" during the Korean War—from Nov. 1, 1950, to May 6, 1952 — ordering minimum down payments and maximum monthly repayment periods. The question of whether they should be reimposed was raised informally among federal officials last year but the majority view was that they would require heavy administrative machinery and were not essential.

Since then there has been some change in view. Mr. Coyne said Monday that instalment finance companies did not go into line with bank lending regulations to cover finance companies. And he said also:

"Direct controls to restrict certain types of borrowing and financing, or the terms and conditions of foreign enterprises, could reduce funds to Canadian subsidiaries by discriminatory practices and could make possible a wider access, by residents of Canada, to sources that were not affected by the restrictions, to funds voluntarily loaned in the normal way.

"The adoption of restrictive measures of this kind would be a significant scale would, of course, be a major question of social policy, involving fundamentally a compulsory character which only Parliament can approve."

Finance Minister Harris To Present Budget Thursday

OTTAWA (CP) — Taxpayers will have their night in the Commons Thursday when Finance Minister Harris presents what is virtually certain to be a pre-election budget.

Mr. Harris informed the House Monday he will start his budget speech at 8 p.m., EST Thursday, disclosing the government's tax plans for the fiscal year which starts April 1.

He is expected to report a huge surplus in the government's financial operations in the current year ending March 31. But the government's concern about the threat of inflation in the country's booming economy likely will mean a minimum of tax cuts despite the anticipated nearness of an election.

In his 1956-57 budget, which he presented last March 20, Mr. Harris forecast a surplus for the year of $113,000,000. But the record spending and spending of Canadians during the last year has pushed far more tax money into the federal treasury and a surplus of possibly $300,000,000 likely will be shown.

Mr. Harris' surprise announcement of the budget date—it had generally been predicted that it would not come until March 31—followed on the heels of a new warning from Governor James Coyne of the Bank of Canada that inflationary forces have not yet been fully checked.

Both at a press conference and in the central bank's annual report issued Monday, Mr. Coyne urged Canadians to restrain their spending this year.

The government is believed to consider any large increase in income tax might only lead to more spending at a time when it feel spending is already higher than is economically healthy.

But the budget might produce tax cuts on some of the things Canadians buy.

It also is expected to produce an announcement of increases in old age pensions, if not for everyone at least for the needy. They now are $40 monthly for persons 70 and over and it has been reported they might go up by between $10 and $20 a month.

Most widely predicted date for the election is Monday, June 17.

PIPE LINE BILL TO SPLIT SHARES STALLED IN HOUSE

CCF Party Stages All-Day Debate

OTTAWA (CP) — A bill which would permit Trans Mountain Oil Pipe Line Company to split its 5,000,000 shares five for one has been stalled in the Commons.

The CCF party almost singlehanded staged an all-day debate Monday—the last of six Mondays this session reserved wholly for private bills, if the group can sustain its opposition during the remaining half hours a week provided for private legislation it may hit the bill this session.

The CCF opposition to the bill rests mainly on the contention that the move will pay the cost of splitting the shares.

The company, incorporated by Parliament in 1951 to deliver Alberta oil to the Vancouver area, has said it wants to split its shares, now selling for about $117, so that more small investors can buy stock.

NEEDS APPROVAL

It needs parliamentary approval for any change in its federal charter. The split would allow the dollar or a share to get five shares in exchange.

Critics of the Commons began a clause-by-clause study of the bill, CCF whip Hazen Argue, a lawyer and ex-pert, tried to have the discussion postponed.

He moved a delay on the ground that members had not yet received the report of the committee taken when the Commons railway committee questioned Trans Mountain officials last week about the bill.

Mr. Knowles said the support of the Progressive Conservative and Social Credit parties. However, the Liberal majority and three Quebec Independents upheld the Speaker by a vote of 85 to 56.

FIRST THIS SESSION

It was the first challenge of a Speaker's ruling this session. During the bitter Commons fight last year on the Trans-Canada gas pipeline issue, rulings by the Chair were frequently appealed.

Eight CCF speakers spoke in criticism of the bill, some of them drifting on occasion into the subject-ies to say why the bill should receive the go-ahead, Mr. Hellyer said.

But it was only to deny a suggestion by Frank Howard (CCF — Skeena) that the bill might mean money for the Liberal party fund.

Mr. McIvor said Mr. Zaplitny had been "misled" by reports. Mr. Zaplitny said the Liberals are content to sit back and "act as a group of rubber stamps" ready to approve the bill. Mr. McIvor replied he is not a rubber stamp.

UN Minimizes Egyptian Move To Control Gaza

Rights Never Questioned But Action Is Surprise

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y (CP) United Nations officials sought today to minimize the importance of Egypt's announced plans to resume control of the Gaza Strip. But there was talk that the General Assembly might be called back into session to deal with the new crisis.

There was no word from Cairo or Gaza early today that Egyptian officials actually had started moving back into the Mediterranean coastal strip to take over administration from the UN Emergency Force. UN sources in Cairo indicated they hoped Egypt could be persuaded to delay, at least for a short time.

The Egyptian announcement took officials by surprise. A source close to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold termed the action regrettable, but Undersecretary-General Ralph Bunche said in Cairo the UN never has questioned Egypt's legal rights regarding Gaza."

ISRAEL CONCERNED

Israel immediately expressed "grave concern" at the Egyptian move and declared the UNEF must "be vested with authority" for the administration of Gaza.

Moshe Leshem, spokesman for the Israeli foreign ministry, said in Tel Aviv that Israel has never asked for internationalization of the Gaza Strip."

Two Brantford Youths Charged After Man Shot

BRANTFORD (CP) — Two Brantford district youths found hiding in a shack early today were charged with shooting with the attempted murder of a service station operator Monday night in the village of Kelvin, about 15 miles southwest of here.

Police said they found Norman Douglas Anderson, 22, of Kelvin, and Melvin Woodard, 20, of Brantford lying face down in the shack about a mile from where Lloyd Silverthorne was shot in the stomach twice.

The youths had two .22 calibre rifles with them, police said. The weapons were found in the shack.

Silverthorne had two .22 calibre bullets removed from his abdomen after closing his station when he was accosted by two men. After shooting him they ran across to the store and collapsed on the floor.

He was taken to hospital where his condition is described as fair.

Vancouver Man, 5 Comrades Rescued From Lonely Island

DARWIN, Australia (Reuters)— Six tattered survivors of an ill-fated quest for sunken treasure reached here today with an account of shipwreck and struggle for survival on a tropical island.

The six, including James Burke, 32, of Vancouver, B.C., were part of the crew of the vessel Goldseeker, which sailed from Scotland last year seeking a reputed fortune in gold lying in the wreck of a Boston clipper which went down in New Zealand waters in 1856.

The Goldseeker foundered on Portuguese Timor a month ago. The Australian skipper, W. J. Havens, set out on foot with native guides to bring help.

But the crew members grew anxious and eventually launched a 16-foot sail-rigged lifeboat and set sail across the Timor Sea. For 18 days they were hammered by monsoon gales.

Buried ashore on lonely Bathurst Island the party struggled for existence without food or water. They were found and brought here by the Australian naval survey ship Cma.

Burke and two other survivors, suffering from severe exposure, malnutrition and (suspected internal injuries, were brought ashore on stretchers. The other three also were "in bad shape." All were bearded, thin and badly sunburned.

Peidro Burke they are: Verity Gill, 23, of Singapore; Allan Addison, 24, of Hamilton, New Zealand and his brother Robin; Chong Sen Yapp, 31, seaman of Kuala Lumpur, Malaya; and Arthur Donaher, 32, of Ireland.

"We became destitute soon after the skipper left and decided to make a run for it in a dinghy," Gill said. "Luckily for us there was a pig, 30 coconuts and bunches of bananas."

Burke was the only seaman aboard. He took a bearing from a picture postcard and worked on a pocket compass and they headed out sea.

Eventually they saw a light. "We thought that if it was a lighthouse, there would be a keeper, so we cheered up and ate more than we should of our remaining food. We were not to know it was an unmanned beacon on Bathurst Island.

"We heard surf roaring and thought we had a good landing. It wasn't. We hit rocks heavily and were all thrown out and had to swim for it. Fortunately all got ashore in spite of injuries."

Gill said after three days on the island most of them were sick from hunger. "We got a few sea snails and I began to kill some shrubs but they were horrible."

"We were on our way to get some sea snails yesterday when we heard a human shout. It was Jack Jensen (a local miner) and another man. They had found our tracks and followed them."

Boeing Airliner Makes Record Non-Stop Flight

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Boeing 707 airliner hooked a high wind across the Rockies to the roaring power of its jet engines Monday and carried 52 persons faster than any large group has ever before been transported.

Boosted to a ground speed peak of 698 miles an hour for a 2,350-miles, 3 hour, 58 minutes, 38 second, non-stop flight from Seattle, Wash., to Baltimore, Md., the world's largest commercial jet transport plane reached its destination with a half hour to spare.

Piloted by Tex Johnston, the 707 airliner hooked a high wind across the Rockies to the roaring power of its jet engines Monday and carried 52 persons faster than any large group has ever before been transported.

Boosted to a ground speed peak of 698 miles an hour for a 2,350-miles, 3 hour, 58 minutes, 38 second, non-stop flight from Seattle in the record time—for a transcontinental flight by a commercially-operated craft—of three hours and 48 minutes.

Its average speed for the 2,325 miles from Puget Sound to Chesapeake Bay, actually increased by the tail winds, was 612 miles an hour. Its top speed from its own power was 596 miles an hour.

But the speed of the plane, plus the forward movement of the mass of air in which it was traveling, added up to supersonic speed.

SLIM PICKINGS

HARRAH, Okla. (AP) — The wolves and coyotes must have been tipped off. The best 350 well-armed men could do Sunday was spot one wolf and kill a pair and three jackrabbits. The group stretched across Oklahoma's first wolf-coyote hunt after farmers in the area reported suffering livestock and chicken losses to the predators.

Dachshund, Pride of Two Sisters, Barks Out Answers to Questions

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A 3½-year-old dachshund named Heidi that apparently has solved arithmetic problems with ease by barking the correct answers is the pride of two London sisters, and a puzzle to local psychologists.

A pet of Barbara, 12, and Nancy 15, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. G. Hartley Philpot, Heidi has appeared on radio and television shows and is said to average nine appearances a week at fairs.

After hearing the dog bark 3 times to questions like "What is two plus two?" and "What is five, take away three?" a reporter decided on a test of her own. Standing behind the dog, she held up four fingers. Barbara asked, "Heidi, how many fingers is the reporter holding up?" Heidi turned around, looked for a second, and barked twice.

Barbara claims Heidi isn't stumped by such problems as "Five minus one, add two and divide by two."

Dr. John Paul, University of Western Ontario psychologist, said he understands recently conducted a series of tests with the dachshund.

Dr. Paul said: "We found that with the person who was thinking the answer and holding the food, the dog answered correctly nine times out of ten, which is more than just an element of chance. However, when one person knew of the answer and another held the food, the chance of correctness considerably about one out of ten.

"I thought of answers in three different languages, and Heidi was correct six out of seven times. She is a very intelligent dog, but it is very surprising."

Barbara said the keenest of Heidi's gift when the dog was about a year old. Johnny, she asked: "What is one and one?" and Heidi barked twice.

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP)—"We realized it was just a 50-50 chance."

Gregg Temperley of Powell River, B.C., a helicopter engineer, was talking Monday night about his rescue after being missing 12 days in the rugged mountain country of northern British Columbia.

Temperley had walked 35 miles from the scene of the helicopter's forced landing when found Saturday.

"I was hoping that somebody would come by. We realized it was just a 50-50 chance. Johnny couldn't do much — his feet was frozen from the instep down, all his toes."

Johnny is pilot John Watson of Yellowknife, Northwest Territories who asked to curb credit voluntarily. Temperley and Mr. Watson contract were found on foot and brought here by the Australian naval survey ship Cma.

Temperley was brought here by an RCAF search and rescue party.

Saturday Temperley had set out from the helicopter when the oil supply had dwindled to four days. Temperley ate Saturday.

About an hour after Temperley started Saturday, Mr. Oker started to Atlin to pick up Temperley and bring him to Whitehorse. He said he got lost in a storm and could none the worse.

Watson was to be picked up at the helicopter by another helicopter and flown to Whitehorse.

An aerial hunt began five days ago, covered 40,000 square miles before it ended with the news the finding of the grounded helicopter Monday. Temperley was found by the RCAF search and rescue party.

Now up to U.S. to Stop Nasser Declare British Newspapers

LONDON (Reuters) — Egypt's plans to resume administration of the Gaza Strip set off loud editorial outcries in British and French newspapers today. Most of them proclaiming the United States is morally bound to step in and stop the move.

Many papers made harsh comments on the effectiveness of the UN to deal with the Israeli-Egyptian dispute, with others pointing to the present crisis as the world organization's biggest test.

The Daily Telegraph says Egypt's plans to resume control are confronted everyone who placed trust in the UN.

"Peace can be saved only by recognizing that it is threatened by a megalomaniac," the Conservative paper says. "Several months ago he could have been removed by British and French arms. The United States, which frustrated that consummation, now must bear the responsibility for calling him to account."

The Daily Sketch headlines its editorial: "Stop him now, Ike." The tabloid says "Nasser now has surpassed Hitler in impudence and cannot be stopped by the UN and "with its comic opera army of occupation."

The Sketch adds: "The responsibility lies squarely and inevitably on the shoulders of President Eisenhower. He is the man who dictated the impossible situation, first by getting us out and then by getting the Israelis out."

The Edinburgh Scotsman says Nasser's announcement means "the American policy in the Middle East is "about to collapse like a house of cards."

The Scotsman says it was American pressure which forced Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion to order the Israeli withdrawal from Gaza. It continues: "Egypt now may reverse his policy, but not until "he has put the United States on the spot."

The Times says Egypt is not wholly to blame for the current crisis over the Gaza Strip. It adds:

The conservative French newspaper Le Figaro says Nasser's move is "a new challenge to the United Nations."

Le Figaro's editorial writer says: "Egyptian potentate's latest prank should open the eyes of those who thought he wheedled or lost by going to extremes to humor him."

Paris, influential Paris daily, says the trouble in Gaza proves that Egypt and Syria were in grant very limited confidence to the decisions taken in Washington."

20,000 Cheer As Pope Marks Anniversary

VATICAN CITY (Reuters) — Twenty-thousand Italians and foreigners gathered under handkerchiefs and cheered "long live the Pope" today as Pius XII was carried shoulder high through the piazza into Saint Peter's Basilica to celebrate the 19th anniversary of his coronation.

The aged, crippled Pope, whose birthday 10 days ago coincided with the 18th anniversary of his election as spiritual head of 450,000,000 Roman Catholics, attended a solemn thanksgiving mass in the world's largest church.

Swiss guards in red and stomask jerkins carried the Pope in procession through the central aisle of the cathedral on gold sanbois. Escorting the Pope were prelates and lay dignitaries of his court.

Plan to Invite Finger-Painting Ape To Exhibit in Show Enrages Artist

The question is whether the talented ape should be officially invited to display her abstractions at the next annual sidewalk art show sponsored by the students of the University of California's Berkeley campus.

The idea was broached Monday by Nora Hampton, director of the show who had read that Betsy's paintings have been selling for $25 each.

Mark Nobler, president of the Esther Gates Merchants Association which sponsors the show, found nothing in the by-laws forbidding exhibition of an ape, human, so he drafted a telegram to Betsy's keeper, Solomon of the sidewalks to Betsy's art.

At this point, Charles Modecke, one of the most prominent abstractionists in the bay area, got wind of Miss Hampton's project—and reacted. He said no chimpanzee was going to make a monkey out of him unless they'd have to choose — Modecke or Betsy. He wouldn't exhibit if Betsy did, he said.

Modecke complained:

"We painters in the non-objective medium get so little public support as it is. People are always asking what our paintings could do better.

"But chimpanzees?" he asked. "Next thing you know there were some purists—he wasn't one—who won't exhibit in the sidewalk show because it also features crafts.

"I don't want to be hard-nosed" he said. "Arts and crafts, yes. Chimpanzees, no."

Miss Hampton, in his invitation to Betsy until the exhibitioning artists decides themselves on Saturday night.

"Betsy will be represented at this year's exhibition," Crewcut, a local monkey who has taken part in the show in past years as a strolling entertainer.

Betsy was even mentioned a few days ago by Moscow Radio. A Kremlin commentator said:

"Certainly Eisenhower no doubt you think this is a joke. By no means. The U.S. regards the recent success of pictures painted by Betsy among the hysterical worshippers of abstract art."

BELLEVILLE PAIR LOSE IN CHESS TOURNEY

Martin Hamelink of Belleville lost his first game in the City of Kingston chess tournament last night, being defeated by W. Janischewskyj, who a fortnight ago beat the other Belleville entrant, Dick Payne. Payne dropped his second successive game last night losing to Kurt Bachofer, whom Hamelink had defeated a fortnight ago. With one round to play, Janischewskyj is alone in front with a 5-0 score, Hamelink, with 4-1, is in a third-place tie, while Payne has 2½-3½. There are 22 entries in the tournament.

FALLING CANOPY DAMAGES 2 CARS

March, although two weeks old now, waited until this morning to blow in.

This morning a plywood canopy, built to shield pedestrians from the alteration job in process at the Hotel Quinte on Pinnacle St., was bowled over by the northgale spring breezes.

Nothing would have been spectacular had not two cars been parked in the line of the canopy's fall.

Damage to the autos was superficial and workmen soon fell to the task of uprighting the canopy.

Mr. Belair and Mr. McKay are probably hoping March will go out like a lamb.

WILLIAM ALTON RETURNS AS MANAGER

William Alton, a native of Belleville, but well known by people of this district for several years as an employee of Quick and Robertson's, yesterday, returned to this city as manager.

Mr. Alton of Belleville to become assistant manager of the Ross Store in Weston two years ago.

The Ross organization which took over control of Quick and Robertson at that time, was organized 30 years ago. It now has seven stores located in Lindsay, Welland, Oakville, Weston, Huntsville, Milton and Belleville.

Mr. Alton who is glad to be home again renewed all friendly acquaintances and business associates while in Belleville store.

Mr. Alton will work under Harold S. Thurston, general manager for Ross Stores.

Tourist Booklet For City, County Now off Press

A gorgeous color shot of a placidly picturesque section of Shootenuata River near Actinolite will grace the cover of the 1957 edition of the Highlands of Hastings tourist booklet of which 12,000 are now rolling off the press.

The tourist booklet is published by the Belleville Chamber of Commerce with the city of Belleville and the county of Hastings sharing its costs. The Ontario Intelligencer job printing staff is doing the work.

The cover shot gracing this year's edition is particularly attractive with fall-tinged birches in the foreground, the blue water of the Skootenatta, and the cloud studded blue sky contrasting with the green foliage of the trees.

The booklet lists many of the tourist attractions of the city of Belleville and the county of Hastings and includes a large scale map with main highways leading into the district. Material for the pamphlet was compiled by Robt. Hamilton, secretary manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

Some 1,500 persons, who made enquiries during the Ontario Development Association booth at the sportsmen's show in New York, will be mailed copies of the pamphlet, while they will also be distributed to Ontario sportsmen's show to be held in that city during the month.

They will also be distributed throughout the local area and at border crossing points.

Belleville Takes 14-11 Badminton Win Over Picton

Improved form in mixed doubles helped the Belleville Garrison Badminton Club to eke out a close 14-11 victory against a visiting Picton team over the week-end.

The visitors showed a clear edge at men's doubles running up a five to three lead.

Belleville's mixed doubles players won three of five matches in this division but Picton still led 8-6 going into the decisive mixed doubles event.

In a close contest Picton had outclassed Belleville in the men and women's doubles, but on this occasion the home players showed the benefit of practice in this type of game by outscoring their rivals 8-4 and ringing up a total count of 14-11.

Following the matches, the teams were entertained at a supper and dance at the Hasty Pees Officers' Mess.

The competing teams were: Belleville, (men), Bonnell, Hesdon, Cowley, Grant, Law, Walker, Stewart, Potts, Walmsley, Brown, Tomaso, Peterson; Mc-Bride, Gee, Lyons, Potts. (Women) Callaghan, Cowley, Law, Walker, Stewart, Potts, Mills, Calnan, Armstrong, Hull, Waldron and Law.

Innocent Victim of Blown Tire

Innocent victim of a blown tire which sent an approaching car crashing into his own vehicle, shown above, Earl Waite, 20, R.R. 4 Belleville, (the set) was fatally injured Monday morning on No. 2 highway six miles east of the city. He died an hour later in Belleville General Hospital. The youth was giving his car a trial spin after installation of an axle when a car driven by Cecil Duffield, Deseronto, blew a tire and went out of control. Mr. Duffield is in hospital with head and hip injuries. Donald Cranston, Toronto, driver of a third car involved, escaped with a shaking up.

City, District Labor Council Holds Meeting

The first meeting of the Belleville and District Labor Council, C.L.C. was held recently at the Odd Fellows Hall.

A large group of delegates from the Belleville and District local unions was present. The new Council known now as Belleville and District Labor Council, C.L.C. was formed to merge the former Belleville Trades and Labor Council and the Quinte District Labor Council.

Officers present at this meeting were D. Burshaw, president, vice-pres. J. Harwood, vice-pres. J. Asselstine, vice-pres. F. Dandie, rec. sec. D. La Rue, serg-at-arms H. Pointer, exec. committee, A. Pirth, A. Whitehead, J. M. King, M. Angus, and Mrs. M. Doogan.

The minutes of a previous meeting were read by the president and approved. Corresponding sec. D. La Rue read the correspondence. In his letter to the Council Mr. Thomas B. Ward, director, Provincial Federated Labor Council C.L.C. stated that he wished the Belleville and District Labor Council every success and would endeavor to be present at one of the regular meetings in the very near future.

The financial statement was given by financial sec. F Daniels.

President Burshaw read the constitution, and it was approved by the council. A charter by the Canadian Labor Congress has been applied for.

The president introduced Mr. A Harris, C. W. of A. representative, C.L.C. Mr. Harris gave an inspiring speech on union organization. He also thanked the council for their co-operation in his endeavor to organize the Northern Electric workers. He said that Belleville is more labor-minded than he had thought, judging by the attendance of this meeting.

Another guest introduced was Mr. Wm. Hegge, U. P. H. W. A. Representative, C.L.C. Mr. Hegge wished the new council every success and felt sure that by what he had already observed in the council, that it was certainly doing a fine job.

Last but not least the President introduced Henry Nokes, representative, Canadian Labor Congress and untiring worker in the labor movement. Mr. Nokes in his address said that the council could become among one of the best councils in Ontario. He urged all unions in the Belleville and District to affiliate with the Council. Cherish your union and this Council, be enthusiastic in what you believe. Work for the council and you will find help for yourself on many others was the advice given.

New Federal Building Completed In Three Years Rotarians Told

Maurice Desrochers, public relations officer of the Dominion Post Office, Ottawa, told members of the Rotary Club of Belleville yesterday that the new public federal building in Belleville should be completed within two or three years, perhaps sooner. He said tenders have already been called for the demolition and clearing of the building now established on the site. Blueprints for the new structure, he said, have been made and, although he has not seen them, Mr. Desrochers believed the design will follow that of the post office at Cornwall and Peterborough. The appropriation for construction will be in the national estimates to be released soon.

MAY HAVE TV

The speaker hinted that the new post office will have observation galleries, perhaps even television for the purpose of keeping watch on post office employees. Mr. Desrochers said that the Canada Post Office has used observation galleries for the past 75 years as a protection for the public as well as employees.

"Post office employees," he said, "are only human. Like everyone else they sometimes make mistakes. What would a person do if he were suddenly confronted with an easy way of picking up a sizable amount of cash? Many charitable organizations receive donations through the post and in-frequently a post office employee may think he can get rich fast if he pilfers from the mail."

Television and observation galleries are for your protection, as well as for the protection of our men and women," said Mr. Desrochers.

BIG BUSINESS

At present the Canada Post Office has 12,000 branches in Canada, which employ a total of 47,000 people. The post office department is made up of five main branches: administration, operations, financial (49 million pieces of money order paper processed by this branch in 1956 for a total value of $725 million, or roughly $15 per money order), transportation (195 trucks being used in addition), and personnel, which looks after the welfare of employees.

Mr. Desrochers said the post office department is faced with a serious problem: that of processing undeliverable mail. This, he asserted, could be alleviated if every person using the mails would make doubly certain he has placed the correct address and return address on his shipment.

MANY "DEAD" LETTERS

Last year the Belleville post office was unable to deliver or return 17,000 pieces of mail. During the Christmas rush 7,000 cards were undelivered. All of these pieces of mail wound up in the dead letter office, Ottawa, the proper spot at the point of mailing failed to address the card properly or include a return address.

The post office does everything possible to deliver mail, he said, but at a loss when sufficient directions are absent on envelopes. "In this case," the speaker said, "letters and parcels go to the dead letter office where, in the case of letters not containing money, they are kept for three months before being destroyed. If an envelope contains money, then after a suitable period of, if it is not claimed by its rightful owner, the cash goes to the treasury and the other contents destroyed."

DESTROY "DEAD" MAIL

Parcels that are intercepted in transit containing liquor, explosives, inflammables, lottery or raffle tickets are turned over to police and after investigators track down their source, they destroy the parcels in the presence of two postal officers and two members of the RCMP. Undelivered or unreturned parcels containing new merchandise are kept for a while and then sold at an annual auction sale. Used merchandise is given to recognized charitable organizations. Envelopes, without sufficient address, constitute documents and are kept for one year, then destroyed.

Mr. Desrochers urged residents of the Belleville district to be sure they address correctly their correspondence, and to be sure to include a legible return address, because the cost of handling undelivered letter amounts to 11 cents or 17 cents a parcel.

The percentage of mail addressed to deceased persons is almost negligible.

Mr. Desrochers was introduced by Donald MacKinnon and thanked by Enos David and President E. G. Gurnett.

Contract for Water Storage Dam on Napanee R. Awarded

The contract for the construction of a water storage dam on the Napanee river at 2nd Depot Lake, 25 miles north of Napanee, has been let by the Napanee River Valley Authority to Hoskin Borders Ltd., of Toronto, at a price of $104,720.

Total cost of the dam, including acquisition of property, excavation of two roads and other incidentals will run close to $150,000 it is estimated. The contract for the construction of the storage dam was let Friday at a meeting of the Authority held at Napanee.

The dam, planned to create a storage area to increase the summer flow of water, will have a capacity of 8,600 acre-feet, the man-made lake to cover approximately 1,200 acres.

The project is the largest attempted by a river authority east of Toronto, the previous high being the construction of the Deloro Dam on the upper Moira several years ago.

The dam will be of earth construction 185 feet long with a concrete spillway section, and will be 25 feet high above the low level of the river. Water stored behind the dam will be sufficient to maintain a minimum flow of 50 cubic feet per second at Napanee during the months of July, August and September.

Construction will get underway as soon as river conditions permit, the completion date set being November 15, 1957.

Orson Welles Falls Into Canal

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Orson Welles fell into a Venice canal yesterday. Venice, you can't call it—and was hurt Saturday, his physician reported Monday. Welles slipped on the brink while on a movie location. The injuries will hamper the work he is to go on as director and a star of Badge of Evil, said Dr. Maurice Rapf.

He said the hefty performer suffered a severe sprain of the left ankle and knee, facial cuts and a possible break of his left wrist. He got out of the canal under his own power.

IN MEMORIAM

SMITH — In loving memory of a dear father, Arthur James Smith, who passed away March 12th, 1956.

He wished no one a last farewell,
Nor even said goodbye;
He had gone before we knew,
And only God knew why.
Sadly missed in heavenly gardens,
Away from sorrow and pain,
Safe in the arms of Jesus,
Dear father, to meet again.

We shall all be together again.
Inserted by daughter Grace, son Harold and son-in-law Jack.

SMITH — In loving memory of a grandfather, Arthur James Smith, who passed away March 12th, 1956.

It only takes a little space to write
how much we miss you
But it will take a lot more than all our lives to forget the day we lost you.
Sadly missed by grandchildren
Lillian and Lois.

SMITH — In loving memory of Arthur James Smith, father and grandfather, who passed away on March 12th, 1956.

A kind husband, a secret tear,
Keeps his memory ever dear.
A heart of gold, a smile of grief,
Is memories we treasure most.
Ever remembered by daughter Alva and son-in-law Frank, children Betty, Francis, William, Jean and Donald, also great grandchildren Lynda and Marlene Hales and Francis Gunn.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market moved slightly in narrow late morning trading today. Base metals had the heaviest index loss, down nearly three-quarters of a point.

Industrials lost one-half point on their index and western oils nearly one-half point. Trading was considerably slower than Monday with an 11 a.m. volume of 1,128,000 compared with 1,817,000.

Profit-taking, which reduced prices Monday, was much in evidence again in all sections. But there were a few sizeable gains among western oils and mines.

International Nickel lost 1¼ points at 97 among senior base metals. Noranda and Opemiska were off ½. Labrador gained ¼ at 19½. Uraniums were easier, led by Consolidated Denison which lost ⅜ to 22. Gunnar was off ¼ at 20¾. Algom, however, gained ⅛ at 22.

Lake Shore Gold Mines gained 15 cents at $5 and a few other low-priced mines had advances ranging to 10 cents. Eastern Mining lost 15 cents at $3.50.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 4-7-16 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Monday's noon rate 95⅝ cents. Pound sterling $2.67 3-16, up 1-16.

Canadian Dollar Now at New Peak

NEW YORK (AP)—The Canadian dollar pushed ahead today to its greatest premium over the U.S. dollar since November, 1933. It was quoted in early trading at $1.04 23-32 in terms of the U.S. dollar, up $16 from Monday's close. This was the highest level reached by the Canadian dollar in 24 years and compared with the 1933 peak of $1.05⅜.

The strength of Canada's dollar has been attributed to the flood of U.S. money going into Canada for investment. Also Canadian business has been actively raising funds in the U.S. capital market because of lower American interest rates.

Marler Corrects Report on Cost Of New Channel

MONTREAL (CP) — Transport Minister Marler said Monday he wished to correct a "wholly unfounded impression" that excavation of a Canadian channel north of Cornwall Island had added $50,000,000 to the total cost of the St. Lawrence seaway.

In an address to a luncheon meeting of the Canadian Automotive Wholesalers and Manufacturers Association, he said the excavation "will involve a slightly larger outlay on our part, but the additional cost of about $4,500,000 is, we think, fully justified by the immediate and prospective usefulness of this channel."

Will Speak Here

DR. ERNEST C. HUNTER

Dr. Ernest Crossley Hunter, Minister, Trinity United Church, Toronto, who is to be the guest speaker at the annual general meeting of the Children's Aid Society at Belleville on Friday, March 15. Dr. Hunter, the son of the Reverend J. E. Hunter of the famous evangelistic team of Crossley and Hunter, is one of the most sought-after speakers in Ontario today. A past president of the Toronto Conference of the United brethren in Christ, he is at present on the Board of Governors of Alma College, St. Thomas, and the Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby. He has two sons, both of whom are in the ministry of the United Church, one at Collingwood, the other in Toronto.

750 Beds Freed At Sanatorium

HAMILTON (CP) — Dr. H. T. Ewart, medical superintendent of the Hamilton Health Association, says a steady decline in the number of tuberculosis patients here has cleared the way for converting the Mountain Sanatorium's Wilcox Building into a children's hospital.

He said 750 beds now are free at the sanatorium.

In his report at the association's annual dinner, Dr. Ewart said a survey indicated a children's hospital was the most pressing need in the community.

Conversion of the Wilcox Building would cost $2,000,000 and the new hospital would include clinics, operating rooms and isolation accommodation.

Acceptance Firms Take Exception To Statements

TORONTO (CP) — Officials of large acceptance firms said Monday they have made attempts to co-operate with the Bank of Canada in cutting consumer spending.

They commened in interviews on criticism of instalment finance companies by Governor James E. Coyne of the Bank of Canada.

Officials said that following Ottawa meetings with Mr. Coyne last year, the large acceptance firms had tried to tighten credit financing of goods such as cars, refrigerators and other articles in three ways:

They had tried to cut the number of payments allowed the customer to 24 from 30; they had required larger down payments; they had examined the credit position of customers closely.

However in the attempt, was voluntary, it had been to some extent up to the individual dealer.

PERSONAL LOANS

An official of a large personal loan company said Monday criticism of instalment finance companies by Governor probably was not aimed at his type of firm.

J. A. Bray, public relations officer for Household Finance, Inc., said in an interview a revision of the Consumer Loans Act in 1956 which came into effect at the start of this year would make small loan companies "more selective and almost eliminate loans between $1,000 and $1,500."

He said loan companies such as his borrow from the banks and in the $1,000-$1,500 bracket now will have to charge six per cent or the equal of what they are charged on their own borrowings. This made such loans not worthwhile. Companies such as his had little effect on consumer credit because most of their loans were to people who were paying other credit by getting personal loans.

Oshawa By-Law Says Landlord Must Provide Adequate Heat

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP)—Memo to landlords here: Better listen carefully the next time tenants complain about the lack of heat.

If the tenant can prove you are "freezing" the premises, then look out.

The reason for the new emphasis on this age-old dispute is a by-law just passed by city council, which states the landlord must provide adequate heat during the cold season.

70-DEGREE AVERAGE

Oshawa is one of the first cities to implement this part of the act. Toronto and Windsor were the first Ontario cities to require adequate heating for tenants by passing by-laws, which were approved by special acts of the legislature. Subsequent legislation however allows all municipalities to do so.

Under the Oshawa civic by-law landlords now are required to maintain an average temperature of 70 degrees in premises occupied from Oct. 15 to May 15. Violators may be fined up to $300 and costs.

Ald. Gordon B. Attersley, who piloted the by-law after a lengthy numerous complaints from tenants, said: "It is not directed at the legitimate landlord, the man who provides reasonable facilities and accommodation. Rather it is directed at the landlord who wants to get rich at the expense of his tenant, who is unable to fight back."

On an earlier attempt to get the by-law passed he found provincial statutes did not permit the move. The Factory and Office Act covers only commercial premises, requiring an average of 65 degrees.

WRITTEN COMPLAINTS

Now tenants who believe their complaints of poor heating are justified must put them in writing, and city health authorities are empowered to appoint an inspector to investigate. Dr. W. G. McKay, medical officer of health, said the city sanitary inspector will be instructed to handle complaints.

If a magistrate's court, the landlord, the city inspector and the tenant will each get a chance to present his side of the story. Tenants will be represented by the city solicitor.

J. E. Hamlet, a barrister who owns apartment houses here, supported the by-law as an "excellent move."

"Good landlords who want their tenants will also give them good service," he said.

Admiral Byrd, Polar Explorer, Dies in Sleep

BOSTON (AP) — Rear-Admiral Richard E. Byrd, 68, noted explorer who headed two Arctic and five Antarctic expeditions, died in his sleep at his home Monday night.

His doctors said he died of a heart ailment brought on by overwork. Byrd was the second head of the U.S. Navy's huge Operation Deep Freeze in Antarctica in this International Geophysical Year, but his failing heart kept him from assuming on-the-spot supervision.

He was the first man to fly over both the North and South Poles and his descriptions of explorations of the world's frozen wastes included the Congressional Medal of Honor.

He is credited with charting some 2,000,000 square miles of the earth's surface previously unseen by man. No one has ever equalled that feat.

RETIRED, CAME BACK

After his graduation from the U.S. Naval Academy in 1912, a leg injury forced Byrd into early retirement. But he came back to serve in both world wars, pioneer in naval aviation and command the first multi-engined plane to fly the Atlantic continent-to-continent, non stop.

Byrd was commissioned a rear-admiral at the age of 41, the youngest of that rank in the U.S. Navy at the time.

His last trip to the South Pole was in late 1955 and early 1956, flying over the heartland of Antarctica despite his advanced age.

Byrd first flew to the North Pole in 1926 and to the South Pole in 1929.

BUILD HOMES

SEPT-ISLES, Que. (CP) — Plans to build 100 homes for sale to its employees here were announced by the Iron Ore Company of Canada. Money would be invested in down payments where necessary, the remainder payable over a 25-year period.

Blonde Defeats Quiz Show King

NEW YORK (AP)—An attractive newcomer with a knowledge of kings Monday night dethroned Charles Van Doren from his 14-week reign as ruler of NBC's Twenty-One television quiz program.

By bumping Van Doren off the show, Mrs. Vivienne Nearing, a 30-year-old blonde, picked up $1,000 and replaced the Columbia University professor as star of the show.

Reduces Award For Services

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario Court of Appeal Monday cut from $10,850 an award of $18,150 made to Mrs. Kathleen Lahay, 56, for personal and nursing services rendered to the late Dr. William E. Brown of Orillia.

Mr. Justice W. F. Spence of the Supreme Court of Ontario made the award last year. Mrs. Lahay had been employed as housekeeper, chauffeur, nurse, cook and gardener by Dr. Brown for 15 years before his death in 1955.

The award, which included money for services to Dr. Brown's second wife, Grace Huff Brown, was appealed by his third wife, Mary Adelaide Brown, executor of his $40,000 estate.

Police Blotter

City and provincial police reported a relatively quiet night and watch with no accidents of a serious nature occurring.

In the city a runaway car caused slight damage to a parked auto on Bridge street opposite the armouries. The car had been parked on East Bridge St., hill and rolled unattended down the incline striking the parked vehicle.

And pitchblenders armed with B-B guns are using floodlights at the Queen's Motel in the east end of the city as targets. The motel owner reported the lights were being shot out.

Mantle, Trumble Pace Marmora to Third Victory

MARMORA (Special)—Bucky Mantle and Ken "Stub" Trumble went on a scoring spree here last night and paced Marmora to a 7-4 triumph over Madoc in their OHA Intermediate "C" northern finals.

Marmora now has a 3-1 stranglehold in the four-of-seven series and can wrap up the series with a victory in Madoc Wednesday night.

Mantle and Trumble accounted for all seven Marmora goals. Mantle was the big gun, scoring four times including two in the third, one in the first and one in the second. Trumble bagged the other three with two of these on solo efforts.

Mantle's goal in the first on assists from Leonard and Brooks was the only marker of the period. Marmora netted three in the second before Madoc finally scored and the homesters held a 4-1 edge entering the third.

The clubs split the six third-period markers but Madoc never got closer than two goals.

Brooks followed Mantle and Leonard with a three-point scoring with-three assists, while Leonard and Jones each had two. Cousins and Lloyd Snider had the others.

MacLellan participated in all Madoc scoring plays, netting a single goal and three assists, while Jackie Wambaugh had one and two assists. Jud Barnard and Ernie Carswell fired the other goals and Barnard had a single assist.

Price Spread Between Farmer, Consumer Subject of Debate

TORONTO (CP) — Agricultural Minister Goodfellow of Ontario says interprovincial trade in farm produce makes any inquiry into the price spread between the farmer and the consumer a federal government responsibility.

He suggested to the Ontario legislature Monday during discussion of his department's budget estimates, that a study be made of the duties of the federal and provincial agriculture departments to define responsibilities and prevent overlapping.

He said there is a "tendency to cheap food policy at the expense of producers." As a farmer, he said, he held reservations on parity but favored realistic floor prices.

CCF Leader MacDonald told the legislature the federal and provincial governments have made a political football out of the price-spread question.

UNGIA RESTRICTION

The minister was urged to restrict some food imports from the United States by Ross Wilcher (L—Bruce), who said the farmers are in bad financial shape.

Many loans made to junior farmers are in arrears, Mr. Goodfellow said. The government did not intend to foreclose, however, without an investigation.

New three-quart milk containers now appearing in Ontario will probably result in the consumer paying less for milk, the minister said. This lower price will not harm the producers' return as legislation to be introduced would protect the dairy producers if a price war broke out among distributors, he said.

Another measure to be introduced would remove the price ceiling on milk sold in stores. Delivered milk is already unrestricted.

HAS POWER

Mr. Goodfellow said the milk board still has power to step in and regulate prices if distributors take advantage of the lack of controls.

In a drive to clean up current work by the end of the month, Premier Frost gave notice the House will start sitting at night and spend its afternoon sittings by one hour.

Belleville Service Darts League

CJBQ qualified for the Belleville Service Darts League "A" group finals last night by ousting CHIC two games to one. They will meet ANAF for the group championship next Monday night.

The "B" group finals got under way last night in the form of a 7-5-3 series between Central Park and Northern Electric. The Text team took a two games to one level last night. This series will also be completed next week.

RCAF finished in first place during the regular schedule to capture the league championship.

The legislature will be meeting tonight and Thursday night. Afternoon sittings will probably start at 2 p.m. next week instead of 3.

The session, which started Jan. 28, is expected to end in the last week of March or the first week in April.

WEATHER SUPERLATIVES

What follows after "than" is generally the same word, which makes the comparisons somewhat ridiculous.

Now, in the interests of variety and brevity, our congratulations should be extended to the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, for giving us something different for the weather to be hotter, colder, wetter and drier than.

In "Science Notes" UNESCO lists records.

The highest temperature ever officially recorded was 136 degrees Fahrenheit. This was attained on Sept. 13, 1922, in Tripolitania, Libya.

The coldest temperature reported was 90 degrees below zero, the mercury having taken this dive three times. The first two plunges came close together, on Feb. 7 and again on Feb. 9, 1892, at Verhoyansk, in Siberia. Almost 41 years later, on Feb. 1, 1933, at Oimekon, Siberia, the mark was equalled. Greenland comes up with a creditable "place" mark, 87 below on Dec. 6, 1949.

The highest average temperature for an entire year was recorded at Lugh in Italian Somaliland, in Africa, 88 degrees. The next average annual tamperature was 22 below zero, on the Antarctic ice-cap. And that mark, mind you, was attained in spite of six months of continuous sunshine.

Wrap yourself in cotton wool and immerse in a bathtub for a couple of hours and you might be as dripping wet as you would have been if you had been at Nome, Alaska, on June 29, 1947. Twelve inches of rain fell there in 42 minutes. That, though, was just a flash in the pan. The greatest rainfall for a year was the 610 inches on Mount Waialeale, Kauai, Hawaiian Islands. It's a good thing that that rain fell on a mountain where there was a quick run-off. Otherwise the observer would have had to be 61 feet tall to have come above the waterline. Calaleale, though, is not consistent. The long-time record belongs to Cherrapunji, India, with an average of 450 inches of rain annually for 39 years.

The driest spot on earth, aside from a prohibitionist paradise on a Saturday night, is in the northern desert of Chile. The average rainfall there over a period of 43 years was only .04 of an inch annually. Some other desert areas have gone without rain for several years, but just when they look to be set to upset the champion a bird spits and their record is pushed.

So there you are. Hotter than Libya, colder than Verhoyansk, wetter than Holt and drier than Chile.

DIET FOR AN ENTERTAINER

Bob Monkhouse, described by BBC London Letter as "one of Britain's busiest and most exuberant radio and television entertainers," has a health recipe — a daily diet of five pints of cream, two steaks, some raisins, a few cigarets and very little alcohol.

The public is always receiving fascinating tips on proper diet. Generally, however, they are from people who have managed to weather the storms of many decades and are advising the younger generations just how to do likewise. These recipes for health and longevity are always fascinating and frequently contradictory. "Arise at 5 a.m., eat a good breakfast, work twelve hours a day, never drink alcoholic beverages or smoke and go to bed early," advises one. Jones on his 98th birthday: "Get a lot of rest, make dinner your big meal, take a tot of rum for a cold and whiskey in the evening to relax your nerves, soothe yourself with a pipeful of good tobacco whenever you feel like it and have fun," urges Mr. Smith. "Good thick steaks are what a person needs to keep up her strength," opines Mrs. Brown. "A vegetable diet, with lots of salads, keeps one healthy," says Mrs. Black, and so it goes.

Now, besides diets to help us live to a ripe old age, we have a diet to make us exuberant entertainers. That, at least, is the only reason we can think for "London Letter" telling us what Bob Monkhouse eats. It would be interesting to have more information on the subject. Just what are the dietary differences between a Perry Como and another an Elvis Presley? What are the eating habits of Jack Benny and Bob Hope? Could Jane Wyman be transformed into Jayne Mansfield, and vice versa, by switching their dietary pails?

Or, coming to the political field, would Hon. C. D. Howe and Davie Fulton get real chummy if they were fed by the same cook? Would Nasser be a pal of Ben-Gurion if his food were kosher?

And, finally and most important, what is the secret diet that will fill a daily column with editorials that sparkle, fill it in mail an hour without pain or strain?

ANY CONNECTION?

Stabbings and crimes of violence have become a national menace in South Africa, according to a recent report by Reuters. It quotes the Penal Reform League as saying that it is time for South Africans to take stock "of the frightening outbursts of violence which threatens the foundations of social peace in our land."

Writing in the Johannesburg Star about movies for Bantu (native) workers in the mines, Ross Bresler says that "to the Bantu the film is more than entertainment, it is revolution." Westernization is there, he says.

If the Bantu considers this civilization, perhaps the wave of violence only indicates his desire to be civilized.

COLD

I'd like to be well and about
And rid of my various ills,
And I say what no caller can doubt:

I'm weary of powders and pills.
He has numerous patients to see,
As often the doctor has told,
So I know just why it must be
That stethoscope disk is so cold.

I think I'm not one to complain,
My doctor's devotion I trust,
I try all the twinges of pain
To suffer as well as I must.
I've given up forever the hope
That when he bends to examine my form,
The end of his old stethoscope
Some day I will find to be warm.

I wish he'd a patient next door
I'd like to be second in line.
I don't want to feel any more
The chills that have often been mine.
An ice box that black bag must be,
His instruments safely to hold.
Whenever he puts it on me
Why must that device be so cold?

Letter To The Editor

Need for Education For Parenthood Seen

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

To yourself and all the others who have participated actively in Education Week, may I bring the public of Ontario a deep appreciation for your concerted efforts to make "Education Everybody's Business."

Your editorial, Harriet Steven's column and the panel discussions over CJBQ have supplied much scope for thought. It is a pity to see qualified folks in all walks of life seriously considering the value of our educational system.

If the concept that a child is molded by the age of 5 or 7 holds even a modicum of truth, society, the responsibility for the success or "failure" of the individual cannot be allowed to lie with any given system of education. The onus must rest with frightening heavenly squarely on the parent's shoulders of the parents.

We are now in the years of training. "book-learning" if you will, that it takes to prepare a doctor, lawyer, journalist, teacher or preacher for his chosen profession. But what of the fail-accumulations required to become a parent? One must be 21 to be considered a good enough to vote; 18 to marry. An applicant for a driver's permit must pass examination in the industrial world must have a certificate of good health. In most other parts of the world it is obligatory that a person wishing to become a family to undergo blood tests and medical examination. But what of the world?

Of course lives cannot be regimented until the state becomes supreme. But if it is considered best for children to go to school until they are 16, surely the responsibilities and responsibility of the parent to the child should not be neglected.

There has been a public demand for a stronger moral emphasis in public schools which has resulted in religious teaching becoming one more duty added to the already overburdened teacher. Surely in a country with many religious faiths, sects and denominations flourish, teachers cannot be expected to be the final authority on tolerance which can become merely an expression of indifference.

Moral and spiritual responsibility begins in the home. Despite the jokes about clergymen's children, they do not furnish the largest proportionate number of names to the criminal records. J. Edgar Hoover, head of the F.B.I., has said that the moment that the percentage of delinquents coming from homes where grace and Sunday school was considered a duty, an obligation accepted by the parents, is appreciably smaller than that where no such training was received. Real paternal, maternal or pedagogical love expresses itself in concern for the character of the child and in helping him to strengthen it. Jesus said, "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not." He chastenth also applies to those seeking to bring children into the world on a basis first to recognize hypocrisy. The old "Do as I say, not as I do" routine only awakens scorn. An ounce of example is worth a pound of precept. Children parented by those who do not keep them, and by those things parents submit to control and discipline are more than likely going to be bad.

Not all children of bad parentage come to bad ends but they are more apt to reach a degree of success in spite of the neglect of, their home influence.

I only commend to who object to paying taxes for education throwing up their hands in despair and asking "Should parent education too?" Why not? Money spent on education of parents always outweighs any expenditure for education.

It isn't no very long ago that a woman expecting a baby expected nothing. Today child-birth is a happier affair and pre-natal and post-natal clinics are doing much to create every hope of healthy beginning. It is so strange to think that through education those instrumental in producing lives can be brought to a full, strong conviction that each of these new lives is not only a responsibility but one on fresh orange juice and high priced vitamins but a mind and soul to be fed a diet complete with of moral integrity, honesty, courage, truthfulness, industry, courtesy, kindness, generosity, personal responsibility, love of justice and love of God by the law which regardless of home and church demands a certain standard of moral behavior?

Thanking you again I am
Yours sincerely
Roberta Geneja

Fast Driver Loses Case

Ottawa Journal

In a 7-ontreal court Mr. Justice Oulmet has given a judgment which should be of interest to many motorists. He was hearing his own and drive motor vehicles.

A man sued an insurance company which had refused to pay for damages done in such an accident. It turned out in evidence that the plaintiff had been driving in what Mr. Justice Oulmet called "furious fashion" on a busy highway at speeds up to 85 miles per hour before the accident and had been fined $50 for dangerous driving.

His Lordship ruled that the insurance company could not be held "to interpret its contract in such a way that it would be illegal and contrary to good morals —the accident, he added, "was undoubtedly the result of gross negligence and a criminal act which the plaintiff admitted" committing." He says, does not protect the driver against damages to his car that are the result of his own gross negligence. It is something for drivers to keep in mind.

It does not follow, we are sure, that an insurance company can use this Montreal case as justification for refusing to pay damages arising from momentary lapse of vigilance on the part of drivers—a lapse that may rush his vehicle into a tree or ditch. That may be negligence but it is far from "gross negligence" as the phrase was used by Justice Oulmet.

Nevertheless if a driver reports a succession of accidents that have been his own fault the insurance company is likely to study his record with considerable care and may indeed cancel his policy. The accident-prone driver is not the sort who is dear to the heart of the insurance adjusters.

Please Smile For Passport

New York Herald Tribune

Whatever other useful functions they serve, passport photos have never been regarded as the epitome of art. This is said with no tinge of regret, for it follows that most people expect very little of passport photos, least of all a good resemblance.

Now, however, along comes an authentic artist on the subject, Miss Frances G. Knight, passport chief of the United States. Miss Knight has been examining profiles of passport photos, a job that would try the soul of most, and she comes up with the suggestion that travelers keep smiling.

Well, it is worth a try, of course, it raises the question that so many people ask as they travel through life: "What's there to smile about?" But surely tourists, particularly as they start on their journeys, have every reason to do so. Perhaps a change in situation might be different upon their return, when all the bills have been paid and the necessity for returning to work raises its unwelcome head.

On the other hand, a passport is the closest that most of us get to appearing on a official document, aside from the income tax form, so that there is a certain degree of solemnity is not altogether inappropriate.

Miss Knight offers us all possible support in her pleasant crusade and we cheerfully vote her flexible and unyielding. And passport photos may well be one of them.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A telephone company employee tells me it is astonishing the way telephone traffic dies down in the evening about the time a big hour TV programs of the spectacular type are on.

This suggests a very useful tip. We all have interminable blathering visitors around to see various friends. You know; when the phone rings, you say to yourself that you have to be out, or Cheri or Harry. That means a half hour, at least.

Yet your conscience demands that you call them up once in a while. Let it be tonight, your friends, however long-winded. The TV station will be grateful to you. You call them up exactly at 8 p.m. Sunday, just as Ed Sullivan is coming on. Or, in the case of Harry, at precisely 10 p.m. Friday, just as Hockey Night begins. I don't know about the schedule in your region; but you get the idea. Make your call just as the biggest TV program of the week is about to start.

You will be astonished how brief even the most garrulous of your friends can be.

The opening gambit in most evening telephone calls is going to be:

"Are you watching TV or anything?"

"No, no!" you assure.

But lately I have observed that quite a number of my friends, when I call them after supper, are beginning to say:

"Well, as a matter of fact, am. I'll ring you back later."

And sometimes they do.

Little by little, what they call the mass media of communication are creating a vast silver lining of communication between individuals, so that we are withdrawing deeper and deeper into our pretty shells. There was a time when we all feared the home was doomed because of the motor car, the movie, and other attractions that made of the home nothing but a place to eat and store our clothing. Now, with TV, the movies are already suffering possibly disastrous competition, as the result of people staying home. And any big idle in home garages all evening instead of running lustily all over the landscape.

Pedestrian Damages Car

Hamilton Spectator

It was, as Judge Campbell said in such a commendably brief judgment in Hamilton (England) County Court the other day, "an unusual type of case." All the same it roused a spontaneous admiration akin to hero worship among city pedestrians everywhere, even though, financially, a motorist loses.

The facts were simple enough. Mr. Thos. Hunt, a pedestrian in the armed forces, while running for a bus accidentally bumped into a car belonging to Mr. Jones, damage." His Honor referred briefly to the "unfortunate collision between a car of iron and steel and a man of flesh and blood," and then awarded the driver $73 damages.

It ought to be said, in fairness to the defendant and any potential turbulde Goliaths who may be inserted in challenge: the vulnerability of an automobile, even if moving "flesh," that the Hunt damage was entirely unprepared; indeed, unintentional.

Mr. Wilfred Jones' weight has not been disclosed. But it is known that he is a former member of the Royal Air Force and not the Royal Armored Corps, and, further, that he suffered only a few minor abrasions. The judge might well have called it a "most unusual case.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Use Your Teeth, Tongue, Jaw Bones and Stomach

"Mother has been under dentists and doctors' care for nearly a year. As we understand it, she has Riggs' disease in her jaw bone. She has had all her teeth extracted," (I, Brady, am too dumb to understand to say more than my goodness) . . . " but still has pain in her jaw. It has become so severe that she isn't able to eat any solid food" (even if there were no pain, just what solid food can one eat without teeth?) . . . and very seldom can she drink liquids."

There has lost thirty pounds since this condition set in," continues the lady's daughter. "The doctor who is now taking care of her — she has had three doctors and three dentists" (that was the result of all this variegated professional care: no teeth)" . . . has given her penicillin shots twice a week since last December. They have had no effect on the blood. He wants to inject alcohol directly into the nerve to the jaw. This, he says, would make that side of her face numb for perhaps eight months.

The family is quite upset about this, so I decided to ask for your advice. Mother is waiting for your decision before making up her mind." (C.T.H.)

All I can say that injection of 10 to 20 drops of pure alcohol into the root of the affected brand of the trifacial nerve gives relief for seven months to 4 years in trifacial neuralgia.

Please bear in mind that my purpose is to teach people how to keep well, how to avoid or prevent illness. I do not compete, tent to make a long distance diagnosis or give absent treatment.

But I cannot dismiss this poor woman's plight without saying that in my opinion it is rarely if ever necessary to extract all of the teeth. Many physicians and dentists are still over ready to extract teeth which might be saved, and, too often they manage to infect the victim think removal of the teeth will bring an end or at least great relief of his distressing pain, whereas it is generally just the beginning of much more trouble. In some respects Riggs' disease, otherwise called pyorrhea alveolaris, and chronic joint disease, otherwise called rheumatism for "arthritis" if you prefer to be snobbish) are similars:

1. Both conditions develop insidiously.

2. Both are chronic — continue for years.

3. Both are manifestations of physical degeneration.

4. No local remedy prescribed or applied by the dentist and no internal or systemic prescribed or administered by the physician will cure or produce positive betterment.

5. Both complaints are caused by nutritional deficiency through the years from early childhood up to the present time.

6. No cure may be prevented or, it not too far advanced, benefited by a complete change in diet based on an adequate diet and/or supplementing the diet with adequate doses of C.T.H. and other essential minerals and vitamins when our refined modern diet lacks.

Everything I have said about pyorrhea and joint disease applies to trifacial neuralgia. If any other physician does not share my opinion about the treatment of the diseases cited in this column I invite him or her to tell you his point of view in a column or to tell me privately or publicly what's wrong about it. I have never met a doctor yet who never shall reveal the identity of anyone who has talked or corresponded with me about this or anything else, unless I first obtain his or her written consent.

Strength for The Day

"APOSTOLICS ANONYMOUS"

An outstanding religious leader from Europe, now touring this country, recently said: "We are all suffer from too superficial a faith to meet our day. We need to conform to the gospel. We seek to make our people feel at home in their environment, when it should be our costly duty to change the environment."

He then went on to say that he feels we of the Western hemisphere are not entirely free of these spiritual failings. He suggests starting a new organization which would be called "Apostolics Anonymous," its membership to be composed of all who admit our churches to be inebriate with respectability and drunk with complacency. We will commit ourselves to get up and be sober-ed up, by the mutual confession of ourselves—and sometimes of one's main cheerful."

Just today I received a letter from a friend serving as a missionary in Africa. It told of conditions there almost beyond our comprehension. But instead of reflecting a mood of discouragement it reflected a mood of joy. Into the unbelievable degradation surrounding him she and her team are advancing with the Sword of the Spirit, No compromise among him. Spirit. No "Apostolics Anonymous" but "Apostolics Militant."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

FRIENDS

None of us can have too many genuine friends. Friends have to be earned, just the same as confidence has to be created. We need many friends so as to have many different kinds of friendly moods. That is what makes books so valuable and companionable. Of course we books we can select the one at will that suits most the mood we are in.

Valuable as books are, however, there is a mind and there is a heart have no perfect substitute. An understanding friend grows more precious with the years. It is one of the satisfactions of life itself. But we have to keep earning friends, more and more.

Listening to the inspiring talks on TV by Bishop Sheen, I am sure that multitudes have been warmed as he has uttered that one word of greeting— "Friends." When given, as Bishop Sheen gives out that word, you know that all in his hearing truly are his friends.

I have older our friends grow nearer and dearer. We become aware of the fact that we are under the surface. We overlook so much. Their faults don't matter. We see in the faults that we ourselves have. There can be a generosity in our attitude that becomes an abiding thing. An investment in a friend is one surpassingly good action of mankind.

We often hear the expression, "a true friend." A true friend is a friend indeed. All too often there is little meaning back of such a statement. We have to be go through the fires of many an experience before we are worthy to be a friend, and to have one. And when one leaves us, a part of all that we are goes with him out on the long journey. We can well look upon a friend as a benediction!

Return to Europe

Finds Canadians in Europe Are Not 'Innocents Abroad'

When I told a Swiss friend of mine that it was about time I did an article on Canadians in Europe, he replied with a slight sigh that it should be entitled "Innocents Abroad." I assured him that Canadians were quite capable of looking after their own interests over here, in fact, most of them seem to be taking quite good care of themselves.

But those of you who have already been to Europe will agree, I think, that there are many things to which Canadians must adjust when arriving here for the first time. However, living here isn't quite so different as some reports would lead one to believe, so if you do decide to come over for a while, don't be afraid that you are going to fit in like a square peg in a round hole. If you act as you do at home, you will have a good time, and be accepted by almost every one, since Canadians enjoy a good reputation in Europe.

In case you are intending to come over, don't forget that not everyone in Europe speaks English. If you've studied French or German at school, it would pay you to get out your old text books and brush up a bit on the language. Your accent may not be the best, but you will be surprised how much help a few phrases or words will be to you around the continent.

NEW DISHES

Don't expect that you are going to encounter the same cooking that you do at home. Each country has something different to offer, and a good appetite, combined with a little spirit of adventure, will introduce you to many new tasty dishes. Italy is, of course, famous for its many different varieties of spaghetti, France excels in pâtés for sausage, while French cooking is something not to be missed. Also when at a meal you're as a beverage at mealtimes may be it is Canada, a fact that most nearly as alcoholic as it ends, since, for one thing, it really does make the meat taste better, and is not generally as strong as a wine produced in Canada. If you still feel it is too strong, you can always water it down a bit.

Another custom which unfortunately is not followed in Europe is the practice of tipping. Everyone at all the hotels seems to get into the act, expecting an amount which to me is sometimes excessive. Ten percent is still a pretty good rule, wherever you are, but waiters are certainly more generous don't go any higher than 15 per cent. You will only make it harder for the next one. A word will soon get around that you must be rolling in money, bucks, and then watch out. Quite often the tip is included in the bill, in which case further tip is not required, but the waiter or waitress will be quite grateful and expecting a further handout. If you are like me, and not particularly well-heeled with cash, there are several ways to get around this. Just ignore him, or shake his outstretched hand, or even remark in a voice that he can hear how bad your business has been lately, that will hold him until you can make good your escape.

If you still find time to go to a show after you arrive, you will more than likely find that your favorite actor or actress has forsaken all the films that you ever knew. Instead a voice comes out at you speaking the language of the country just like a native. In fact it is a native, since the English voice has been cut out and a native voice dubbed in. This usually isn't too bad until you come to Westerns, and I still haven't got over the shock of hearing the Indians speak with good German.

Another thing is that you usually can't go in and sit as long as you like, in most shows you pay to see one film, that starts and ends at a given time. No double features, either, you pay according to where you want to sit. It will be nice to sit near the front than it does in the middle or near the back, or even up in the gallery. If you've studied Federation of German at school, it would pay you to get out your old text books and brush up a bit on the language. Your accent may not be the best, but you will be surprised how much help a few phrases or words will be to you around the continent.

Comic Pages of Daily Papers Read by Estimated 80,000,000 Adults and Kiddies Each Day

NEW YORK (AP)—During one of New York's periodic newspaper delivery strikes, the late Hagop Florello La Guardia went to a radio microphone to perform a singular public service.

Cognizant of the fact that a great city was being deprived of its breakfast reading fare, he met the crisis with a public reading performance. Did His Honor fill the information vacuum with the latest international news? Municipal events? Stock market quotations?

Nope. He read the funnies—to the kiddies, but presumably to a sizable audience of adults also.

Today, as in La Guardia's day, the comic pages constitute a daily reading habit for an estimated 80,000,000 adults and kiddies, a habit that has successfully defied the threat of movies and television and the occasional cultural outpourings of outraged educationists and psychiatrists.

PENSION-AGE KIDS

People who read the funnies every day cannot recall a time when there were none, just as veteran readers cannot remember when Orphan Annie last got a new dress or Little Lulu's playmate Jammer Kids are now old enough to draw old age pensions.

Despite this ageless and timeless quality of comic characters, the comics themselves did have a beginning, just 60 years ago—an event celebrated this week by cartoonists and their loyal fans.

As comics emerged as the most coveted spoils in the great circulation war between Joseph Pulitzer's New York World and William Randolph Hearst's New York Journal. The Yellow Kid, a saga of slum life begun by Richard F. Outcault in 1895, was responsible for the label "yellow" journalism applied to newspapers of that era.

Why yellow The color was a technical expedient. The four-color rotary press had been invented several years before and all colors except yellow seemed to work fine. Charles Saalburgh, managing editor of the New York World, found that tallow wax kept yellow from running and collected his discovery from boardhousing Outcault's drawings with the color.

SET PATTERN

The Yellow Kid, a title supplied by the readers and not the artist, set the pattern which was soon appeared on The World's color pages and soon set a familiar comic pattern by jumping to Hearst's journal.

This amoeba-like quality of comics, sub-dividing into cells and reproducing itself in similar existences under different names in competing papers, accounts for the fact that most strips are owned by the newspaper or syndicate and not the cartoonist.

Rudolph Dirks, who established the Katzenjammer Kids in the Journal in 1897, hopped to The World in 1913 and continued the same characters with only a change of The Captain and the Kids, while H. H. Kerr took over on the original strip. Both are still going strong.

Many strips are continued, by different writers and different artists, long after their originators die or move on to other papers and other syndicates with their comic comics. In rare instances, a strip may be permanently retired, like a beautiful woman, to form number, as a measure of gratitude to the genius of its creator. Such was the case with George Herriman's Krazy Kat, the first cartoon to win a wide following among intellectuals.

As the comic craze catapaulted newspaper circulation into the hundreds of thousands, cartoonists began to command fabulous salaries, to hire assistants for research and lettering, to become national celebrities in their own right, almost as well known as all-star actors of the screen.

Sidney Smith, originator of the Gumps, ushered in the golden era in 1922 with a $1,000,000 contract that called for $100,000 a year for 10 years. Before his death in 1935, he managed to increase the figure to $150,000 a year.

Comic artists found their inspiration in all walks of life and in all strata of the economic millionaires like Jiggs and Daddy Warbucks, down-and-outers like Hippy Hooligan and Pete the Tramp, soldiers, office girls, flighty teen-agers, cowboys, space men, suburban families, adventurers, Canadian Mounties, doctors, detectives, royalty, and, perhaps the most popular over the years, the animal kingdom.

Spinach-growing Texas erected a monument to the pugnacious, gulping Popeye. Krazy Kat became a national pet, a virtuous lady. Bringing up Father and Li'l Abner became popular musical shows. Teasers from the comic pages like "hot dog," "23 skidoo," "applesauce," "after you, Alphonse," became part of the language.

Sometimes an artist will struggle for months, even years, with ideas which never click and a variety of plots before hitting the winning combination. George McManus experimented with Alma and Oliver, Snoozer, Let George Do It, Jake and Effie and others before Bringing up Father, the story of what happens when an Irish laborer falls into a fortune, made him as rich and famous as his central characters.

The changing nature of comic characters often belies their origins. Harold Gray's sinister lass Dixie Dugan began her comic life as a flighty flapper girl, Hilary Worth sold apples on a street corner, that shaver with Aimee and Oliver, Snoozer, Let George Do It, Jake and Effie and others before Bringing up Father, the story of what happens when an Irish laborer falls into a fortune, made him as rich and famous as his central characters.

The changing nature of comic characters often belies their origins. Harold Gray's sinister lass Dixie Dugan began her comic life as a flighty flapper girl, Hilary Worth sold apples on a street corner, that shaver with a Mutt but not Jeff, that Al Capone's real life escapades brought on the fictitious Dick Tracy, that Snuffy Smith, Popeye, Nancy and Sluggo, Blondie and many minor characters, that the Captain and Mama in the Katzenjammer Kids have been in almost every bonds of matrimony!

Did you know that Dagwood Bumstead was a billionaire's son who was disinherited for marrying Blondie, a definite flapper type until she became the lovable housewife of today?

The Bumstead family fight over Blondie was typical of the comic strips of the early 1930s. Are you sure the reason you want to marry her is that you heard that I own a lot of railroads" asks Bumstead Sr. of Blondie.

"Oh, Mr. Bumstead," she replies, "then I'd be a gold-digger. I love Alexander for himself." Dagwood if you only owned one railroad."

Chic Young, who invented the strip, said he "threw away the way for skilled men to work and a success." Blondie's departure from the standard melodrama line the main stream of middle class America marked the beginning of a new era in comics. Wit and accent was on little people and their everyday problems.

LEAVE FOR CANADA

TRIESTE, Italy (Reuters) — A group of 350 Italian refugees from Northwestern Yugoslavia left the Adriatic port Friday night on board the 24,000-ton Italian liner Saturnia to begin a new life in Canada. Most were workers whose farm families, they answered a request from the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National Railways for skilled men to work on farms bordering their transcontinental routes.

Northumberland H-S Board Plans Building Proposals

CAMPBELLFORD — The regular meeting of the North-East Northumberland High School Area Board was held on Friday evening, with all members present.

Correspondence was read, which included a letter from A. W. S. Turner, Secondary School Inspector. In his letter, Mr. Turner stated that he had discussed the various building proposals that have been considered by this area at previous meetings with Mr. S. D. Rendall, superintendent of secondary education, and that Mr. Rendall has asked Dr. Turner to act as the representative of the Department of Education at the meeting to be held in Warkworth Hall on Wednesday, March 20th.

The reports of the principals were heard at this time, and requests for instructional supplies passed.

Tenders for paper requirements were opened and examined. The longest tender submitted by a local stationery story was accepted.

It was decided that the Board shall advertise for teachers to fill the vacancies created by two now qualified teachers who do not supply the secretary with required information as to their having completing their qualifications as the position has been confirmed by the Department of Education.

The Principal of the Campbellford High School and the chairman of the board, agreed to interview teachers for the Trenton College of Education as soon as possible.

Other accounts presented at this meeting were approved and the meeting adjourned.

Weightlifting

The 1957 Ontario weightlifting championships were held in the Toronto Saturday with 80 competitors from all parts of Ontario. The championships were sponsored by the Broadview YMCA and the YMHA, with 10 classes in bantamweight, featherweight, lightweight, and middle-heavyweight at the Broadview YMCA and for light-heavyweight, middle-heavyweight and heavyweight at the Eglinton branch of the Toronto YMHA. Mr. Bill McMurter, Broadview YMCA physical instructor placed second in featherweight class totalling in three lifts 660 lbs. Ken Carr of the YM-YWCA Club failed to place in the top three with 715 lbs. Competition was held in Belleville at the end of March sponsored by the Apollo Barbell Club.

Antarctic Scientist Testing His Theories at South Pole

NEW YORK (AP) — Secrets of earthquakes, satellites and tomorrow's weather may be unlocked from huts buried in the ice age that is the South Pole.

Antarctic scientist Paul A. Siple studied a spinning ball in his home for two years. Now he is testing his theories at the South Pole, the pivot of the spinning ball man calls earth.

Dr. Siple, a United States outpost at the bottom of the world as a key link in the International Geophysical Year (1957-58) studies. The IGY is a co-operative program of simultaneous observations by scientists of nearly 50 nations.

The pole station will primarily study aurora, geomagnetism, the ionosphere and other phenomena of the mysterious electronic forces that bombard the earth from the sun.

But Dr. Siple is already looking ahead to the day when the South Pole may house vast research centers for continuous observation at the rotating earth.

A station at the pole will give man, for the first time in his millions of years on earth, a place to stand and look at the universe without dimming himself. Here in the North Pole does not afford the opportunity of more than a shifting mass of ice afloat on the Arctic Ocean.

In fact, there is but one day and one night a year and that is a paradox.

Antarctica, a continent still in the ice age, is the highest of all continents, averaging about 6,000. Temperatures are 40 degrees below the Arctic because the North Pole centres on an ocean.

It has been known for years that the earth has been divided like a top every 24 hours but wobbles like a tired top in a 26,000 cycle. In addition there are other motions, some requiring thousands of years to complete a cycle.

To Dr. Siple the relation between the spin pole or true axis of the earth's 24-hour rotation and the balance pole or 14-month wobble reflects unbalance in the earth. When the two poles are nearest they may be only a half dozen feet apart. At the greatest distance the poles may be about 60 feet apart. This is a small amount compared with the 25,000-mile circumference of the earth but it can be detected by observations on stars.

Quite possibly science may find a correlation between earthquake cycles and the periods when the balance pole is most out of alignment with the spin pole. The earth's crust may be considered a plastic in its response to stresses, earthquakes may be triggered by the unbalance between the poles. In turn the readjustments of mass and stress may allow the balance pole to move in again towards the spin pole.

Mrs. E. Presser Addresses Farmers' Union

A special meeting of the Ontario Farmers' Union local 227 was held recently in the Orange Hall at Stanniffe.

The president, Borden Forsythe presided and the meeting opened by a showing of films by Frank Windsor on his tour of England which was enjoyed by all.

Mr. Forsythe introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Evelyn Presser, who is OFU's woman president, also secretary - treasurer of her own local and a member of the Inter - Provincial Farm Union Council.

Mrs. Prosser spoke of the beginning of the O.F.U.; of the problems in getting started which were due in large part to the apathy of the farmers and their lack of interest in helping themselves.

When their interest was finally aroused how fast the organization has grown, and is growing. She stated that it is a non-political organization started by farmers, run by farmers for farmers and their families. The wives of farmers have an equal status with the men.

The Union has its own constitution and rules. No one can hold any office in the Farmers' Union for longer than four years. All members should attend the meetings and take part in building our union.

DISCUSS LOCAL PROBLEMS

Each local is encouraged to discuss its own local problems, to draw up resolutions which are sent to the head office where copies are sent to other locals for discussion. If passed by the majority, they are then entered in the convention handbook and are then voted on by the delegates from each local at the yearly conventions.

The resolutions are then written into a brief and presented to the provincial government, or presented by the Inter - Provincial Farm Union council to the Federal government. At Ottawa the brief is presented to the cabinet, then to each member of the Liberal party also to the Pro Conservatives, the CCF and Social Credit parties. Copies are given to the Senate; labor board, tariff board, health and welfare boards, and many others to create better public relations.

Farmers' Union has presented briefs for three years to the Federal government with more interest shown with each succeeding brief. They also have the backing of labor unions. Farmers must not let the organization down. It is for all and each new member makes it stronger.

Mrs. Prosser, who was on her way home from Ottawa, stated that they were informed only the day before, that due to the efforts of the Farmers' Union, the tariff board is now being revised.

Help the farmer to help himself and join and work with the Ontario Farmers' Unions.

WEDDINGS

WEYMARK—MUNNS

ROBERTS—MUNNS

Standards of yellow daffodils, rose colored carnations, yellow and white chrysanthemums, interspersed with ferns, formed a lovely background at Wicket Avenue Baptist Church, Belleville, for a recent double wedding when the Reverend Keith Daniel, pastor of the church, united in marriage, in a double-ring ceremony, Miss Doris Marguerite Munns, to Harry Weymark, of Bellville, and Miss Phyllis Mrs. William Weymark, and Pauline Munns, to Donald Roberts, of Belleville, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Roberts. Both brides are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Munns.

Mr. William Connor, church organist, provided the wedding music.

The lovely brides, who were given in marriage by their father, Mr. Archie Munns, were charmingly attired in similar gowns of white nylon tulle over taffeta, fashioned with fitted, strapless bodices and waltz-length skirts, accenting the extra fullness at the back. The bodices were enhanced by matching lace jackets having long sheath-like sleeves ending in points over the wrists and were worn sequin and seed pearl headdresses and finger-tip circular veils of white illusion, which cascaded bouquets of red roses, and white chrysanthemums, with satin streamers.

Mrs. Russel Bennett, sister of the brides, as matron of honor, she was gowned in pink Chantilly lace over taffeta fashioned with fitted bodice having a tiny bolero with long, pointed sleeves, and waltz-length bouffant skirt. She wore a matching half hat and carried a bouquet of white mums and blue carnations.

The four bridesmaids, Miss Helen Maracle, of Point Anne; Miss Helen Mabee, of Stirling; Miss Ruth Goodman of Belleville, and Miss Marilyn McFee, also of Belleville, were gowned alike in azure blue waltz-length gowns featuring bouffant skirts with tiers of gathered net. They wore matching half hats, and mitts, and carried bouquets of white mums and pink carnations.

The two little flower girls, Dianne Munns, sister of the brides, and Penny Weymark, sister of the bridegroom, were sweet in their floor-length frocks of blue taffeta with matching pillbox hats. They carried "basquettes" of varigated sweetpeas.

The bridegrooms were attended by Messrs. Allan Montag of Belleville and Ronald Eaton of Toronto, while Messrs. Archie Munns, Paul Munns and Albert Munns, all brothers of Belleville, brothers of the brides, and Mr. Gordon Claxton, of Belleville, cousin of the brides, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors which were prettily decorated for the occasion with pink and white streamers, and white wedding bells. The brides' table was daintily appointed with white damask linen, centred by two three-tier wedding cakes, topped by miniature brides and bridegrooms, and flanked by silver candle holders with white tapers. Baskets of rose carnations and white and yellow 'mums lent a lovely note of color.

The guests were received by the brides' mothers, who wore a navy blue ensemble with pink carnation corsage. She was assisted by the bridegrooms' mothers, Mrs Weymark in navy blue with black accessories with pink carnation corsage, and Mrs. Roberts in navy blue with matching accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

For the wedding trip to Peterborough and other points, the brides, Mrs. Roberts chose a Nile green knitted suit with Nile and brown accessories, beige fur jacket and corsage of rose and sun-dusted 'mums, while Mrs. Weymark donned a beige ensemble with brown and tan accessories with orchid and yellow 'mums corsage, and beige fur jacket. Both Mr. and Mrs. Weymark and Mr. and Mrs. Roberts are residing in Belleville.

Previous to her marriage Miss Pauline was honored by two miscellaneous showers, one by the Roberts family, and one by Miss Ruth Goodman, at her home, also at Belleville. A shower was also held by Miss Georgie Wing and Miss William McCoy, as hostesses, and one by Mrs. Robert Smith, for Miss Patricia.

The brides' gift to the matron of honor was a silver pickle dish and fork; to their bridesmaids, identical gifts, the bridegrooms' gifts to their attendants, matching sets of cufflinks and tie pins.

Silken Fabrics, Pointed Shoes New for Spring

Silken fabrics, pointed shoes and wide-brimmed hats are news in Canadian women's life again.

As for the over-all "look" in spring fashions, it's probably the "hour-glass" silhouette. Tops and curves replacing the straight lines of last year.

A survey by The Canadian Press indicates the biggest news is silk. In almost every Canadian city, buyers and women's shops reported that both subdued and splashy silks will be making a comeback this spring.

Narrow, pointed toes in this spring's footwear could have been taken right out of a 1927 fashion magazine, said a Vancouver fashion commentator. In Toronto a department store reported the same trend. Pumps with low, curved heels will continue to be popular.

Head-hugging hats such as the cloche—made of straw or heavily flowered—will still be almost universal, but Toronto fashion expert said the trend is to wide-brimmed hats and a Calgary buyer agreed.

Hemlines will still be 13 to 14 inches from the floor, Montreal and buyer said lengths tend to be dictated by personal preference rather than fashion. Necklines are frequently quite deep, but most are high with small collars.

Colors in suits and dresses are especially navy, beige, mauve, pale blue and green. In addition to the trend towards bright, subdued silks, there's an increasing emphasis on sun-drenched colors from Italy.

Suits will be particularly popular this spring, with the emphasis on belted jackets, and to some extend, short, box - like jackets. Some will have detachable capes.

When not adhering to the cape effect, they will be semi-fitted with considerable back interest. Colors: Brown, blue, black and grey.

There are several isolated trends. In Toronto long-handled handbags and chiffon scarfs are reported popular. In Halifax, women are enamored of shoes bearing small side-bows. Newfoundland women have shown an interest in high waistlines and cumberbunds. In Winnipeg, the hint of the vampire in hats—soft crowns and coarse veils drawn tightly across the face to give a vampire-like effect—was creeping into popularity.

Prices are much the same this year—slightly higher in Quebec City—but there is greater choice. A Vancouver store executive, put it this way:

Holloway United WMS Hears Talk on 'Ruth'

On Tuesday afternoon, the regular meeting of the Holloway United WMS was held in the church parlors with the president, Mrs. F. Townsend, in the chair.

After welcoming the members and the prayer, Mrs. Townsend spoke briefly on the theme, "The Whole Armor of God", and followed it with prayer.

Mrs. Townsend reminded those present of the invitation from Tabernacle Church on April 9th.

Mrs. Wesse, Christian Citizenship secretary gave an account of the sick and shut-in members.

Mrs. W. Johns gave a little talk entitled "Let Me Think, Let Me Pray."

The Explorers and CGIT groups are to affiliate with the WMS on Sunday and all members are asked to be present.

Mrs. A. H. Johnston, literature secretary gave an interesting list of books to be found in the library.

It was decided that the date of the April meeting be changed to Friday, April 5th in order to have Miss Dorothy Pearson M.A., missionary from Central India present.

The devotional was presided over by Mrs. Cordes who gave a most interesting reading "Esther Martyrs, Forty Crowns", followed by a meditation on the Scripture which had been read by Mrs. C. Smith. Mrs. N. Brown gave the prayer.

A duet was rendered by Mrs. C. W. Coleman and Mrs. T. F. Townsend.

Mrs. Townsend introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Robert McCrea, wife of the student minister at Cannilton, who chose for her subject the lovely story of Ruth. Mrs. McCrea showed how our lives are similar to the life of Orpha, instead of being like Ruth, who chose the true God, and people of God.

Mrs. C. Smith thanked Mrs. McCrea for her most interesting and impressive talk.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Moynes and her group.

Brownies, Guides, Rangers Enjoy Skating Party

On Monday the Brownies, the Guides and Rangers of the three Girl Guide districts in Belleville, enjoyed a skating party in the Belleville Memorial Arena.

The guides and rangers present. Each child brought a box-lunch and milk was supplied by the local association of Girl Guides.

The Rangers helped to look after the younger children. The St. John Ambulance Corps set up a first aid corner and no casualties were reported. The Girl Guide Association wishes to thank the Arena Commission for the use of the rink for a party which was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Women's Activities

BETHANY W.M.S. AND W.A.

Mrs. Clayton Eggleton entertained the members of the Bethany W.M.S. and W.A. for their February meeting.

The president, Mrs. Russell Ritz, opened the meeting with quiet music. "God of Grace and God of Glory"— The Bible lesson was read from Luke, chapter 10, by Mrs. H. Rowse, followed by a reading, "Talents," by Mrs. Ritz.

Each member answered the roll call with a Bible verse containing the word "heart."

The program was prepared by Mrs. Percy Wilkey and Mrs. W. Easton, and opened with prayer by Mrs. Walker.

Scripture lesson by Mrs. D. Martin, John 14. Reading were given by Mrs. Vernon Hamilton and Mrs. George Sills on "Religion and Life," and "Life is Service," a solo by Mrs. Gerald Eggleton, "Love Lifted Me," a reading by Mrs. Fred Hanesy on "Home."

A Bible quiz was conducted.

The business part of the meeting was conducted by the president.

The secretary-treasurer's and supply secretary's reports were given, and a sleigh-ride Thursday was given by Mrs. Harry Walker.

On Sunday, July 2, the members of the W.M.S. will conduct the service.

Mrs. Russell Ritz invited the ladies to her home for the World Day of Prayer meeting. Mrs. Clare Sills, Mrs. Douglas Martin had prepared the program.

Cards of thanks were read from Mrs. S. Cooley and Mrs. Harrison.

The ladies brought the dishes and salads in connection with circuit pot-luck supper which was held at the Carmel church hall February 22.

At the conclusion of the meeting a social time was spent with the Purity Line ladies serving the refreshments.

Springbrook W.A. Plans Church Supper

A successful pot-luck dinner was held on March 7 in the basement of Springbrook United Church, with Mrs. K. Thompson and Mrs. E. Bateman as acting convenors.

About 60 adults and children enjoyed the dinner. The proceeds of which amounted to $87.25. This will be the last monthly pot-luck dinner of the season.

Following the dinner 25 of the W.A. members and one visitor assembled together for their regular meeting. The president, Mrs. Clayton Burkitt, extended a welcome to all and expressed her thanks to the ladies who were acting hostesses for the past three dinners and meetings.

The opening of the meeting was in the usual manner.

The devotional period was carried out by Mrs. Gordon Bailey, the theme being "Faith." Those taking part in the devotional were: Mrs. Gordon Bateman, who read the Scriptures taken from Hebrew 11:1-10; prayer by Mrs. E. Bateman; Psalm 27 was read responsively and prayer thoughts were read by Mrs. Delbert Fleming.

The roll call, "Heroes of Faith," was well responded to.

The correspondence was read and dealt with which consisted of cards "thank you" notes for flowers and fruit sent to sick and shut-ins.

Mrs. Delbert Fleming reported for the February visiting committee, and Mrs. Jarrett McKeown, sick committee convener, reported on work carried out.

Mrs. G. Broadworth and Mrs. E. Huff were appointed visiting committee for March.

The final arrangements were discussed and conveners named for the congregational supper on March 19 in the church basement.

A committee was named consisting of Mesdames H. Haslett, G. Bateman, E. Bateman, B. Bateman, G. Williams and Susie Thompson to arrange for the catering to the Williams Live-Stock Sale, March 20.

This concluded the business of the meeting and a short program followed. The topic on "Paul's Faith," prepared by Mrs. G. Williams, was read by Mrs. Harvey Mason. Readings were given by Mrs. P. Bateman and Mrs. T. McKeown. A game was conducted by Mrs. Beare, with all taking part.

The Rev. H. Beare closed the meeting with prayer.

The April meeting will be held in the church basement with the executive acting hostesses.

Mother Waits For 30 Years To See Son

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP)—"When I finish with the army I will go to Canada," Mervyn Patterson told his mother when she left Yugoslavia 30 years ago.

Mrs. Palinkas then was 30, and Mervyn was 30. Their reunion took place here just recently. Mrs. Palinkas was marking her 60th birthday when Mervyn arrived in Canada with his niece, Mrs. Maria Bercsye, for a six months' stay.

"I never thought I would live to see the day that Mervyn got here," said Mrs. Palinkas. "I was so excited the doctor gave me pills to calm my nerves.

HAPPY TEARS

"You can't express to anybody the feeling you get when you see a loved one after waiting 30 years. I shout all over the house, I'm so very happy."

Mrs. Palinkas left Yugoslavia for Canada in 1927 with her daughter and son-in-law, Paul Surkery, now an Oshawa businessman, who financed the visit of her son to Canada. Mrs. Bercsye, who was only two years old when Mrs. Palinkas left Yugoslavia, said she recognized her grandmother from photographs.

Mervyn told me that on the boat coming over they planned what they would say," said Mrs. Palinkas, "But when they arrived none of us could say anything."

Mervyn, asked through an interpreter what impressed him most about Canada, replied, "The trees and the scenery, and nobody walks here. Every house has a car and a television."

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DON'T TRY TO FORCE HIS CONFIDENCE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm 18 and very much in love with a wonderful guy who, I'm sure, feels the same toward me because he has asked me to marry him. I want to do this very much, but I'm worried about one thing.

This is that I feel a perfect marriage would mean that both people would feel free to talk to each other about all their problems, even the personal ones. And Eddie doesn't feel free to talk to me about anything personal or any of his troubles concerning his job, his home life, his friends or anything. When he seems worried, I've asked him to talk to me about anything on his mind, but he always says he has always had to work things out for himself and he just can't talk to anyone. I've confided in him, put all my trust in him, and told him everything about myself, but it's getting so I don't feel free to do this any more. — T.G

Dear T.G.:

You're perfectly right. It's course, that in a perfect marriage both man and woman feel want to discuss any problems together and not have any unhappy secrets from each other. But I don't believe you should try to force this. After all, you're not even married yet and your boy friend, having always kept things to himself, undoubtedly needs time to realize and adapt himself to, the fact that there is someone now who really cares and wants to help with all his problems.

If I were you, I'd just go along with him as he is, and let this confidential relationship develop gradually. If he doesn't feel that you're trying to force confidences out of him, but can always be relaxed and happy with you, it's almost certain that, as time goes on, and he becomes used to the quiet understanding you give him, the rest will follow.

HERE'S A BOOK YOU COULD READ

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

My mother is ashamed to tell me about sex or the facts of life. I've asked her a few times and times to tell me, and she always says I'm too young, or makes up some other excuse. It has got so I'm ashamed to ask her any more.

In another week, I'll be 15, and I think I'm old enough to know a little about these things. I've heard a lot, but don't understand any of it, and my friends think I'm a baby. — A.P.

Dear A.P.:

I quite agree with you that you're fully old enough to know the facts of life and to have any questions in your mind clearly and frankly answered. You're mother, of course, is the proper one to tell you these things, but unfortunately she is one of those self-conscious about discussing such matters with their children.

Where this is the case, then I think the best thing for a young person to do is to find a good book by a reputable writer and get the information that way. This will prevent a boy or girl from getting these facts in a distorted way from other young people who, like yourself, may not understand them very well.

There is a book on this subject written especially for teenagers, and it should be in your local public library. It's called "The Stork Didn't Bring You," and the author is Lois Pemberton, If, as you read the book, you have questions you would like to ask someone, then I suggest that you go to the physical education teacher in your school, who ought to be of help to you in just the right way.

If you prefer to talk with the physical education teacher instead of getting the book, you could do that. Think it over and make your own choice.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

FATIGUE IS BEAUTY'S WORST ENEMY

When is demanding schedule brings on headaches, don't mask fatigue with stimulants. Rest instead.

Do you suffer from persistent headaches? Do you have difficulty concentrating, forgetting things from one minute to the next? Are you becoming increasingly irritable? And is that "crankiness" beginning to evidence itself in a drawn mouth and lines about the eyes? Do you, at moments when vision is not as clear as normally? Or, in the midst of a job do you suddenly find your heart beating faster than usual and feel that you just can't go on?

If any or all of these symptoms are bothering you, don't rely on the doctor — at least, not right away. Chances are you're suffering from fatigue — either physical or mental. And the thing to do is to start combating it immediately.

There's nothing which so drains a woman as fatigue and nothing quite as injurious as far as her looks are concerned. Yet most women, whether they work at home or in offices, continue to drive themselves hour after hour and, when they've reached the point of exhaustion, instead of stopping and relaxing for a time, reach for black coffee or some other stimulant to "pep themselves up" — so they can drive themselves some more!

This makes no sense. Neither does the feminine habit of skipping breakfasts and lunches because they're "too busy to eat." Food and rest are vitally important to a healthy body and to looks as well. For the sake of both, start watching yourself from now on. Make it a point to eat a good breakfast. You'll find that the morning round of household tasks or typing goes much easier. Take time to eat a nutritious lunch . . . no more snacks "on the hoof." Sit down to a dish that you particularly like, relax, and enjoy it completely. You'll be able to tackle afternoon chores with renewed energy and vitality. If you're a homemaker and happen to have any unusually heavy tasks or typing goes much easier. Take time to eat a nutritious lunch . . . no more snacks "on the hoof." Sit down to a dish that you particularly like, relax, and enjoy it completely. You'll be able to tackle afternoon chores with renewed energy and vitality. If you're a homemaker and happen to have any unusually heavy tasks or typing on the schedule that mid-afternoon finds you tired, headachey and irritable, despite your good lunch, don't reach for your coffee pot or some other stimulant for the "lift" that will help you drive yourself further into fatigue. Stop what you're doing, instead, and lie down for a half hour. Pull the shades down, close your eyes and don't think of anything. Just r-e-l-a-x completely.

If you're an office worker and face the same situation, forget the "coffee break" which may be very pleasant socially but which will, of course, give you a "lift." Take the same amount of time you'd spend with your co-workers at the fountain and use it, instead, to sit or lie quietly in the rest room with eyes closed. Give yourself a real "break" by really resting instead of masking your fatigue with stimulants. You'll feel better in the long run, and what's more, you'll look better.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP: DON'T TAKE KINDNESS FOR GRANTED

Don't take for granted thoughtful plans and kindly deeds of your friends or relatives or, most particularly, of your family. Don't take hospitality for granted. Don't take favors for granted. If you're inclined to take such generous gestures for granted, open your eyes and your heart to become aware of kindnesses . . . and open your lips to say "Thank you." A person most difficult to take is the tight-hearted, tight-minded person who seems scared to death to feel or to express appreciation. You aren't that kind of person . are you?

THANK YOU NOTES FOR GIFTS BROUGHT TO RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In our community it is more or less the custom for the bride (or more) for the wedding guests to bring their presents to the wedding reception and hand them to the bride. My daughter is to be married soon and I am rather irritable at this procedure. She insisted that since this means that the bride has the opportunity to receive her thanks personally at the reception, it is not all necessary for her to follow up her spoken thanks by writing notes of thanks. I can't agree with this, and think she should write a thank-you note to each giver of a gift. Is she right, or am 17 — Mother

You are! The bride's "thank you" at the wedding reception is, necessarily, too brief and undoubtedly hurried to be sufficient expression of appreciation. Wedding presents are extremely important personal presents, and most wedding guests spend a good deal of thought and planning — money to try to choose "just the right present." For this generosity and thoughtfulness the bride who has a decent sense of appreciation writes a note, as soon as possible after she receives the present, to thank the giver for the kind thought and for the present itself, specifically thanking for certain features of the gift: its color, its design, its artistic place or use for both in her new home.

ASKING HER OLDER SISTER TO BE HOSTESS AT WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to have a church wedding in June. Since my mother has died, I am wondering whom I should choose to be hostess at my wedding and to receive. I would very much like to have my sister, who is eight years older than I. Would this be appropriate? —C.

Why, I think, this be the perfect plan. If your sister is not to be one of your attendants, she would sit in the first pew on the left of the aisle (your father would join her there after he has given you in marriage); and at the reception she would, as hostess, stand first in the line, to receive the guests.

Many Egyptian Women Now Taking Nursing

VANCOUVER (CP) — Nursing is now a dignified profession for Egyptian women and marks another stage in their emancipation, says a Vancouver nurse.

Miss Laura Thorardson helped establish a school of nursing in Alexandria in 1955. In that year women of Egypt got only won the right to vote, but nursing was removed from a menial classification and given the title of "profession."

Miss Thorardson and others of the World Health Organization worked for a full year previously to start a nursing school. Laws had to be passed, accommodation found and equipment obtained. But the chief aim was to attract high-calibre women to the calling.

Miss Thorardson says all this was accomplished with the addition of a nursing school to the University of Alexandria which already has a medical school, dental school and pharmacy.

Until this time nursing had been undertaken by village or country girls with little or no education. Now city girls from good families are entering the profession.

The course was designed to fit the needs of Egypt and the students were intelligent, their Canadian teacher says.

"They are not quite as dexterous with their hands as our girls, because most of them come from families where servants do most of the work and they did not learn to do domestic chores."

PLAN HUGE EXERCISE

MANILA (AP) — Vice-Admiral William M. Beakley said today a huge U.S. striking force will stage the biggest American military operation overseas since the Korean War along the east coast of The Philippines next week. Only conventional - type weapons will be used in Exercise Operation H (1), Beakley said, but the "forces will be equipped to handle either conventional or atomic missiles."

Broiler Combinations

By Mary Moore

A girl who signed her letter "Homemaker" (one in 5 million) asked me to give some broiler meals. If she had said broiler meats it would have been a breeze. But when it comes to broiling vegetables we are brought up short. Mushrooms and tomatoes yes. But almost all other vegetables have to be precooked before the broiler can take over.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

TUESDAY

Mixed Grill: (see text on broiling), Sausages, large Mushrooms, Chicken Livers, Bacon, Baked Stuffed Potatoes, Hot Slaw, Tapioca Cream, Coffee.

What does take to broiling like a fish to water though is fruit. I've gone balmy over broiled grapefruit, of all things. The flavor of the grapefruit is richer and pungent when it is hot. Doesn't freeze your teeth to your gums like ice cold grapefruit straight from the refrigerator. Such a shock in the morning when you have just had to go through the throes of getting up too.

BROILER RULES

The tender cuts of beef, lamb, mutton chops, liver, sliced cured ham and bacon are suitable for broiling. Fresh pork and veal are seldom broiled. Fat fish such as salmon, shad, herring, lake trout, bluefish, Spanish mackerel, smelts and shellfish specially prepared are broilable . . . Steaks and chops should be 1 inch thick; ham ½ inch thick; liver ¼ to ½ inch.

HOW TO BROIL STEP BY STEP

Turn on broiler burner to preheat it and broiling pan, especially necessary with electricity. Place meat on hot greased rack of broiling pan. Insert rack so top of meat is at least 2 inches from heat. Steaks and chops 1½ to 2 inches thick should be 3 or 4 inches from heat. Broil until top side is brown. The meat should be a little more than half done when top is brown. Season top with salt and pepper (not salt on bacon), then turn and brown other side. Season second side and serve at once on heated plates or platter. For instance a 1-inch thick Porterhouse steak cook "rare" requires 20 minutes, 1-inch thick lamb chop done through 12 minutes.

BROILED MEAT COMBINATION

(1) Fillets of Lake Trout buttered, Crumb-topped Tomato Halves; mantle of Mashed Potatoes browning on the sidelines. (2) Mixed Grill of sausage, large mushrooms, chicken livers and strips of bacon (sausage and liver at center; bacon and mushrooms at sides). (3) Large, thick ground meat cutlet on thick Bermuda onion rings. When meat is turned, place onion slices bottom side up, on top of meat for a few minutes. Ice blast of heat, then return them to base position. (4) Steak! (doesn't need any side support from the here vegetable!) (5) Lamb Chops with broiled unpeeled thick orange slices or replace slices with lamb patties. (6) Smoked Ham Slice with broiled pineapple rings. (7) Broiled Chicken Halves with broiled peach halves filled with raspberry jam. (8) Sea shells (or doesn't need any side support from the here vegetable!) (5) Lamb Chops with broiled unpeeled thick orange slices or replace slices with lamb patties. (6) Smoked Ham Slice with broiled pineapple rings. (7) Broiled Chicken Halves with broiled peach halves filled with raspberry jam. (8) Sea shells (or other shallow individual casserole) filled with scalloped tuna or crab or oysters or shrimp or salmon with peas or asparagus or celery.

Kiwanis Ladies' Aux. Enjoys Square Dancing

The monthly meeting of the Kiwanis Ladies Auxiliary was held last Thursday with several husbands also present.

The president, Gladys Punchard, after welcoming everyone, conducted a short business session after which she turned the meeting over to the entertainment committee.

The entertainment took form of square dancing conducted by competent Warren Pfrid, who gave instruction in the basic steps of the dance and who also gave some notes concerning the origin of square dancing and assured everyone that it could be a relaxing and enjoyable form of dancing which incidentally proved to be very true.

After one and one-half hours of dancing everyone was in a relaxed and happy mood.

Mr. Pfrid was thanked by the members for his extremely enjoyable and well planned evening.

Supt. Hannam of Scotland Yard Most Accomplished Witness In Long History of Force

LONDON (AP) — The eminent counsel for the defense blared at the man in the witness box and asked with a sneer meant to wound:

"Are you by any chance trying to fence with the cross examination?"

"Certainly not," answered Scotland Yard's Superintendent Herbert W. Hannam, "I am trying to help you."

Then pay attention to me," demanded the barrister celebrated for his withering court room sarcasm, "you may even learn something."

"That, sir," commented Hannam with lofty disdain, "depends entirely upon you."

Laughter rocked the Old Bailey, London's famous Criminal Court.

Tall, grey, hawk-faced and possessing more than a dash of elegance, Supt. Hannam is, perhaps, the most accomplished giver of evidence in the long history of Scotland Yard.

ONE OF GREATEST

He is also one of the great detectives of modern times.

He's treated with respect and awaking admiration.

Hannam was born 48 years ago in London's crowded Paddington district.

He came into full manhood during the depression of the early 1930s and after losing a job as a pastry cook—through no fault of his own—decided to become a policeman.

BOUGHT A BOWLER

"At this point in his life," said one of his friends, "he went out and bought an expensive suit of clothes, a bowler hat, an umbrella, a pair of pig skin gloves and some hand-made shoes."

He has admitted since that he could ill afford those purchases.

A plain clothes dick dressed so elegantly made an immediate impression on the butchers, bakers and small storekeepers where Hannam was dispatched to investigate petty crime.

"He'd walk into a butcher shop," explained a friend, "fold his glove neatly on the counter, take off his bowler and look the joint over. He'd brella over his arm."

Then, he'd start making polite inquiries.

In a nation of marked class distinctions, the gentlemanly approach won Hannam a large and immediate audience. Shopkeepers thought he was the head of Scotland Yard.

STUDIED WIDELY

During his free time Hannam studied books about detection, law, finance and the police system. He taught himself a smattering of foreign languages. He married and had one son, who now is a junior detective.

Hannam lives in a ground floor apartment in an unfashionable North London suburb. He attends the Presbyterian Church.

When he was once sent to the august Bank of England on an inquiry, an official mistook him for a captain of finance. With difficulty he explained he was a detective.

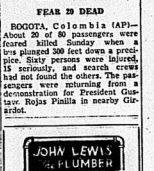
His quick grasp of the intricate details of the big swindle being worked on the bank won him high commendation and he became Scotland Yard's liaison officer to the bank.

In 1955 Hannam was given a case that was thought for the toughest of cops—an investigation of corruption among a group of London policemen. He convicted one officer and sent him to jail.

JUDICIAL COMMENDATION

When the case was over the judge asked Hannam to stand up.

"Thanks of the community are due you for your patient and excellent inquiry," he said. "The way you gave evidence and the way you prepared this case is beyond all praise."



A man who had known the detective for years said this about him:

"Herbert Hannam is a unique human being. He could have been a magnificent actor, and accomplished lawyer, a successful financier, or a physician with a university degree making £20,000 a year." The friend paused.

"As it is," he continued, "Hannam's salary is about £1,000 (£2,800) a year. He holds two diplomas—for making cake icing. But he's a hell of a great detective."

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Farfar spent the Sunday night supper hour and evening with their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lohnes.

Johnstown held its Sunday School and church on Sunday afternoon, Rev. G. A. Puttenham's address was "Never Man Spake Like This Man."

"Officers were sent to arrest Jesus while teaching in the temple, but they were afraid of stirring up the anger of the crowd for the common people heard Him gladly, because He used common things to help them understand such as the parables. How poor the world would be without these. How many times have the words of Jesus brought comfort to the crowd. Christians treasure Jesus because of what He is and He ever seeks to speak to us, to help us understand Him better."

Wellington

WELLINGTON—Miss Mary Lou Platt, Toronto, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Blair Platt.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Graham were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Graham of Massassaga, the occasion being Terry Graham's 4th birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lapp and family and Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Courneyea were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. Graham, Massassaga.

Mrs. L. J. Greer and Mrs. Wilbert King were joint hostesses at a dinner bridge party on Wednesday evening. The event took place at Maple Inn, Bloomfield. After a delicious dinner, six tables of bridge were in play in the spacious living room. Following the games prizes were given out to Mrs. Evans, high; Miss Martineau, 2nd; Miss Cecile Striker, low; Mrs. H. Pierson and Dr. Sally Sarles, lucky prizes and Mrs. Freeman, the travelling prize.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Otto Brenton on the birth of a son, on Sunday, Mrs. Lyle Mason of Trenton is staying with Mr. Bowerman and children while Mrs. Bowerman is in hospital.

Mrs. Charles Greer spent the weekend in Trenton the guest of her son, Mr. George Greer and family.

Glad to report Mrs. Arnold Wellbanks has returned to her home after being in the Kingston General Hospital for several weeks.

Glad to report Miss Viola Valleau is home again after being a patient in the Toronto General Hospital for some time. Last week Miss Valleau spent with her brother, Mr. Arthur Valleau, and Mrs Valleau, in Aurora.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Evans and family of Cumberland, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Bryant. On Sunday they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Evans and Evelyn.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bailey entertained the Swanny College Euchre Club on Thursday evening. Four tables were in play.

After the games, pretty favors were given out to Mrs. R. Graham and Ronald Upton, ladies' high and low; and to Baden Alyea and Jim Bernard, men's high and low.

Delicious refreshments were served by the lunch committee in charge of the evening.

DINNER PARTY

Mrs. B. A. Evans was hostess at a delightfully arranged dinner and bridge party at her home on Friday evening.

Beautiful bouquets of spring flowers were arranged in the living rooms. The hostess, assisted by her daughter, Miss Evelyn Evans, and Miss Kathryn Foster, served a delicious dinner to the guests seated at quartet tables.

Later there were five tables of bridge in play. After a keenly contested game, favors were presented to, Mrs. R. A. Thompson, Mrs. A. Post; lucky lady, Mrs. Robert Alexander, of Bloomfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Maybee, Lynne, Paul and Carl, of Carleton Place, accompanied by Mrs. Springer and daughter, motored to Wellington on Friday and spent the weekend with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Maybee, and Mrs. Springer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Lloyd.

Sympathy is extended to Mrs. W. Yandt and Mrs. Ed Carson in the death of their brother, Mr. Harry Hubbs, who recently passed away very suddenly, at his home, R.R. 1, Bloomfield.

Wellington lost one of its oldest citizens last week when Mrs. Anthony (Aunt Janie) Goodmurphy, passed away in her 80th year. Sympathy is extended to the bereaved relatives.

Mrs. Ron Baird of Toronto spent the weekend as the guest of her mother, Mrs. R. Sarles, and sister, Dr. Sally Sarles.

Those from the W.M.S., afternoon and evening auxiliaries, who attended the recent United Church W.M.S. Belleville Presbyterial annual meeting were: Mrs. (W. E. Hamel, Mrs. Alvin Poulter, Mrs. C. B. Hicks, Mrs. Barton Cronk, Mrs. R. C. Bishop, Mrs. Harry Pierson, Mrs Sam Yandt, Mrs. Ed Laver and Miss Edie Ward.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bailey motored to Toronto recently and spent the day with their daughter, Mrs. Stanley Galop, and her family. Miss Florence Bailey accompanied her parents and stayed in Toronto until March 3rd when she left by train for Vancouver, B.C., where she is to begin her hairdressing profession.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Hadden and Mrs. Lillian Young, Picton, were Sunday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Graham.

Congratulations to Mrs. V. Marvin, correspondent for the Picton Times, who was awarded an Ontario Hydro Award for her news reporting during the year. Award is suitably framed and the following inscription reads: "Ontario Hydro Honorable Mention, for recognition of outstanding rural news reporting as selected by a committee of judges representing The Ontario Weekly Newspapers Association. Ontario Hydro conveys its congratulations and this honorable mention to — Mrs. Vi Marvin, Picton Times, acknowledging hereby the influential role of journalism in portraying the progress and achievements of Ontario's industrial farm and hamlet population."

Wellington friends of Mrs. Marvin are all proud of her and wish her every success in her future work.

Southeast Asia Treaty Nations Open Conference

CANBERRA, Australia (Reuters)—The council of the eight-nation Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) launched a three-day conference Monday with blunt warnings against the menace of Communist expansion into the area.

Representatives of Britain, France, the United States, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines, Thailand and Pakistan met in the House of Representatives chamber of Australia's Parliament Building.

State Secretary John Foster Dulles of the U.S. scored Russia for trying to turn Middle East nations against each other by "vicious propaganda and large-scale arms shipments."

Communist China has given open support to Russian "colonialism and imperialism and to Soviet defiance of the United Nations," he said, adding it has "ominous implications for all free Asian nations."

New Czar Greer, Australian minister for external affairs, declared that "although the immediate military threat to the treaty area has become less evident, we are still faced with an unrelenting campaign against our way of life that international communism is waging by other means."

The Earl of Home, British secretary of state for Commonwealth relations, said that if the forces of aggression were to be held permanently at bay they must be faced by a maximum combination of power ready to operate on the shortest notice.

PRAISES U.S. AIR FORCE

He said the Bulwer Communist advance could not have been held in Europe without the U.S. strategic air force, and Home declared that he wanted to say in Dulles' presence that it was the single greatest single influence in preventing Western civilization from being overrun.

Rossmore

ROSSMORE — Mr. and Mrs. E. Anderson entertained the members of the regular weekly euchre Wednesday night. Six tables were at play, and prizes awarded according to score.

Mrs. May Belnap of Northport, is visiting Mrs. Nellie Alyea, of Rossmore.

LADIES' AID

Tuesday the members of Rossmore Ladies' Aid met at the home of Mrs. J. Ecker for the first meeting in March. A quilting was in order for the day, which kept everyone busy and happy.

At noon 19 people enjoyed a delicious pot-luck dinner, during which a neighborly spirit of good will prevailed.

Late in the afternoon the ladies left their sewing, and Mrs. F. Belnap opened the meeting.

Due to the lateness of the hour the meeting was brief. Mrs. L. Greer won the aid prize and Mrs. L. Pollitt the door prize.

A cup of tea and cookies were served, which brought a pleasant day to a close.

Mrs. Harry Haire and Perry are visiting the former's parents' Mr. and Mrs. Empey, for a couple of days.

Many members of the afternoon euchre played at the home of Mrs. Anderson this week and enjoyed a pleasant game.

Melrose

MELROSE — Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Clark entertained a number of friends in their home on Friday evening.

Mrs. Russell Macfarlane spent the weekend with Mrs. John Macfarlane and Mrs. Pringle in Belleville, Mr. Macfarlane and Mr. William McMechan spent Sunday at the home.

Mrs. John English, Mrs. Vincent Pascoe, Mrs. Thomas Howard Cub leaders, with Mr. Thomas Howard and Mr. Carman Milligan, Scout leaders enjoyed the Regional Conference in Trenton on Saturday last.

Several school children are not attending classes due to chicken pox.

We are glad to report Mrs. Ross Morgan is convalescing at her home following pneumonia in Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant McLaren spent Saturday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Wilbut Casey, Holloway.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Macfarlane entertained some of their neighbors in their home, on Wednesday evening. Cards were enjoyed and dainty refreshments served.

The cubs met for their regular meeting in the township hall one evening this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Embury spent Saturday last with relatives in Campbellford.

Several ladies of the congregation attended the Presbyterial in Belleville, on Friday last.

Social Credit Party Making Biggest Bid for Advancement In Coming Federal Election

OTTAWA (CP)—Social Credit, a political movement born in Canada in the depression, is making what may be its biggest bid for advancement in the approaching federal election.

Its campaign effort, begun last fall, is employing a novel method of electioneering by mail.

The literature features assurances that the party, if it gains government power, would take a cautious, "go slow" approach to implementing the economic-monetary theories which are its main basis.

NEW TECHNIQUE

The letters go to a mailing list of some 5,000 in Eastern Canada. The party, with 15 members from Alberta and British Columbia in the 265-seat Commons, apparently feels it is well enough known in Western Canada not to send letters there. It's planned to issue letters every two weeks or so—an election technique hitherto undeloped by any party.

The mail goes out over the signature of Attorney-General R. W. Bonner of British Columbia's Social Credit government and chairman of the party's organizational committee for the next election. The first letter stated:

"Social Credit believes that the knowledge and understanding of a national financing system that will adequately protect the country's economy at all times is still far from complete.

"At the same time it is realized that the mechanism of this system is so intricate and so delicate that only through a gradual process of evaluation in the light of greater experience and understanding can it be improved."

NOT CHANGING THEORIES

Some published speculation has suggested this means the party may be backing away from its economic theories.

Not so, says party leader Solon Low.

"It's a statement that we wouldn't run in any upset things," he said in an interview here. "This is a thing you have to be careful about."

The party—Social Credit calls itself a "movement"—would continue to stick to its theories.

That theory took root in Alberta during he 1930s. It was first presented in the 1935 Alberta election which elected the party as a promise of a $20 monthly "social dividend." Basis of the theory is the claim that consumption of goods—purchasing power in the form of money—lags behind production of goods. The Social Credit prescription is to issue "new" money direct to individuals to balance consumption with production.

If social credit came to power, said Mr. Low, this would be done "only at the times and in the amounts required."

FIGHT ON OTHER ISSUES

The party will be fighting the next election on other issues too. But it has stated its faith the Social Credit theories in themselves will appeal to voters.

Thus Rev. E. G. Hansell, presthis session:

"Oh, you may not believe in it. Ident of the party's national association, said in a Commons speech

You may say that it is all hay-wire. You may say that we are a lot of crackpots. But be that as it may, one thing you will not say is that we have not the ability to present an alternative in basic and fundamental policy.

"What I speak of an alternative policy, I do not mean a paint job or repair job. If something is fundamentally wrong with the combustion engine there is no use in saying we will change the tires."

71 CANDIDATES IN 1953

It is still not definite whether Social Credit will be fielding enough candidates in the next election to give it a chance—even if all were elected—to win a majority in the 265-seat Commons.

Before the last election in 1953, the party made similar assertions that it would field large numbers of candidates. A total of 71 candidates ran. Only nine were entered among the 192 seats east of the Prairies; eight in Ontario and one in New Brunswick. The 15 Social Credit MPs elected from the 62 candidates entered in the four western provinces where there are 70 constituencies.

For the coming election, Mr. Low said there would be full slates of candidates in every riding of the four western provinces.

He said Quebec organizers have told him that, provided time and finances are available, it might be possible to run 50 candidates in Quebec's 75 ridings. Organizers in Ontario, with 85 ridings, had told him they were "going out for the whole works."

In 10-constituency New Brunswick, where Social Credit made a bid in the last provincial election with no success, the party was "hopeful there will be a full slate." Efforts would be made to muster candidates in the other Atlantic provinces.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

ANOTHER THRILLER

It will be a grim, determined bevy of Chevies that skate out on Memorial Arena ice tonight. Down two games in the first three sets, the Men o' Miron will be in no amiable mood when they cross rapiers with the high-flying McFarlands. For a loss will put their backs "plumb agin" that well-known wall and they realize that if they want to play one of the two principal roles in the Eastern Ontario senior "A" finals drama, they will have to come out of tonight's rehearsal with a victory.

And the game is just as important to the Macs. A win will give them a stranglehold on the series with the added advantage that if they lose in Cornwall Thursday night, they will be on home ice Friday for the sixth struggle.

The Macs are said to be in fine fettle for tonight's fray with all the players with the exception of Rene St. Hilaire in top condition and rarin' to go. Rene suffered a painful gash on an eyelid in last Friday's game here that necessitated stitches. The game little guy, however, went out there on Sunday and gave another fine exhibition. The cut has been bothering him somewhat but he will prowl the blue line around the battleground tonight, breaking up Chevie plays and getting on the scoring list. They don't come much "gamer" than this little fellow.

* *

Now that the big curling show is over down Kingston way and the nation's top stone-clutters are licking their wounds or gloating on their laurels, interests in the "roarin' game" will be centred this weekend on No. 6 Repair Depot, Trenton RCAF.

It seems the flyboys and others wearing the air force blue have got themselves a neat organization of their own, known as the RCAF Curling Club, which is rapidly snatching a lot of the popularity of other winter sports of the station.

This heretofore toddling sports baby is rapidly growing into a husky youngster and after the day's toil is accounted for, the boys don their sliding trousers and flying suits and don whatever they wear in the broom-and-stane game. That the game is popular is evidenced in statistics recently received here which reveal four divisions comprised of 45 rinks. That represents a lot of curlers.

It seems the boys have got themselves a fine curling club. It has been in operation some time and when the ice season is at a climax on Friday when station and visiting brass will be on hand to conduct the official opening of the club. Highlighting the opening ceremonies will be a sports curling match to be between the 6 Repair Depot "stoners" and representatives of the Director General Dental Services, Training Command Headquarters. This is also being held in conjunction with the opening of the new dental clinic headquarters being set up at RCAF Station Trenton. The service boys will vie for a special trophy donated by the Director General Dental Services.

However the main item of interest from a district curling standpoint will be the First Annual Bay of Quinte Bonspiel being staged Friday, Saturday and Sunday of this week. The bonspiel is an invitational affair and some nine district clubs will participate. These include the RCAF Station Club 16 rinks including seven from Belleville; Trenton Country Club, four rinks; Quinte Country Club, four; Kingston Curling Club, two; RCEME, Barriefield, two; Marmora, one; Gananoque, one; Cobourg, one, and Peterborough, one.

The bonspiel will consist of three events, a main event and two consolations. Play will get under way Friday at the new rink on the No. 6 Repair Depot Road. Some keen competition is anticipated and the host club is leaving no stone unturned (no pun intended) to make their inaugural district bonspiel a highly successful forerunner of those to come.

NICE GESTURE

Recognition of Minnie Menard's feat in tying the Senior "A" goal-scoring record (50) has been made by the Belleville Intermediate "A" Hockey Club of this city. Menard will be the recipient of a handsome silver tray suitably engraved. The presentation will be made during tonight's Cornwall-Belleville game if the gift arrives in time. If not it will be presented later.

Red Wings, Canadiens, Bruins Flopping in Lethargy Net; Howe Needs 10 for Record

MONTREAL (CP) — The way things are going in the closing National Hockey League race it's hard to tell which team is backing into the championship and which is backing out.

It any one team among Detroit Red Wings, Montreal Canadiens and Boston Bruins had been playing the hockey expected of it that team would have been sitting pretty, more or less, by now.

As things have been going lately nobody knows what to expect. Take last week's action as a good example. Red Wings and Canadiens each floundered through to one win in two starts. Bruins did a trifle better. They came up with a win and a tie against one loss.

It remained for the fourth-place New York Rangers to show that last playoff spot all but clinched mathematically, to show the up-per-echelon teams how it should be done in the stretch drive. Rangers had won two, lost one and tied three outings, collecting five of a possible six points.

So the stage was among the so-called big three remains pretty much as it was. Detroit leads by 75 points, Montreal follows with 75 and Boston has 73. Rangers have 63, Toronto Maple Leafs 53 and the unpredictable Chicago Black Hawks—Montreal's chief spoilsetters de luxe—have 46. Detroit has six games left; Montreal and Boston five each.

Leafs and Hawks got nowhere in particular last week-end with only a win, a loss and a tie.

The status quo situation prevailed also among the leading scorers, although their performance was considerably better than that of their teams as a whole. The ace marksmen are also gunning for records.

Gordie Howe of Detroit scored two goals and one assist last week and is still the pace-setter with his 82 points. His teammate Ted Lindsay counted two assists and follows with 79 points.

Howe needs only one point—a tough assignment in six games—to equal the record 50 goals in a season, set in a 50-game schedule 12 seasons ago by Montreal's Maurice Richard. Howe can tie his own record of 95 points in a season if he comes up with 13 more.

Lindsay is much closer to records. He needs only three points to equal the long-distance record 82 for a left-winger. It was made 13 seasons ago by Bobby Cale of Boston. Lindsay is in sight of the assist record for any player, Bert Olmstead of Montreal set the NHL mark of 56 last season. Lindsay now has 51.

If Doug Harvey of Montreal gets three more assists he will equal the record 42 for a defence man, the mark he made himself two seasons ago.

Jean Beliveau of Montreal, making a belated effort to retain his scoring title, collected two goals and two assists last week. He has 76 points, against Howe's 82 and Lindsay's 79.

Andy Bathgate of New York came up with a brilliant seven-point production—three goals and four assists—in his three games and is a solid fourth with 70 points. Ultimate challenger of Chicago had one goal and two assists and follows with 60 points.

Dickie Richard of Montreal collected two goals and two assists and remains sixth with 58 points. Dickie Moore of Montreal picked up two assists and follows with 55. Don McKenney of Boston, with three assists, has 53 points.

Norm Ullman of Detroit broke a ninth-place tie and now holds that spot by himself with 50 points although he scored only one goal and one assist.

The hustle for goalie honors between Glen Hall of Detroit and Jacques Plante of Montreal is still a thriller. The Red Wings have been scored on 145 times and the Canadiens 146.

Tiger Jones Matched With Lil Arthur King

TORONTO (CP)—Boxing promoter Jack Allen says Ralph (Tiger) Jones, third-ranking middleweight contender, will fight Toronto's Arthur King March 25 at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Allen said Monday the 29-year-old Yonkers, N.Y., Negro will probably weigh in at 156 pounds, four pounds more than King, a welterweight who moved up from the lightweight ranks last year.

Jones is a rugged puncher with a victory over former middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson. His last fight was Jan. 19, when he took a decision from Hardy Smallwood.

King, also 29, began a comeback last March after an 18-month layoff with a broken hand. Since then he has won and lost one, a split decision, and last November scored a 59-second knockout over Frankie Alotta of Allentown, Pa.

SAVOIE MEETS BROWN

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Joe Brown, world lightweight champion, meets Armand Savoie of Montreal here tonight in a 10-round non-title fight. Both Brown and Savoie are expected to weigh 136. It will be Brown's first fight since he successfully defended his title last month in Miami Beach against the former title holder, Bud Smith.

Dutchies, Dogs Open Finals At Windsor

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener Waterloo Dutchmen and Windsor Bulldogs will meet in the first games of Ontario Hockey Association senior A western division finals at Windsor Wednesday, the Dutchmen were advised Monday.

Playoff dates in the best-of-seven series were set by Frank Buckland, president of the OHA, after the teams failed to work out mutually satisfactory dates.

The second game will be at Kitchener Sunday, the third at Windsor Sunday and the fourth at Kitchener March 19.

If further games are necessary, they will be played as follows: At Windsor March 20; at Kitchener March 23 and at Windsor March 24.

National Hockey Leaguers Divide $132,500 Pot O' Gold

MONTREAL (CP) — There's a big pot of $132,500 up for grabs among National Hockey League players—those good enough, and fortunate enough, to share in the distribution.

From the way things are going in the close finish, most of the hopefuls for this end - of - season wealth won't be known until the Stanley Cup playoffs are over.

The general distribution is this way:

$36,000 in graduated scale among the clubs holding the first four positions at the end of the regular NHL season;

$81,000 in Stanley Cup playoffs, both semi-finals and final;

$15,500 in individual awards;

$9,000 for the 12 players making the all-star teams.

$6,000 POSSIBLE

In the scramble for the extra money it still is possible for as outstanding a player as Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings or Doug Harvey of Montreal Canadiens to walk off with $6,000.

For the finishing places in the league race are the $36,000 prizes, the NHL sets up 18 units.

The club finishing first will get $18,000 an average of about $1,000 for each player. On the same basis, players on the second-place club will get $500 each, those on the third-place club $350 and those on the fourth-place club $150.

On the same unit basis, each of the Stanley Cup playoffs, the top semi-finals will get $1,000, on the losing side $500 each. The same monetary awards go to players on the winning and losing teams in the finals.

There are six individual awards to be decided by hockey writers, broadcasters and telecasters in the six NHL cities.

TROPHY AWARDS

Two of the awards are won on the basis of achievement as shown in the final statistics. To the leading goal scorer goes the Art Ross trophy, a set of goals and assists—goes $1,000; to the runner-up, $500. The winner also gets the Ross trophy.

Vezina Trophy and $1,000 goes to the goalie who played the most games during the season for the team least scored against.

The voted awards, with $1,000 in cash each, are the Hart trophy, for most valuable player to his team; the Byng trophy, for the player combining good play with playing ability; the Norris trophy, for the league's best defenceman, and the Calder trophy, for the outstanding rookie.

The voters also decide the all-star teams. Six players named to the first team get $1,000 each; those on the second team, $500.

If Detroit Red Wings, currently leading the league, finish first and go on to win the Stanley Cup, Gordie Howe might win a lot of dough. He would get $2,000 as a member of the first - place team and $2,000 as a member of the winning team in both a semi-final and the final in the playoffs.

Howe is also leading the scorers. If he stays there he would get another $1,000. He's a possible choice for the first all-star team and it is also possible he could be named as the most valuable player.

The same goes pretty much for Doug Harvey, captain and defenceman of Canadiens. If Canadiens should finish first and then win the cup final, his possible figures would parallel those cited for Howe except as leading scorer. But he is a possible winner of the Norris trophy as top defenceman.

TAKE A LION'S CHOICE

TORONTO (CP)—John Smith, 240-pound tackle from Northwestern University, has been signed by the Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four Football Union, managing director Lew Hayman announced Monday night. The 23-year-old six-foot-four-inch lineman was a draft choice of Detroit Lions of the National Football League in 1956.

Red Sox Yet to Win a Game But Boston Fans Not Alarmed

By The Associated Press

Boston fans, don't be alarmed! True, the beloved Red Sox have yet to win a spring exhibition game in three tries, and they're hosting the talented New York Yankees again today at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Manager Mike Higgins' Red Sox have scored only two runs since the grapefruit and cactus circuit exhibitions began Saturday, and Monday three Yankee righthanders combined to shut them out 2-0 on three hits.

However, a good part of the Boston batting punch is absent in the persons of Ted Williams and Jackie Jensen, and they probably won't get into the lineup before the Red Sox travel to the west coast March 27. Jensen is working out in California with the permission of Higgins. He'll join the Sox in the west.

TWO PITCH NO-HIT BALL

Williams, sore and stiff, watched from the bench as Tom Sturdivant and rookies Ralph Terry and Jack Urban blanked his mates. Terry and Urban, with Denver of the American Association last year, never allowed a hit, all three coming off Sturdivant in the middle innings. Terry pitched the first four and Urban the last two innings.

Yogi Berra played his first game of the spring and drove in the New York run with a sacrifice fly and the other scored on an infield out.

Last season Williams batted .345 drove in 87 runs and hit 24 homers while Jensen's average was .315 with 97 RBI's and 20 home runs.

The unbeaten Pittsburgh Pirates made it three straight at Ft. Myers, Fla., defeating Washington Senators 3-2 on catcher Danny Kravitz' run-scoring single in the last of the ninth.

Herb Score, Cleveland 20-game winner, and rookies Jim Grant and Dick Mesa limited Baltimore to six hits as the Indians won 5-1, at Tucson, Ariz.

GIANTS WIN ONE

At Mesa, Ariz, New York Giants broke a 4-4 tie in the top of the ninth inning to defeat Chicago Cubs, 7-4. The Cubs have yet to win in three starts.

Art Schult and Pete Whisenant rocked rookie pitcher Angelo Petri for home runs and Cincinnati Redlegs defeated Philadelphia Phils 4-2 at Tampa, Fla. Rip Repulski and Eddie Kazanski homered for the Phils, who also have dropped three in a row.

Stan Musial blasted his second homer in two days for St. Louis Cardinals to defeat Milwaukee Braves 4-3. A base on balls, Alvin Dark's triple and the homer in the sixth accounted for three runs.

Brooklyn got classy two - hit pitching Monday night at Miami from Bob Darnell, Ken Lehman, Charlie Templeton and Don Elston but the Chicago White Sox shoved across the lone tally in the fourth to win 1-0. A walk, single by Minnie Minoso, and an infield out produced the run.

"This rookie is after your position, Pete. So maybe we oughta say good-by now!"

Sandy Saddler Looking for Day Of 'Unretirement'

By Murray Rose

NEW YORK (AP) — Retired featherweight champion Sandy Saddler is eagerly looking forward to the day of his "unretirement" and a chance to get a crack at his successor.

"All I hope is that this tournament they're having to get a new champion builds up a lot of interest so we can make a lot of money when we meet the title," said Sandy at Flower Fifth Avenue Hospital.

Hospital authorities say the lanky, 30 - year - old Saddler is "coming along satisfactorily" after an eye operation and that if the healing continues as well as it has he should be able to fight again.

Saddler, suffering from a detached retina in his right eye following an auto accident, underwent an operation Feb. 25. He gave up his title on Jan. 22 when it was feared he was losing the sight of the eye.

GOT THE FIDGETS

"I've been in the hospital over a month," said Saddler, "and I'm sure getting the fidgets. I'm used to moving around—I've been all over the world.

"When I get out of here I'm going to get in the merchant marine for a short spell and go places. Then I'm going back in training and will challenge the winner."

Miguel Berrios, Puerto Rico, and Carmelo Costa, Brooklyn, who ooen the elimination tournament at Madison Square Garden, March 22, Nigeria's Hogan (Kid) Bassey and Cherif Hamia of France, were the four picked for the tourney by the world boxing committee.

GREAVES, SPIDER FIGHT

CHICAGO (AP)—Wilf Greaves a native of Edmonton now fighting out of Pittsburgh was named Monday as a substitute for a televised match Wednesday at Chicago Stadium against the No. 4 ranking middleweight, Spider Webb. Greaves, who lost a split decision to champion Gene Fullmer at Salt Lake City last January, will replace Randy Sandy at the last minute. The International Boxing Club announced that Sandy injured his left hand Sunday in training.

DISCREDIT TOSS

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) There will be no official recognition of the 292-foot, seven-inch javelin throw turned in by Spain's Miguel de la Quadra in a track meet here Saturday.

Eugenio Guerra, meet official, said Quadra did not use the standard form but instead a modification of his own. The form has been banned by athletic officials. The world record is 274 feet, 5½ inches, held by Janusz Sidlo of Poland.

Two McFarlands Chosen For Eastern Ontario Senior A All-Star Team

Moe Benoit, Minnie Menard Named Members Dream Squad; Paul Payette Centres 2nd Team

Four members of the Whitby Dunlops, two of the Belleville McFarlands and one of the Cornwall Chevrolets were named to the first Eastern Ontario Senior "A" League All-Star team.

The two teams were selected by sportswriters and sportscasters of the league circuit with two points for a first-place selection and one for second-place nomination. The selectors were not permitted to vote for players of their home town clubs.

The closest fight for positions was that of goalies with Henderson receiving eleven points, Devaney, nine; Bell, (Belleville) eight; Brooks (Kingston) two and Anderson, (Pembroke) one.

Bob Attersley and Minnie Menard, points and goals scoring champions of the league were unanimous choices of the selectors. Defenceman Harry Sinden polled 15 out of a possible 16 votes.

Maurice Benoit received twelve votes with Floyd Crawford getting four. Paul Payette received four votes for the centre position and Willie Menard, two Ike Hildebrand got three votes for the rigat wing position.

Cornwall's Gerry Plamonden received unanimous nod as coach for the first-team coach position, garnering 13 points to Gagnon's 11.

The selections were solicited and compiled by Ron Ellacott, Cornwall sports editor.

Kingston Wins Basketball Title The Easy Way

MONTREAL (CP) — Because one of its players grew a fraction of an inch, a basketball team found itself without the championship it thought it had won Monday.

Montreal all-stars wound up their two-game, total point series for the Canadian Biddy basketball championship in Kingston Saturday with 59 points. Kingston all-stars had 58. The Montreal youngsters were all set to go to Atlantic City for the world tournament.

Kingston protested, and Monday commissioner Joey Richman said the Kingston protest is allowed and the Kingston team takes over the title.

The protest involved Ray Madden, high scorer for Montreal. It was claimed Madden was taller than the limit of five feet, six inches for Biddy players.

Richman had Madden checked by a doctor. The boy was "almost half an inch" over the limit.

PLAYED IN GOOD FAITH

"The Montreal team played the boy in good faith," said Richman. "It seems simply a question of nature taking over.

"In regular league play he would not be ineligible. He was under the limit when he started the season and league rules permit a player to play out the league schedule whether he goes over the limit or not.

"The boy's heigt was measured five weeks ago and he was still okay. But once the zone finals start the five-six limit applies again. The Montreal team had no idea the youngster had grown over the limit in that time."

Madden scored 19 points in the first game, won 31-27 by Kingston. He scored 17 in the second, won 32-26 by Montreal.

Training Camp Notes

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP)—Convinced that two American League contenders overlooked him as a .300 hitter, bespectacled outfielder Bob Nieman of Baltimore Orioles says he intends to prove his average of .320 last year was no fluke.

A combination of regular play, the discovery he needed eyeglasses in the day as well as at night and Oriole manager Paul Richards' faith in him, gave 30-year-old Nieman his best season in five big league campaigns last year.

Nieman shows a tinge of bitterness over what he thinks was a lack of confidence in him by Detroit Tigers in 1954 and Chicago White Sox in 1955.

"The White Sox should have won the pennant in 1955, but they never let their power jell. Walt Dropo, George Kell and myself had terrific RBI records per times at bat that year. I was the only totalled 230 and averaged one every five times at bat."

The White Sox, then managed by Marty Marion, traded Nieman to Baltimore late last year after he batted .283 in 1955.

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—A 21-year-old right hand pitcher who had pollo when he was three and whose left leg is shorter than his right leg is working out with Pittsburgh Pirates in the hope of landing a job.

Manager Bobby Bragan and other Pirate brass have shown considerable interest in Paul Sasse, son of George Sasse, ex-Pirate catcher and former major league coach. Another son, George Jr., is on the pitching staff of Boston Red Sox.

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — Chicago Cubs' injury list heathened Monday with the addition of pitcher Bob Rush and first baseman Bob Speake.

Rush complained of abdominal pains and was taken to a physician who prescribed a series of tests today to get a line on the source of the trouble.

Speake, running out a hit, tripped over first base and injured his left shoulder. A left-hander, Speake will refrain from throwing for a couple of days.

Still bothered by a sore shoulder is shortstop Ernie Banks who will rest for three or four days more.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Ruben Gomez, reporting two weeks late to the New York Giants' training camp, lost little time swinging into action after he flew in from Puerto Rico.

The 29 - year - old righthander, eager to show there was nothing wrong with his shoulder, pitched about 20 minutes Monday in batting practice. He had injured his right shoulder sliding for a ball while playing the outfield in the Puerto Rican winter league.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—The tormenting sciatica condition which reduced Ted Kluszewski's all-around effectiveness last year and for a while threatened to end the Cincinnati slugger's brilliant baseball career, is a thing of the past —well, almost.

The mighty-muscled first baseman, his bare torso "slenderized" to a mere 235 pounds, said; "I'm very optimistic about this coming season. I can't begin to tell you the difference between this and last spring. I'm almost like a new man. A year ago, because of that sciatica condition, I could hardly move. It hurt to swing a bat, it hurt to run, it hurt to reach out for a thrown ball. I find I can do all these things now without feeling any pain.

"I won't lie to you and say that I don't feel it at all," Ted continued. "I know it's there. But it's only a slight soreness."

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—Hank Aaron, Milwaukee Braves' 23-year-old National League batting champion, was asked what Jim Davis of the St. Louis Cardinals pitched in the ninth inning when he blasted his home run in an exhibition Monday at St. Petersburg, Fla.

"I guess it was a fast ball," said Aaron.

Reminded that Davis threw only knuckleballs, Aaron commented: "I don't care what kind of pitch it was, I hit 'em all."

Whitby Dunlops Rout Kingston

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The powerful Whitby Dunlops have all but clinched a berth in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A eastern division finals.

Dunlops led all the way during the regular schedule, mainly because of their high-scoring Bob Attersley, George Samolenko, Bus Gagnon line and Monday night the same three spearheaded the team in a 7-2 defeat of Kingston CKLC's. Dunlops now have a commanding 9-1 lead in the best-of-seven semi-final series.

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior A southern group round-robin to decide two finalists, North Bay Trappers assured themselves of a spot in the play-off by defeating Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Greyhounds 5-3. Trappers now lead two games, a three-team round-robin by three points.

Attersley, the league's leading scorer, scored three goals Monday night in the rout and assisted on two others; right-winger Samolenko had a goal and three assists and playing-coach Gagnon a goal and two assists. Charlie Burns added a pair.

Frank Sloswarch and Bukacheslat been little match for Whitby during the series.

Frank Bratton scored at 4:50 of the first period to give Trappers a 4-3 lead. It stayed that way until the dying moments when Greyhounds removed their goaltender for an extra forward and George Gosselin dumped the puck into the empty net.

Stan Maxwell, Walt Atanas and Bobbie Barlow scored Trappers' first three goals. Cleland Morrison, John Lumley and Steve Brklavich scored for the Sault.

Tonight Cornwall Cheviex play at Belleville against the McFarlands in the other eastern division semi-final. Belleville has a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven series.

In the NOHA Sudbury Wolves are host to the Greyhounds. Both have five points in the round-

Soo Gunners Better Club Than Last Champions

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) Co.ch Clint Robertson says his Sault Ste. Marie Gunners are going into the Ontario senior basketball finals a better team than when it won the Eastern Canada championship two years ago.

Gunners meet Toronto Andy's Thursday in the first game of a best-of-three final for the Ontario championship and the right to meet the winner of the Ottawa-Brantford series for the Eastern Canada title. The second game is tonight with a third, if necessary, Saturday.

Two years ago, Gunners eliminated Toronto Falcons and Ottawa Shaffers but lost in the Dominion final to Port Alberni, B.C. But Robertson thinks his team, strong ever since it moved up from intermediate ranks after winning the Canadian intermediate title in 1950, has improved.

"We have a better team this year," he said. "We have more height and depth than we ever had before."

Height was a problem in 1955, he said. His tallest player then was six feet, four inches, but this year he has veteran centre Jerry Kahle, six-four, rookie centre Dave Gerry, six-seven, and a team average height of about six feet, two inches.

Bruins Lose Allan Stanley For Season

BOSTON (AP) — Defenceman Allan Stanley is lost to the Boston Bruins for the remainder of the National Hockey League season, the playoffs and perhaps for good.

Stanley's left leg will be in a cast for three to four weeks as the result of a check by Toronto's Gerry James Sunday night.

The 32-year-old veteran who has played a vital role in the success of the Bruins, who are five points out of first place, may hang up his skates.

He is running for Parliament from his home town of Timmins, and if he wins he'll quit.

In the emergency Boston general manager Lynn Patrick has called up two players from farm teams. One is 23-year-old Floyd Hall Hillman, the former Canada ace of the Quebec league. The other is Jack Gibbons, 22-year-old left junior A Barrie Flyers.

Rangers Flog Bathgate for MVP Award

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Rangers, within two points of clinching a Stanley Cup playoff berth, are plugging winger Andy Bathgate, 26, for the National Hockey League's most valuable player award.

And by throwing on his recent performances as Rangers tried to shake Toronto Maple Leafs for the fourth and last playoff spot, they can work up a good argument.

The Rangers, for which Bathgate means Rangers are in the playoffs if they win their last game or Toronto loses one, boosted the Winnipeg native's point total to 70—a Ranger record. He held the previous record of 66. New York now has five record-holders on the Toronto six.

Bathgate's 44 assists this season are only three shy of Rangers' record—which he also holds.

In the last half of the season, Bathgate has been the league's top scorer—total points 31 games.

Even coach Phil Watson, more noted for blasting his players, figures Bathgate is the league's most valuable player.

"He's got a terrific shot, he's a terrific stickhandler," Watson said. "He straightens better than any of the other top players in the league."

Floyd Patterson Hurricane Fight Logical for June

NEW YORK (AP) — Cus D'Amato, manager of heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, says a Patterson - Tony (Hurricane) Jackson title bout is the logical fight for June.

The fight has not been made nor have 1 negotiated lately with the International Boxing Club over a title defence," he said Monday.

"However I firmly believe that Jackson deserves the fight more of any other contender. He is the most colorful, most draw to the most money and gave Floyd a good fight (last June) before Floyd won the title."

The IBC and Jackson's manager Bill Breitbart, also said nothing concrete had been done about a Jackson-Patterson bout. However both the champion and Jackson are in training.

Marlies Oust Hamilton 3-1; Meet Teepees

HAMILTON (CP) — Toronto Marlboros defeated Hamilton Cubs 5-1 Monday night to take their Ontario Hockey Association Junior 'A' series quarter-finals, 3-1 and earn the right to meet St. Catharines Teepees in a semi-final series.

Bill Kennedy, Jim Murchie, Ron Casey, Gord Haughton and Bob Nevin scored for Dukes who are trying for their third consecutive Memorial Cup.

Murray Oliver scored for Cubs, giving Hamilton a 1-0 first-period lead, but after that the Gerry Brown coached Cubs couldn't keep pace with Marlies.

An estimated 3,500 watched the game erupt in the last minute of the play with fans pelting the Marlies with papers, rubbers and even cats. Marlies travelled by train but their sticks back into the crowd. Harry Neale of Marlies, serving a penalty for grabbing Cub Howie Young's stick from the Hamilton bench and breaking it, was grabbed by some fans but he broke loose with his stick.

Cub coach Brown refused to let his players congratulate the Toronto team. Two of the Cubs were sent to the rink infirmary. Dave Amadio of Toronto and Cubs' head cut when hit over the head by Doug Rieder who was given a five minute penalty.

Claim Italian Olympic Games 'Biggest and Best'

ROME (AP)—The 1960 Olympic Games, to be staged here in the Italian capital, "will be the biggest and the best yet," Olympic International committee chancellor Otto Mayer said Monday.

"They just can't fail to be the most attractive games ever staged in the modern series," he old a press conference.

"We shall have almost twice as many athletes as in the Melbourne games—and perhaps twice as many visitors."

Mayer said the home games will be the last to be held in the present form. "After 1960 we must get down to more austere trimming," he said. "The present calendar is a little unwieldy and not always as interesting as it might be."

Mayer disclosed that the Rome games will set a new pattern—starting with the smaller events and building up to a grand climax in the last few days.

Mayer said 6,380 athletes are expected to take part in the Rome Olympics, compared to 3,700 at Melbourne last year and 5,700 at Helsinki in 1952. The games are scheduled from Aug. 25 to Sept. 11.

Quebec Hockey

MONTREAL (CP)—Orval Tessier of Quebec Aces stayed two points ahead of Jacques Marcel Bonin in the Quebec Hockey League's individual scoring competition, as both picked up three points in last week's play.

In Quebec's final drive to the league championship, Tessier scored three goals and seven assists for a total of 69 points—37 goals and 32 assists. Bonin assisted three times for 34 goals, 33 assists and 67 points.

Dick Wray of cellar-dwelling Shawinigan Falls still in third spot poured in four goals and assisted on another, running his total to 62. He is eight points ahead of his nearest competitor. Only seven games still to be played.

Madcap Days of Hollywood Over, Respectability Sets In

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Sure as shooting in a western, there's a revolution going on in Hollywood.

Gone is the small, cramped spirit that characterized Hollywood in its early years. Fading are the all-powerful major studios. Diminishing is the list of ingendary, glamorous stars.

The sweeping changes in the industrial setup of movies are obvious even in the news almost daily. The other changes have occurred more subtly, but are just as profound.

The truth is that the movie business, at mid-century, is entering the middle age. The madcap days are over; respectability has set in.

The stars, who set the tone for Hollywood, have become fewer and more important. Plagued by money troubles, the studios have been unable to spend the cash it takes to build new ones. That big star like Gary Cooper, John Wayne and James Stewart, who were once mere leading men, now become titans.

ATTITUDE CHANGES

With such immense importance, a star's attitude changes. Take Marilyn Monroe.

Columnists and press agents recall wistfully that it was only a few short years ago that she would do almost anything for publicity. Saucy pictures of her, authentic, were attributed to her on every subject from sex ("It's part of nature; why deny nature?") to sunbathing ("I like to feel blonde all over").

Marilyn became a star. So what happens?

She started battling her studio for script and director approval. She appeared a fervent drive to play in a Russian classic. She formed Marilyn Monroe Productions. And she married a longhair playwright.

Marilyn graphically portrays the trend of stars in Hollywood during recent years. The big stars know they are more important than at any time in film history. They demand top money and get it.

MONEY NOT ENOUGH

But they want more than money. They want a creative hand in the pictures they make. And they want to be accepted as serious artists and respected citizens.

The effects of this trend can be seen in the social patterns. Night life has declined; the once-bustling district of the Sunset Strip are scrambling to stay open. There are no longer any big parties such as Carole Lombard and Norma Shearer used to toss. Entertaining is limited largely to small dinner parties at home.

While the social changes have been gradual, the industrial shifts in Hollywood are sudden and often violent.

The changes at RKO brought the biggest shock. Dusty with neglect by Howard Hughes, the studio began to come alive after it was bought by the O'Neills of General Tire and Rubber. The production staff was beefed up, and a dozen pictures were made. None set the box office afire. Production slowed, and wholesale firings followed.

RKO is not the only studio to undergo great chagge. Attacked by angry stockholders, MGM has had sweeping changes in top management, including the dismissal of studio boss Dore Schary. Once the titan among the studios, MGM is now seeking more and more independent producers to use the studio's facilities.

FEWER EMPLOYED

The decline in film business is shown both in profits and employment. A study official estimates that recently that 11,000 are employed in making films; the theatres count 24,000 a decade ago.

Does box office receipts, the only industry-wide figures available, mean changes have been made? Not the least of the lush war years. But this is deceiving, for net profits have been deeply cut. Production, distribution and exhibition costs have risen sharply, cutting into the gross. Run-of-the-mine films, such as the B movies of old, now are unprofitable.

Theatres, particularly in the large metropolitan areas, have been hard hit. There were 12,900 operating in June, 1956, compared with 18,000 in peak 1948. Admissions estimate another 5,000 will fold. There are obvious signs that Hollywood is failed to keep up with the rise of population and prosperity.

First-Rate Motion Pictures Will Last Three Years on TV

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (CP) — How long will the supply of first-rate motion pictures last as first-runs on television?

Ely Landau believes there is a backlog which should last from two to three years. Landau should know, for he is president of a fourth television network which has come into being as something to be reckoned with.

Landau's network is National Telefilm Associates, Inc. Three years ago it was $700,000 worth of business. In this fiscal year it will do about $18,000,000. How does it operate? For example:

Beginning the first week in April, 190 TV stations throughout the U.S. will present the 20th Century-Fox film Soon, starring Tyrone Power and Loretta Young. The showing of times of the movie will vary from station to station, but a majority will come on the same evening on Saturday or Sunday evening.

Sure is the first of 208 features NTA acquired from 20th Century-Fox. (There are many excellent ones in the bundle: The Grapes of Wrath, The Razor's Edge, Leave Her to Heaven. NTA then obtained two national sponsors for its 90-minute weekly features. These were sold, feature and spot, so commercials complete, to the 129 NTA network members.

Feature movies on television have become big entertainment and big business in the last three years. When NTA first began acquiring the films of J. Arthur Rank and David O. Selznick for TV it was paying $10,000 a feature. Today it's paying as much as $110,000.

The TV movie is frankly fearful of the competition of an organization such as NTA. Landau views it otherwise.

"An individual station can't compete with Mary Martin in Peter Pan," he says, "unless its programming costs are spread among other independent stations to present a first-rate show. That's what NTA is doing. It's a healthy competitive situation."

SUICIDE SERVICE

LONDON (AP)—London's suicide service—you phone Mansion House 90000 if you want someone to talk you out of it—is expanding on a day and night basis because of the rush of business. The operation is manned by 100 volunteers, known as the Samaritans. They answer calls and keep an understanding conversation going while other Samaritans dash over for a personal visit.

The European team in room one bought it at four hearts with this bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	1 H	1 S	2 H
Pass	3 H	3 S	Pass
Pass	4 H	All pass

East did not know playing trick values well enough to pass on the second round. So, his later bid of four hearts may have been from ignorance instead of deliberate intent to sacrifice.

He got an opening lead of 3 spade and gave up the four tricks he could not possibly save. His side was vulnerable and down one cost him 100 points, which was not bad under the circumstances.

In room two the contract was also bought by the European team that sat in the opposite direction. Their bidding went like this:

North	South
Pass	1 S
2 C	2 S

There were no defending bids by the American team in this room and south bought it cheap. Heart king was led by west and declarer took nine tricks by giving up a heart, a diamond, and two clubs.

Result can make three spades for a score of 140 (90 with 50 bonus "for part score). So, the room one loss of 100 by east was not a bad result in this particular case. But it does not excuse the bidding.

South or north in room one could have doubled four hearts. So, one team or the other was wrong. As usual.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wed., March 13, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — You could use imagination, precision and accuracy to great advantage now. But more than three qualities combine to make a day successful to a thoughtful judge. Control temper, emotions.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Concentrate on either new projects or old ones, as long as they are matters of immediate need, during this stimulating period. Give good ideas a chance.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — This day's influences are somewhat mixed. But, if you start right and maintain a steady tempo, you will do more than even you expect. It's nice to surprise one's self.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Favorable outlook gives some sound insurance of good progress if your efforts are sincere. Meet urgent tasks with faith. Tact, understanding and consistency essential.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — With your good humor and willingness to take advice, and to understand honest differences of opinion, you can make this day the bright one it should be. Don't waste time or endeavor on unessentials.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — If you don't at first succeed, try, try again — a motto as good as gold now. In public and domestic matters, be unusually tactful, eager to smooth out irritability. Avoid haste.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — You may be able to accomplish more than many today, yet you may be stumped at seemingly small matters. Remain calm, be rightly determined, and don't give up. Calculate carefully.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Day encouraging for smart management and sensible allocation of your duties. Be your innately intelligent, constructive self and you will attain.

November 23 to December 21 — (Sagittarius) — Follow your intuition and sense of values with enthusiasm. Don't weaken where your ability can produce. You are capable; have faith in greater achievement.

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn) — It might be smart to review briefly before beginning day's program. Can you eliminate any waste motion to speed results and save energies? Don't cut essentials, however.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — With your planet Uranus, going into an excellent aspect tomorrow, you can anticipate happy conclusions, well - spent and successful efforts, and pleasure through happy friendships. Work for these.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Work more slowly if it would help you to think better or preserve your health. But don't be dilatory. A fine day for developing new ideas, methods. Investigate; be soundly progressive.

You born today: responsiveness, deep emotions, genius are prominent in Pisces. You can be successful at anything you undertake if you keep developing your talents and if you do not yield to fears and doubts. You can rise to great heights when given the chance. Keep smiling. You are endowed with inspiration; often know intuitively when to do things. Properly used, this faculty can be a means to great good. Birthdate: Jack Lait, newspaper editor, writer.

WILLING TO WAIT

PRESTON, Ont. (CP)—Ian underhill has just missed another birthday, and he'll have to wait until 1960. Ian was born on Feb. 29, 1940. "The birthday I had in 1956 was good enough to carry me until 1960," he said.

Police Discover More Dynamite In Bandit's Truck

MONTREAL (CP) — Police, working around the clock, are running down all clues relating to Andre Deblois' mad escapades Friday in the event the 22-year-old youth may have more dynamite cached away.

Forty sticks of dynamite were found Monday in a panel truck owned by Deblois, bringing to 86 the number recovered by police since the youth smashed on his fantastic bank robbery scheme.

Debloi had 39 sticks when he was shot through the neck in a St. Lawrence boulevard branch of the Toronto-Dominion Bank which he attempted to rob Friday. Five more sticks were found in a time bomb at Central Station Friday night.

Police said Debloi told them Monday that he had stolen a case of dynamite while constructing six several weeks ago. A check with manufacturers of the dynamite said 91 sticks of that type are normally packed into a case. That could mean seven sticks of dynamite are still unaccounted for.

Detective - Lieutenant Marc Maurice said Monday night:

"We do not know whether the case was full. We had no report of a dynamite theft. We are checking around the clock and if there is any more of the stuff Debloi has won't be long before we find it."

Meanwhile, Debloi lies in hospital partially paralyzed as the result of a bullet fired by constable Joseph Bruno Gauthier who escaped in the bank where he threatened to set off 25 sticks of dynamite. He died of shock waived for detention.

Police recovered the time bomb at Central Station with a key found on Debloi after he was shot.

Experts said the bomb would have gone off at 5 p.m. Friday, possibly killing hundreds, had not two contacts become insulated by a small piece of paper police convinced to deaden the ticking of he attached alarm clock.

Serreant Leo Plouffe, explosive expert on the Montreal police force, said the ingenious timing mechanism would have worked the second time, around 5 p.m. Saturday—if it had not been found.

Debloi, said police he planned to use the railway station bomb to bargain for his release in the event of his capture in the bank.

Chief Inspector Ernest Pleau said Monday a number of awards will certainly be made to police officers in connection with the bizarre case.

Among those mentioned is constable Pierre Ouellette who cut off the dynamite at the bank by shooting Debloi, and Sergeant Plouffe who took dismantled the time bomb at Central Station.

Govt. Has Asked Ambassador to Make Report

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government has asked its ambassador to Egypt about news reports that Egypt intends to take over administration of the Gaza Strip from the United Nations, Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden said Monday.

But he declined, under vigorous Commons questioning by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, to go beyond previous statements he has made on the Middle East situation.

Mr. Diefenbaker asked whether the Canadian government believes that Premier Nasser of Egypt has no intention of withdrawing from Gaza. And to what degree was the continued stationing of the United Nations Emergency Force in the area subject to "the whim or caprice of Mr. Nasser?"

HAS GIVEN VIEW

"I have nothing at all to say about the whims or caprice of Mr. Nasser," the prime minister replied. He said he has told the Commons, in reply to previous obvious questions, the Canadian government's view:

1. Egypt is a sovereign state and therefore no forces could be stationed on its soil without its consent.

2. Egypt had given its consent to stationing of UN forces on its soil. If it felt they were no longer needed it should take it up with the UN.

Canadian military personnel with the UNEF were under the command of the UN commander and took their orders from him, not Egypt.

TOUCHY QUESTION

Howard Green (PC — Vancouver Quadra) asked whether the Canadian government considers that Egypt owns the Gaza Strip. Mr. St. Laurent said that is a controversial question and his or Mr. Green's opinion on the matter "is not going to have much bearing on the final solution."

"Does the government have an opinion?" asked Mr. Green.

"Whether it has or not is not something that I am going to state in the House of Commons in answer to the honorable gentleman's question," replied the prime minister.

Govt. Prepared To Pay for Subsistence Costs

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration Minister Pickersgill said Monday the government is prepared to pay for subsistence costs of Hungarian refugees in m i g r a n t s in cases where Canadians giving them shelter are finding it a financial hardship.

The minister told a questioner in the Commons that the government had received a great number of offers of accommodation for Hungarian refugees.

In cases where the stay of a refugee was prolonged to the point where he became a financial burden, the government was prepared to pay a sustenance allowance.

Under further questioning, Mr. Pickersgill said the government was prepared to provide sustenance until a refugee becomes a landed immigrant. But it would take no responsibility beyond the first year whether the immigrant was Hungarian or not.

After a year's residence, an immigrant became eligible for local assistance.

Mr. Pickersgill told Gordon K. Fraser (PC — Peterborough) he knew of no Hungarian refugees who had returned to their homes land from Canada. There were no UN units in Hungary and Canada had expressed a desire to go back to the country as soon as it was safe.

The government, which is paying transportation costs of Hungarian refugees to Canada, does not pay costs for a return home.

UN MINIMIZES

"Our attitude," he said, "is determined by the fact that we expect the Egyptians from turning Gaza again into a base of aggression. For this purpose we think that the UNEF must take exclusive responsibility for administration of the Gaza Strip until a peace settlement is reached between Israel and Egypt or the future of the strip is otherwise determind."

An Israeli spokesman in Jerusalem warned that Egypt "alone will be responsible for the consequences" if Arab attacks from Gaza are resumed.

GOT ASSURANCES

Israel finally withdrew its invasion troops from Gaza and the Sinai Peninsula after the threat of Arqaba last week after being given "satisfactory assurances" that the areas would not be used again as bases for Arab attacks.

Egypt has given a definite guarantee that the Egyptians would not return to occupy Gaza, which was put under Egyptian control by the 1949 Palestine armistice. No such guarantee was forthcoming, but Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi was understood in Washington to have told Hammarskjold Nasser's government would do nothing to upset the situation or create serious new difficulties.

Danish Col. Carl Ingholm had been named military governor of Gaza under the UN's temporary administrative setup. The UNEF commander, Canadian Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, earlier told reporters that his orders are that UNEF takes over exclusively in the initial phase" in the control of Gaza.

"How long the initial phase will last I don't know," he added.

APPOINTS GOVERNOR

Nasser is reported to have appointed Gen. Hassan Abdel Latif military governor of Gaza.

Hammarskjold held an hour-long meeting with his seven-nation advisory committee on the Middle East. He indicated he was seeking clarification of the situation.

Col. Salah Goshy, director of Egypt's Palestine department, said in Cairo that Egyptian administration intends to move in "step by step" as the Israelis withdraw.

The Jewish Telegraph Agency said 500 Egyptian police already have moved into the strip and that Egypt's flag was raised next to the UNEF flag over the governor's headquarters.

Two Business Ventures by CCF Govt. Criticized

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two of the CCF government's business ventures in Saskatchewan have been criticized in the legislature.

In Nova Scotia the Progressive Conservative government's choice of an assistant to the highways minister also has come under fire.

The Alberta Social Credit government defended its proposal to distribute oil-royalty dividends among five-year residents of the province.

A. C. Cameron, Liberal member of the Saskatchewan legislature for Maple Creek, said the government's wooden box factory at Prince Albert is "dead" and should be closed up.

The operation "smells" and should not be kept open merely to employ 66 persons who could find work elsewhere, he declared.

MUSP GIVE CHANCE

Mineral Resources Minister Brockelbank said the government must give the factory a chance to prove its worth. He said the factory's products sell in an extremely competitive market which includes the United States and Canada in the last few years.

Progressive Conservatives criticized the timber board, another government-owned operation, saying private companies could sell lumber more cheaply than the board.

Dr. Henry D. Hicks (Halifax West) said the Nova Scotia government has hired a "wool expert" to help a minister of highways minister direct its road improvement program. He said the appointment of Fred M. Hioja, retired general superintendent, of Stanfield's Ltd., knitting manufacturers, to assist Highways Minister G. I. Smith with the $25-million highway program.

He suggested a young, highly-qualified engineer who could devote his career to highways development would have been named to the post.

DOZE NOT KNOW

In the Manitoba legislature, Health Minister Bend said he does not know when the provincial government will make a decision on whether the province will enter the hospital insurance plan.

He said the government is attempting to find out whether initial proposals made by Ottawa have been accepted by Ontario or Quebec, the two provinces which were "somewhat different," were the basis of reported agreement.

A week of debate on Alberta's $235,000,000 budget was closed by Provincial Treasurer Hinman who defended the proposed oil-royalty dividends.

Dulles Repeats U.S. Support of Chiang's Regime

CANBERRA, Australia (AP)—The South East Asia Treaty Organization was told today that the United States "adheres steadfastly" to its recognition of Nationalist China and its opposition to giving China's seat in the United Nations to the Communist Peiping regime.

U.S. State Secretary Dulles made the statement to the SEATO council of ministers, which continued closed-door sessions of its third annual conference.

The American state secretary said he wanted to make clear that the U.S. is against bringing the Chinese question before the SEATO council for debate.

"Our policy," he said, "stems primarily from consideration to national interest and, we believe, international interest."

NO PURPOSE

"United States diplomatic recognition of the Chinese Communist regime would serve no national purpose," he said, "but would strengthen and encourage influence hostile to us and to our allies and threaten the peace and whose independence is related to our own peace and security."

Dulles said the U.S. has reached a similar conclusion with regard to admission of Red China to the UN.

A British delegation source said Dulles' statement could not be considered a SEATO statement.

The source said the difference between British and U.S. policy on recognition of Red China is "well understood.

"We have a somewhat different practice in the matter," he said. "Recognition of a government, however, does not necessarily imply approval and recognition of its policy."

Winding up the opening review of general policy, delegates from Australia, New Zealand and France addressed the council. Representatives of Britain, the U.S., the Philippines, Pakistan and Thailand had made their policy statements Monday.

2 Canada Medals Missing Says Prime Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—Two copies of the Canada Medal — an award never formally granted to anyone — cannot be accounted for, Prime Minister St. Laurent said Monday.

Replying to a question last week he informed the Commons that 14 "specimen medals" were struck for the Canada Medal.

Two had been given to the office of the governor general and forwarded to the late King George VI. Six others had gone to the defence department and the rest could go into the permanent records in the event of a set-down of armed forces.

Four others were in the state secretary's keeping.

Mr. St. Laurent added: "It has been found impossible to account for the other two."

The medal was created in October, 1943, with the intention of awarding it for important contributions to the Canadian Way of life.

Shipping Channels in River Kept Free by Giant Ice-Breakers Berthed at Strategic Points

By ROMEO MAGERA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TROIS RIVIERES, Que. (CP)—Long before spring brings warm the St. Lawrence River valley, steel-nosed ice-breakers work to clear giant ice - fields from the shipping channel.

Their aim is to break up ice-jams that could cause flooding in low-lying areas and to have the Quebec-Montreal channel open by late February or early March ocean-going ships sometimes use the channel as early as the middle of March.

This year the ice-breakers D'Iberville and the Ernest Lapointe reached a point near Montreal last week and started the last phase of their work. Two months earlier the transport department vessels had started their up-stream journey from Quebec.

50 YEARS' PROGRESS

The policy of giving nature a hand in clearing the river was first inaugurated about 50 years ago. Then an ice - breaker was posted at Quebec Bridge to keep the narrows clear.

About 1930 ice - breakers were assigned to work between Quebec and Trois-Rivieres after the high spring tides had loosened river ice. Three years ago the present system of working from Quebec and Trois-Rivieres upstream toward Montreal was inaugurated.

The ice - breakers are strategically poised when the shipping season closes shortly before Christmas. One is stationed at Trois - Rivieres, about halfway downriver between Montreal and Quebec City. Others are stationed at Quebec.

Throughout January the ice - breakers move between Trois - Rivieres and Quebec trying to keep the channel clear. Sometimes they have to battle ice jams up to 40 feet thick. An ice-breaker remains in Quebec City to keep ice from jamming at the Quebec Bridge and also keep a channel clear for the ferry operating between Quebec City and Levis, Que.

STRONG ICE-BREAKER

Flagship of the ice - breaking fleet is the 3,055-ton d'Iberville. Now in her fourth season of service, the d'Iberville can attack ice jams front or rear. Her hefty bow can climb on top of ice and crush it or she can turn around and chew the ice with her powerful twin screws.

"Weight, strength and power—they're the essential ingredients of a good ice-breaker and this ship's got all of them," said Captain Charles A. Carson, her 53-year-old skipper, while on duty recently.

It was a bright afternoon. The d'Iberville — her 23-ton screws powered by engines capable of developing 18,000 horsepower — was about seven hours out of Trois - Rivieres, steaming west toward the still icebound St. Lawrence shipbuilding centre of Sorel, Que.

Most of the distance had been covered the previous day and the trip had been without incident. The smaller Lapointe, could be seen veering from port to starboard in her wake, loosening stubborn floes and making sure freshly - released blocks swept downstream with the current.

All went smoothly until late afternoon when, a few miles from the port of Sorel, the ship suddenly lurched violently and ground to a halt. She had come upon the solid mass of ice, two feet thick, that gripped the port.

TELLING ATTACK

Slowly she backed away and then, her powerful engines in full forward thrust, she attacked the still-unbroken ice. As she crept ahead the ice split under her rocking, crushing weight.

She plowed back and forth until by dusk, what had been a solid field was a drifting mass of ice floes on their way to the Atlantic.

After clearing a dockside place for herself and the Lapointe, the d'Iberville halted for the night to resume her duties again at dawn.

Captain Carson, a 30 - year veteran with the transport department, said the d'Iberville is designed not only to be rugged and self reliant in the heaviest of ice but also to be capable of carrying a large number of personnel and tons of cargo to the northern outposts of Canadian civilization with comfort and safety.

Her screws are each capable of driving a 10,000-ton freighter at a speed of 10-12 knots. Each of the four-blade propellers is designed so that if a blade snaps off it can be replaced quickly in drydock. The d'Iberville carries a spare.

CREW OF 75

Built at Lauzon, Que., she carries a crew of 75 and can provide accommodation, some ultra-modern, for 50 other persons.

The ship is equipped, with a modern hospital, including a sick bay, X-ray room, dispensary, an operating theatre and elaborate dental facilities.

Double radar protection, depth indicators and gyro compasses give her the advantage of every known aid to navigation.

A helicopter is standard equipment. The flight deck is at the stern as are a hangar and a repair shop with a mechanic.

Captain Carson, who makes his home in Quebec City, looks forward to the d'Iberville's annual trips to the Arctic, supplying the joint Canadian - American Arctic weather stations.

Before July ends, the d'Iberville will weigh anchor at Montreal and set sail again on her Arctic mission.

Salvage Teams Ready to Start Moving Ships

CAIRO (AP) — United Nations salvage teams moved into position Mon. for the job of removing the last two obstructions in the Suez Canal.

If the Egyptians give an expected go-ahead Tuesday, the obstructions can be cleared in less than a month—thus opening the canal to ships of maximum draft and tonnage almost a month ahead of schedule.

Lt.-Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler, who is in charge of the UN operations, needs Egyptian authorization to proceed with removal of the tug Edgar Bonnet and the Egyptian warship Abukir.

The 841-ton Edgar Bonnet virtually blocks the channel near the midway point of Ismailia. The 1,461-ton Abukir sank four miles from the southern end of the canal.

Spring Must Be Near for Dogs Going Around Naked in N.Y.

By JOE MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP) — Spring is showing its pretty face, the sun is soothing, the crocuses blooming. And there's another sign of spring: The dogs are going around naked again on the sidewalks of New York.

Not all, mind you, but the occasional pooch has been spotted in the altogether. This was mildly shocking to eyes grown accustomed to dogs being clad in everything from woolies to mink.

Seldom, it seems, do dogs venture outdoors anymore in winter wearing just dog fur. Dogs are big business. An official of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals said dogs have a higher standard of living here than anywhere else in the world.

POWERFUL FORCE

If dogs could vote they would be a potent political force. They have state has just counted a record 753,981 licensed dogs, not including those in the city, which has an additional 275,000 wearing tags and probably a total of 400,000 in all.

Here is a statistic for those who say the country is going to the dogs: Dog food manufacturers report the U.S has a total of 25,000,000 dogs and they have been increasing four times as fast as the human population.

The ASPCA put 15,086 canines out for adoption in New York last year, making sure they went to "deserving" homes.

SAFER IN CITY

"It's much safer for dogs in New York than in the country," said an official. "They must be taken out only on a leash here. No barbed wire, no wells to fall into."

But there are other hazards. An expert told a convention of veterinarians that the pace of urban living is giving dogs manaized ulcers, literally.

Dogs make news. The owner of a pooch named Bon-Bon in suburban Forest Hills was missing a $4,000 diamond until a veterinarian turned an x-ray on Bon-Bon, then reached for the castor oil bottle.

Scores of New York hospitals flourish in the care of dogs, who are given serums, vaccines, hormone pills. Out - patient clinics care for dogs who are only slightly indisposed.

BEAGLES MOST POPULAR

Beagles are the most popular purebred, but of course mongrels are more plentiful. Big ones, little ones, tall ones, short ones—even the occasional Newfoundland and from the Belleville General Hospital husky—Lap dogs and sleeve dogs, pital and is improving nicely.

The recent Westminster Kennel Club show at Madison Square Garden featured more than 2,000 with lineage as varied as those of Elvis Presley and the Marquess of Salisbury.

In the Bohemian confines of Greenwich Village, gentlemen are seen mincing along with leashed dogs wearing mink and ear-rings. Some owners have as many as 30 watching leash-and-collar ensembles. Pedicures and their dogs often wear matching furs.

At least one dog is wearing a hearing aid.

Dogs are living longer now—several years more than the eight-year expectancy of the past, but they are still far behind cats.

Half-Pint Downs Pint of Whisky, Half-Pint Down

Found a pint of daddy's scotch,
This he downed without a chaser,
Brother Jeffrey standing watch.

Worried Jeffrey, one year older,
Thought his caper rather risky,
Ran to daddy, tittle - tattled
"Alan has been at your whisky."

Daddy looked at tiddled Alan,
Blanched and said "He's drunk the lot."
Phone for doctors, cops or nurses
To revive his errant tot.

Came a squad car, siren screaming,
Alan blotto, blissful, slumping,

FEDERAL SURPLUS 4TH HIGHEST IN HISTORY

Living Standards Make Biggest Gain In Post-War Period

Increase of 12 Per Cent in Earnings Shown Last Year

OTTAWA (CP) — Inflationary pressures may have increased in 1956 but, despite this, living standards of the average Canadian made the greatest gain in post-war history.

Finance Minister Harris, in his pre-budget white paper tabled in the Commons today, conceded that prices increased moderately in 1956, but at the same time he observed that wages and salaries rose by $1,474,000,000 to a peak $14,284,000,000.

This was an increase of 12 per cent in earnings compared with seven per cent in 1955.

"In terms of real purchasing power," he said, "this was the largest gain of the post-war period."

Half of the 1956 rise in labor earnings came from pay increases; the other half from an increase in the army of the employed. So great was the demand for workers that "large numbers" of students, retired persons and housewives were absorbed.

MORE ARE EMPLOYED

The number of persons with jobs swelled to 5,526,000 from 5,328,000 in 1955. The number without jobs and seeking work dropped to 179,000 from 230,000. There was no material change in the average work-week.

Prosperity not only hit workers in cities and towns, but also farmers. Net farm income, an indicator of farm health, rose in second straight annual gain, increasing by 15 per cent to $1,608,000,000, highest since the $1,652,000,000 of 1953.

But in those three years, Canada's corps of farmers declined by about 50,000 and the average farm income in 1956 was about "eight per cent higher than in 1953."

The quickening beat of city industry had its impact on the rural economy. More and more farm workers streamed into the cities, attracted by higher-paying factory work.

Metro Council Approves Budget

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto council has approved a special capital outlay of $6,000,000 from Toronto and 12 suburbs for a municipal works program.

Main item to be financed by the issue, approved by a 13 to 5 vote, is final engineering plans for an all-weather subway system. The tax also clears the way for acceptance of a $23,000,000 works program for 1957.

Opposing the tax, Toronto's Mayor Phillips said the council is the end of sound municipal finance. Alderman Philip Givens said there should be no new taxation without complete amalgamation of the city and 13 suburban communities which form Metropolitan Toronto.

Observers estimated the new tax will mean an 18.7 mill rate for homeowners and 23.7 rate for industry.

British Papers Demand End to Nuclear Tests

LONDON (Reuters) — Opinion reflected by three influential newspapers today demanded an end to testing nuclear weapons as Britain prepared to explode its first H-bomb on Christmas Island in the South Pacific.

The newspapers—each with differing political points of view—launched powerful editorial pleas urging the government to take the initiative in stopping the nuclear arms race.

The Times supports the government's view that the Christmas Island tests now must go ahead as planned, but adds: "Once this test is over a new initiative to ration such tests could be made—and it should come from the country."

The Labor Daily Herald demands bluntly: "Call off the tests." While the Liberal News Chronicle says the government "did postpone the program in 1954 hoped that the United States and Russia will follow suit and "halt this lunatic race before it is too late."

BOYCOTT BUSINESSES

OSHAWA (CP) — The Oshawa and District Labor Council decided Tuesday to boycott city small businesses in which managements attempt to intimidate workers against joining unions. William Rutherford, of local 222, United Auto Workers, said that although Oshawa is basically a trade union city, there are 7,000 unorganized workers.

GOVT. DECIDES TO OPEN DEBATE ON MIDDLE EAST

Vigorous Exchange Heard in Parliament

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has decided to open a Commons debate on the Middle East situation Friday.

Finance Minister Harris announced the decision Tuesday night as the House wound up a day that opened with a vigorous exchange between Prime Minister St. Laurent and opposition members about reports that Canadian reinforcements for the United Nations Emergency Force might be unacceptable to Egypt.

Mr. St. Laurent finally said his latest word was that the "sort of misunderstanding" had been cleared up. However, outside the Commons officials conceded it is quite possible the Egyptian government won't let an additional 140 Canadian soldiers into Egypt to join the force.

Whatever be their eventual disposition, the troops were flying as far as Naples, Italy, the UN force's rear base. About 40 administrative personnel are already there and 32 armored corps personnel left Tuesday by RCAF North Star aircraft, Ottawa said. The remainder were to leave today and Thursday in two other flights.

NO DEBATE

Mr. St. Laurent's initial statement was that he had no comment on the situation and that External Affairs Minister Pearson would make a statement on the situation today.

But Opposition Leader Diefenbaker suggested a debate would be better. If Mr. Pearson made a statement, opposition members would have no chance to discuss it. Mr. St. Laurent said Mr. Pearson would welcome a debate of three or four hours on the matter. Then Tuesday night Mr. Harris said a debate will be held Friday.

Mr. Diefenbaker and other opposition members were unable to get Mr. St. Laureht to say whether Egypt has refused entry to more Canadian troops for the UNEF.

All Civil Servants To Get 5-Day Week

TORONTO (CP) — All Ontario civil servants may soon be working a five-day week, Premier Frost said Tuesday night.

He told the legislature that the matter was under discussion with the Civil Service Association and "before too long" will give the service out on a five-day week basis. Some civil servants now work a five-day week.

CCF Leader MacDonald raised the question of racial prejudice in civil service appointments, a matter which he said had been brought up in the Civil Service Association's official publications. He asked that appointments be patronage be stopped.

Premier Frost said that in 20 years he never appointed or recommended appointments in regard to religion or race. It was a question of getting the right person for the right job.

Kirkland Lake Hospital X-rays Fish To Learn State of Splake's Spine

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP)—Two hundred splake—a cross between speckled trout and lake trout—were x-rayed at the Kirkland Lake Hospital Tuesday to see whether they will stay splake or revert to either of their parent strains.

The splake were second generation offspring of a hybrid produced by the Ontario lands department, whose experts say the first signs of atavism will show in the number of vertebrae in the splake's backbone. A lake trout has more vertebrae than either a splake or a speckled trout.

The x-ray plates will be examined by officials of the department's research station in Maple, Ont.

The 200 fish examined were taken from the Hill Lake hatchery near Charlton, 30 miles south of here, anaesthetized and placed on the x-ray plates. Later they were revived in fresh water and taken back to the hatchery, where they will be kept separate from other splake until the study is completed.

Highlights of Paper

Budget surplus for year ending March 31 estimated at $282,500,000, compared with $33,100,000 deficit in previous year.

Revenues are record $5,149,100,000 compared with $4,400,-000,000 in 1955-56.

Expenditures peacetime high of $4,866,600,000, compared with $4,443,100,000 in 1955-56.

Government takes $100,000,000 from budget revenue to bolster civil servants' superannuation fund and reserve against losses on realization of assets.

Budget surplus is applied against net public debt, which brought down to $10,997,900,000.

Expenditures in addition to budget include $370,000,000 for universal old age pensions, mainly financed by special taxes.

Defence spending up by $18,600,000 to $1,768,100,000.

Personal income tax — biggest revenue item — rises to $1,413,000,000 from $1,183,600,000 while corporation income tax rises to $1,185,000,000 from $1,027,700,000.

Canadian living standards make greatest gain in post-war history during calendar year 1956 as gross national income reaches record $39,866,000,000.

Russia wipes out post-war debt with final $1,800,000 payment.

Immigration costs jump 50 per cent mainly due to Hungarian refugee influx.

'Freedom of Action' Reserved By Israel in Gaza Question

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion told the Israeli Parliament today that his government "reserves its freedom of action" if the Egyptians return to the Gaza Strip.

It was Ben-Gurion's first comment since Egypt announced it was resuming control of the disputed Mediterranean coastal area. The tough old leader ordered Israel's blitz invasion of Egypt last October warned:

"If the time comes when action is appropriate and necessary, the Israel government will not, of course, give prior notice of its action."

The Gaza Strip, Ben-Gurion told the Knesset (parliament), never belonged to the Egyptians and was "of use to them only for the purpose of attacks or threats against Israel."

In Cairo, UN officials and the Egyptians appeared to be moving toward a compromise providing for Egypt to handle the civil administration in Gaza while UN troops policed the Israeli-Gaza border.

Israel withdrew from Gaza last week on the assumption that the UN Emergency Force would administer the strip and that Egyptian control would not be reimposed.

UN Undersecretary Ralph Bunche and Egyptian President Nasser met today for the first time to discuss the Gaza crisis.

Bunche joined for 1½ hours with Nasser, then told reporters the UN Emergency Force would cooperate fully with the Egyptian administration in the Gaza Strip. Ben-Gurion expressed surprise at Bunche's earlier statement that the UN troops are in Gaza with Egyptian agreement.

"It was not in the power of the Egyptian dictator to agree or disagree to this since he was ignominiously expelled from the strip," the prime minister said.

Bail $200,000 for 14 Held After Vancouver Drug Raids

VANCOUVER (CP) — Bail of nearly $200,000 was set in police court here Tuesday for 14 of 22 persons arrested in a lightning roundup of suspected drug traffickers.

The raid, biggest of its kind in nearly two years here, marked the climax to undercover investigation carried on by a lone RCMP officer for more than two months.

The officer, constable Theodore Gangdal, 25, posed as an addict and moved unobtrusively through the city's hangouts, gleaning information that made the raid possible.

Six RCMP squads and eight city police officers swooped down on a dozen hangouts of addicts and "pushers" early Tuesday. The hop-up continued throughout the day.

Of the 22, six were charged at Oakalla prison farm in suburban Burnaby where they were serving time. Bail on the remaining 16 said they would appear in court this week to face the drug trafficking charges.

Sixteen of the accused appeared in court Tuesday and were remanded one week on trafficking charges. Bail on 14 of them totaled $197,500. No bail was set for the other two.

Chief Constable Manilla was put at $25,000., Maisie Roy and Ruby Olsen were remanded on $20,000 bail. The lowest bail was $10,000.

Termination of British Pact With Jordan Is Proclaimed

AMMAN, Jordan (Reuters) — Prime Minister Suleiman Nabulsi today proclaimed the termination of the 1948 Anglo-Jordanian treaty.

Documents and letters to that effect were signed and exchanged by Nabulsi and Charles Johnston, British ambassador, at a joint meeting of the delegations which have been negotiating the ending of the treaty.

Evacuation of British troops, troops, stationed in Jordan under the terms of the treaty, will be carried out within a period not exceeding six months.

Under the treaty, Britain has been paying Jordan an annual subsidy of about $28,000,000 to train the Arab kingdom fulfill her treaty obligations.

Jordan's Arab neighbors have offered to provide funds replacing the British subsidy.

MEDAL FOR AUTHOR

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The National Book Awards Committee today awarded its annual gold medal to George F. Kennan for his documentary work Russia Leaves the War. The book by the former U.S. envoy to Russia was published last August. It describes the events between the Bolshevik seizure of power in November, 1917, and Russia's exit from the First World War in March, 1918.

SELASSIE FAVORS U.S. REQUEST FOR SEA, AIR BASES

Ethiopia Would Get More American Aid

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) Emperor Haile Selassie was reported today in favor of a U.S. request for Ethiopian bases flanking Egypt — provided Ethiopia gets more American aid.

U.S. Vice-President Richard Nixon during his current visit, has pressed the American request for an air force communications base and anchoring facilities at the Red Sea port of Massawa.

Word of the American aims brought immediate reaction from Moscow and Cairo. Russia is said to have warned Ethiopia it might get embroiled in a major war, alleging that the United States wants to store atomic or hydrogen bombs on Ethiopian soil. Egyptian President Nasser sent a special envoy to Addis Ababa before Nixon arrived, and he is reported to have brought an urgent request for the emperor to visit Cairo.

TO ANCHOR SHIPS

The U.S. already has promised support of Israel's contention that the gulf-which leads to the southern Israeli port of Eilat—is an international waterway. Egypt contends the Straits of Tiran at the entrance to the gulf is Egyptian territorial water and has barred Israeli-bound shipping from it, as she does from the Suez Canal, until Israel occupied the Sinai Desert in her lightning invasion last fall.

Canadian Platoon Reaches Italy

NAPLES, Italy (CP) — Thirty two Canadian reconnaissance troops flew into this Mediterranean staging area today to await work on whether they will be allowed to proceed to Egypt for service with the UN Emergency Force.

The first contingent of Canadian troops arrived at 2:50 p.m. today in the UN command, headed by Canadian Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns.

Some 1,100 other Canadians—UNEF personnel and administrative units—already are employed by UNEF. None, however, are used on patrol duty.

CCF-er Opposes Grant To School Trustees

TORONTO (CP)—CCF Leader MacDonald said Tuesday night the government's grant to the Ontario School Trustees' Council is bad in principle.

Speaking during consideration by the legislature of a $11,250 grant to the council, he said the government should not subsidize an organization which is a pressure group on it.

Premier Frost said the council is a great body with a great sale.

The grant was approved.

Search 36 Planes in 10 U.S. Cities After Five Bogus Bomb Warnings

NEW YORK (AP)—Five bomb scares Tuesday caused 36 planes to jor airlines to search 36 planes in 10 United States cities. No bombs were found but some 1,000 passengers encountered delays of up to an hour.

Trans World Airlines searched 28 planes in a one-hour period after receiving a hoax call at its New York ticket office in early afternoon. The caller said to be a young male.

Three Delta Airlines planes were searched Tuesday night at Newark, Houston, Tex., and Charlotte, N.C. The airline reported it had received a telephoned bomb threat at its Philadelphia office, saying that a bomb was aboard a plane bound for Newark. It was not determined whether the hoax call came from a man or woman.

Investigators combed through 370 pieces of luggage taken off three United Airlines planes in Philadelphia without finding anything after a man called the company office Tuesday and then said: "There's a bomb in the cargo pit of your next plane coming into international airport."

Shortly before midnight while the Board of Education and police investigators were at the Philadelphia airport, Eastern Airlines received a call. An Eastern plane bound for Atlanta was delayed half an hour while it was searched.

The airlines said bogus bomb scares have been averaging about one a month since November 1955 when a United Air Lines plane was dynamited seconds after taking off from Denver. All 44 persons aboard were killed. John Gilbert Graham, whose mother was one of the victims, was executed for the crime.

Gossport School Bus Boycott Comes to End

BRIGHTON (CP) — Children at nearby Gossport ended a boycott of the school bus today, but their parents said they plan to keep pressing for free transportation to classes here.

Tuesday 21 students refused to board the bus on orders from their parents, who were protesting conflicting Ontario government rulings.

They said bus driver Alfred Scarborough was ticketed off the road after it was discovered he had no legal contract to transport students. They added that under statute, children under 10 may not walk more than two miles to school, and Brighton is three miles from Gossport.

Meanwhile driver Scarborough was issued a temporary permit, the parents told their children to boycott the service.

They relented today, but plan to meet with the school board Friday night to urge a provincial subsidy to cover the cost of transportation.

Second Program Of Science Series To Be Telecast

"Hemo the Magnificent," the second program in the Trans-Canada Telephone System's widely-acclaimed science series, will be telecast over CKWS-TV on March 13, from 10 to 11 p.m., E.S.T., replacing C.B.C. "Follo."

Produced by Academy Award winner Frank Capra, "Hemo the Magnificent" presents the amazing story of the blood and its circulation. Capra also produced "Our Mr. Sun," the first program in the science series, which dealt with man's science knowledge of the sun. Like the earlier program, "Hemo the Magnificent" uses actors, animated cartoons and filmed scenes for the entertaining presentation of its scientific story.

"Hemo the Magnificent" is a logical choice for the second program in the series, which is designed to promote a broader knowledge of science and the work of scientists in many fields. The two programs tell related stories because, while no life can exist without the sun, neither can higher animal or human life exist without blood.

Some of the most unusual scenes ever shown on television will be viewed in "Hemo the Magnificent." One section of the film shows the actual flow of blood through the arteries, capillaries and veins. Another sequence, in slow motion, shows an actual heart beating.

The program will again feature Dr. Frank Baxter, probably the best known professor on television, playing his role as Dr. Research, while Richard Carlson will be starred as the Fiction Writer.

Daily at 11.05 a.m. "The Stork Club" on CJBQ.

Drilling for Water in Sidney M.C. Loucks Hits Gas Pocket

To strike natural gas instead of water when drilling for a well might be expected to excite many people, but not M. C. Loucks, proprietor of an auto wrecker and paint shop on the second concession of Sidney just west of the city.

In need of water, Mr. Loucks hired a well drilling machine and yesterday when the drill bit reached 94 feet down natural gas instead of water started blowing with considerable pressure out of the six inch drill casing. The gas was lighted and since three o'clock yesterday afternoon has been burning steadily with a flame two to three feet high.

"I'm not a bit excited," Mr. Loucks told the Ontario Intelligencer today. "All I am looking for is water."

However, his well drilling contractor has told him that this is the first time that he has struck natural gas which has burned steadily for so long. Usually when such gas pockets are struck and the gas is ignited they burn only very briefly.

Whether the gas in Mr. Loucks' well has any commercial value remains to be seen.

"We'll know in a day or so whether the pressure can be expected to continue, and if so we might pipe it to the shop to heat the building."

In the meantime Mr. Loucks is still looking for water. This morning the drill rig was moved away 50 feet and another hole started.

This time Mr. Loucks hopes he strikes water instead of gas.

PC Leader Makes Promise to Quebec Voters

MONTREAL (CP) — Progressive Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker, in a bid for the Quebec vote, promises his party will halt the "ever - increasing trend to centralization of power in Ottawa" if elected in the coming federal election.

He also said Tuesday that the major elements increasing inflation in Canada are heavy government spending and high "taxes." "Unnecessarily high taxation" also was a major reason for Canada's unfavorable foreign trade balance.

Mr. Diefenbaker addressed 1,000 party members from throughout Quebec Province at a banquet in Mont St. Louis College hall here.

The gathering was organized by the Montreal Federal Association and the Young PC Association of Montreal.

He said a trend toward concentration of taxation in the central government, which, if unchecked, will "dilute provincial rights," must be stopped.

Maintenance of the constitution and provincial rights, he said, would be considered a "sacred trust."

Former UFO Minister, Walter R. Rollo, Dies

HAMILTON (CP) — Walter R. Rollo, 81, a former minister of labor and also in the Ontario legislature under the regime of Premier E. C. Drury in 1918, died Tuesday at the General Hospital.

Mr. Rollo was elected member for Hamilton East when the Farmer-Labor party was elected. He remained minister of labor and health until 1924. During these years the Adolescent Act was passed, and employment certificates made compulsory for those under 16 wishing to work.

Final Tribute Paid Captain Of Fire Dept.

Final tribute to Captain Joseph L. Adams, for the past 28 years a member of the Belleville Fire Department, was paid yesterday afternoon as local firemen, representatives from district fire departments and citizens attended the funeral service at the John R. Bush Funeral Home.

Captain Adams died Saturday following a brief illness.

Two members of the city fire department, Al Vance and L. Wannamaker, acted as honorary guards, while bearers were the fellow officers, Capt. S. Pomeroy, Lieutenant Charles Greatrix, Leo Culhane, Ted Poste and R. Wardle and Inspector R. Fair.

Service at the chapel was conducted by Archdeacon J. B. Creegan, explaining the fire department, assisted by Rev. Everett Smith.

Entombment was in Belleville Mausoleum.

Radio Station Changes Spot On Dial Thursday

Thursday morning at five minutes to eight the station manager of Radio Station CJBQ in Belleville will invite listeners to tune their dials to the station's official opening of their new transmitter a few miles south of Belleville.

At eight on the dot, at the 800 spot, listeners will hear the familiar sound of the city hall clock. This will mark the official changeover from 1230 kilocycles to 800 kilocycles.

This is the radio station's biggest enterprise since it began broadcasting in 1946.

Located adjacent to Highway No. 14, near Mountain View, the new transmitter will broadcast CJBQ's services to most of Hastings and Prince Edward counties a large portion of Northumberland, Peterborough, Victoria, Lennox and Addington counties, and parts of Frontenac, Victoria and Haliburton counties.

Last September the H. J. MacFarland Construction Co. set 800 new transmitter and ancillary units, which are located on 50 acres of land. The equipment was supplied by the Canadian General Electric Co.

Operations will continue to be controlled from the Belleville and Trenton studios of CJBQ.

Birds and Bees Sure Signs of Coming Spring

Spring certainly must be on the way. Strong breezes and mild weather, combined with light showers of rain and sunshine, indicate it.

Signs of spring are becoming more frequent. Crows are coming out of the dense brush and their familiar caws are being heard again. A local resident has a plant with beautiful blooms from May to September, displaying a couple of gorgeous flowers.

Ice in the Moira and Trent Rivers is fast disappearing, while around the 22nd or 23rd day of Quinte ice is beginning to rot. Over Trenton way there aren't as many fish shanties at the mouth of the river as there were a few days ago.

Now is the time to cast eyes upward toward the trees and buds are beginning to appear on some species.

Robins have been seen or heard and the tiny horned larks are back and nesting. The familiar winter birds, such as the juncos and sweeping grosbeaks are looking for colder spots. However, The Ontario Intelligencer has not yet received a report on the duck and goose situation. Are these birds heading north?

Perhaps the most vivid sign of spring (certainly the most interesting to watch) may be seen anywhere in Belleville. Watch the school kids. Those who aren't playing marbles or roller skating, are picking up where Casanova left off.

Carpet Workers Hold Conference

TORONTO (CP)—The Textile Workers Union of America (CLC) said today it has started a drive to end "wage differences and inequitable standards" in the Canadian carpet industry.

The union said 30 delegates representing carpet mills in Toronto, Brantford, Peterborough, Guelph and Campbellford are meeting to draw up a national policy for carpet industry employees.

Paul Bavily, TWUA Canadian director, said periodic conferences would be held to maintain standardized bargaining targets.

Obituaries

MRS. NEWTON LOFT
Deseronto

The funeral of Mrs. Newton Loft (nee Agnes Rachel Howard) of Dundas St., Deseronto, was held from the Thomas Funeral Home to All Saints' Anglican Church for service on Monday afternoon. Rev. W. F. Smith, chaplain to the Tyendinaga Reserve, officiated and burial was in All Saints' Anglican cemetery.

Bearers were Harrison Sero, Masqui Hill, Gregory Doreen, Abel Green, Nelson Green and Hiram Barnhardt.

Mrs. Loft died after a lengthy illness in Belleville General Hospital on Friday, at the age of 76 years.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Kala of Deseronto, one son, James of the Tyendinaga Reserve, and six grandchildren.

Mrs. Loft was born at Hiawatha, Ont., and was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Howard. She resided at Deseronto for most of her life.

MRS. MILDRED BEATRICE COMER
Tweed

The funeral of the late Mrs. Mildred Beatrice Comer, former resident of Tweed, was held this afternoon from her residence on Colborne St. to St. Andrew's church conducted by Rev. W. K. Pecle. Interment was in Victoria Cemetery.

The bearers were Frank Thompson, Roger Beger, Clarence Moon, Alfred Davis, Russell Greene and Albert Dunnett.

Mrs. Comer, widow of John Comer, was born in Tweed and was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert McGowan. She had been in ill health for six weeks prior to her death in the Belleville General Hospital on Sunday.

A member of St. John's United church, she was a member of the choir and also acted as Sunday School teacher. She received her early education in Tweed and later attended Whitby Ladies' College.

She is survived by one sister, Miss Etta McGowan, and one brother, James L. McGowan, both of Tweed.

The funeral of Mrs. James Cokers of Belleville, formerly of Toronto and Saltfleet, who died in Toronto last Saturday, will take place from the chapel of the Pinkston and Luscombe Funeral Home to the Belleville Cemetery, Thursday afternoon. Rev. R. D. MacLean of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church officiated.

Bearers were Grant Proctor, Vern Weir, William Ashline, Eric Provins, Howard Robinson and Thomas Hunter.

Mrs. Cokers had resided at 116 Harcourt Ave., Toronto, for the past nine years prior to which she had lived in Belleville for 30 years.

MRS. JOHN LAIRD
(Marmora)

A resident of Marmora for many years, passed away in the Rose Nursing Home, Peterborough, on Monday, March 11th, after the person of Mrs. John Laird. She was 82 years old and had been in poor health for several years. Mrs. Laird, the former Pauline Marion Grimshaw, was born in Bridlington, Yorkshire, England, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Grimshaw. She received her education in England. She followed the profession of nursing both there and in Canada until her marriage to John Laird, who predeceased her in 1950.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Ethel Thomas, and two grandchildren, in Peterborough, and one sister, Mrs. Betty Cope, of Bridlington, England. Mrs Laird was one of a family of 29 children, 17 brothers and two sisters.

Mrs. Laird was a member of George St. United Church and of the W.A. The funeral was held on Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the Kaye Funeral Home, with Rev. Lorn Carlson officiating, and with burial in Little Lake cemetery.

UN Not Delaying Egyptian Return To Gaza Strip

CAIRO (Reuters)—UN Undersecretary Ralph Bunche said today after a meeting with President Nasser that the United Nations Emergency Force is not delaying the arrival of Egyptian administrators in Gaza."

Bunche said the UNEF will co-operate with Egyptian administrators there.

Bunche said "UNEF's principal responsibility is to be stationed between the two disputing parties on the truce lines. UNEF will co-operate with Egyptian administrators in Gaza."

Bunche, who worked out the 1949 Arab-Israeli armistices, said "UNEF has no administration in Gaza and no intention to internationalize the Gaza Strip."

Bunche and UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold have said that there is no question that Egypt, under the letter of the 1949 armistice, has the right to administer the area.

Glass Found In Candy Sent To Blues Singer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Police said today that someone sent a box of chocolates to blues singer Dinah Washington that could have proven fatal had she eaten them.

The chocolates contained slivers of glass.

The 32-year-old Negro singer, appearing at Earle's nightclub here, said she had received the 15-pound box through the mail on days ago and gave them to a friend, Mrs. Ann Moore, Mrs. Moore bit into one of the chocolates, discovered the glass and returned the box to Miss Washington, who called police.

Enclosed with the candy was a typewritten note.

"My tail is short as you can see, goodbye to you from me." It was signed Yasha.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market was higher on index today in morning trading but losses in all sections held a slight majority over gains.

Observers said traders still were cautious due to the international situation. Also, 63 issues were trading ex-dividend today, expected to be one of the year's highest totals for any session.

Industrial index stocks were higher in general and the section's index climbed nearly three-quarters of a point. Ford A was the leader, advancing 1¼ points to 101½. Imperial Oil was up ⅜ to 51¾ and CPR ¼ to 30¾. Losses were fractional.

Base metals were extremely quiet with only a half dozen issues showing sizeable price changes. Noranda lost ½ at 50½ among seniors. Northspan was up 40 cents to $8.50 in uraniums and Faraday 15 cents to $2.35. Chromium lost 20 cents at $3.10 among juniors and Eastern Mining 15 cents to $3.35.

Western oils were strong and their index added one-half point. Home Oil B gained ¾ at 17½ and Dome Explorations (Western) added ¾ to 12½. Canadian Export Gas was up 45 cents to $3.85. Central Leduc gained 20 cents at $7.45.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 4 9-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Tuesday's noon rate 95 9-16 cents. Pound sterling $2.67¾, up 3-16.

School Problems Of Deaf Children May Be Studied

TORONTO (CP) — Education Minister Dunlop said Tuesday night a conciliator could be sent to Hamilton to study the schooling problems of deaf children there.

The matter was raised in the legislature by Arthur Child (PC—Wentworth).

Mr. Child said the Hamilton school board had rebuffed and insulted an organized group of parents of deaf children.

He said the board told parents it was not obliged to educate deaf children and that classes were provided purely as an expression of the humanity of the trustees.

Mr. Child said there were three classes for deaf children but not one child in 10 years has been graduated out of Grade Eight.

He suggested the government make teaching of the deaf by multiplication mandatory or build schools for the deaf in Hamilton.

Given 30 Days For Intoxication

KINGSTON (CP) Merrill Eugene Martyn, 27, of Yarker Tuesday was acquitted on a charge of criminal negligence. Magistrate James B. Garvin said he questioned the "intent" in the case.

Martyn, however, was found guilty of intoxication and sentenced to 30 days in jail. The charges arose from the death of Mrs. Alice Matilda Cross, 52, of Kingston in a four-car collision Feb. 3.

Magistrate Garvin said the accident was caused when Martyn drove through a stop sign but added that he doubted whether the action was deliberate. He noted that Martyn had remarked to another motorist at the scene of the accident that he did not know there was a stop sign at the intersection.

PRODUCE MARKET

The egg market was reported quiet today and receipts sufficient for a poor demand.

Country dealers quoted on graded eggs, delivered Toronto: A large size, selected, wooden cases, tenderable lots, 39 cents. Eggs, in fibre cases, graded: A large 36; A medium 35; A small 33, B 31; C 28. Wholesale to retail: A large 41; A medium 40; A small 38; B 36; C 33.

Butter prices: Canada, first grade, Ontario creamery 58; non-tenderable 58½ (nominal); western 58½, on a one-car sale.

LIVING STANDARDS

"There has been a pronounced shift from rural to urban occupations and the average annual decrease in agricultural employment has amounted to between three and four per cent during the post-war period," Mr. Harris said.

TREND PREVAILS

"In 1956 the same trend prevailed. Agricultural employment declined by some five per cent and an estimated 45,000 persons left the industry."

Canadians on the average not only earned more in 1956, but spent more—and saved more.

Spending on consumer goods and services increased to a record $14,556,000,000 from $17,139,000,000 in 1955. Consumer credit rose by $320,000,000 compared with an increase of $540,000,000 in 1955.

Total savings by all groups increased by 21 per cent to $6,101,000,000.

Corporation profits after taxes climbed by $220,000,000 to $1,830,000,000.

"In 1956 Canadians spent about 85 cents of each dollar of income on consumer goods and services, while seven cents was added to personal saving and about eight cents was paid out in direct taxes."

Total personal direct tax collections increased by $229,000,000, roughly 15 per cent, to $1,720,000,000.

The gross national income—value of all goods and services produced—reached a record $29,866,000,000, almost $3,000,000,000 higher than the $26,916,000,000 in 1955.

A large part of the 1956 rise in consumer spending resulted from higher prices, said Mr. Harris but, on the whole, average prices "were only moderately higher, particularly in the consumer goods sector."

This description contrasted with that of the Bank of Canada which said in its annual report Monday that a continuation of the 1956 rise in living costs—three per cent—would be dangerous.

General chartered bank loans increased by 11 per cent to $4,431,000,000 with about half the rise resulting from loans to industrial concerns and to installment and other finance companies.

Total federal subsidies in the year increased by 50 per cent to $118,000,000. Major factor in this rise was the federal decision to subsidize Prairie wheat storages.

Prosperity brought its international problems, too. Exports increased by 11 per cent, but imports rose 22 per cent. Canada's over-all deficit in foreign trade in goods and services soared to a record $1,398,000,000, double the $692,000,000 in 1955.

The biggest factor was trade with the U.S. The Canadian deficit there climbed to $1,639,000,000 from $1,041,000,000.

Five Children Burned to Death In Their Beds

GUNN, Alta. (CP)—Five young children died in their beds when fire engulfed a one-room log cabin near this northwestern Alberta home Tuesday. Their mother escaped but is in serious condition in hospital.

Details of the fire, most tragic in Alberta this year, were scant but RCMP in Edmonton said it was believed that an overheated stove caused the blaze.

Burned to death were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Kelsey: Ernest, 8; Vinna Marilyn, 5; Wayne, 4, and Lawrence, 2.

Mrs. Kelsey, who ran through deep snow in sub-freezing weather to seek aid, was taken to hospital in Edmonton 40 miles southeast. Her condition was termed serious but not critical.

The fire was the first of two fatal blazes in the province Tuesday. At Dunmmit, about 300 miles northwest of Edmonton, four-year-old David John Peters was burned to death when his three-room cabin home was swept by fire.

150 Persons Escape

MONTREAL (CP)—About 150 persons escaped by ice-coated fire escapes Tuesday when fire swept up an elevator shaft in the Sheerz Building on Notre Dame St., just west of McGill street. Several diners were carried down ladders by firemen. No injuries were reported. The fire in the six-storey business building was brought under control in 20 minutes.

The fire broke out only two hours after fire department inspectors had made a routine examination and congratulated the owners on conditions.

Dies of Poisoning

MONTREAL (CP)—Dr. Rosario Fontaine, medico - legal expert, says tests indicated Jack Liberman, 52, whose body was found in a motel, died from poisoning Saturday.

Following Dr. Fontaine's report, detective Capt. Russell Senecal of the Montreal police homicide squad said Tuesday "We are definitely working on the assumption of murder."

Capt. Senecal said Liberman died from a dose of potassium cyanide. The poison also was found in a small amount of fluid in a glass in the motel.

Stoco Youth Fined $20 For Disturbance

TWEED — In the weekly court session held in Tweed on Monday 11th, Roy Landry, a 24-year-old youth from Stoco was found guilty of disturbing the peace in a local restaurant and was fined $20 and costs. The magistrate stated that is "fed up" with these young chaps going into these places of business and disturbing the peace, while respectable persons are partaking of their meal or meals. He says he intends to clamp down on them from now an and try and lessen this nature of breaking the law.

ESCAPE INJURY

Two drivers escaped injury this morning on Victoria street in Tweed, when they crashed to the extent of $330, Mr. E. Jardine was driving east when his private driveway by Luffman's barber shop and Mr. Arnold Montgomery was travelling south on the main street (Victoria). They collided and it will cost approximately $80 to repair Mr. Jardine's car and about $250 to put Mr. Montgomery's vehicle in good repair again. The damage to the Jardine car was where the other car hit it in the rear left fender and Montgomery vehicle received all the damage to the front end. The cars were moved as soon as the police checked the particulars of the accident.

CENTRAL BANK'S PROPOSAL

The Bank of Canada has made an interesting proposal.

"Interesting" is a useful adjective.

It reserves judgment on the central bank's proposal that chartered banks should be compelled to direct all money from savings accounts into insured mortgages, government bonds and other long-term investments.

Most of us ought to reserve judgment on this proposal, because we lack the specialized knowledge necessary to judge it intelligently.

Only economists are qualified to say exactly what effect this would have on the economy of the country as a whole, and not all economists might be able to state accurately what effect it would have on individual banks.

But the adjective "interesting" describes the attitude which should be taken by every thinking Canadian. We ought all to be interested in this proposal, because we are all of us concerned with the effects of inflation.

Hon. Walter E. Harris, Canada's finance minister, has more than once made it plain that, up to the present, the Bank of Canada has been in charge of devising methods to control inflation.

Governor James C. Coyne of the Bank of Canada now makes it plain that he feels the government should enter the lists with the bank against the forces of inflation.

He says that the government might want to consider direct controls over the distribution of available credit to remove some discrimination.

This kind of language, from a man in Mr. Coyne's position, is tantamount to saying that such controls should at least be considered. If it is not interpreted as meaning more positively that in Mr. Coyne's opinion such controls should be imposed.

The type of development which worries Mr. Coyne is evident from the nature of his suggestion for the provision of mortgage money from savings deposits.

To date the Bank of Canada's efforts to curtail credit have been, in the opinion of the banks, somewhat too powerful and non-selective. While their aim has been to save the Canadian economy from disaster, their effect has not been universally beneficial. Tighter credit has harmed as well as benefited. the worst feature of the fields in which it has been felt by many the tight money policy would have its worst effect is in housing. Canada's population is growing, both as the result of immigration and as a result of a high birth rate. Larger population needs more houses. But mortgage money has become scarce. Without mortgage money, homebuilding will be further curtailed. It is obvious that there is an undesirable result that Mr. Coyne has advanced the plan whereby chartered banks would be required to channel loans based on saving accounts into long-term investments, such as mortgages.

It is interesting to note that, according to the Bank of Canada, chartered banks had in the past used savings money for just this fashion, was only when the scramble for short-term loans, to finance business expansion, became so hectic that they diverted these funds to finance these short-term loans. In effect the Bank of Canada proposal would appear, therefore, to be merely a plan to force the chartered banks to return to their previous policies.

We ought not, however, to assume that this means that the new proposal program is not a major departure from former practice. It proposes to make compulsory a line of conduct which the banks earlier followed by choice.

The fact that compulsion may not be bad, in itself, is enough to cause some people hastily to reject the proposal. Surely, though, it ought to be self-evident that anything as important as a nation's supply of money and how it is to be used is of vital interest to the government of the nation. Yet to make it the plaything of day-to-day politics would be extremely dangerous. It is for this reason that this fateful power has been placed in the hands of the Bank of Canada. Recommendations from the bank deserve the most serious consideration. They should be carefully weighed and compared with the recommendations of the officers of the chartered banks. These views may differ, but in the long run these bank officials all have the same objective, the maintenance of a healthy economy.

In the meantime, the Bank of Canada should also study Mr. Coyne's complaint that the bank's monetary policy has been hampered by finance companies, some of which obtain funds from large parent companies in the United States. The chartered banks, by their loan policies, can exercise a control over those loan companies which depend on bedill to keep their operations going. But this control cannot be extended to companies receiving funds from the U.S. It is intolerable that private corporations in another country should be able to wreck the combined efforts of the Bank of Canada and the chartered banks to prevent a dangerous inflationary situation developing further in this country.

Mr. Coyne says that if further results are desired "some form of legally enforceable regulatory action" will be necessary. Further results are desired.

MOIRA ICE IS NOT SAFE

While pedestrians crossing the Bridge Street viaduct watched anxiously, a youngster casually sauntered across the frozen twelve of the Moira River to the edge where large chunks of ice were dropping off into the swift flowing current, then just as casually wandered back over the rotting ice.

Playing on the ice of the Moira River at this time of year is a foolhardy practice. It is to be hoped that Belleville parents will not be shocked as were other Ontario mothers and fathers who lost their children under similar circumstances during the past two weeks.

WISDOM

Time was I struggled to be wise,
And worked for what the scholar gains,
But I had mischief in my eyes,
And there I hope it still remains.

I've seen my comrades higher rise
And grasp of hair and solemn grow,
It saddens men to be too wise;
I'm glad too much I do not know.

They say I laughed too much in school,
The order to be still disdained,
And now I know I was a fool
And know that foolish I've remained.

'Tis sad when mortals grow too wise,
Set off the joy of life they shun,
In being at peace contentment lies
And also it's a lot of fun.

First Step Into Space

By Werner Buedsiin in Unesco Features

In 1937 man will take an important step towards the realisation of outer space travel. Sometime during this year a huge rocket will ascend from Patrick Air Base, Florida, to a height of altitude of 185, 250 or even 300 miles. The topmost part of the rocket, carrying in its nose a small spherical body containing scientific instruments, will be shot at first metrical object to leave the earth, never to return to the ground again. Instead, it will circle the earth for weeks, months or even years as the first artificial satellite of our planet.

A tremendous wealth of new information will be obtained from this dwarf moon, transmitted by wireless to the ground. This information will increase and verify the knowledge we have gained about the upper atmosphere within the last decade from the launching of full-size rocket researches.

All these rocket ascents were short ventures into the unknown realm of the 'upper atmosphere. A rocket fired vertically at over 124 miles lasts no longer than a couple of minutes, according to the altitude. The scientific instruments will operate at altitudes of more than 300 miles for a full hour, and will be recounted in seconds. Altogether, within the last decade, rocketeers from the United States and perhaps an hour at heights greater than 50 miles. Furthermore, all these rockets — including the gadgets carried by the captive rocket which will stay at an altitude of, say, 180 or 200 miles for five periods, even months, during which time it can give continuous information about the physical features of the upper atmosphere, in the region of the ultra-violet light of the sun and the number of meteorites.

* * * *

This is a hope which will be fulfilled within the next few years. The Satellites program of the United States, part of the International Polar Year, the national Geophysical Year, contemplates the launching of a dozen small satellites. These objects will circle the earth at altitudes ranging from 200 to 1,000 miles according to the same laws governing the movements of the planets three centuries ago. From the astronomical point of view it would be true satellites like our own moon, though considerably smaller than the moon and a thousand times closer to the earth, the artificial satellite of the International Geophysical Year will mark the first step of man towards space travel.

The ingenuity and knowledge of hundreds of scientists and engineers is necessary to establish this satellite in its orbit. Only the latest developments in rocket and electronic guiding systems must be used if this is to be possible. Dr. Joseph Kaplan, chairman of the United States Committee for the International Geophysical Year, is of the opinion that the first satellite will be put in its orbit by the end of 1937, launched by means of a multi-stage rockets, which are to carry the satellite to a record altitude and to accelerate their velocity to speed to 17,400 miles per hour, the minimum speed for projection and testing of high-performance rocket engines. At the same time physicists, astronomers, electronic engineers and mathematicians will be carrying the instruments which are to be carried by the satellites.

* * * *

Despite the fact that these satellites will be rather small bodies, having a diameter of approximately 22 ins., a weight of approximately 22 lbs., they will have to contain a large number of instruments in order to register many different phenomena. A complicated telemetering system will record the measurements and will relay the scientific data to observation stations on the ground.

There are too many unsolved questions regarding the upper atmosphere and the phenomena of outer space to permit a complete investigation with only one set of instruments in one of the tiny satellites. Therefore, the scientists responsible or the enterprise have to decide how much of the possible investigations are most important. So far they have not reached definite conclusions, but have only decided what instruments will be carried by the Satellite No. 1 of the American earth satellite program.

Eight particular investigations will be conducted by this satellite, provided all the instrumental equipment necessary for them can be developed in time.

First on this list is the registration of the density of the atmosphere at orbital altitudes. This information can be obtained through a simple observation and plotting of the orbit from the ground. By measuring the position of the satellite in the heavens it will be possible to calculate the air drag which will be exercised on the satellite by the thin atmospheric gas which is believed to exist at the altitudes concerned.

Information on two other points will be obtained through the observation of the satellite from the earth with the aid of special optical, photographic and electronic equipment. These two points concern the constitution of the crust of the earth and the shape of the earth. Differences in the distribution of mass throughout the globe would certain irregularities in the shape of the earth which will appear in the movement of the satellites which can be followed and accurately measured.

One of the tasks of the satellite will be a continuous measurement of the temperatures at the different altitudes which it will reach during its ascent and also during the end of its life, when it will approach the surface of the earth at tremendous speed. Before it can return to the earth, however, the satellite will disintegrate. The steady decline in speed of the satellite, due to friction with the air molecules, will upset the ratio between centrifugal force of the satellite and gravitational pull of the earth. The slower will be the speed of the satellite, the more strongly it will be affected by the force of gravitation. If it were not for the constant production of frictional heat during the descent the satellite would return to the ground. However, the tremendous amount of frictional heat will develop at a certain altitude such a high temperature that instruments contained within it will disintegrate altogether.

* * * *

One other factor to be registered by the scientific gadgets within the satellite will be the pressure of a rare gas with which the satellite's sphere will be filled. A decrease in pressure will indicate that a hole in the shell has occurred, thus indicating that one of the tiny meteorites drifting through outer space, a meteorite, has hit the satellite and penetrated its shell.

To measure the quantity of cosmic debris, or the microscopic particles which do not possess enough kinetic energy to penetrate the satellite's shell, a number of highly sensitive microphones will be fixed to the inside wall of the metallic satellite with the meteoric dust.

Another very essential instrument will register the ultra-violet radiation and x-rays from interstellar space. The purpose of these measurements will be to obtain, by means a continuous picture of the solar activity in the short wave lengths. This is an investigation which is of very great importance to solar research.

Special instruments will register the intensity and direction of cosmic ray particles. If these recordings indicate a particular direction from which cosmic rays come, this might give a clue as to the origin of these fast-flying atomic particles.

* * * *

These are but a few of this subjects on which the satellites of the International Geophysical Year are expected to throw light. A vast amount of knowledge, not only of theoretical scientific importance, but also of a great practical value, will result. Knowledge thus gained will give us a better picture of the planet earth and its atmosphere. It is for the scientists of the future to turn this information into many practical applications for the benefit of all mankind.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Several of my friends are temperamental.

In some of them, it is temper. In others, it is mental.

Fifty years ago, not a darn one of them would have dared to be temperamental. That was a condition reserved for actresses, opera singers, artists and the daughters of wealthy families.

If they had a bad temper, they kept it for their employees. They lost their jobs, their friends avoided them up, their families made life tough for them, and certain levels of society, they got beat up as upper intruders for claiming that there were deep abysses in your personality, that you were confounded by fruitless forces outside and beyond your control were at work within you. It wouldn't have got you anywhere, fifty years ago.

And if you pretended you were mental, there were no psychologists or psychiatrists to back you up. It was quite a job to get into the lunatic asylum fifty years ago. A lot of red tape, threats of doctors, family doctors. If you had to be put in a padded straightjacket, you might, with political pull, get into the already crowded institutions. But if you were just a little crazy, that was all right. Every family had one or two in the family connection. There was no harm in it. You muddled along somehow. They weren't considered mentally sick. Being mental was not deemed to be something that you could be proud of, like being rich. It was something you didn't have—like the wife to get along in society.

Not to tell the truth, life, before the advent of the psychologists, was a pretty straightforward business. Fifty years ago, you never had, you lived, you worked to the best of your ability, you died, and went either to heaven or hell. Though there was a great deal of fuss about the mean and the noble, the stinkers and the good guys, the mess was considered to be pretty sturdy good folk headed for a heaven filled with music, harps and hallelujahs. That there were abysses within the human personality was undreamed of, even by the poets. There was only the one abyss.

There is the curious paradox that with the increase of human understanding, and the better we get to know us, there appears to be a decrease in human understanding. We are no longer puzzled merely by our neighbors, we are puzzled by ourselves.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Mar. 13th., 1937

Dr. James Bertram Collip of McGill University, Montreal, spent the weekend here with his mother at Hotel Quinte. Dr. Collip will give the "Harvey" lecture at a medical meeting in Boston in April and will also speak at a meeting of Rotarians at Memphis, Tenn.

During the city hospital year ending Sept. 30th., 1936, 5,249 patients were treated. There were 238 births of which 177 were boy babies. Of the 166 deaths in the hospital, 20 were private hospital patients, 39 were private patients, 60 public ward patients, 19 infants under one year and 17 still births. At the present time there are 140 patients in the hospital. There is bed capacity for 116, twenty of which are for children and infants. Beds have had to be placed in corridors, private rooms made into semi-private rooms and extra beds added to wards. The hospital staff numbers 90.

Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Farnsworth and little son, Dennis, of Whitby, spent the weekend here with relatives.

30 YEARS AGO

Mar. 18th., 1907

Mr. Robert Mitchell, the new professional golfer, will arrive here next month to assume his duties at the Bay of Quinte Country Club.

The Rev. F. L. Brown and Mrs. Brown of Toronto were guests at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Hudgins, Dunbar Street, yesterday.

Mrs. Harold Linn of Flaxcombe, Sask., is home on a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. McQuigge.

Mr. Charles J. Symons is in Toronto today on business.

At the quarterly meeting of the Belleville Hospital Board Mr. Robert Tannahill was elected chairman and Mr. W. H. Nugent secretary-treasurer.

40 YEARS AGO

Mar. 13th., 1917

An order of the Railway Commission has been issued with regards to the Bay Bridge Road.

The railways are ordered to furnish day and night watchmen and also gates at the Bay Bridge Crossing. Expenses are to be borne equally by the two railways. A copy of the order has been received by Col. W. Ponton, secretary of the local Board of Trade.

One of the largest crowds of the season were present at the arena last night. It was a special occasion as the bands of the 254th Battalion and of the 15th Battalion were present and twenty selections were furnished for the skaters. The proceeds went to the 254th Battalion fund.

Mrs. S. Symons of Toronto, is visiting her mothers, Mrs. James Fleming, John Street.

50 YEARS AGO

Mar. 13th., 1907

At a meeting of the city council Mr. Thomas Gardiner of St. Catharines was appointed manager of the gas works at a salary of $1,100.50 per annum.

Dr. Ponton, K.C., M.P., has been appointed solicitor for the United Empire Bank of Canada which recently opened an office here.

Mrs. A. E. Birchard, who has been an employee of the Ritchie drygoods store here for some time, has accepted a position in Toronto and has left for that city. Prior to leaving she was presented with a handsome gold-headed umbrella by the employees of the store.

Public Won't Like This

Windsor Star

One trouble with too many projects built by private enterprise in the past has been the practice of "watered stock" which entered into the promotion. It stabilized on the profits of the promoters but often left the enterprise in a shaky financial position. It was loaded up with debt beyond its "real" value.

The Trans-Canada Pipe Lines issue isn't exactly in this category in the case of the bonds. Most of the company's top executives rang up unemployment cards by being permitted to buy in shares below their market price. This is not an unusual procedure in these modern days, an excuse being that it encourages executives to get behind with a company and do good work.

Though there is nothing extraordinary about what has been done in Trans-Canada Pipe Lines it is not a procedure which will sit well with the public, especially as public money is being used to finance the line. And also because it has to do with a natural resource, the property of the people.

Favored Ways To Kill Self

Financial Post

Are you interested in the most popular methods of committing suicide in sundry countries? Do such grisly facts tell us anything about national characters?

In the U.S., 37% of all suicides kill themselves with firearms. This is the most popular method. This would bear out the reputation of Americans for speed and efficiency. In more leisurely Britain the gas oven, chosen by 34.8%, gets preference over violence. In Germany a majority of all suicides, 57%, die by hanging; and somehow this fits the popular notion that the Germans are a sentimental streak.

It is a gloomy subject. The latest statistical survey, a yearly report on international suicide is that very few people decide to end it all. Only one in every 3,000 in the country with the highest annual rate, and one in every 30,000 in the country with the lowest.

In the words of Dorothy Parker, "razors pain you, rivers are damp; acids stain you, and drugs cause cramp; guns aren't lawful, nooses give, gas smells awful, you might as well live."

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Oh, Come, Now!

"My husband and I live according to Dr. Brady and Adele Davis, and now our son, a bloke's gist, asks us to save your columns. . . .

"Son was born natural childbirth fashion 27 years ago — not that I knew what to call it. All I knew was, according to Dr. Brady there was no need to be fearful, so I felt no need for anesthesia, and in fact was ordered none. Talked and joked with the nurses and doctor all during the most wonderful hours of my life. Heard the tike's first cry and then lay listening to him sucking on his fist while being readied for the trip back to my hospital room. . . .

"Wish it could have been at home and that my husband could have been there, but we were so young and easily intimidated so never questioned the edict handed down by our families.

"Thank you for all your wonderful work."

Signed .....

You are kind, Ma'am.

What you say about the birth of your son should inspire any of the many potential or prospective mothers to learn what every woman, man and high-school student should know about childbirth.

To help girls of high-school age to learn something of what they should have learned in school, or at any rate to put an insight into their purpose in life, I suggest the following reading matter.

"Childbirth" by Carl Davis M.D., and Sonia Ferguson. Answers to most questions about pregnancy and childbirth. Published by Harper & Brothers, $2.50.

"Natural Childbirth," by Helen Heardman. A manual for physiotherapists and parents-to-be. It describes and illustrates exercises which make childbirth easier, whether natural or not.

"Prenatal Influences in Mothers, by Wm. F. Hunter M.D., and Bernard H. Smith, M.D. Gives the expectant mother some knowledge of the physiology of pregnancy and childbirth which equips her for a normal delivery. Published by Bruce Humphries, Inc., $2.50.

"Childbirth Without Fear", by Grantly Dick Read, M.D. The principles and practice of natural childbirth. Published by Harper & Brothers, $2.75.

In reference to natural childbirth, whether the expectant mother and/or her physician accept or reject it, it is well to remember that:

(1) An essential part of the technique of natural childbirth is always kept ready and the laboring woman can have it whenever she wants it.

(2) Knowing this — as the movie actress Greer Gray said: "Whenever you feel the need . . . know-ing you can have the anesthetic at your command — you don't want it. At least I didn't."

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

VALUE OF DISSENT

A seminary professor remarked in a recent address that he found in divinity students rather resentful of the Biblical teachings that they should not conform themselves to the world.

Many people do not realize the extent to which conformity has become the ideal of our modern education. The main idea of modern education is to lead the student to be a good neighbor. And this certainly is a necessary and commendable ideal.

But great progress in world affairs has been made more often by dissent than by conformity. The Old Testament prophets were all dissenters. It was not such a dissenter that the conformists succeeded in putting Him on the cross. Both St. Paul and St. Peter suffered martyrdom because they refused to conform to the requirements of pagan civilization. Columbus, Galileo, Copernicus, Pasteur served humanity by refusing to concur. The Pilgrim Fathers were dissenters from the conformity that they could not go on living even with their own co-religionists.

We are to love our neighbors as ourselves. But the greatest neighbor is dead. Good neighborliness is greatly needed in this modern world, but the greatest ideal is needed also. Everyone who would lead a life truly related to the science and religious faith must set himself against the crowd.

"Woe unto the world," said the Apostle John, "neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

STRIVE!

Here is a little poem I came across, as a boy, and committed to memory. I do not know its author, but whoever he or she was, he has given me for most of my life. Here it is:

He cast his net at morn, when fishers toil.
At eve he drew it empty to the shore.
He took the diver's plunge into the sea
But, thence within his hands, no precious pearls he bore.
He ran a race, but never reached his goal.
He shot an arrow, but he missed his aim,
And slept at last beneath a solitary stone
With no achievements carved about his name.
Men called it failure.
But as for my own part,
I dare not use the word.
For what if Heaven should question,
Ere its judgment should be given,
Not hast thou won, but only Hast thou Striven?

H.H. Cunningham Graham has a most inspiring essay in his book "Success," in which he pays tribute to those who have apparently failed. I quote a few lines: "For those who fail, for those who have the long battle beneath the muddy waves of life, we keep our love, and that certainly about their lives which makes their memories green when the cheap gold is dust. For them we have to give success."

Success is a relative word. Money doesn't give it. Nor fame nor excited applause. I know a man that is successful in the heart. Among the noblest of this earth are those who have done well in material things. You recall that statement, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant." I should not pass you by!

Return to Europe

Local Airmen, Writer Discuss European Drivers, Hospitality

Last week I mentioned that by far the largest number of Canadians in Europe were military personnel and their families who connected with the NATO forces in Europe. But after having seen a considerable number of these troops scattered throughout Europe, I must admit that in comparison to the others, the Canadians manage to remain rather inconspicuous. It is always quite obvious where there are American troops stationed, since there are usually copious signs round about, and license plates on their cars which stand out a mile. But the other day I arrived in Zwelbrucken, Germany, where the Third Fighter Wing of the RCAF is located, and there was nothing there at all to indicate the presence of the Canadians.

Even the sign in German pointing in the direction of the airport was not helpful. It wasn't until I noticed that the licence plates on some of the cars were a bit different from those of the local population that I became aware of their presence. Finally a car drove by with a modest sized maple leaf on it, and I knew for sure there were fellow countrymen in the neighborhood.

Speaking of the maple leaf, let me take time out to assure you that if there is any symbol which stands for Canada in Europe, the maple leaf is. On the basis of the comments which I have heard from many of my European friends, I have long since become convinced that it is about the most beautiful thing we could have as a national emblem, and I shall be very disappointed if our future Canadian flag (that is, if the government ever gets around to creating one) does not have a few good sized leaves on it. When Europeans ask if we have any beautiful scenery which is typically Canadian, I always show them a picture of our autumn when the leaves are taking color. It never fails to impress them.

But some maple leaves of a different nature which are doing good work for Canada in Europe are the RCAF Flyers, a hockey team composed of players from the four fighter wings stationed in Europe. This team, coached by F/O. Louis Lecompte, well-known to hockey fans in Trenton and Belleville, is playing a series of seven exhibition games this winter with European teams, and is helping to dispel somewhat the increasing suspicion of many European hockey fans that all Canadian teams like to play a rough brand of hockey. When I was in Switzerland recently, the Flyers played an exhibition game with the Swiss National "B" team, winning by the close score of 3-2. What impressed the Swiss fans most however was the fact that the Canadians were more intent on sticking strictly to hockey and not particularly anxious to rough it up, a type of game the Swiss have seen too much of from Canadian teams since Dick Grey brought his Lethbridge Maple Leafs over in 1931 to win the World Championships. Anyway the reputation of the present day Flyers is such that there is no lack of teams wanting to play them. Recently they had no less than six games scheduled in one week. Which is one way to keep the team in good shape.

BELLEVILLE MEN

During my short stay in Zweibrucken, I managed to meet two airmen who call Belleville their home: Sgt. J. W. Calasie, whose parents still live in Bellevile, and Cpl. A. A. Cinkant, whose wife's parents live at R. R. 1, Belleville. both men live in the married quarters which are provided for airmen at the RCAF bases overseas and both have been at Zweibrucken a considerable length of time. They do not seem to have wasted too much of their leaves, since I was surprised how much of Europe they had already seen.

I spent an enjoyable although short time exchanging opinions and experiences with them, and we all agreed that France could win in a walk the title of the world's most unpredictable driver, although the other European countries would not be far behind. They also remarked on the wonderful reception which Canadians receive throughout Europe, especially in Holland, although they disagree on the merits of Dutch cooking. I was especially delighted to learn that Sgt. Calsie wanted to see as much as possible of the Rhine valley since that is one of my old training grounds over here.

RCAF personnel are able to buy most of the things they need at the P X located on the base, and so not too much shopping is done in German stores. However, as Cpl. Cinkant pointed out, it was always easier to do the shopping if you could speak the language a bit. I mentioned last week, learning a bit of the language in the country where you are staying is always a commendable action, since the inhabitants are really pleased to find someone taking the trouble to do this. Such a thing does more for goodwill than all the books ever written.

Christ Church Vestry Council Holds Meeting

The March meeting of Christ Church council of the vestry was held on Monday evening and found the business and finances of the church in a satisfactory condition.

The minutes of the previous meeting were approved and the financial report showed that current building expenses were being met out of revenue without the need of drawing on the proposed bank loan.

The finance committee has secured a $75,000 loan from a bank repayable in five years at 5 per cent. This was a fortunate piece of negotiation in light of new government credit restrictions.

A property committee, under the chairmanship of E. Palmer, and a publicity committee, under the chairmanship of F. A. Beeby, were instituted.

A building committee progress report was read by C. Fuzzen. The new parish hall is temporarily held up due to the lack of the main roofing slabs of precast concrete. The work, however, is advancing slowly in other sections so that at present one-sixth of the building is complete and occupancy can be expected by June 30th.

MEMORIAL BOARD

The long - awaited Memorial Board was installed March 22th and will be dedicated to the Glory of God on Sunday, March 17th. After this date suitable memorial tablets will be added as parishioners request them. Funds from such memorials will be placed in a special memorial account for the maintenance of existing and the purchase of new memorials, also for the upkeep and improvement of the furnishings in the church.

Tentative plans were made for the dedication of the new parish hall extension and the new 9.30 a.m. Sunday morning services. Further information will be forthcoming at the April meeting of the council.

The council of the vestry accepted the resignation of one of its most ardent workers, Mr. M. B. Dutton, on his retirement and the subsequent trip to England. In his place, Archdeacon J. B. Creegan installed Mr. F. Ethelr as lay delegate to Synod and member of the vestry council

More Federal Aid For Education Asked by CCF-er

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Varying problems concerned with education have been heard by provincial legislatures.

In the Saskatchewan House, Kim Thorson (CCF — Souris-Estevan) moved a resolution calling on the federal government for increased financial aid for education. Mr. Thorson said the federal government should give greater financial help to the provinces to help give equal opportunity in provincial schools.

Debate was sharp in the Prince Edward Island legislature over a government motion to appoint a standing committee on education from the legislature.

Dr. L. G. Dewar (PC—Second Prince) moved an amendment to the resolution asking that a royal commission be appointed instead because members of the House had neither the time nor the knowledge to deal with such a subject.

The proposed committee will be asked to hear representations from persons with ideas and opinions on educational changes.

ASK LIQUOR CHANGES

Bills calling for changes in liquor legislation were debated in Tuesday's sittings of the Alberta and Nova Scotia legislatures.

Party lines were ignored as an Independent member's motion calling for province-wide local option plebiscite on new liquor outlets was passed 28 to 27 in the Alberta legislature.

The resolution, moved by R. E. Ansley, the member for Ledoc, said the plebiscite should be held "before the next regular session of the legislature" and should determine "whether provisions of the Liquor Control Act should be broadened to permit other types of liquor outlets subject to local option ?"

At present beer only is sold by the glass in taverns and liquor and wine may be sold in private clubs. Beer, liquor and wine may be purchased at government operated stores.

TO HALT REGISTERING

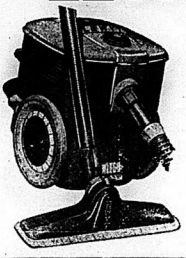
The Nova Scotia legislature gave second reading to a Progressive Conservative government bill to abolish registration of manufacturer's agents. The law which requires distiller's and brewers' agents to register with the provincial liquor commission was passed in 1935 under the previous Liberal administration.

It followed prosecution of seven alleged agents on charges of attempting to promote the sale of a particular brand.

A bill to ban daylight time in the greater Winnipeg area was defeated in the Manitoba legislature. The area has been using daylight time in the summer while rural areas remained on standard time.

Nine Canadians Drift 44 Hours After Ship Sinks

BOSTON (AP)—Nine Canadians who drifted in a lifeboat for 44 hours after their vessel sank off Cape Sable, Nova Scotia, were brought to Boston today by the U.S coast guard vessel which saved them.



The men scrambled to the lifeboat about half an hour before the coast guard cutter Castle Rock.

The cast carrier was headed from Port Reading. N.J., to Yarmouth, N.S.

All men were said to be in good condition despite their ordeal.

Weddings

ALEXANDER - NEWMAN

A lovely wedding was solemnized in the Gospel Hall, Walford, Ontario, on Saturday, March 9, at 2.00 p.m. when Joan Newman, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Newman became the bride of Donald Walter Alexander, also of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Alexander, Mr. H. W. O. Athins, of Watford, officiated before a pretty background of ferns, daffodils and hyacinths.

Miss Yvonne Annan, of Toronto, presided at the piano, and accompanied the soloist, Miss Betty Teeple, of Belleville.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Ernest Newman, was radiant in her bridal gown of white embroidered tulle over crystal-charm. She wore a coronet of white net studded with pearls, with finger-tip veil of tulle illusion, and carried a bouquet in cascade style of pink carnations edged with white, hyacinth florettes.

She was attended by Mrs. Howard Ireland, of London, Ontario, as matron of honor, wearing a deep shrimp shade ballerina gown with matching accessories, and by the Misses Barbara and Marjorie Newman, sisters of the bride, as bridesmaids, attired in pale shrimp shade ballerina gowns, with matching headdresses. All carried Chies Tacomo feathered carnation cascades, edged with white baby's breath.

Mr. Jack Stackhouse, of Kingston, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Robert Leggate, of Watford, and Mr. Robert Alexander, of Belleville, were ushers.

The reception was held at the Watford Legion Hall, where the bride's mother, received, wearing navy blue with pink and navy accessories, while her son's wife, bridegroom's mother, in deep powder blue with navy accessories.

Following the reception, the young couple left for wedding trip to the eastern States. They will be at bride travelling in a black and white tweed suit, with black and white accessories. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Alexander will reside in Belleville.

Guests attended from Kingston; Belleville; Dundas; Tillsonburg; Toronto and London, Ontario.

FITZGIBBON — McGRATH

A quiet wedding was recently solemnized in St. Michael's Church, Belleville, when Cecelia Bernadette, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. M. McGrath, was united in Holy Matrimony to Edward Arthur, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fitzgibbon. The Very Rev. Dean Garvin officiated.

Their only attendants were: Mr. and Mrs. G. V. Fitzgibbon, brother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom.

After the wedding breakfast at the Queen's Motor Motel, a small reception was held at the home of the bride for a few close friends and relatives.

Following a short honeymoon, the bride and bridegroom will reside on Grove St., Belleville.

World Day Of Prayer Held By Cannifton WMS

On Friday the World Day of Prayer service was held in Cannifton United Church under the direction of the Woman's Missionary Society.

Mrs. C. Mathews of the Anglican Church, Mrs. N. Woodcock, of Calvary Temple, and Mrs. G. Millard, of Alliance Tabernacle, were leaders for the service with several ladies taking other parts.

The Rev. W. R. Merrick gave an inspiring address on the "Necessities of Prayer."

Mrs. Ralph Plumpton sang a fitting solo, "Give us this Day."

WED ON SCAFFOLD

MAUBEUGE, France (Reuters) The mayor and the parish priest climbed ladders Monday for the wedding of Jacques Drancourt, 23, and Lucienne Ferre, 19, on the scaffold where they fell in love. Lucienne and Jacques decided to marry after they had worked together for several weeks fitting panes of glass to a factory roof.

DEAD IN MILLIONS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S Civil Defence Administration is reckoning on "millions" of casualties in event of an atomic war. Even if the U.S. spent 52,000,000,000 on a nuclear bomb shelter system, Civil Defence Administrator Val Peterson has told a House of Representatives appropriation subcommittee, only about 60 per ent of the population could be red.

ELEGANT COAT

2-3a

This - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

In view of the current controversy in Canada, the U.S.A. and the United Nations about China, the following news items merit our attention. "The Anglican Primate of Australia, Archbishop H. W. Bc Mowll said recently that Christian congregations were steadily growing in communist China. Archbishop Mowll had just returned to Sydney from leading an Anglican delegation on a seven-week tour of China. He said the people of China were increasingly turning to Christianity to meet their spiritual needs. The congress at Nanking had more than 100 students training to become ministers. "The source of this revival is beyond suspicion and is so contrary to much we hear. The Primate spoke as leader of a Christian church and after a prolonged personal tour.

GOING SHOPPING?

So the items Guess we are told to bring ourselves up to date—this is a new world — things are not as they used to be — we are in the push-button age. T & T agrees with life to make a still better mess and that all phases of life are changing before our eyes. Have you observed what is happening to the housewife in so far as her shopping habits are concerned?

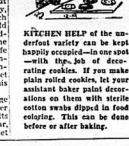
Not so very long ago, we were inclined to go from day to day. If we needed a bar of soap or a few potatoes we would go to the telephone or throw a jacket over our shoulders for a rushed call to the convenient corner store. The farmer's wife could not do this. Even then she did her buying to keep her larder filled from one trip to town to the next.

The wheel has gone full cycle. The urban housewife is buying more and more on a weekly basis and is changing her bit and miss system or lack of system. It is a natural change after all in this hustle and bustle of a busy existence which, for all our push-buttons and conveniences, seems to find time a more and more scarce commodity. Many factors enter in to the tendency to make out a weekly menu for the family, but possibly the automobile is the chief factor. Menus are prepared and a list is planned in most instances that is convenient, a day when the car is free. If the husband uses the car, it does not matter whether the housewife drives or not, because the car must be available to do the weekly shopping. It develops too, that shopping in bulk is a more economical procedure. It develops also (or is it our imagination) that more and more men are to be seen pushing shopping carts.

Ours is an age which prides itself, albeit lately somewhat, that it is very realistic. Materially, there is no room for thinking which will occur in the commercial world as realism. Business—quickly adapts itself to accommodate the buying habits of the housewife who buys over 80 percent of Canada's produce. The stores are increasing parking facilities to meet the weekly buying process and this is good business acumen.

Yes, we are in a changing age and change can be seen whether it is the housewife's buying habits pursued largely by the family car, or whether it is boarding a jet plane in Vancouver to do your Easter shopping at Montreal or Toronto. Good Shopping—wherever or however you choose.

Speaking of a changing world and automobiles, we are reminded of a man of India for whom change simply passes by. "We know of champions who have broken world records in several spheres of life. But do we know that today a world record is being created in a ceaseless march on foot!"



Vinoba was a disciple of Ghandi and continues to follow his master's precept that the greatest weapon on earth is "truth, indivisible from non-violence." He walks up and down the length and breadth of India. He has walked thousands of miles preaching the gospel of "land sacrifice." Through his quiet influence he has persuaded those who have more land than they need to give freely thousands of acres to those who have not. Naive he may be, but his faith in a "change of heart by appealing to one's highest nature" has worked miracles in India.

Sankar Sarzen who is our informant writes: "In life, he is simplicity itself. Barring a few articles of clothing, sufficient just to cover his body from nakedness, he has hardly any worldly possessions. Indeed, he lives the life of an anchorite. He sleeps on hard wooden planks, rises at three in the morning, eats only curds and honey five times in the day, walks ten to fifteen miles every morning. Now-a-days, I believe, he does it in two shifts — one in the morning and the next in the evening. Thus he contacts two villages in a day.

"In appearance, he looks an old man with his long, unkempt and fast greying beard. He is thin and would give the impression of a man with an emaciated body. But he must be wiry."

This story is not legendary. It is true. Vinoba may be mistaken as to but he is reality and noble reality in India. He, too, is of our age.

Holy Trinity WG Marks 35th Anniversary

On the 6th of March 1922, in the parish of Shannonville a meeting was held to organize the Women's Guild of Holy Trinity Church, and an enthusiastic, and large number of friends and members gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin McKenzie to celebrate 35 years of successful church work.

In keeping with the season of Lent, the meeting opened with the hymn, "Forty Days and Forty Nights," the prayer for the parish and the Lord's prayer, in unison.

A short history of the Guild activities was given by Mrs. H Houston, who also read the names of the members who have passed away.

A set of cruets and a silver bread box were presented to the church in cherished memory of the departed members. The Rev. L. A. Page led in prayer followed by a short talk on the importance of keeping a parish history.

Miss Alva Aseltine favored with a solo, "Golway Bay;" Little Miss Fay McKenzie sang sweetly, "Jesus Bids Us Shine;" a poem entitled, "Ash Wednesday," was given by Mrs. A. Kilburn; duets "Suddenly There's A Valley," and "True Love," rendered by the Misses Alva Aseltine and Joann Vesterfelt, were enjoyed.

With Mr. Gerald leading, and Mrs Wright as pianist, all joined in singing the old familiar songs.

Included with the refreshments was a delightful anniversary cake given by a bashful grumpy. This was cut and served by the two oldest members of the Guild, Mrs. Wright and Mrs. Houston.

During the social hour presentations were made to Mrs. A. Kilburn, who is taking up residence in Midland, Ontario; also to Mrs. F. Goodfellow who has moved from the community.

The addresses were read by Mrs. L. A. Page and Mrs. S. Fitzgerald, and the presentations made by Mrs. T. Whittle and Mrs. A. Spencer.

During the evening, flash pictures were taken by Mrs. Livingston.

Nearly 400 View Y.F.C. Film 'Fire on the Heather'

Nearly 400 people attended Belleville Youth For Christ on Saturday night, at the Alliance Temple, when opened with a sing-song led by Doug Stark.

It was announced that tickets are now on sale for the annual Y.F.C. banquet to be held next month, with the ladies of Plainfield W.A. catering.

The Billy Graham film "Fire on the Heather" was then shown, with the events of the Scotland, from the time of the Druids and the Roman conquerors through the Reformation with John Knox to present day Billy Graham crusades.

Mr. Throckmorton, who was converted 14 years ago, was a former alcoholic.

A special film "Happiness", with Ronald Harper, Cliff Walker and Billy Graham will be shown on March 23rd.

Women's Activities

ROSLIN W.A.

The March meeting of the Roslin W.A. was held on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Everett Prindle with 12 ladies present.

In the president, Mrs. Harvey Chisholm, called the meeting to order and read the Call to Thoughtfulness."

The treasurer, Mrs. Harold Colden, gave her report.

Mrs. Gerald Bailey had charge of the devotional period and read the Scripture lesson, taken from Psalm 139:23-24.

Mrs. John Fargey gave a reading, "Love, Thy Neighbor" A. poem, "Building A Temple," was read by Mrs. Prindle.

Mrs. Walter Chisholm reported on the W.M.S. presbyterial which she and Mrs Ben Seale attended in Belleville, on March 1st. Mrs. Gerald Bailey also gave a reading, "Returning Good For Evil."

The Rev. R. W. T. Middleton closed the meeting with prayer.

The hostess served refreshments and a social half hour was enjoyed.

H-S Assoc. Plans Coming Fun Fair

The regular monthly meeting of the Sir Winston Churchill Home and School Association was held recently with Dr. H. L. House, the president of the Association, presiding. In his remarks he announced that a "Fun Fair," under the convenorship of Mrs. C. Powell assisted by Mrs. R. Kowal and Mrs. A. W. Rump, would be held on an evening later this month. "This will be", said Dr. House, "our main fund raising project of the year, and I would ask for the full co-operation of all concerned".

He also dealt with the problem presented by the resignation of two members of the Association executive, Mrs. H. C. Coppel, and Mrs. W. Bray, both of whom are leaving the city, which leaves four vacancies on the executive.

Dr. House appealed to the members to volunteer to fill these positions, adding that so long as they remained vacant a further burden was placed on the remaining executive members, several of whom already doing two or three jobs.

TEACH SAFETY RULES

Mrs. D. E. Carrington, the secretary, read a letter from Her Worship, Mayor Jane Forsyth, requesting the assistance of all parents by teaching their children the rules of safety, in particular to cross busy streets at points supervised by crossing guards.

Dr. Edith E. Peterkin spoke to the meeting on "The Child in the Home," emphasizing the importance of parental controls, guidance and direction in the moulding of the personality and character of the child. It was the unanimous opinion of all concerned that this was, indeed, the finest address ever given in the Sir Winston Churchill Home and School.

Dr. Peterkin was introduced by Bruce Kerr and thanked by Frank Miller.

Following the room count, which was won by the morning kindergarten class, the parents were entertained by a clever exhibition of acrobatics by Miss Jacqueline Cook and recitations by Miss Shirley Boyle.

On adjournment, tea and cookies were served.

Koldenev also is a Hartford dress manufacturer.

W.M.S. Observes World Day of Prayer

MELROSE — Mrs. Carman Millagan was hostess to the members of the Melrose Woman's Missionary Society for the World Day of Prayer service on Friday.

Mrs. Charles Bates presided and gave a pleasant welcome to all, stressing this was a deeply religious service that links together Christian women of one hundred and forty-two countries in unity and meditation of prayer.

The writer of this service, Sister Lena Vassady, is a Hungarian woman and with her husband and family, came to make her home in the United States after World War II Since then she has so mastered the English language that the service of profound spiritual depths.

The business period was conducted. Miss McLaren gave the treasurer's report and announced that Mrs. R. G. Coulter, Belleville, is the presbyterial treasurer. Offering for the World Day of Prayer was $5.20.

The April meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Newton Demille.

Silent prayer was observed for the missionary, Miss Alice Phillips, Yamagata.

The theme of the service was "Who Shall Separate Us?" Mrs. Millagan introduced the leader, Mrs. E. Embury, conducting the service assisted by the Missionary Monthly with Mrs. S. Lamille reading the several hymns and Mrs. Percy Badger reading the Scripture lesson, Romans 8:31-39

Readings were also given by Mrs. Embury, "In The Morning," and "Strength for Duty," and "Still as an article written by Mrs. Vassady, "My Most Unforgettable Day of Prayer," which appeared in the Missionary Monthly, April 1955.

Mrs. C. Osborn read, "Thoughts By The Way."

The intercession and commitment were given by the following members: Miss Bailey, Mrs. J. Milligan, Mrs. J. Englis, Mrs. R. Maclntosh and Mrs. E. Pascoe Jr.

Mrs. E. Embury closed the meeting with the benediction.

Mrs. C. Milligan served refreshments.

Jubilee E. Aux. Views Korean Film

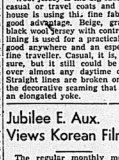
The regular monthly meeting of Bridge Street United Church Jubilee Evening Auxiliary was held on Tuesday evening in the Sunday School auditorium.

After a delicious supper, served by Mrs. Wotten and her group, Miss Kenny opened the meeting and extended thanks to the group for their splendid co-operation for the successful dinner served on March 1st.

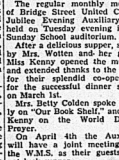
Mrs. Betty Colden spoke briefly on "Our Book Shelf," and Miss Kenny on the World Day of Prayer.

On April 4th the Auxiliary will have a joint meeting with the W.M.S. as their guests to a pot-luck supper.

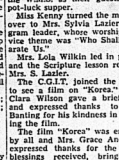
Miss Kenny turned the meeting over to Mrs. Sylvia Lazier, program leader, whose worship service theme was "Who Shall Separate Us."



Mrs. Lola Wilkin led in prayer and the Scripture lesson read by Mrs. S. Lazier.



The C.G.I.T. joined the group to see a film on "Korea." Miss Clara Wilson gave a brief talk, and expressed thanks to Mr. Banting for his kindness in showing the film.



The film "Korea" was enjoyed by all and Mrs. Grace Anderson expressed thanks to the many blessings received, bringing a pleasant missionary evening to a close.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

MAYBE HE'S NOT AS SIMPLE AS HE THINKS

Modern as we think the world is, these days, on the subject of wives who work, perhaps we do not always realize that there still exists a sharp division of opinion in regard to the advisability of this.

On my desk at the moment is a letter from a man who wishes me to forward to a working wife whose own letter appeared in this column some weeks ago, an enclosed letter in which he gives her some advice.

This wife wrote that she has a job whose hours are from half past three in the afternoon until midnight; that she gets up every morning in time to get breakfast for her husband and eight-year-old son whom she drives to school each day, and that she does all her own housework in the time she has left, including marketing, laundry and preparing dinners which she leaves ready for her son and husband.

The reason she is working, she explained, is because the family has a new home and she pays for it. "there is so much expense with all that," she added, "and that we couldn't get by on my husband's paycheck alone."

This woman wasn't complaining about working. Her trouble was that her husband never gave her a hand with any of the work at home and that his attitude toward her was completely unapprectative, even insulting. He also took sadistic pleasure in saying things to hurt her.

So now, as I say, a man who read her letter has sent me a letter to her which he wishes me to forward to her. Because it may be of interest to other working wives, and husbands of same, I shall forward it by printing it here.

It reads:

"Dear Mrs. W.:

"The solution of your problem is quite simple. All you have to do is quit your outside job and start working at the job you were created to do — that of wife and mother.

"The finances of a family are the husband's sole responsibility and his family must live within his earning power. Almost always a man will assume whatever responsibility is needed. Even though you are helping to pay the bills, your husband doesn't respect you for it, because you're taking a part of his natural responsibility from him, and he resents it, even though he may not suspect that he does.

"If more married women would confine their energy to making and keeping a home for their husband and children, instead of trying to take over, wholly or partly, their husband's sole reason for existence, the divorce courts of this country wouldn't be so crowded.

"Just remember that when a wife and mother leaves her home to work out, she not only robs her family of her time, touch and guidance, which cannot be replaced by anyone else, but she also robs some other person of a livelihood that the job represents.

"Please take no offense at this letter. My experience has shown me and I hope it can help you. Nothing in this world can compare to a family that lives together, loves together, fights together, has fun together and stays together. — R.E.M."

Well, there it is — one man's view on the working wife.

My own opinion is that a problem such as this wife describes, where there isn't enough money in the husband's pay envelope to cover the immediate expense, is not quite so simple as Mr. R.E.M. thinks.

I would like to know how some of you other readers feel about this.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

BEAUTY KNOWS NO BIRTHDAYS

How many candles on her birthday cake? It doesn't matter if she's smart, well groomed, gracious and charming.

When does a woman cease to be beautiful? There's only one answer to that question. It's "when she stops caring." For beauty, being the elusive, many-faceted quality it is, has no birthdays. Beauty combines grace and charm and an ineffable daintiness. From the male point of view it's femininity. And that, of course, brings us back where we started — grace, charm and daintiness. Perfect features are not a necessity at all.

So why all this emphasis on youthful beauty? A woman can be as beautiful at 40, 50 or even later — in a different way, of course — as she was in her more youthful days. But, mostly, it's up to herself. Which is why so many older women look attractive, others do not. The frame of mind is important.

If a woman has let her figure go, if she's greatly overweight, she's bound to look older. If she's neglected her skin, if it's dry because it hasn't been lubricated with creams and lotions, aging lines show up. Creepy necks, also caused by lack of attention, and double chins are also birthday giveaways. A hairdo can make the difference. Beautifully coiffed hair, especially if it's swept back and outward, is essential if the middle-aged beauty would look her best. And, speaking of hair, a woman should never feel that white or gray tresses are aging. Actually, the mature woman should take special pride in her snow white hair, or in the sophisticated gray that unquestionably gives her an edge in many a gathering. Of course, she'll be meticulous about frequent shampooing. Just as she is about her nails, her skin, her wardrobe.

These mature women who always present such a stunning appearance have learned the basic beauty secret, which is that good grooming is the sum total of a lot of little things. And this good grooming builds poise—a mature woman's most effective beauty asset.

It's invariably true that a clear skin, plus a touch of light makeup, is most becoming after a woman stops counting the candles on her birthday cake. For such a woman, it's best to forget the heavy eye-shadow, the dark and dramatic lipstick. It's the serene rather than the sultry look that the years should bestow. An air of freshness is an air of serenity and that comes from just soap-and-water cleanliness.

The resolve never to wear a pair of white gloves twice without washing them, for instance, never to appear in public with stringy hair, never to substitute a new coat of make-up for a good washing, never to wear an outfit that needs mending or pressing—these resolves have put many a mature woman in the "glamour girl" ranks! And have made many a younger woman wonder how she does it!

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. SEECHMAN

SHOULD THIS FIFTIETH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY BE CELEBRATED?

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Mother-in-law has been a widow for eighteen years, lives with me, her only daughter. Her fiftieth wedding anniversary is to be soon, and it seems to me that this day should not go unnoticed even if she is a widow. Would it be proper for me to give a small tea-party for her? I have never heard of this being done, and you may advise me that it is completely out-of-order. Is it? M.H.

I very much doubt if anyone could or should suggest what would be "proper" for you to do on this anniversary day, so signify least to your dear mother, so full of memories. She may warmly welcome your thoughtful, daughterly plan, may thoroughly enjoy having her close relatives and intimate friends with her on this day.

On the other hand, her precious and tender memories of the day may make it unbearably difficult for her to contemplate any celebration without her husband on this day she had looked forward to sharing with him. Not even you, so close to her, may be able to predict her reaction to your plan. So, dear lady, I strongly advise that you "drop" your plan with your mother . . . gently suggesting that you think "this special day should not go unnoticed," and ask her to tell you what her wish is. If she makes the decision, it will doubtless be safe for you to go forward with your kind and warm-hearted plan for the tea party.

"THE" SHOULD BE USED BEFORE "HONORABLE"

"THE HONORABLE—"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a member of the committee who are planning a dinner for an important organization which is celebrating its tenth anniversary and is launching its yearly campaign to increase membership and funds. Will you please settle a discussion concerning one item on the program we are preparing for the printer? The Mayor of our medium-size town has consented to make a speech, and I think his name should be printed on the program as (for example): The Honorable John E. Thompson. I have been told by other members of the committee that the "The" is not correct, that it should be "Honorable John E. Thompson." Which is correct? — Reader

HOSTESS SHOULD SIT WITH GUEST OF HONOR

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am going to give a Baby Shower for a dear friend of mine. There will be two tables, four guests at each table. Should I sit at the table with the guest of honor (the mother-to-be), or at the other table, or is it unimportant at which table I sit? — A.C.

I suggest that you, as hostess, sit at the table with your guest of honor, seating her in the place of honor, at your right. Also you should be in position to give her the hospitality-attentions so important and delightful on this occasion.

GOOD PRECAUTION

Discarded electric bulbs or cracked glass should be packed into strong containers and carefully marked, safe from small children.

Anchored Waistline

By ALICE ALDEN

The waistline is back to normal and designers are doing all sorts of detail to call attention to this sartorial intelligence. Hannah Troy wants all eyes focused on the waistline of this gray chiffon wool sheath and so uses it as a softening of the silhouette. The device she employs is a wedge-drape criss-crossed at the waist and accented with self buttons to allow the belt to pull through. White Italian pique makes the double collar and man-tailored link cuffs. Wonderful with furs come real spring.

I've Got A Job

By Mary Moore

If this seems a little bit cocky it is because success has gone to my head. It doesn't take much, you understand, to puff some people up.

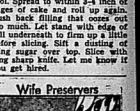
All I did was make a jelly roll, that really is a lemon roll, that rolled up like recipes indeed always will but seldom do. The outer surface was smooth and golden with no cracks (in sight), the lemon filling oozed from the ends just enough to be tempting. Then I wrapped it up carefully and sent the beautiful product back to school with Pete and Dan and didn't taste it! How did I know it's good? Here's a note I received in the mail two days later: "Hired! Love, P."

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY

Macaroni and Cheese with Tomato, Cauliflower, Shredded Green Beans, Shredded Lettuce and Cucumber Salad with Herb French Dressing, Lemon Roll (see test — a jelly roll with lemon filling), Coffee.



LEMON ROLL

(Jelly roll with lemon filling). You should have or buy a 15 x 10-inch jelly roll pan. Line pan, grease it, line it with paper on bottom only then butter the paper well, too. Have—quarters cup sifted cake flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1-4 teaspn salt, 4 eggs (average to medium-large size), that are room temperature, 3-4 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Add the sifted flour to the baking powder and salt. Beat the eggs in—mixing bowl and when they start to thicken gradually begin to add the sugar and beat until it is all added and the mixture become fluffy and thick and light colored. Fold in (do not beat) the flour mixture until it disappears, then add vanilla. Spread batter evenly in prepared pan and bake at 400 deg Fahr. for 13 minutes. (If cake does not spring back at centre when touched with finger tip give it 15 minutes in all—but no more). Have ready a clean tea towel evenly sprinkled with sifted icing sugar. As soon as cake is removed from oven turn it upside down on cloth. Quickly peel off paper and trim away crisp side edges with long sharp knife. (Have the knife ready and waiting — don't have to rummage in the drawer for it.) Roll cake up, cloth and all. Place on rack to cool. When cool unroll carefully, spread with:

DOUBLE LEMON FILLING

(This recipe is doubled because I like plenty of filling to sink my teeth in. If you are not a filling fiend, cut these amounts in half.) One cup sugar, 3 tablespoons all-purpose flour, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 2-3 cup orange juice (or water), 6 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 eggs slightly beaten, 4 teaspoons butter, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind. Combine sugar, flour and salt in top of double boiler. Beat eggs slightly, add orange juice (or water) and lemon juice. Add to dry ingredients. Place over boiling water; cook, stirring constantly for 10 minutes or until thick. Remove from heat, add butter and lemon rind, beat until smooth; cool. Spread to within 3-4 inch of edges of cake and roll up again. Push back filling that oozes out too much. Let stand with ends of roll underneath to firm up a little before slicing. Sift a dusting of icing sugar over top. Slice with long sharp knife. Let me know if you get hired.

Wife Preservers

A leftover hard cooked egg may be kept in a refrigerator dish. Remember that it will keep longer if not shelled, and use in a variety salad.

FINE SUIT IN FLANNEL

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Medium gray flannel is used for a casual but quite elegant little suit that shows strongly the current Chanel influence in fashion. It is a good choice since it lends itself easily to dressing up or down for resort or town. Banded detail at the neck and all around the curved front and push-up sleeves add interest. The jacket hangs straight, has no fastening and is deftly semi-fitted. The skirt is straight. With the suit, there's a paler gray embroidered silk blouse.

Red Cross Nurse's 'Hospital' Converted Baggage Car

THE PAS, Man. (CP)—A lone Red Cross nurse travels by railroad car and on foot to serve hundreds of families in a rugged 350-mile stretch between here and Churchill, Man.

Phyllis Martin's "hospital" is a converted railway baggage car, fitted with the necessary first aid and medical supplies.

Winter and summer the slight nurse works among the scattered Metis and Indian families in her district, treating the sick and injured, teaching basic health principles, carrying out preventive programs and acting at times as economic adviser.

Last autumn she planned a diptheria immunization program, then traversed the whole district three times in carrying it out. Earlier she carried out the big task of administering two doses of antipollo vaccine to all children served by the Red Cross car.

For two weeks last July the car was converted into a travelling dental clinic and more than 140 adults and children were served. Prior to the dental excursion, Miss Martin visited all homes, urging residents to have their children and themselves receive dental checks.

During the winter two cases of tuberculosis were discovered at Thicket Portage, Man. She quickly loaded an x-ray machine in her baggage car and 143 plates were taken at the centre. All but one family were represented.

To aid residents in buying and spending wisely on food and clothing she held cooking and sewing classes.

Throughout the district she is known only as "nurse." She has been in the district for just over a year.

Her travelling medical car is connected to regular passenger or freight trains travelling on the Canadian National Railways' Hudson Bay Line.

She visits each settlement at least once every six weeks. The car is shunted into a siding and when she has finished her work, she notifies the railway and it is moved on to the next stop.

Because heat in the travelling hospital is available only at the two terminal points, Miss Martin spends half of each winter at the two ends of the line.

The northern nursing service has been supplied by the Red Cross for the last four years.

Woman's Life On Farm Better All the Time

WINNIPEG (CP)—Women delegates to the annual Manitoba dairy farmers' convention here agreed that a woman's life on the farm is gradually becoming similar to life in a city home.

The change in the last 25 years had been fantastic, said Mrs. Leslie Fanset of Headingley, Man. Electric stoves, washing machines, irons, running water and electric lights have rid the farm wife of such chores as wood-chopping and hauling, scrubbing boards and oil lamps.

The automobile has cut baking chores considerably, making it possible to get bread when needed, along with other food supplies.

Mrs. Frank Dawson of Shoal Lake, said: "We gather and cream more than 700 eggs a day. In a few years they'll invest a machine to do this too—wait and see."

Travail of Canada's Exciting North Told to Canadian Club

In one-eighth of Canada's vast area, there lies beyond the 60th parallel, 1,500,000 square miles with a population of only 25,000 or more people; 8,000 in the Yukon of whom 1,500 are Indians, and in the Northwest Territories, 17,000 part Eskimo and part white. It is a land of bush, ice and snow; a land of bitter biting winds; a land of lakes and rivers; and criss-cross roads that lead nowhere. Such was word picture Tessa Long Daniell, noted journalist and traveller brought to Women's Canadian Club on Monday night in Queen Alexandra School, as she spoke on "The Exciting North."

Mrs. Daniell, since coming to Canada in 1952 has travelled extensively through this far-flung northland, and has witnessed great changes due to the accelerated pace of development in this vast but potentially wealthy part of Canada from the now lessening fur trade to one of mineral development, and of the impact on the native Eskimos and Indians of the white man's civilization; the construction of the DEW line, and its meaning to Canada's Arctic coastline, and the building of a modern, scientifically planned community at Inuvik, located some 60 miles up Mackenzie delta, a "New Aklavik."

The early opening up of this northern area was done by the trappers who were engaged in the fur and whaling trades, which preceded slowly, as Canadians were more concerned with opening up prairies. But now since rich minerals, during world war II, were found in many areas by geologists, the picture changes.

TRACTOR TRAINS

Instead of the dog sleds used formerly for transporting supplies, they now use planes, and trucks, and long tractor trains with wooden carriages on runners, which are in reality little mobile villages by means of the three-shift plan, constant travel is obtained with a minimum of time expended.

There is a great deal of hidden wealth in the far north, which was discovered by Mackenzie in 1782, as well as rich gold mines, radium and nickel around Great Slave Lake and other mineral deposits.

Defence air bases and radar posts have been established. The DEW line gives warning of an impending attack. Those at these strategic points live in heated buildings, eat the same food as in other parts of Canada; have their radios, and T.V. will soon be available. Instead of adopting the Eskimo manner of life, they have brought Canadian life with them. Because of the severe cold, everything is indoors; they play, eat and sleep under one composite roof.

The earnings are relatively high, from $300 to $400 per month, which is of necessity saved since there is nothing on which to spend it. Skilled workers receive from $800 to $1,200 per month.

THE DEW LINE

The DEW line has an important effect on the Arctic peoples. It integrates them into the rest of Canada, and the Eskimo civilization is seeing the end of its days, and will have to adapt itself to the white man's way of life, which is gradually being done. They are giving up their harpoons and are buying tractors instead. In former times they lived by the trade and barter system in the fur trade, now the Eskimo are paid for their work, but often they do not use their money wisely, as in the case of buying refrigerators. The caribou herds are diminishing, so other means of sustenance must be found, which will be of the white man's way.

In speaking of the personality of the Eskimos, Mrs Daniell, who lived in the New Aklavik with them for a while last autumn, said they were great mechanics; possessed of fine memory and observation; could remember every curve of the land and nature's sign posts in those vast snowswept spaces; they were intelligent, polite, delightful companions, but they had a lot to learn. Time to them has no meaning; when hungry they go out to hunt, when that provision is lacking, its end, they set out again, and the meantime take life easy.

TRANSITION PERIOD

They used to live in tents made of skins, and in igloos, but now are adapting to life in houses, thus changing the nomad life for the stationary life. Their nomad life from the nomad life to the settled one is not easy, but the Canadian authorities are showing kindliness and understanding in the resettlement from the old to the white man's dwelling.

The old Aklavik is to be moved from its present poor location which abounds with marshes, bogs and lakes, and streams and which is too soft for modern buildings; also because there is no suitable site for an airport, or public utilities because of the frost. The new site will be on the north shore of the old site, east of the Mackenzie River. It will have a residential area with trees and parks; a modern shopping centre; hospital and schools; homes and gardens; with houses in pastel colors, not the customary white and grey tone, and much like northern Ontario.

LARGER HOUSES

The houses will be larger, built on piles so that the heat of the home will not melt the ice and snow, also because the soil here has a content of gravel. The water pipes will be encased in an insulated box construction. This new Aklavik has also a site for air fields, which will be the largest in Canada.

VITAL LIFE LINE

The airplanes will constitute a vital life line to the rest of the world; they will make the DEW line possible; over 1,000 tons of materials can be airlifted. The North has no outside connection save by water. There are no railroads, everything depends on the waterways for transport, and that is but open a few months, the ice bound rivers break up. Living is high there, no dairy herds, which makes milk 24 cents per pint in Yellowknife and bread is 4 times dearer than in the south, even cabbages sell at $1 per head.

As to climate, Mrs. Daniell said that man can adapt himself to the cold as the air is dry, and because of the endless visits of waterways, shrubs, and other vegetation can be grown. What is needed are railroads and ordinary roads, and in time Canada's exciting north will have all these in her transition from the primitive to the jet age.

Mrs. Daniell was introduced by the president, Mrs D. I. MacKinnon, who also voiced the appreciation of the audience which was most marked by its applause.

Following the address, there was a time of questions and answers bringing out other aspects of the awakening north, and that was that education was at the present time in the hands of the Protestant and Roman Catholic missions, whose student Eskimos showed a keen desire to learn.

Retirement To Life Heard At RNAO Meet

The regular monthly meeting of the R.N.A.O., District 6, Bay of Quinte Chapter, was held Monday at Maple Inn, Bloomfield.

A chicken dinner was served and enjoyed by all.

Following the meal a film, entitled, "Community Health in Action," was shown by Miss G. Ayleworth.

Mrs. H. McQueen introduced the guest speaker, Miss A. McConnell, who has spent 47 years in nursing and hospital administration in U.S.A. before retiring to her home town, Picton, Ontario.

The philosophy which permeated Miss McConnell's speech was that an individual should not retire from life, but retire to life.

Miss McConnell does not claim to have a miraculous formula for successful retirement, but her sound advice, which she herself has utilized for the past several years has proven most effective in imparting contentment to her life.

A short business session followed Miss McConnell's talk.

Christ Church EBWA Holds Business Meeting

The monthly business meeting of the Evening Branch of the W. A. met in Christ Church parish hall on Monday evening.

Following the devotional service, correspondence read by the secretary, Miss Frances Reid included a thank-you note from Miss Eliza Bell, in appreciation of the Living Message leaflet; one from Mrs. A. Cooper following her recent illness; Mr. and Mrs. A. Boogard in their recent bereavement; a letter from the rector of St. Philips church, at Milford concerning a memorial to the late Rev. J. Cantrell; and the monthly diocesan business meeting report.

Mrs. J. MacDonald, treasurer, Mrs. J. Miles, Dorcas secretary; Mrs. H. Eaton Sunshine secretary, and Mrs. J. Ling sewing convenor reported on their departments.

SLIDES SHOWN

The president, Mrs. L. Mason, reminded all of the bake sale on the market and then introduced Miss D. Lloyd who entertained the group with slides of her tour of London, Paris, cities of Italy and Switzerland, the scenes were in beautiful colors and most interesting.

Members of the Afternoon Branch also enjoyed the pictures and although the Posboro branch had planned on attending the inclement weather prevented them.

Mrs. M. Button was wished a "bon voyage".

Tea and cake were served by the hostesses, Mrs. H. Ingram and Mrs. P. Burton.

Firm Favorite

By ALICE ALDEN

That enduring classic the shirtwaist is the success of the season, mostly, we think, because it is the one fashion that manages to be casual and easy as it is elegant and distinguished all at the same time. Herbert Sondheim does an attractive afternoon dress in silk surah, which is the fabric favorite of the season. It is a beautiful floral print in desert tan and white warp-print. Unpressed pleats down the easy skirt belted in brown docskin. The three-quarter sleeves are full and cuffed.

Club Activities

UNITED CHURCH W. A.

WELLINGTON — Mrs. Arnold Foster was hostess for the February meeting of the United Church W. A. on Tuesday afternoon. Following quiet music by Mrs. Maybee, the president, Mrs. Pierson, read one of Edgar Guest's poems as an introduction and welcomed the members and guests, also thanking the hostess for her hospitality.

Mrs. Pegg gave the treasurer's report, Mrs. Thompson read the correspondence and Nancy Foster received the offering. It was decided to cater to the mother and daughter banquet in May.

Miss Edie Ward announced the program, Mrs. Alyea read the Scripture, and a meditation "Topic" "Prayer," for the devotional; a reading, "Working Woman Wishes," by Mrs. Thompson; piano solo by Mrs. Maybee; and a reading by Mrs. Elliott.

Following the benediction, a social half hour was enjoyed.

Happy birthday was sung to Mrs. Allan Pettingell.

Leaves Traplines For Bonspiel

PORT FRANCES, Ont. (CP)—So that she could compete in the recent women's bonspiel here, Mrs. W. Wilson of the Rainy River district walked 35 miles on snowshoes to meet a light plane which flew her here.

Mrs. Wilson and her husband operate a trapline near Rainy Lake, and their only means of communication with the outside world is by radio.

Her rink placed second in the main event. She played on a rink with Miss C. Gavin, Miss I. Haines and Miss S. Huatt, all of Port Frances.

BURY MINES

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — A record total of 2,634,000 tons of iron ore was shipped from Bell Island in 1956, since the mines opened in 1895 more than 63,000,000 tons have been shipped, about half of it going to steel plants in Nova Scotia and the rest abroad.

Bringing Up Baby

MINTS COLLECTED BY Mrs. Jean Parker, Belleville (3 years or so)

One thing you can count on: when baby gets to the grabbing and holding stage almost everything will end up in that sweet rosebud mouth. A few safety measures:

• Toys should be small enough to hold; too large to swallow.

• They should be washable and cheap enough to discard when soiled.

• Hard surfaces should be free of sharp edges. Be sure small parts, like button eyes cannot be detached.

Bib babble. Usable squares of old, soft, absorbent terry cloth towels can be easily formed into gay bibs for baby. Bind with tape or ribbon, attach ties or elastic and you've an absorbent drip catcher.

Mainstay for baby's diet. Specially prepared baby cereals play an important role in baby's daily diet because they provide many of baby's early nutritional needs. Gerber Baby Cereals are enriched with iron, calcium and B-vitamins . . . and offer an excellent source of energy. Every spoonful counts, they have a delightful, creamy texture when mixed with formula, milk or other liquids. 3 mild, pleasant tasting flavors make it possible to have appetite interest bright. Rotate all five: Rice, Barley, Oatmeal, Wheat and Mixed Cereal.

• • •

Snapshot division. If there's a new baby and a toddler in the house, have dad take several shots of the child's dren together, early and often. A way to let the older child share the spotlight.

• • •

5 delicious, nutritious ways to give your baby the benefit of pleasant meal treats of the eight Gerber varieties of Strained Vegetables. All Gerber Strained Vegetables are remarkable for their high iron and Vitamin A content. Careful pressure-cooking preserves true-to-nature flavors, appetizing colors of precious food values. Modern Churches Corrected Early Missionaries' Mistakes in Liberia

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

(Editor's Note: Dr. Howard Harper, who writes the weekly "Days and Customs of All Faiths" column for the Ontario Intelligencer, has just returned from a two weeks trip to Liberia, Africa, where he consulted extensively with church laymen. Here is a report of his findings.)

LIBERIA — Christian churches in this 110-year-old African country are paying for the mistakes of their missionaries who came here more than a century ago.

Liberia as a nation was established by freed slaves from the United States, who from 1820 on were returned to this section of the West African coast regardless of what part of Africa they or their fathers originally came from. The country became independent in 1847. The freed men settled almost entirely along the coast and began to build towns there, developing a "civilized" strip about 40 miles in depth along the ocean.

Behind this narrow strip lay the interior, filled with savage tribes who had no wish whatever to be organized into a nation and who resisted the plans of the "intruders" until very recent times.

Consequently the country is still divided into coast and interior, and although passage from one section to the other is now entirely safe and relations between the two are quite peaceful, there is nevertheless a vast difference between their ways and standards of living.

Monrovia, the capital, is rapidly developing into a handsome modern city, and other towns, like Harper, Greenville and Buchanan, are coming along, though more slowly. The distinction is still frankly made between "civilized" and "native," and the natives (people from the interior) take no offense at the implication they are not civilized.

It is in the interior that the errors of the first missionaries are now giving the present workers most of their trouble.

In the first place, the pattern set in the early days was a thoroughly paternalistic one, with the natives having no responsibility at all. The missionaries made the mistake of treating them as children, and the result was they relaxed comfortably into a condition of complete dependence.

The mission became the place where all their wants were looked after. American money maintained the missions and paid the natives for whatever work they did on building or maintenance. Christianity was to the native a protection from accustomed hardships and a source of income. The Church was a white man's church, set in the black man's community, taking care of him and asking nothing in return.

As a result, the native never developed any maturity or responsibility.

NEW IDEA

One vivid example presented itself to me in my first encounter with the Liberian native layman. I told how American laymen nowadays take an interest in their church property, how they form work-teams to make improvements and repairs which the church could not afford to pay for.

This met with utter incomprehension, because the native has for a century thought in terms of being paid for the slightest of such activities.

The problem shows up most strongly in the church's efforts to lead the native to take some responsibility for the financial support of his parish or mission. This is a new and irrelevant idea to him, and it will take many years to put it over. Because of the long history of paternalism the native is almost unable to see why the support of his church should be up to him.

Another mistake the church is now paying for is the old - fashioned presentation of Christianity itself.

The early missionaries failed to consider that the Africans did have some sort of religion. Crude and primitive as their insights were, the natives nevertheless did have some concept of God. God had not failed to reveal Himself to them at least to the degree they were able to understand. Their religion should not have been abruptly rejected; rather it should have been lifted and expanded.

For uncounted ages the religion of the native had been a deep part of his life. It was unrealistic to ask him to turn his back upon it, while at the same time continuing to live the primitive type of life to which his religion was related: Christianity, ingrained in the American and European idiom, was a plant sowed on Ching. The African accepted it in a speculative sort of way, but at the same time did not give up the old religion so deeply associated with the kind of life he lived.

So he came to have two religions: one, the faith of the white man who was so kind to him; and the other, the half-magic faith that in his mind still touched his health, crops, family, economics and general way of living.

The conflict in most parts of Liberia has not yet been resolved.

MORE REALISTIC

The churches are now being much more realistic, in their belated but increasingly successful effort to correct the mistakes. They are realizing finally that man cannot be taught Christianity apart from the situation in which he lives.

Christianity is not an intellectual exercise in theological propositions, nor is it an account of certain events which happened to people of another time and culture long ago. Such matters are included, of course, in the lore of Christianity, but primarily our faith has to do with relationships — the relationship between God and man and between man and man, at the present moment and, by extension, through all eternity. It must be shown to be related to life today.

The modern church, therefore, comes to the African in a very different mood from that of former missionaries. It does not thunder at him that his crude insights as he has, and such expressions as he has traditionally given them, are wrong and must be instantly abandoned. It tries rather to show him that his religion is too small, that God has revealed more of Himself than the African has had an opportunity to know.

In support of this approach the church is doing what needs to be done to expand the African's total view of life. Much of his religion, for example, has been connected with his agriculture. With the meager and unscientific knowledge on which his farming was based it is not surprising he should get results that make him think of the Great Spirit as capricious or even downright unfriendly.

So now the church tries to enlarge his relationship with God by showing him the divinely - revealed laws by which God provides the fruits of the earth, plenteously and not grudgingly.

The same principle is applied in the area of health, which is another of the African's most difficult problems. Here again are dependable laws to replace the whimsy of the gods, and definite health practices to supersede the old charms and superstitions.

EXPANSION

And the principle of expansion rather than rejection is applicable here, too — the witch - doctors were not without wisdom and experience. Their knowledge of herbal medicines, for example, has been of value to the research of white doctors.

This fusing of practical facts is providing solid ground for the church to stand on, and progress is being made more rapidly than ever before. As a result of the church's school programs and its health and agricultural programs, a large part of them carried on in association with government agencies, the Christian religion is beginning to be seen as touching all of man's life.

The most important single development is the training of native clergymen and workers. Men and women of leadership quality are emerging and taking over positions of responsibility. In all of Liberia I saw only two white protestant clergymen and perhaps half a dozen white teachers, and they may normally expect to be replaced over the next few years by Africans who are even now being prepared in local seminaries.

The Episcopal Church in Liberia, which naturally is the one I know most about, is already talking about independence. To reach that condition it would still have a long way to go financially, but it has already come a long way from the time when Christianity was a white man's innovation, presented in a foreign orientation, and totally unrelated to life as the African lived it.

BURMA ELECTS PRESIDENT

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — A joint session of Burma's parliament Monday elected U Win Maung, a wartime paratrooper, as president of the republic. He will be sworn in March 31.

DIES FROM PILLS

GLOVERSVILLE, N.Y. (AP)—Chairmaine Jordan, 4, died in hospital Monday after swallowing blood - pressure tablets she had found in her home. Her sister, Darlene, 5, was reported in fair condition after she also swallowed some of the pills, prescribed for the girls' grandmother.

New Way Relieves Arthritic, Rheumatic Pain Without Pills

Greaseless, odorless cream penetrates deep; speeds flow of fresh, rich blood into sore areas; helps drive away pain-causing pressure.

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—Science has now developed an odorless, greaseless cream that acts in a new way to bring hours and hours of relief from pains of arthritis and rheumatism—without the need of taking pills and other medicines that may upset the system.

Rubbed gently into painful areas, this cream penetrates so deep it actually vanishes into the skin. It speeds the flow of fresh, rich blood into sore muscles, joints. Actually helps drive away pain-causing pressure and congestion.

Used by doctors in England, France and the U.S.A., this remarkable cream is now available without prescription at drug stores everywhere. Ask for InfraRUB. Only $1.25 a large tube. InfraRUB is guaranteed to give comforting relief from arthritis-rheumatism pains or your money back. *Reg. T.M.

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop and ma played bridge with Mr. and Mrs. Hewes last night, and this morning ma said, William, it was perfectly silly of you not to be pleased when Maud Hewes told you that you remind her of Hemstead Hemming. He's terribly handsome. In fact he has just been voted the handsomest acter in Hollywood, she said.

That's not all he's just been voted, pop said. I've just voted him the goofiest asp that ever set foot in a moving picture, and the most conceited nobody that ever had nothing to be conceited about. He struts and puffs and talks with a mouthful of mush without ever changing his expression for the simple reason that he has none to change, he said, and ma said, But William, people have nothing to do with their faces.

Heh? pop said, and ma said, I mean faces have nothing to do with people. I just read an article by a famous criminologist who says that there is no sutch thing as a criminal type. In other words it's impossible to tell a criminal by his face, she said.

If I was able to follow you I'm sure I'd know what you were talking about, pop said, and ma said, Why, dont you see, if anybody can be a criminal with any kind of a face, then anybody with any kind of a face could be just as vain and puffed up as Hemstead Hemming. And the other way around, the most brilliantly modest man could have a face that reminds Mrs. Hews of Hemstead Hemming, she said.

My dear, you make me feel quite puffed up and conceited, and it's a very pleasant change, pop said.

And he folded his paper and kissed her goodbye.

HITCHCOCK RECOVERING

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Alfred Hitchcock, 57, director of movie and television thrillers, was resting comfortably and in satisfactory condition today after surgery Monday. The operation at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital was for removal of gallstones. His doctor said he will be in hospital at least a week.

HITS PILLS

GENEVA (Reuters)—The World Health Organization said Monday the use of "tranquillizers" is a source of drug addiction. The organization added that tranquillizers should be subject to national control.

8 Men Wreck Montreal Home Despite Guard

MONTREAL (CP) — Eight toughs systematically demolished a restaurant worker's household goods early Tues. and forced the man, his wife and their three-year-old son into hiding.

Police reported the men pitched furniture out a second - storey window into an alley while a police guard around the east - end apartment was being changed.

The tenant and his wife were at work at the time and the son was with neighbors. Police Lieut. Girard Tardif said the man asked that his name and present location be withheld.

He had asked 24 hours earlier for protection, asserting he had been threatened. Police said patrolmen kept an intermittent watch over the house during the day. The hoodlums, they said, timed their attack to occur just after one patrolman had gone off duty and before another had come on.

Neighbors told police they knew nothing about the attack except that there were eight men involved.

WORK ON AERIAL TRAMWAY

These construction men have been struggling through winter weather 4,900 feet up Dog Mountain, near Hope, B.C., building an aerial tramway for the British Columbia Telephone Company. The 11,700-foot long tramway is one of the longest in North America. It will give access to the telephone company's micro-wave relay station which will serve as a link in the trans-Canada micro-wave relay chain to go into service next year. In this photo the men take a coffee break at the sumit of the mountain. (CP Photo).

Aerial Tramway, 11,700 Feet Long With Six Towers, Being Built

VANCOUVER (CP)—One of the longest aerial tramways in North America is being built up mountain 90 miles east of Vancouver to serve the trans - Canada microwave relay station.

A small construction crew has been working through the winter 4,900 feet up Dog Mountain, near Hope, building the tramway for the British Columbia Telephone Company.

It will be 11,700 feet long, with six towers spaced between two terminals. Longest span from tower to tower will be 3,700 feet.

All towers and lower terminals are completed and only the upper terminal remains to be finished. Here the men have faced bitter cold, wind and snow and can work only for short periods at times.

A helicopter which supplies the camp is occasionally grounded in the valley below.

The main support cable, specially made and more than two miles long, has been laid along the tramway route. The "track" cable is to be placed on the towers and anchored at the two terminals, but the job will be complicated by heavy ice coating which now pins the cable to the rocks.

The tramway and relay station will be powered by electricity brought to the site on a new pole line built from the river up to the summit.

The relay station will serve as a link in the trans-Canada microwave relay chain which is to go into service next year, and also a relay point in a high-frequency chain between Vancouver, Prince George and Dawson Creek.

This latter chain already exists but is to be re-routed to eliminate Fraser Valley relay stations.

The chain is to go from Dog Mountain to Promontory Mountain, near Merritt, B.C., and to Greenstone Mountain near Kamloops. There it will join the existing stations that extend up to Prince George and Dawson Creek.

WELLINGTON

Port Hope Skating Club Shows Technique

WELLINGTON — The Wellington arena was the scene on Saturday evening of some fine skating when the Port Hope Skating Club, under the supervision of Miss Barbara Ann Burgoyne, put on an excellent show of skating.

Around 200 were there, and those who missed it missed a fine exhibition of ice technique. Miss Joan Wakely was excellent in her rendition of "The Wishing Star". Susan, Reisler and Rick Melvanie entertained as Mickey and Minnie Mouse, followed by a talented group of children as the "Musketeers." Anita Watts, who was "Peter Pan," gave some fine figure skating which everyone enjoyed. Bonnie Saddler, as "Dorothy of Oz," also exhibited some fine skating.

Four couples of the senior group gave an exhibition of waltzing to music. A grand display of fancy skating was given by the junior skaters representing "Story Book Time."

An outstanding performance of skating was displayed by Miss BarbaraMartin and Noryl Pragnell, also a formation step by the intermediates, followed by "Elvis" with his guitar and hound dog, which received a great ovation from the crowd, especially the teen-agers.

An intermission of 10 minutes took place previous to the second half of the show, which began with "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." Slyvia Coppler was Snow White, seven intermediate skaters were the dwarfs. Noryl Pragnell, as Prince Charming; Barbara Martin, the huntsman; Andrea Jacob, the queen, and Jacqueline Kelly, the witch. The dwarfs were: Bashful, Marilyn Rice; Grumpy, Anrea Sheppard; Sleepy, Les Allchin; Happy, Donna Coppler; Sneezy, Joan Foster; Doc, Endora Highfield and Dopey, Elizabeth Brown.

Other characters in this event were, six ladies as trees; four as birds; three as rabbits; one lonely little skunk; one fox, and one wolf. This part of the show was real good each doing his part to a lovely musical background.

The senior skaters again skated to a Swiss waltz, followed by clever little girl skaters, Misses Merideth and Cecile Turpin.

Miss Andrea Sheppard put on an exhibition of fancy skating, after which four men of the club, dressed as ballet dancers, put on a comedy act which brought the house down. Miss Barbara Burgoyne put on a fine show of skating which everyone enjoyed. Miss Burgoyne is the club's professional skater and she did a marvellous exhibition on skates, which brought the show to a close.

Later, the entire cast was entertained in the town hall, to sandwiches, cake and coffee, before leaving for their homes.

PURINA PIG STARTENA

Solves

ONE OF YOUR BIGGEST PROBLEMS in Hog Raising

Getting the little fellows past weaning without a setback is probably one of the biggest problems in Hog Raising! The solution is to get them eating good solid feed Freely before weaning. Put some Purina Pig Startena in a creep, well before weaning time. As the sow's milk falls off they'll eat more Startena, and when the milk is cut off entirely they'll just keep right on coming.

TO FOLLOW IN HELEN KELLER'S FOOTSTEPS

Future workers for the blind from foreign countries fulfill a life-long dream as they meet Helen Keller, blind and deaf humanitarian. The four students are part of a group of scholarship holders who are attending a foreign student seminar sponsored by the American Foundation for Overseas Blind in New York. In addressing the gathering of foreign students, Miss Keller praised them for their decision to become teachers and workers for the blind in their native lands. In the group, left to right, are: Sani Hanna, Egypt; Kak Hee Chon, Korea; Miss Keller; Pho Lang Tai, Vietnam, and Daniel Ademu-John, who came from West Africa.

Loans System For Operators Is Advocated

TORONTO (CP) — Establishment of a government-supported loan system for tourist operators was suggested Thursday by George Wardrope (PC—Port Arthur).

He told the Ontario legislature's standing committee on travel and publicity that 95 per cent of he tourist camps in Northwestern Ontario are controlled by U.S. money.

Tourist camp operators found it harder than anyone else to raise money because of the seasonal nature of the business. Many operators could only raise money by taking heavy mortgages from Americans, often those visiting their resorts.

Col. C. F. Crowe, deputy minister of travel and publicity, said three Maritime provinces have government schemes for lending money to the tourist industry.

Opposition was voiced by Lloyd Letherby (PC—Simcoe East) who feared inefficient operators would take advantage of government-backed loans. Resort ownership had a high standard have no trouble getting loans through normal credit lines, he said.

Alfred H. Cowling (PC—Toronto High Park) suggested that a select committee of the legislature be appointed to study problems of the tourist industry.

WILD WEST DOWN SOUTH

The only blood spilled in this bullfight will be that of the amateur toreador — if he forgets to duck it is a feature of the annual cattle fair and rodeo staged at Villalcencio, Colombia, which looks like a part of Canada's wild and woolly west half a century ago. Colombia's "Llanos" (cattle plains) cover almost 200,000 square miles and the fair and rodeo is the big day of the year.

Endless Fields of Close-Packed Ice off Newfoundland Centre, Time for Annual Seal Hunt

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—This is the time of the annual seal hunt on the endless fields of close-packed ice crusting the seas off Newfoundland.

The sealing fever was rung across the island for generations, bringing men from the outports to sign aboard sealing ships at St. John's March vessels as the stubby Algerine, a 710-ton ice-breaker that last year brought home 23,000 pelts.

Earlier this month five Newfoundland vessels sailed with a total of 176 men, and a sixth was to follow. Another eight vessels sailed from Halifax.

But the quiet departure of the sturdy little ships was a real contrast to the seal hunts of former years. Newfoundlanders first began to kill seals in the 18th century. By the 1840s great fleets were taking nearly 700,000 seals annually.

FULL-MASTED OLDTIMERS

The peak was reached just a century ago, and since then the industry has slowly declined because of shrinking markets. In 1857 a fleet of 400 tall-masted ships with 13,500 men aboard returned from the ice-fields with a catch worth $1,700,000.

Last year the Algerine, her sister ship Terra Nova and the Halifax-based Arctic Prowler sweated out of St. John's. They carried 200 hunters and a crew of 50 seals. Landsmen hunting from icebound outports killed another 5,000, to make the season's total 28,446.

Two years ago 55,561 seals were killed but their larger size brought a $50,000 value.

No sealing ships have been lost since 1953, when three vessels sank within hours of each other. The hunt has produced its tragedies.

When the Southern Cross sank in 1914 there were 173 men lost, and 78 when the Newfoundland went down.

CLUBBED BY HUNTERS

When the ships get into the ice-fields hunters leap from their sides each dawn and make their way across the treacherous footing in small parties. Old seals fleé at their approach but the hunters club the young ones, the "sculp" the silken-haired pelts and cut the pelts.

Charges of brutality have been levied against the seal hunt. In 1955 Capt. Harold Chaulker said "it's no more cruel than domestic slaughtering." A diary kept aboard the whole thing is over." He is the 36-year-old skipper of the Algerine, which is the first ship to carries to the ice.

Seal skins have no value in their first three weeks of life. Large organizations like the Humane Society after three weeks their color darkens and mottles, and value drops sharply. They are then known as "beaters." Three-year-olds are "harps" and they mate at four years.

Capt. Laie says seals "pup on the first of March" and by the 20th killing them around

STRUGGLE THROUGH ICE

The hunt is "a bit hazardous," Capt. Lake admits, "but it's not too bad with good weather. We try to work the ship towards the seals."

Aerial surveys that nowadays lead to seal hunts are vital to the hunt. "We don't have the big powerful ships they had years ago," he said. "Sometimes we go through more ice in a day than we can in a week. It would be useless for us to start searching in heavy ice. We'd likely just get jammed."

It looked like a hard path to the ice this year, said Capt. Laite. The ice was close to shore, hard and thick, and a severe winter had extended the fields.

Most of the ice at the front of the fields comes from west of Greenland and carries mostly harp seals, distinguished by their lyre-like markings. Ice from east of Greenland carries the rarer hood seals, distinguished by the loose folds of skin about their heads.

By agreement between Canada and Norway, whose ships compete with the Canadians in the North Atlantic, killing may begin March 5 on the Gulf of Lawrence Gulf and on March 10 at the leading edge of the more distant ice packs.

The seal hunters receive no wages, but share the catch. Last year top shares were less than $250 for a six-week voyage. This year pelts of young harp seals will fetch $9 per quintal of 112 pounds. Young hoods are worth $11 a quintal. Older seals bring much less.

BIG RECOVERY

Korea's leading industry, cotton textile production, has increased by nearly 50 per cent since the end of the Korean war in 1953.

HTA Amended To Protect Car Buyers

TORONTO (CP)—The methods of used car dealers "would make the old horse traders blush with shame," G. T. Gordon (L—Brantford), told the Ontario legislature's highway safety committee Tuesday. He said no used car should be sold without a document from a certified mechanic stating the car was mechanically fit.

He made his comments as the committee approved an amendment to the Highway Traffic Act which would require a used car dealer to give the purchaser a certificate saying the vehicle is or is not in a safe condition. Anyone failing to give such a certificate or who makes a false statement in it is liable to a minimum fine of $50 and a maximum of $300.

"These Honest Sams can afford a fine, but a mechanic would be very wary if he knew he would lose his licence if he made a false statement," Mr. Gordon said.

Highways Minister Allan said the department had considered a mechanical check but it had decided it would be only a way for the dealer to get out from under his responsibility.

Ross Thompson (PC — York West) suggested the system used in British Columbia where there is a compulsory annual check of motor vehicles every six months.

Would Be Relief To Know U.S. Has Clear Plan

LONDON (Reuters) — British and French newspapers today hammer home the editorial point that it is up to the United States to keep the dispute over the Gaza Strip and restrain Egypt from mounting a new fire in the Middle East.

Most papers take the line that Egypt must not be allowed to move into Gaza without guarantees that Israel will be secure from new border raids. Only the Communist party organ, The Daily Worker and The French L'Humanite—give editorial backing to Egypt.

The Manchester Guardian says it would be a relief if what President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles "are clear in their minds" about Egypt, "is to use diplomatic, economic and military pressure to win a settlement.

"One is a sick man and the other is in Australia," the Liberal daily commented.

The Guardian concedes "they have managed surprisingly well in the last few months—helped notably by Canada's lead within and outside the United Nations.

But it concludes:

"Unless they can show some of their old vigor the explosion will be almost inevitable."

PLANS BIG SYSTEM

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Russia has evolved a plan to create one gigantic power unit for the entire Soviet Union, controlled from one or several centres and embracing one-sixth of the globe, the Soviet news agency Tass said Monday. The system will include hundreds of power stations deriving power from water, coal, peat, shale and nuclear energy.

Think Beat-Inflation Budget Will Include Few Tax Cuts

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Harris likely will present Parliament with a beat-inflation budget Thursday night. It may contain little to console those hungering for major tax cuts.

Biggest eye-catcher and perhaps headcatcher, too, would be the record government decision to boost pensions by more than 10 per cent for the aged, veterans, war widows, disabled and the blind.

The new election budget, on which the government undoubtedly will base some of its political campaigning, may also contain reductions in excise taxes aimed at easing the price load for Canadian consumers.

But on the whole, the 53-year-old minister, who took over the finance portfolio three years ago, likely will retain a strong grip on the "bulk of taxes, aiming at another hefty surplus.

Individual Canadian income taxpayers and corporations got no relief last year and the argument was that tax cuts would feed the threatening inflation.

This year, on the eve of the budget, federal spokesmen have again warned that inflation has not been conquered and that some new federal tools may have to be devised.

Surplus-producing is considered anti-inflationary. Mr. Harris aimed at a surplus of $112,000,000 for the current year ending March 31. But the actual surplus may be double or triple that amount.

Although federal spending for the new fiscal year opening April 1 is estimated to soar to a new peacetime high of some $5,200,000,000, some experts have suggested there may be a variety of room for income tax reductions—if Mr. Harris is decided.

But the inflation warnings appear to have sounded the death knell for such suggestions. Instead, new hints have been raised that Mr. Harris will seek to tighten his grip on the economy; perhaps to postpone credit controls which he used to institute consumer spending in 1950-52 during the Korean war.

The 1950-52 curbs imposed minimum down payments and maximum repayment periods on consumer purchases. Whether any new curbs would be of the same character is still a question.

Aside from tax and credit decisions, Mr. Harris may also announce some major new tariff proposals, including a decision to boost tariffs on American potatoes. He is also likely to make public the tariff board's recommendations in connection with a major overhaul of Canada's tariffs on steel and pipe.

Open Three Colleges

TORONTO (CP) — Three new technological institutes will be opened in Ontario next year, Education Minister Dunlop announced today in the legislature.

They are already under construction in Hamilton and two others will be opened in Ottawa and Windsor by next September. They are to be developed to the level of the Ryerson Institute of Technology in Toronto, which offers courses in a range of technical subjects.

Dr. Dunlop made the announcement after CCF Leader MacDonald had attacked the government for its failure to provide adequate facilities for trade and technical training.

Bankers Must Exercise Care In Using Money

TORONTO (CP) — A. C. Ashforth, president of the Toronto-Dominion Bank, says Canadian chartered banks must exercise great care in using depositors' money.

He told members of the Toronto Builders Exchange Tuesday the chartered banks must at all times defend the principles of sound banking practice and maintain the confidence of all customers.

Mr. Ashforth made a brief reference during his talk to Bank of Canada proposals that savings deposits held in chartered banks be segregated and invested in mortgages.

He said Toronto - Dominion Bank's official position will be established by its board of directors after careful study of the Bank of Canada proposals. He said:

"I do not think anyone can persuade them to do other than safeguard the funds of the depositors and to administer the affairs of the bank in the best interest of its depositors and shareholders.

NEVER FORGET

"We in the chartered banks will never forget the position in which half the banks of the United States found themselves during the 1930s when closed or suspended as a result of lending too large a share of their depositors' money against mortgages and real estate, as well as long-term financing. May we be spared a similar situation."

Mr. Ashforth said Canada's chartered banks have made a substantial contribution to mortgage financing in the housing field. At the end of 1956, they had $483,000,000 in mortgage loans on their books, an increase of $200,000,000 over the year. This compared with an increase of $219,000,000 during 1955.

Jos. L. Rutledge, Author, Dies

TORONTO (CP)—Joseph Lister Rutledge, 72, author, and formerly one of the best-known editors of national Canadian magazines, died Thursday after a brief illness.

He had been editor of Maclean's, the Canadian, and Liberty magazines and was one of the first Canadian writers to have short stories published in the Saturday Evening Post. He was a great student of history.

He wrote the book, Century of Conflict, a story of the struggle between the French and British in colonial America, which was published last September.

800 Miles Montreal Streets To Have Fluorescent Lights

MONTREAL (CP)—The bright lights of Montreal seem destined to become even brighter.

J. Melville Rousseau, Montreal works engineering superintendent, says fluorescent lighting provides three times as much light for the same cost as incandescent and mercury vapor bulbs. As a result fluorescent lights will probably be installed on Montreal's 800 miles of streets within a few years.

Present fluorescent lighting tests in one section of the city look promising, he said, and this type has been ordered for two main throughfares—Pie IX Boulevard and Cote des Neiges Road.

The city's street-lighting bill comes to about $1,000,000 yearly at present. The main part, $200,000, buys power for about 25,000 lamp standards. Another $220,000 rents power ducts, and $120,000 goes for engineers' wages, not counting other costs.

The life of a street light is short and hazardous. Six months is an average span, said Mr. Rousseau. Winter's slush blackens globes within a few weeks, and washing them is difficult since cold water cracks the glass.

Adding to the mortality is the number of slingshot pellets which find their mark. Replacing broken and worn-out bulbs and replacing poles knocked askew in traffic tangles keeps five city service trucks constantly on the move.

"Nevertheless," said Mr. Rousseau, "the city's street-lighting and road streets are brightly lighted. We believe a well-lit city reduces traffic accidents and discourages crime."

DOG CAN COUNT

Heidi, a 3 1-2-year-old dachshund which is said to be able to answer questions in simple arithmetic by her barks, is the pet of Barbara Phipps, 13, of London, Ont. Heidi has appeared on radio and television shows and is said to average nine correct answers out of 10. Dr. John Paul, psychologist at the University of Western Ontario, after conducting a test with the dog, said " . . . it is very surprising." (CP Photo).

Opposition Hits Government Policies in Education

TORONTO (CP)—John J. Wintermeyer (L — Waterloo North) says the Ontario government should guard against the encroachment of industry on control of education through its financial contributions to universities.

The Liberal opposition financial critic, noting grants made to universities in the estimates, said Tuesday in the legislature it would be "a fatal mistake to just accept whatever is given" and the applied sciences and to have such a program exceeded by industry."

Control of education should be kept within government jurisdiction and under the present educational system, he said.

"We must not only be concerned with technicians. We need philosophers, people who think. We don't want concerns like General Motors to take over the courses."

He commended the federal government for $50,000,000 offer to the universities.

He said industry also, however, seeks scholarship money and he suggested Provincial Treasurer Porter would be the right person to persuade industry to provide money for this purpose.

Mr. Porter replied that his position as provincial treasurer would not permit him to approach industry to make voluntary contributions.

He said industry already contributes heavily to universities and that government grants were only a part of the financing program.

Albert Wagner (L—Lake-Kenora) told the legislature separate schools in Ontario are not given an equitable share of provincial grants and as a result Roman Catholic students lack the same educational opportunities as students in public schools.

Mr. Wren, an Anglican, said he knew the issue had been "a touchy one for years in the legislature and elsewhere," but the government system was discriminatory, requiring separate school supporters to raise a substantial amount in addition to what was paid in taxes to support their schools.

He said that the average salary of elementary lay teachers in separate schools was $1,000 less below that of teachers in public schools.

The present grant system made it difficult for separate schools to recruit quality teachers.

Premier Frost said that many lay and religious teachers in separate schools are making great sacrifices and the government is studying ways and means of improving the situation. He said constitutional problems complicated the matter.

The government was accused by Leader MacDonald of Cape Breton of full treatment, of a group of 224 retired teachers who taught in Ontario more than 40 years.

The group, which retired before the present teacher's superannuation policies, has an average pension of $600 a year. They have been petitioning the government for an increase. He said teachers now could qualify for pensions exceeding $5,000 and widows could get $3,000 a year pensions.

Premier Frost said all sorts of cases were suffering under pension plans started years ago.

"Unfortunately, some are teachers who are civil servants."

It was this situation that the provinces and Ottawa were trying to deal with when old age assistance was launched in 1952.

"I admit the situation is not satisfactory but it is better than it was a few years ago," Mr. Frost said.

Opposition members also raised the problems of teacher shortages and lack of facilities for technical training.

Ross Whicher (L—Bruce) said that the government denied there was a shortage of elementary school teachers.

Premier Frost said the Liberal member's "hysterical outbursts" were based on nothing. The province would have 70,000 more pupils in September and facilities and teachers must be found to look after them.

"Of course there is a Liberal member's "hysterical outbursts" were based on nothing. The province would have 70,000 more pupils in September and facilities and teachers must be found to look after them.

Raymond Meters (PC—Waterloo South) said the trade unions could be used to promote technical schools.

Ontario Govt. to Recognize Indian Marriage Ceremonies

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government has agreed to bury the hatchet with Indians on the Six Nations reserve and recognize tribal marriage ceremonies.

Provincial Secretary Dunbar said Tuesday he has written the federal Indian affairs branch that the province will accept as valid licence or register Indian weddings in Ontario and will recognize the validity of any licence the branch issues.

As a result, four young Indian couples married since June 1 are legally married and their children legitimate. All but one of the bride's ditary chiefs on the reserve near Brantford had refused to register under the Ontario Marriage Act on the grounds that the province has no jurisdiction over Indians.

Malcolm Montgomery of Toronto, the Indians' counsel, commented: "Ontario has backed down and conceded our point. But just to make sure Ottawa, not Ontario, controls the Indians, we are pleading a test case before the Ontario Supreme Court."

The announcement in section 87 of the Indian Act allowed provinces to let general provincial laws apply to Indians in matters not covered by the Indian Act.

Mr. Montgomery says this is "unconstitutional" as such powers cannot be "re-delegated," having been delegated to the federal government.

But Indians and Indians are "delighted" at the province's decision.

LIVES AFTER FALL

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A woman fell from a fourth - floor window on an inner court of a YWCA building Monday, crashed through a plastic skylight and into an indoo swimming pool 80 feet below. Miss Lanita Kinzer, 35, suffered a pelvic fracture as she lanced in five feet of water, just missing a tile edge of the pool. An employee found her clinging to the edge of the pool.

5 Fire Brigades Save Seaforth

SEAFORTH (CP) — Five fire brigades joined forces early today to fight a $85,000 fire which for a time threatened to spread through the central part of the town.

The planing mill and lumber yard owned by Ball and MacAulay was destroyed with the loss of building materials, and the fire also destroyed the frame home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ball, next door and joining the yard.

The heat scorched the fronts of five houses on the other side of the street. At the height of the blaze, firemen were visible at the Columbian, five miles east, and at Clinton RCAF station, nine miles west.

At one time the fire burned fiercely over an area 100 by 200 feet. Wind carried sparks and smoke across the north and east section of town, and residents four blocks away were busy putting out sparks which fell on roofs.

In addition to Seaforth and McKillop Township firemen, crews came from Mitchell, Clinton and the RCAF station.

Ike Touched off Mid-East Crisis To Force Showdown With Reds

TORONTO (CP)—C. D. Jackson and editorial vice-president of Time, Inc. and a former special assistant to President Eisenhower, said Tuesday the United States touched off the Middle East crisis to force a showdown with Russia.

Russia's shift in Cold War strategy to an economic offensive was difficult for the West to combat because it set up a climate in which the West could be blackmailed by countries seeking aid, he said.

Therefore, he told the Advertising and Sales Club of Toronto, the U.S. looked for a favorable position for a showdown and found it in the Middle East—an area outside the Communist orbit, where a great deal of money was involved, and an area which could "get mad" at the U.S. and be left to rely on Russian promises.

To precipitate the showdown, said Mr. Jackson, one-time member of the U.S. delegation to the United Nations and special assistant to the president in 1953 and 1954, the United States withdrew its offers of aid to Egypt to build the Aswan Dam, when Egypt's President Nasser was negotiating with Russia for aid.

Mr. Jackson said he had lunch with State Secretary Dulles immediately after he announced the offer of aid was withdrawn and nationalization of the Suez was mentioned as one of the possible ways Nasser might retaliate.

Perhaps, Mr. Jackson said, "we told Nasser a trifle too abruptly," but the move proved the emptiness of Russian promises of aid, including volunteers to help fight in Egypt.

The U.S., he said, can come out of the Middle East situation in "a big way."

Discussing the Hungarian revolt against Russia, he said it brought about a change that "we never hoped to happen in 50 years," and proved Russia can no longer depend on the 1,000,000 satellite troops within the Iron Curtain.

Farewell Lunch Held for Drew

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative Commons members and senators held a surprise farewell luncheon for Hon. George Drew, who is leaving with his wife for Europe and the Middle East Friday.

"You did catch me by surprise today," the 62-year-old former party leader confided in a short speech. He retired last year because of ill health. Tuesday he looked ruddy and fit.

His former colleagues presented him with a silver bowl bearing the signatures of the 54 Conservative Commons members and the five Conservative senators. Made by Kensen, a famous Danish silver designer, the bowl is a replica of one on display in the Louvre at Paris.

WHY SHE COMPLAINED

WINGHAM (CP)—Betty Lockridge, 2, complained of a sore throat every time her m other, Mrs. John Lockridge, washed her face. In hospital here, doctors found the child had swallowed a thumbtack. It was removed from the throat with little trouble.

RETIRES FROM BAR

LONDON (CP) — Sir Hartley Shawcross, attorney-general in the last Labor administration, announced his retirement from the bar to devote more time to public affairs. His decision caused an immediate burst of speculation as to his future role in the Labor party.

FOR PENSION FUND

Another $50,000,000 was lifted from budget revenues to meet a 1955-56 deficit in the pension fund, a regular procedure since the pensions started.

Two other $50,000,000 transfers from budget revenues—and these no' so normal—served to haul down the size of the surplus.

One of these round sums went to jack up the government's fund for the payment of pensions to retiring civil servants, to bring it towards a sounder actuarial basis. This was in addition to a normal contribution of $72,000,000 to the fund.

A further $50,000,000 went into a reserve which the government keeps as an insurance against losses in loans and in on assets.

The remaining surplus after this the white paper said, is being tossed in against the public debt to bring the net debt down to an estimated $19,997,900,000 by the end of the fiscal year.

NOT AT PEAK

While the white paper figures showed broken records here and there, they still did not top the all-time high spending for the treasury. This was $5,322,000,000 in the war year of 1943-44, when there was a deficit of more than $3,000,000,000.

However, the current year's figure was well over the 1955-56 peacetime spending peak of $4,433,100,000. There was a $33,100,000 decline that year.

This year's $5,149,100,000 revenue figure was far ahead of last year's $4,409,000,000 despite little change in the tax setup between the two years. As compared with Mr. Harris' budget forecast of $4,763,000,000 when he predicted a surplus of $113,000,000.

The swelling revenues were a reflection of 1956 growths, as shown in the white paper, in various aspects of the economy including personal and corporation earnings that contribute largely to the federal coffers.

INCOME RISES

Wages and salaries, the review showed, rose by $1,614,000,000 to a high of $14,384,000,000. Farm income went up by $1 per cent to $1,908,000,000. Consumer spending increased. Corporation profits, after taxes, went up by $200,000,000 to $1,850,000,000.

The gross national income was estimated at a record $29,800,000,000, up almost $3,000,000,000.

For the 1956-57 fiscal year, personal income taxes rose $0 $1,413,000,000 from $1,343,000,000, reflecting the biggest single breadwinner for the treasury.

Corporation income tax went to $1,285,000,000 from $1,027,700,000.

Defence spending was the largest spending item during the year, taking up $1,762,100,000. This compares with $1,642,000,000 in the previous year and with $1,722,000,000 which the government has asked Parliament for in the year that starts April 1.

Other major spending accounts for the year included $522,200,000 in interest on the public debt, up by about $30,000,000; $297,000,000 for family allowances, an increase of $13,000,000; $440,000,000 for public works, up from $126,000,000; and $352,100,000 for veterans, an increase of about $4,000,000.

Other government spe a l i n g s showed the white paper included these:

Russia during the year paid off the last $1,800,000 of a post-war loan from Czechoslovakia. Poland paid $4,000,000 on a $16,-700,000 loan and still owes $2,-000,000.

Britain paid $50,000,000 on its wartime interest - free loan of $700,000,000. She now owes $52,-500,000 on that loan and $1,096,-000,000 as the balance of a 1946 loan of $1,185,000,000. She paid $50,000,000 in the current year against the principal.

The white paper also showed that the 1956-57 expenses of the immigration department jumped by 70 per cent from the previous year, mainly because of the cost of bringing Hungarian refugees to Canada.

The expenditure went up by $16,000,000 to $48,000,000, and of this amount $11,000,000 was attributed to the Hungarian movement.

RUNS IN FAMILY

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A couple who "met under the chinaberry tree in the backyard about six months ago," were married Tuesday. The groom, Luther Stephenson, is 74 years old. The bride, Betty Joyce Brewer, is 18. Joyce's mother, Mrs. W. A. Brewer, said "it runs in the family. My husband was 59 when I married him and was 19. We had five children and a wonderful life."

Charge Is Laid After Inquest

PEMBROKE (CP)—Peter Pappin, 69, of nearby Meath, Ont., was taken into custody Tuesday night on a charge of manslaughter after an inquest into the bludgeon death of Willard Francis Darby.

A coroner's jury, after hearing testimony of the dead man's 15-year-old daughter, ruled:

"Death was caused by haemorrhaging over the brain ceused by a fractured skull from a blow on the head by a blunt instrument inflicted by Peter Pappin, who was drunk at the time."

Darby, 40-year-old Great Lakes seaman who worked in Pembroke during the winter, is reported to have died the night of Tuesday, March 5.

SELASSIE

There has been considerable speculation that the U.S. will force a showdown by sending ships through the gulf. The closest other bunkering port open to the U.S. is the British colony of Aden, 300 miles south of Massawa and just outside the Red Sea.

Nixon and Haile Selassi conferred for almost two hours Tuesday, and the vice-president was understood to have gone over the question of American bases.

MEETS FRESS

Haile Selassie received newspaper men for 20 minutes in his throne room. Asked about the possibility of granting base rights, he said:

"Ethiopia desires to collaborate with the United States, but only on an equal footing."

"To have a report without the necessary facilities is not much benefit to a country," he added in an obvious reference to hopes of American aid in developing Massawa.

Haile Selassie said, "Ethiopia needs much greater assistance if she is to develop her natural resources and wake resources to raise the standards of her people."

Eisenhower Improved

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower underwent a new physical checkup at Walter Reed Army Hospital Tuesday and the White House physician later reported his condition "improved."

The president went to the hospital in connection with the cough which has been bothering him for several weeks, a head cold which developed last week and inflammation of the eustachian tube in the left ear.

The ear inflammation, attributed to the head cold, temporarily impaired Eisenhower's hearing.

FREEDOM

"I must add with regret," Ben-Gurion continued, "that Dr. Bunche's superiors is the UN have sometimes been more concerned with the prestige of the Egyptian dictator than with the fulfilment of Egypt's international obligations or the preservation of peace in the Middle East."

Egypt's announcement that it was again taking over civil control came Monday, but spokesmen for Egypt's Palestine department still gave no indication when Egyptian administrators would move in.

(Jack Brayley of The Canadian Press said in a Gaza dispatch that UN officials indicated that fear of internal disputes may be back of Egypt's eagerness to move its own administration into Gaza. They were quoted as saying that fears of internal disputes have been causing trouble among the Arabs themselves, leading to some injuries.)

Diplomats conferred at a furious pace in Cairo, Washington and at UN headquarters.

Tension had eased somewhat by a statement from an Egyptian official that the Cairo government has no plans for the time being to send troops into Gaza to back up a civil administration. This appparently meant the UNEF would serve as a border buffer between Egyptian and Israeli forces for the time being.

UN Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold was reported to be planning to leave Saturday for Cairo to talk with Egyptian and UN officials. Informants said he would remain on the scene "as long as is necessary."

A source close to Hammarskjold said it is not certain whether the secretary-general will go to Gaza and Israel.

The U.S state department issued a statement—which officials said was meant primarily for Egypt—urging co-operation with the UN "to maintain quiet and tranquility" in the Middle East. It said the U. S. government strongly supports the role of the UN and "specifically the functions of the UN Emergency Force."

In Jerusalem, Israeli Foreign Minister Golda Meir called in U.S. Ambassador Edward B. Lawson to express "most serious concern" at the Gaza developments. She also instructed Abba Eban, Israel's ambassador to Washington, to cut short a Florida vacation and return to his post for urgent talks with th eU.S. state department.

MARMORA Midgets Tie Thornhill in Playdown Game

MARMORA (Special) — Marmora outscored the opposition 3-1 in the third period to snatch a 4-4 tie with Thornhill in Woodbridge last night in the first game of their two-game, goals-to-count total playoff. The second game is slated for Marmora on Saturday night at 8.15 p.m.

The contest was cleanly played throughout with the Marmora boys fighting an uphill battle all the way. They trailed 2-0 at the end of the first and 4-2 after the second period. The boys came through in a fine third-period performance with a trio of goals to Thornhill's singleton for the 5-5 tie.

Edwards, top scorer for Thornhill with three goals, fired a pair in the first, while the visiting crew was unable to beat the opposing goalie.

Edwards and Anderson then tallied in the second, but Harold Mackey and J. Anderson came through with Marmora goals for the 4-2 score. Anderson fired his second goal for Thornhill in the third, but the Marmora boys put up a sustained drive for their trio.

R. Olsen netted one, Dean Lavender added agother, and Peewee Holland tallied the fifth. Holland had been robbed in the first period when he fell with just the goalie to beat.

A large crowd is expected for Saturday's game and a win for Marmora will place them in the

GOVT. DECIDES

The Suez exchange started when Howard Green (PC—Vancouver Quadra) asked:

"What stand is the government taking on (Egyptian president) Nasser's further humiliation of Canada in refusing permission for the landing in Egypt of Canadian reinforcements?"

Mr. St. Laurent replied: "There has been no further humiliation of Canada which requires any stand to be taken by the government."

Mr. Diefenbaker then asked whether Egypt is withholding permission for the landing of Canadian reinforcements 'for the hard-pressed UN Emergency Force in Gaza?"

"These questions cannot be answered just by yes or no," said Mr. St. Laurent. "There have been very conflicting reports about this matter."

But instructions to the 56th Reconnaissance Squadron, who s e first unit left Tuesday, had been to stay at Naples until ordered by the UN to proceed to Egypt.

All-Ontario finals against either New Hamburg or Port Elgin. Marmora ousted Bancroft and Campbellford in previous series.

Quebec Premier Against Fund Being Set Up

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Duplessis has disagreed with a suggestion by the Quebec Chamber of Commerce that an unsatisfied judgment fund be set up to pay claims against indigent motorists.

The premier, after hearing the brief presented by the chamber, said the fund is set up in Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, is "based on a bad principle." It required "good drivers to pay for the bad."

The chamber said the fund could be supported by an annual fit contribution by drivers. A motorist who had a claim against him paid from the fund would not be given a permit until he had repaid the total plus four per cent interest from the date of judgment and proved he could pay up to $11,000 damages for a future accident.

The brief noted only 30 per cent of Quebec's 800,000 motorists are insured against damage to others.

Dr. Scott Talks To Fair Board

TWEED — Fifteen officers and directors of Tweed Fair Board were guests at the regular dinner meeting on Thursday evening of Tweed Kiwanis Club at Tweedsmuir Hotel, with Dr. Russel Scott, president of Belleville Fair Board, as guest speaker.

A number of members from Madoc club were present for an inter-club visit.

Also present were, Mr. Ben Bleeker, Halloway, secretary of Belleville Fair Board and John J. Mitchell, Escanaba, Mich., auditor for Sawyer Stoll Lumber Company. Dr. William A. Faul read the names of all the guests present who were welcomed in the usual club manner.

As president Ernest Carter was unable to be present owing to illness, the meeting was under the direction of vice president Wallace Moffat.

After the opening exercises, the gavel was handed over to president Greg. Murray, of Madoc club, who spoke briefly and called on K. Kincaid, a charter member of Madoc club, to introduce the guest speaker, Dr. Scott.

In his opening remarks, Dr. Scott said it was a great pleasure for him to be present to address this meeting, that he was always interested in community affairs, and his main hobby was Fair work. "Fair business is your business, and all should co-operate with local fair organization, and work together to make your Fair a success. Tweed Fair was organized in 1881 and still alive are some of the original directors. There has always been an annual Fair. Great advances were made in agriculture in this community, and the people can thank the old agricultural society for a lot of well bred stock.

PUBLIC MEETINGS

Dr. Scott thought it would be a good thing to hold public meetings to discuss Fair work, also that it was a good idea to encourage reforestation as the first work of this kind was done by agricultural societies. Seed cleaning plants were first owned by agricultural societies. It was also a good idea to encourage young people in agriculture, as Tweed takes no back seat in young people's work; they are doing a wonderful job in that regard. Dr. Scott added that "your fair at Tweed is one of the best in the Province of Ontario. Out of 104 fairs in the province, Tweed Fair ranks as one of the best, and draws a tremendous crowd from all directions, with a large distribution of a fine prize list." The speaker continued it was no trouble to give out money but he hoped that people would get behind the Fair Board, with their contributions. The Fair was like an old home week once a year when you see people from all over the country. What other attraction, have you here that will draw crowds like that! It pays to publicize your community. It takes a tremendous amount of work something that has to be worked at all the year.

"Special constables should be arranged for, and directors act as constables to watch for anything that interferes with the Fair, and act as a service club to help the Fair."

Dr. Scott added that it has been thought that agricultural societies are for farm people but that is not right. Citizens should help to make the fair a success, and everyone should be interested.

Kiwanian Wes Hamilton in moving a vote of thanks to Dr. Scott, said he did greatly enjoy the address and was pleased to see the local members and all the assembled guests.

Bernard J. Hunt, president of Tweed Fair Board, thanked Dr. Scott for the nice remarks and the compliments he paid the Tweed Fair.

Wellington

WELLINGTON — All Cub and Scout Leaders and assistants, group committee men will attend a three night course which started Wednesday March 6th at St. Mary Magdalene, parish hall, Picton.

District training team under the leadership of Field Commissioner Arthur L. Jackson, (of which Wellington has a representative in Mrs. Stonebaugh), are prepared to deal with all phases of Scouting, its history, methods, principles, test work (practical and theory) and Cub and Scout programs.

Since this is the 50th anniversary of scouting and the 100th anniversary of the founder's birthday (Lord Baden-Powell) this is a golden opportunity for learning more about Scouting in general.

Anyone interested in becoming a leader will be welcome.

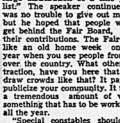
Certificates will be granted to all completing the course.

SCOUT CONFERENCE

Scoutmaster Tom Nash and Cub master Clare Stoneburg, attended the recent annual Scout conference at Trenton Air Station.

During the closing banquet held in the Officer's Mess, under the chairmanship of Air Commodore J. B. Harvey, Mrs. Stoneburg was presented with a long service medal. Although the medal only indicated ten years continual service as leader, the Field Commissioner remarked that he would now apply to the Governor General for the additional bar, indicating 20 years of service which Mrs. Stoneburg is now completing.

The Rev. J. Pollock of Grace United Church, Peterborough, was a most humorous and inspiring speaker at the banquet.



Mr. Pollock took as his topic "The Aims of Scout Leadership," and noted them as: To develop the kind of world in which to live; To develop the kind of work that a boy can live for; To develop the kind of boy that can work with. All these things were ideals which Baden-Powell summed up to the Scouts of the world —" But when he said in his last message the real way to get happiness is by giving out happiness to other people.

RARE VISITOR

SURREY, B.C. (CP)—A short-tailed albatross was found on the beach here, dying shortly of exhaustion. Game warden Jack Taylor said it was the first of its type sighted in British Columbia since 1918. The bird apparently was blown by heavy winds from the Bering Strait area.

Year-Round Navigation From Sea to Montreal Still Long Way off Survey Shows

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP)—Year-round navigation up the St. Lawrence River to Montreal may some day be a reality. But a survey indicates that "some day" may be a long way off.

For years engineers and others have sought a way to keep the channel open between December and March. Many suggestions have been put forward but so far none appears acceptable.

Swedish experts have come up with a process of melting ice with compressed air. Their experiments are proving successful here and in Sweden.

SIZE A PROBLEM

Canada watches all ideas with a hopeful eye, but the great river's size — its length, width and tidal flow—poses a major problem.

Yet the economic benefits may be large.

Port officials at Montreal, Canada's biggest and busiest, by rough estimate say a year-round shipping season would add 25 per cent to the volume of tonnage and revenues.

In the nine-month season now, average annual tonnage handled is 18,000,000 and revenues exceed $100,000,000.

One old idea calls for warm water deep in Lake Ontario, a source of the St. Lawrence, to be funnelled into the cold water of the river to prevent ice from forming—like a man - made Gulf Stream.

Some have suggested more ice-breakers to keep the channel ice-free. This may appear logical and a financially practical solution, but Captain Charles A. Caron, 30-year veteran with the federal transport department, disagrees.

"Winter shipping is feasible with the help of ice - breakers below Quebec City where the river widens into an estuary and then the gulf," said the 53-year-old master of the ice-breaker d'Iberville, flagship of the transport department's ice-breaker fleet.

"But I'm afraid even seven or eight ice-breakers plying between Quebec City and Montreal couldn't keep that part of the channel clear for safe navigation. The three already working the section have their hands more than full."

The hazards are too many, he said in an interview aboard the d'Iberville.

Even if it were possible to keep some sort of channel open with enough "breakers", the scheme would be financially impractical in many ways.

For one thing, most ships calling at Montreal aren't built to withstand a battering from ice floes. Then there is the hazard of ships being trapped within the 31-mile harbor itself where the water is comparatively still and freezes much faster than it does in the current.

The Swedish process seems the most promising and simple, shipping sources said.

It calls for pumping of compressed air through a plastic hose placed on a river bottom 24 to 34 feet below the surface where the water is generally above freezing temperature even through the coldest of winters.

The Swedish Shipping Gazette, which recently published an account of the process, says the trick is to force the warm water in a continuous flow to the surface with air bubbles blown through holes in the hose.

The process is proving successful on Lake Malaren in Sweden, where a 60-mile ferry channel has been kept free of ice all winter, and at Prescott, Ont.

The experiment at Prescott has beaten an annual problem of the Prescott and Ogdensburg Ferry Company, Ltd., for the first time the ferry between Prescott and Ogdensburg, N.Y., has operated all winter.

Atlas Copco Canada, Ltd., Canadian representative of Swedish-based manufacturers of compressed air equipment, applied the air-warm water process to the ferry basin which had frozen over.

The company ran two polythene pipes at the bottom of the frozen slip, both connected to a compressor on the dock. Holes 1-32 of an inch were spaced every six feet along the ¾-inch hose.

Ice, about a foot thick, had formed, but within three days most of the ice in the slip was melted.

Hole-spacing varies according to the depth of the water. It has been found that one bubble stream will keep open a patch of water of a diameter about equal to the depth from which the bubbles rise. The process is not practicable in shallow water of less than eight feet. It becomes more effective in deeper waters.

It works well in calm water, but experts aren't sure it will work in the fast-moving St. Lawrence.

Little Benny's Notebook

Me and Glasses Magee took a Sunday walk yesterday with Flora and Dora the beery looking twins, and all of a sudden Flora said, Oh the poor thing, it's dead.

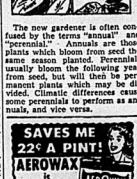
Meaning a round black bug on its back on the sidewalk, and Dora said, Oh dear, the poor little black thing.

Proving how tender hearted they are, and I said, Oh well, maybe it's lucky to be all over its troubles.

Sure, maybe it's better off than when it was alive and unhappy, Glasses said, and Flora said, How do you know it was unhappy.

Yes, how can you tell, Dora said. It might of been the happiest little bug you ever heard of, she said, and I said, Well G, don't think bugs have their worries the same as everybody else? I bet that bug had about 40 little bugs to feed, and I bet he was so tired by the end of the day he hardly knew whether he was on his front or his back anyways, I said.

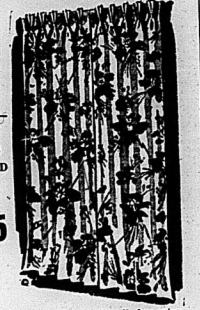
Sure, and I bet his wife was so worn out from washing the 40 children she wouldn't even listen to his troubles on account of being too busy telling her own. Glasses said.



Which just then the bug gave it a little wiggle and terned over on its frunt and walked away, and I said, Heck, we did all that talking for nothing.

No you didn't, either, I think it was very nice of you boys to talk so sweet about a bug you never saw before, Flora said, and Dora said, Yes, I think it was very sweet of you.

Making us feel better instead of worse and proving simpathy is never walsted.



The new gardener is often confused by the terms "annual" and "perennial." Annuals are those plants which bloom from seed the same season planted. Perennials usually bloom the following year from seed, but will then be permanent plants which may be divided. Climatic differences cause some perennials to perform as annuals, and vice versa.

Sarnia Withdraws From ORFU Lack of Fan Support-Reason

SARNIA (CP) — Officials from two of three remaining teams in the senior Ontario Rugby Football Union expressed "shock" and deep regret at the Sarnia Football Club's decision to withdraw Saturday.

Golden Bears from the ORFU. The announcement came after a special meeting Monday night of Sarnia football club directors and the Sarnia Quarterback Club. Lack of fan support was the main reason given for the withdrawal.

M. J. Chilton of Sarnia, first vice-president and acting president of the ORFU said a meeting of senior ORFU teams scheduled here Saturday will take place, even though the Bears have dropped out of the league.

DISCUSS FUTURE

Chilton said the main topic for discussion at the meeting will be the future of the league.

George Schmidt, ORFU secretary, said in Kitchener he "would hardly believe" that Sarnia had withdrawn from the league.

"I was talking to Sarnia only a couple of days ago," he said, "and it seemed to be well."

Keith Butler, president of the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen of the ORFU, said the club executive will hold an emergency meeting to consider the situation.

Kitchener officials said the Sarnia move came at a bad time. A meeting of more than 60 canvassers Monday night began a campaign to sell 5,000 season tickets in a new stadium expected to open in Waterloo in August.

Vice-president Al Abernethy of Toronto Beaches said: "It's too bad Sarnia had to quit." He added that a team executive meeting would be held later this week to decide his club's future.

Sarnia's withdrawal came just 10 days after a Canadian Rugby Union decision that the ORFU's entrance into Grey Cup competition will be subject to annual decision by the CRU executive.

The ORFU has been conducting a vigorous campaign for the right to compete in the Grey Cup.

The two big pro CRU members are the Big Four and the Western provincial Rugby Union—control enough votes to accept or deny an ORFU entry.

BEACHES MAY FOLD

Following the CRU decision, there was speculation that the Toronto team might drop out of the league this year.

Abernethy said Tuesday "it's pretty hard for a team to go against the ruling the ORFU got at the recent Canadian Rugby Union meeting. How can we expect fan support if we simply play out our schedule with nothing else to shoot for?"

Don Downey of Toronto, newly-elected president of the CRU and past president of the ORFU, said it was "a shame" Sarnia had dropped out. He declined any other comment until official word came to him from Sarnia.

The Sarnia resolution to suspend operations was carried by 10 votes to eight. Claude Petrie, president of the club did not vote.

LOOK FOR NEW SPONSORS

The club said that last year it cost $47,809 to operate the Bears. About $24,800 was raised through gate receipts. An additional $3,800 came from a split of gates in games played in other league cities and another $4,000 came from programme and advertising sales, donations from industry and business, a $100-a-plate dinner and the Sarnia Quarterback Club.

If no group takes over the franchise it will be the first year since 1927 a team from Sarnia was not in the senior ORFU.

The Sarnia Football Club took over operation of the team in January, 1936, and changed the name from Imperials to Golden Bears after the Imperial Oil Employees Social and Athletic Association dropped out as sponsor.

Leads Legion Curling Spiel

WINNIPEG (CP) — British Columbia was alone in first place today in the Canadian Legion curling championship with three wins and no losses after three rounds of round-robin competition.

The second place was held by the Manitoba rink with a 2-0 record after getting the bye on the third round in the one-rink competition. The first annual affair of its kind.

Saskatchewan and Ontario were behind; Manitoba with two wins and one loss apiece.

Ontario's Kirkland Lake rink, skipped by Frank McDonald, easily defeated Caly Smith of Ste. Annes de Bellevue, Que., 16-5 in the first round.

In the second round, after a late surge by Ontario, British Columbia won 11-9 as they scored two in the 11th end.

CHESS SERIES TIED

LONDON (AP)—World champion Mikhail Botvinnik defeated challenger Vasily Smyslov in the fourth game of the world chess championships Tuesday, Moscow radio reported. Botvinnik's win tied the series at two games each. The fifth game will be played Thursday.

KING TO FACE "TIGER" IN RING

If Ralph "Tiger" Jones, at left, lives up to his reputation as one of the toughest men in the ring, Arthur King, above, will indeed have a tiger on his hands. Both are scheduled to leg off at one another in a 10-round bout March 25, at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens. For King, the match shapes up as an important one. A win over the third-ranking middleweight — who will have to drop to 156 pounds for the welter-weight fight — will bring about some of the recognition that he enjoyed several years ago as British Empire lightweight champion. The 29-year-old Toronto-born boxer reopened a ring comeback last March, following an 18-month lay-off due to a broken bone in his hand. Because of added weight he moved up into the welter ranks.

Senior A Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gordie Bell of the Belleville McFarlands has two reasons for celebrating today.

First, it's his 32nd birthday and second, he shutout Cornwall Cheverres 5-0 Tuesday night to give McFarlands a generous 3-1 lead in their Ontario Hockey Association senior A eastern division best-of-seven semi-finals.

In a second senior game, Sudbury Wolves edged Sault, Ont. Greyhounds 3-2 before 4,978 Sudbury fans to virtually eliminate the Greyhounds from the Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior A southern group round-robin series.

Bell, a veteran of 12 seasons in five different professional hockey leagues, has been a standout for Belleville all through their semi-final series, allowing only four goals in four games.

Leading the scoring was another 12-season veteran, 31-year-old Bep Guidolin, Belleville playing-coach who collected a pair of goals. Ike Hildebrand, Bobo Bobenic and Minnis Menard, a unanimous choice for the left-wing position on the all-star team, each scored once.

Sudbury's win gave Wolves seven points after seven games in the three-team round-robin, North Bay Trappers have eight points after six games and Greyhounds trail with five points. At the close of the round-robin the top two teams will play for the league championship.

Mike Ratchford, Bill Watson and Jim Logan scored for the winners. Ratchford's goal was scored after seven seconds in the first period, tying an NOHA record. Ron Rubric and Andy Milne scored for the losers.

Officials issued 20 penalties, 14 of them to the Greyhounds, including a major and a team misconduct.

Tonight the OHA western division final opens, with Windsor Bulldogs host to Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen. In the other eastern division semi-final, Whitby Dunlops, who have a 3-1 lead, are host to Kingston CKLCs.

Champion Wins Split Verdict Over Savoie

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Lightweight champion Joe Brown was ready to head home to New Orleans today, victor by a split decision over scrappy scrapper Armand Savoie of Montreal, in an overweight 12-round non-title bout Tuesday night.

Brown finished fast, belting Savoie into the ropes as the bell sounded in the eighth. It was the nearest thing to a knockdown in the bout, although Brown also connected with terrific flurries in the sixth. Both men were bleeding at the finish.

Brown weighed 135½, Savoie 136½.

Nearly 3,000 fans paid an estimated gate of $7,000 to see Brown in his first start since he successfully defended his title against former champion Bud Smith in Miami Beach last month.

Referee Jimmy Webb voted for Brown, 59-58 and Judge Bill Cornelius favored the champion, 100-91. The dissenting ballot was cast by Judge Joe Lott, who favored Savoie, 96-95.

The split came as a surprise since Brown appeared to have the first in control most of the way, although Savoie moved in occasionally to land flicking jabs with his effective left.

Pancho Cooler Whips Rosewall

BOSTON (AP) — Professional tennis king Pancho Gonzales calmed down after a temperamental outburst and outlasted little Ken Rosewall of Australia for a 6-2, 5-7, 36-34 marathon victory before 4,885 fans Tuesday night at the Boston Garden.

Annoyed by a heckler, Gonzales blew his top after losing his service while leading 13-12 in the deciding set. He blasted the ball in the direction of his heckler but the ball was deflected by a press box occupant and grazed a reporter's head.

Gonzales then stomped off the court and started through the centre aisle exit. He stopped suddenly, and grabbed Dr. Edward R. Brown, Boston Garden physician, by the lapels.

Ushers restrained Gonzales while other Garden personnel pervented Dick Hemric, forward for Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association, from going to Dr. Brown's aid. As Garden physician Dr. Brown was Celtics' club doctor.

Gonzales cooled off and returned to the court to resume the match. His heckler left shortly afterward.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

HELP THE CRIPPLED KIDDIES!

If things turn out well in Memorial Arena on the evening of Thursday, March 21, there's a lot of crippled kiddies in this city and district who are going to be mighty happy. And all because healthy, happy guys like you and me and a lot of other folks who can toddle around without benefit of cane, crutch or brace, are going to help make them that way.

The recipe is simple. Take one silver quarter, or better still, a shiny half-dollar or a thin leaf of paper money marked on to whatever you would like to give, and exchange it for one or more tickets to the annual Police-Firemen Hockey Classic being staged in the arena on that night. You can buy them from any policeman, fireman, shriner, or at Bill Cook's, Don Thomas' and a dozen other places.

SYL APPS

And get this—every penny of your money that goes for these tickets will benefit some crippled kiddie. The boys of the police and fire departments, the Shrine Club and others who are behind the move are tossing a mighty efficient outfit, with all in their efforts gratis, with all their own show just to help the good cause.

Orliff (The Ole Boiler) Lloyd and his Shrine Committee, guys like Ken Vivian, Lee Grills, Bey. Quincy and many others whose names escape us, but whose lexzes are familiar, are rounding up a gala entertainment for the evening—and all for a measly two bits. The Camel Herders will be on hand in all their colorful Arab habiliments (all except Gus — and he wants to strip). The Trenton RCAF Band will be there in all its musical glory which will be a treat in itself, besides other forms of entertainment.

Naturally the piece-de-resistance of the show is the ice classic between the puck-chasing buzzsaws of the law and the hose.

The respective coaches, Jack (Fearless Fosdick) Fullerton of the law and order department, and Bob (The World's) Fair of the Smoke-Eating emporium, have lined up as neat a couple of bands of puck-jugglers as ever stood a net. Murray (Einstein) Robertson is the managerial wizard of the summons-toters while the Smokies figure there's enough brains in the rank and file and do not need anyone to count for them. The nominal rolls of the two squads will be released at a later date after mental and physical examinations and check-ups by insurance appraisers and auto-wreckers.

Be that as it may. The forthcoming ice-battle has all the earmarks of a bitter grudge match. The boys, we are informed by the various undergrounds, hate one another on the street, while both sides are employing private eyes to scout secret practices.

Chief Gerald Vance is supremely confident of the outcome figuring his "Smokies" are never better than when the heat is on, while OPP Inspector A. McDougall, OPP, and Police Chief Walter Probert pooh-pooh the idea of defeat. They claim their blue-and-brass can be relied on in a pinch.

And masterminding the extravaganza will be none other than Sylvanus Apps, formerly of the Toronto Maple Leafs and one of the best centres to wear a National Hockey League uniform. Syl, who with Conny Smythe, president of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children, has done yeoman services for these youngsters, has consented to come down thisaway and help out with the Shrine-Police-Firemen effort.

Helping Syl to keep law-and-order and the Smokies from getting overheated will be the popular stars of the Belleville Mc-Farlands, Fauvel Payette and Maurice Benoit. The Mncs will operate as juvymen while Syl will don the judges robes.

And lest we forget, several figure skating stars of the Quinte Skating Club, have graciously consented to give their act to the cause and they will be seen in action between periods. Then, too, there is a host of door prizes to be given away. What more can you expect for two-bits?

So down into the dungarees when you are solicited to buy a ticket, or if it will make you feel better — and it should — go get out, two or a dozen of your own accord. Or if you want a bargain, contact this department. We're giving away a free ticket with every order of two dozen. And only one to a customer. So order early.

Seriously, the crippled kiddies need your help. There are many of them who need hospitalization, medical care and appliances. These can be made easier with your co-operation and financial support.

As Timmy, the boy symbol of Ontario's crippled kiddies told us at the recent Sports Celebrities Dinner in Toronto, "Thanks a million, fellas, I am happy to announce that two of my predecessors are now walking without braces. That's batting a .333 average, not bad in any man's league. God Bless You One and 800 sportsmen stood and cheered.

So how about it? Want a ticket? Only twenty-five cents. Thank you, sir.

Scramble to 4-3 Victory Over Last-Place Black Hawks; Almost Blow Early 3-0 Lead

By KENNEDY WELLS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A sticky 25-year-old center who was looked upon as a lost cause this season is spurring Detroit Red Wings to the National Hockey League championship.

Alex Delvecchio broke his leg at the beginning of the season and thought it wasn't a severe fracture the Red Wing management didn't count on him as a major factor in their playoff plans. But since he returned in January the Fort Williams native has been scoring at better than a point-a-game clip.

Tuesday night he scored his 14th and 15th goals in 43 games and added his 22nd assist of the season as Wings scrambled to a 4-3 victory over last-place Chicago Black Hawks and moved five points ahead of Montreal Canadiens with five games left in the regular schedule.

In spoiling Hawks' last home game before 6,238 fans, Wings played splendid hockey for the first two periods and built up a 3-0 lead, then were forced back on their heels, after scoring a fourth goal at the beginning of the third, as the young Hawks rammed three consecutive goals past Glenn Hall in 10 minutes of his third period duties.

Norm Ullman and Lorne Ferguson scored Detroit's other two goals; Forbes Kennedy, Hec Lalande and Dick Mickoski scored for Chicago.

Delvecchio's first goal came at 17:30 of the first period on a short shot from the left side of the net. Ullman scored at 13:36 of the second, on a pass from Gordie Howe and two minutes later Delvecchio took passes from Ferguson and Marty Pavelich, drew Al Rollins out and slipped the puck behind him.

Ferguson's goal, his 12th this year, was scored at 8:36 of the third, when he took Delvecchio's shovel pass and beat Rollins from close in.

Delvecchio, a 180-pounder with six seasons of NHL service, began his comeback between Howe and Ted Lindsay, after their regular centre, Ullman, was forced out with a charley-horse. He set a sizzling pace between the two and stayed there after Ullman returned as the line averaged two goals in each game.

But that pace was just what caused general manager Jack Adams to move him again, the word was just too good.

"Sooner or later every club in the league will gang up to stop the big line and then what's going to happen?" Adams said.

So he shifted Devecchio onto two lines—between Marty Pavelich and Ferguson and Gerry Ducyk and Bill Dineen. It hasn't had any noticeable effect on Delvecchio.

Tonight New York Rangers Entertain host to Boston Bruins and may have Jerry Toppazzini back in action. The latter's absence without since his face was smashed in a collision with Lindsay several weeks ago.

Gump Worsley Thrives on Watson 'Abuse'

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Abuse apparently does not bother Lorne (Gump) Worsley. It may even help him.

The New York Ranger veteran was the hottest goalkeeper in the National Hockey League last week and had his best showing since early in the season in the efficiency ratings for NHL netminders.

Worsley, who received a blasting from coach Phil Watson two weeks ago, limited the opposition to four goals in three games. He kicked out 83 shots for a .959 average, which boosted his season's rating two points to .910.

Montreal Glen Hall of Detroit Red Wings maintained a comfortable lead at the top of the ratings but his season's average slipped a point to .921. Hall made 90 stops on five shots fired at the Wings' goal for an even .900 mark.

Jacques Plante of Montreal Canadiens, who led the ratings for more than half the schedule, continued to slip lower and his average for the year fell behind that of Terry Sawchuk, the retired Boston Bruin netminder.

Plante gave up 10 goals in 75 shots for a .867 weekly average—his worst of the season—that lowered his season's figure to .919. Sawchuk posted a .911 mark in the 34 games he played before announcing his retirement.

Sawchuk presently awaits eventual replacement with Boston, was beaten nine times out of 80 shots for a .899 total on the week. That left him with a season's average of .911, one point ahead of fifth-place Worsley.

Toronto Maple Leafs' rookie Ed Chadwick kept right behind Worsley and Simmons by recording the second-best average in the three games in which he played. He stopped 63 of 69 shots for a .913 mark, giving him .908 on the season.

Al Rollins of Chicago Black Hawks gained one point on his season's total of .902 by playing steadily in three games. He allowed nine goals for a .898 average.

Gordie Bell Records 2nd Shutout Of Series As Macs Blank Chevies 5-0

Goalie Again Sensational As Mates Sparkle up Front; Another Win Will Turn Trick

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

Sensational defensive play and a driving sustained offensive featured the third straight Eastern Senior "A" semi-finals victory for the Belleville McFarlands last night as they sent the Cornwall Chevies crashing down to a 5-0 defeat, and their second shutout in three games.

For the third night in a row Gordie Bell in the McFarlands nets rose to superb goalkeeping heights as he hurled back the Chevies' desperate bid for victory. Coupled with Bell's fine effort was that of Floyd Crawford whose offensive play was responsible for three of the McFarland goals.

Bell has established something of a playoff record for net guardians, the lank custodian allowing but one goal in 180 minutes of play. He tossed back 32 shots, a lot of them close-in drives, while his up-front mates were firing 29 at Gerry Devaney with five finding the target.

The victory gives the McFarlands a 3-1 stranglehold on the series. They need but one more win to take the best-of-seven affair and the right to meet what now looks like the Whitby Dunlops for the league championship. The teams meet again in Cornwall Thursday night, and the sixth game, if necessary, will be played here on Friday starting at nine o'clock.

One of the happiest men in the arena was His Worship Mayor Harvey J. McFarland of Picton who drew the winning ticket for the new automobile for George Ashley of Greenside Ave. Mayor McFarland got a rousing ovation from the 2440 fans who witnessed the game. He was cheered again as he crossed the ice following the draw and he waved his hat gally in response to the applause.

Minnie Menard was the recipient of a handsome engraved silver tray in honor of his tying the Ontario senior "A" goal scoring record of 101. The tray was the gift of the Ellis Motors of Belleville and presented by Farley Parnell.

Dep Guidolin headed the McFarlands' offensive with two goals, with Ike Hildebrand, Bobo Bobocinic and Minnie Ménard getting the others. Hildebrand also had two assists while Pat Payette and Johnny Muretich had singletons.

Floyd Crawford had three assists directly leading to the scoring of as many goals. He laid down beautifully-timed passes on the sticks of the subsequent scorers, all of them picture plays.

The game was one of the closest checking affairs of the series especially in the first period when both teams battled scorelessly for nearly nineteen minutes. Then the Macs cracked the goal-getting ice to finish the period one goal up. They opened up their offensive play in the second period, firing home two goals and repeated the dual performance in the final chapter.

While the checking was close and the hitting hard at times, Referee Jack Shropshire had no trouble with the clubs, dealing out ten penalties, with the teams dividing the sentences. One was a misconduct to Rene St. Hilaire for you-know-what.

The opening period was probably one of the closest - checking frames thus far in the series. Both defences were almost solid and the front lines were checking fiercely. Both Bell and Devaney came up with some good work when occasional foemen got through or shot from wet lout.

The going was fairly rugged with the McFarlands drawing 4 of the six penalties handed out which included a misconduct to St. Hilaire.

Both defences held with the man-power shortage although several close calls were had by both goalies.

It was not until 18.35 by the clock that Bobo Bobocinic broke the scoring ice collecting Crawford's flat pass across the goalmouth with Hildebrand also getting aff assist.

The Macs opened up their offensive in the second period and had a distinct edge on the play, outshooting the Chevies 10-6.

The play was fast and the checking still close but the Macs made their in-close plays pay off, scoring two goals.

Floyd Crawford, easily one of the two-way standouts of the game, was spearheading play beautifully, both markers coming from perfect passes laid on scorer's sticks.

Muir and MacDonald drew penalties, but when Pete Payetie got the gate giving the Macs the advantage. They surged in and Crawford laid a beauty on Hildebrand's stick and the diminutive winger raced back and the coach intercepted a passout by a Chevie player from behind his net and his high drive found a top corner for his second goal of the night and the McFarlands fifth.

The Chevies attacked desperately and forced Gee - Gee - Ess in the home territory as the clock ticked off the seconds. The defence however held, and the McFarlands cleared the puck down ice as the game ended.

The McFarlands almost mobbed Gordie Bell after the game while the large crowd stood and gave him a fine ovation following his award as player of the night.

HONORED IN ANY CASE

LONDON (AP) — Soccer star Stanley Matthews bowed before Queen Elizabeth Tuesday in Buckingham Palace and received the decoration of a Commander of the British Empire.

"Ah, from the football world," the Queen said as the 42-year-old player bowed. "I am very pleased to give you this."

When Matthews, right winger of Blackpool, was named in the Queen's New Year's honors list there was an outcry in the British press that he had been slighted because he was a professional soccer player. They claimed he should have been knighted the same as jockey Sir Gordon Richards and cricket player Sir Len Hutton.

Training Camp Notes

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Smoothswinging Gail Harris, who persistently tries to win a first base job with New York Giants, again got off to a blazing spring start.

This time, the 35-year-old Harris who has driven across 12 runs in four Giant exhibition games, may be ready.

"I'm more relaxed than I've ever been and I'm not pressing," said Harris Tuesday after his three-run homer in the ninth gave G'ants a 9-8 triumph over Baltimore Orioles. It was his second homer of the game and third of the cactus league campaign.

Harris batted .270 and belted 21 homers for Minneapolis of the American Association last season.

Manager Bill Rigney, whose National League Giants finished sixth last year, has a crying need for a cleanup batter to hit behind brilliant Willie Mays in the No. 3 spot. Rigney has tested big Hank Sauer and Dusty Rhodes in the No. 4 batting position. Now it looks as if Gail could be his man.

MIAMI (AP) — Duke Snider, Dodger star, was hit behind the right knee Tuesday night by Hoot Keegan, White Sox pitcher, and immediately left the exhibition game between the clubs.

Trainer Doc Wendler said he didn't think wrays were necessary but that Snider's leg would probably stiffen up and he would miss a game or two.

Captain Pee Wee Reese was also on the ailing list with a heavy cold and fever.

Phiery Phil Pins Cup Hopes On 'Beer Belly' Gump Worsley

NEW YORK (CP)—Coach Phil Watson has pinned the Stanley Cup hopes of New York Rangers on Lorne (Gump) Worsley, the stubby goaltender he blasted only two weeks ago as a "beer belly" and a "fat boy."

The voluble Watson predicted Tuesday Rangers will win the cup if "Worsley plays like he can and should."

"The way we're going now, we can win the cup. But Gump's our key man. If he isn't hot, we're dead."

Unbeaten in their last seven games, Rangers can clinch the final playoff position with a victory over Boston tonight.

NO INJURIES

Although the Ranger roster is clear of injuries, coach Watson appears to have prescribed some psychological needling to keep his players on their toes.

Two weeks ago he roasted Worsley when the last-place Chicago Black Hawks tied Rangers in Chicago 6-6 Feb. 27.

Muttering "beery belly" and "fat boy," the New York coach charged his goalie was five pounds over his playing weight of 185.

Worsley, who stands five-feet-seven, retorted that Watson was "full of old rope."

Nevertheless, in the five Ranger seven - game Watson's blowoff, Worsley has allowed only seven goals.

Last week Watson gave Rangers a 10-to-1 chance to win the Stanley Cup. He placed part of the blame on the circus, which will evict the team from the Garden April 3 to May 12, forcing Rangers to play on foreign ice if they should reach the cup final.

New York last won the trophy in the 1939-40 season, defeating Toronto four games to two in the best-of-seven series. Watson was a playing member of that team, sparked by the defensive play of goalie Dave Kerr in the nets. Kerr won the Vezina Trophy the same season.

Worsley, a 27-year-old native of Montreal, won the league's rookie-of-the-year award in the 1952-53 season when he broke in with Rangers from the old New York Rovers of the Eastern Hockey League. But he can't come within hailing distance of the Vezina Trophy this year. He has allowed the second most goals in the league.

CANADIANS BEATEN

STOCKHOLM (CP)—Paul Belanger and Jacques Poulin of Canada both suffered first-round defeats Tuesday in opening play for the men's singles world table tennis championship.

The two Montrealers are members of the Canadian table tennis team which earlier competed in the team championships, won Monday by Japan for the fourth year in a row.

Greaves Fights Spider Webb

CHICAGO (AP)—Will Greaves, a young Canadian middleweight with limited experience, has his sights set on Gene Fullmer's title and figures the best way to meet the champion is by beating fourth-ranked Spider Webb in a 10-round bout at Chicago Stadium tonight.

Greaves, now fighting out of Pittsburgh, is subbing for Randy Sandy, who injured his left hand in training and was forced to withdraw. Greaves, an Edmonton product, has had only 14 professional fights.

Webb, one of Chicago's brightest fistic prospects, has come along quickly since he left the army a year ago. A member of the 1952 Olympic team, Spider has lost only once in 21 pro fights and is riding a string of 19 straight victories, including 12 knockouts.

The winner of tonight's nationally televised bout (10 p.m. EST—ABC) may meet Joey Giardello in the stadium next month—at least those are the plans of the International Boxing Club.

Greaves, 21, has an 8-5-1 record but his most impressive outing was in a non-title bout against Fullmer in Salt Lake City a year ago at Salt Lake City where he lost a 10-round split decision.

Greaves' manager, Jake Mintz, says "this is our big break. We were waiting for a shot like this and now we have it. My boy is going to knock Webb right out of the ring."

Webb is a 3-1 favorite to beat Greaves. The fight will be scored on the 10-point system.

Legal Ruling Won't Affect Fight Telecasts

CHICAGO (AP)—The International Boxing Club says a recent anti-trust ruling against the IBC will not affect the regular twice weekly telecasts of non-title bouts for the Fullmer-Robinson middleweight title scrap.

Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan ruled earlier this month in New York that the IBC was guilty of monopolizing professional championship bouts and shut out competitors in an unreasonable restraint of trade.

In a statement released Tuesday through his Chicago office, James D. Norris, IBC president, said IBC counsel had studied and rendered an opinion on the court's ruling. He added:

"The anti-trust suit applies to championship or title bouts only, and therefore will not affect the continuance of the telecasting of our regular Wednesday or Friday night non-title fights.

"The Fullmer-Robinson middleweight title bout, which has been contracted for May 1 at the Chicago Stadium, will be held as scheduled and telecast in accordance with the existing contracts entered into several weeks ago."

Gene Fullmer Quits as Welder

WEST JORDAN, Utah (AP)—Gene Fullmer quit his job as a copper welder Tuesday and turned to the job of defending his world's middleweight boxing championship.

Fullmer, 25, who won the title Jan. 2, will defend it against the man he beat, Sugar Ray Robinson, in a return bout May 1 in Chicago.

Fullmer, given leaves of absence by his employer during the years he has been a pro fighter, will train here until April 4, then will go to Chicago's 7-cm Fridanter Country Club to complete preparations for the bout.

Marv Jenson, Fullmer's manager, said Fullmer's eye, cut in his Feb. 18 non-title fight against Ernie Durando in Denver, has "healed nicely."

Master, master, Court disaster. Where did your long suit go? To ignore it as trump you spanked its rump and let your no-trump show.

Mister, mister, Game resister. Where did you muff a game? With a timorous snort you stopped just short, or I'll be a dirty name.

World championship deal number 58 is shown here:

	NORTH
	♠K 9 2

	♣9 3

In room one the American team got to three no-trump like this:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 H	1 S	Pass
2 C	2 NT	Pass	3 NT

Opening lead from west was a spade. Declarer took two spades, six hearts, and diamond ace. Opponents got the rest. So, the three no-trump was made for a score of 600 vulnerable.

In room two the European team stopped at three hearts like this:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 H	1 S	Pass
2 C	2 S	Pass	3 H
Pass	3 H	All pass

Declarer gave up only two diamonds and the club ace. His ten tricks at three hearts paid his side 270 points. This was for 120 in tricks, 100 for honors, and 50 bonus for making a part score contract.

Too bad he did not know enough to bid game in hearts. As you can see, game in hearts is the best bet in both rooms. It would pay 720 and there is no doubting the quality of hearts as trump.

To stop short or bid no-trump is master tanglefoot. Of course, these masters could claim that their system does not show there is a game in hearts. Any this is conceivable and believable.

From what they did in most of their deals they need an alibi. And I will agree that their system lacks a lot.

Month in and Month Out Jack Benny Wears Well on TV

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Do we sit down to our TV sets with reflexes tuned before we have even seen the station? Certainly there is a tendency to decide whether we'll like a program before we've seen it. But we can often be surprised. For example:

Month in and month out Jack Benny wears well on BCS-TV. Supported with a fiddle, a violin and a bank account, he can stand absolutely still, lift one eyebrow and get tremendous laughs.

With reflexes tuned for laughter, we tuned in Sunday evening—and didn't laugh. Benny was in Venice. Every comedian who has taken his act there has done it, but for some reason we were betting that our man Jack would not. We were disappointed. He fell in to a canal not once, but twice.

This department panned Mr. Adams and Eve (CBS-TV), when the comedy series began. Ida Lupino and Howard Duff are excellent light comedians, was the verdict, but the script went piff.

So reflexes were set before the image of Mr. Adams and Eve was clear on the set. Surprise! It was a hilarious half hour that exposed the phoniness of an experimental theatre group. Reflexes reversed.

Week in and week out we find a lot of satisfaction in Omnibus (ABC-TV). And any time we find pirates fascinating, there was great anticipation in viewing a portrayal of the trial of Captain Kidd on Omnibus Sunday evening.

Here was the authentic story, based on court records, of Kidd the respectable sea captain who turned to piracy in the age of 50. Authentic, yes. Meticulous production, yes. But as a dramatic story of a complex man it failed.

Hogan, Mantle Jap Favorites

NEW YORK (AP)—Ben Hogan ranks alongside Mickey Mantle as the idol of the Japanese sporting public, a returning American golf executive said today. Golf is gradually creeping up on baseball as the rage in the Land of the Rising Sun, he added.

"There are now some half a million golfers in Japan," said Fred Corcoran, tournament manager for the International Golf Association. "and they play the game fanatically—and well. I was greatly impressed by the things I saw in that country."

Corcoran has just returned from Japan where he selected the Kasumigaseki Country Club course 30 miles from Tokyo as site of the fifth annual Canada Cup and international matches, Oct. 21-27.

"This is a beautiful rolling course, much like the famed sacred foot course at Marianeck, N.Y." Corcoran added. "It is 6,893 yards long and has a tough par 71. It'll be a real challenge to the world's best players."

Although golf in Japan is only 54 years old, America could take some tips from the players, Corcoran said.

"The caddies are unique. They are all pig-tailed girls, neatly dressed in blue slacks and jackets with little caps. They carry a little bucket of grass seeds and a small shovel around. When a divot is dug, they do some gardening at the spot before moving on."

Taina Elg, Finnish Beauty Wins First Starring Role

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Taina Elg has finally made it.

Two years ago, I interviewed this delectable Finnish pastry after she had already been in Hollywood a year her career did not regally get off the ground until recently, when she won her first starring role — with Gene Kelly, Mitzy Gaynor and Kay Kendall in "Les Girls."

Her case is unique. She was under contract to MGM three years before proving herself. That was common in the old free-spending days in Hollywood (Ava Gardner was seven years at MGM before winning a lead). Nowadays, a player generally has to produce results or get dropped at the first six-month option.

So you can see that the studio had faith in Taina. And with good reason. She's a statuesque beauty—in with a doll - like beauty and natural grace. I visited her for a progress report as she finished a dance routine with Kelly.

Yes, she's happy to be starring at last. No, she didn't get impatient.

"When I came over here, it was with the expectation that I would have a long wait before I got some action on my career," she said. "I know that was often the case. I don't mean to compare myself to her, but I understand that even Greer Garson was here two years before she made a picture.

"So I waited. I managed to keep busy with dancing lessons and working on my English. And I also took time out to have a baby. I know I would get my break in time. It didn't worry me."

Taina studied ballet with the Finnish Opera. Then she won a scholarship to the famed Sadler's Wells in England.

"I studied for a year," she said. "It is virtually impossible for any outsider to get a work permit in England unless you are a big star."

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Thursday, March 14, 1957 —

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Get busy early on your immediate and urgent tasks and you can accomplish a great deal under day's helpful, stimulating aspects. Fine rays for laborious tasks, mental alertness, many matters.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Generous rays to encourage new business affairs both new and well established, sound financial transactions, matters concerning the home, children's advancement. Seek just favors; make improvements.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Bestir yourself but not with avacus speed. There are many opportunities now for personal and business gains, but forethought and smart planning must aid every operation. Mechanics, mental work favored.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Don't stradle issues. Be factual and determined when you know a cause to be right, just. Governament community interests, international affairs encouraged. Be helpful.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Your mind and other planets' auspicious positions presage a day for gain, action, the intelligent handling of big and small operations. Confer with those who can advise, further your interests.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Necessary changes in business and plans sponsored. Accomplishments indicated in mental work, secretarial, scientific matters, the arts, theatre interests, and daily routine chores.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — You should have no perplexities now, since the day has many offerings and advantages in both personal and occupational affairs. Think before acting, then go ahead with faith, determination.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Aeronautics, all the new and important discoveries and inventions to aid mankind are especially sponsored this stirring helpful day. Use your inventive-ness.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — This should be an auspicious day for technical work; all projects for advancement, progress; enlarging facilities, government matters.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Practical application of high principles should tide you over the rough spots and bring you fine results now. Check facts so as to avoid mistakes.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — This is the sort of day to inspire and strengthen good, progressive ventures, get-ahead projects. Make the best use of your talents and abilities and don't swerve from your objectives.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — The full gamut of good possibilities runs through this day. Be resolute, even daring where you know you are on the right path and can accomplish. Hard tasks, delicate matters and mental work strongly sponsored.

YOU BORN TODAY must first recognize and appreciate your own valuable talents, and know, too, that they must be nourished and developed fully if you are to achieve as you so well can. Pisceans are kind, intelligent, idealistic, innately of a gentle, gracious manner. You may be too reticent to display your gifts and thus at times fail to reach the fine attainment possible. Speak out (you will never be a braggart) and show what you can do. Pray when troubled. Birthdate: Albert Strauss, Austrian composer.

Day Denies Quitting Leafs

TORONTO (CP) — Clarence (Happy) Day, general manager of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, commenting on reports he may be quitting the club, said Tuesday: "I am not considering anything. If I had I would discuss it first with Mr. Smythe."

Reached in Florida, Conn Smythe, owner of the club, said: "Hap's future is in his own hands."

Told that Day was not thinking of resigning, Smythe chuckled and said: "Good for him."

Some reports had it that Day might go to Chicago Black Hawks.

Commenting on this, Smythe said: "I'd say Tommy Ivan has done a pretty good job there. I imagine (owner) Jim Norris thinks so too."

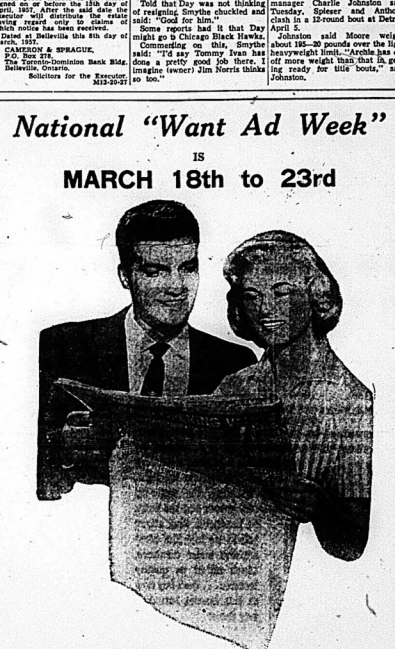
SPORT IN BRIEF

LAKERS STAY HOME

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Sale of the Minneapolis Lakers' National Basketball Association franchise to a Minneapolis business group was assured Tuesday. The local investors announced that their goal of $200,000, or $50,000 more than the sum required to prevent transfer of the Laker franchise to Kansas City, had been oversubscribed.

Tuesday's announcement apparently ended any chance for transfer of the club to Kansas City under the ownership of former baseball star Marty Marion and business partner Milton Fischmann of St. Louis.

APPOINT STEWARDS



TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario racing commission has announced Wilson Dunn of Vancouver and Maj. John Nethersole of New York have been approved as stewards for the 20-day meeting of the Fort Erie Jockey Club which will open the Canadian thoroughbred racing season Friday, April 12.

Dunn is presiding steward at exhibition park in Vancouver and Seadown Park on Vancouver Island. Maj. Nethersole acts as steward at Calgary, Edmonton, Saskatoon and Regina.

STILL OVERWEIGHT

NEW YORK (AP)—Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore will arrive Thursday and sign for a title defence against the Chuck Spieser - Tony Anthony winner manager Charlie Johnston said Tuesday. Spieser and Anthony clash in a 10-round bout at Detroit April 5.

Johnston said Moore weighs about 195—20 pounds over the light heavyweight limit. "Archie has cut off more weight than that in getting ready for title bouts," said Johnston.

'Battle Orders' Given Britain's Shipbuilders

LONDON (Reuters) — Shipyard union leaders today issued detailed "battle orders" for a total shutdown of British shipbuilding and repair.

The leaders mapped a campaign for the walkout of 200,000 workers to back demands for a 10-per-cent wage increase.

Also threatening a strike which could plunge Britain into a great economic crisis were 2,500,000 industrial workers seeking a similar 10-per-cent increase. They earn an average of about £400 a year.

U.S. PLANE MISSING

TOKYO (AP)—A U.S. Air Force tanker plane with 10 crew members aboard is missing on a flight from Japan to Wake Island.

DISCOVER COLD SERUM

LOS ANGELES (AP) — U.S. Army medical teams are working on a vaccine that has so far proved 90 per cent effective against virus-produced colds, Maj. Gen. James P. Cooney, deputy surgeon-general, said Tuesday.

Tuesday the vaccine is being tested on 10,000 troops in an effort to knock out a specific virus Cooney said now affects eight out of 10 recruits each winter.

Science Shrinks Piles
New Way Without Surgery
Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—
Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids
Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain. Thousands have been relieved—without resort to surgery.
In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.
Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.
And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!
In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of rectal conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.
All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.
This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H.®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H. suppositories or new Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H. is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Seek To Restrain Israel and Egypt From Rash Acts

Pin Hopes on Hammarskjold As He Plans to Visit Nasser

WASHINGTON (AP)—The West sought today to restrain Egypt and Israel from any hasty actions which might erupt into new fighting.

Diplomats in Washington, Cairo, Tel Aviv and at the United Nations bent their efforts toward calming both embattled countries.

Much hope was pinned on UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, who leaves Saturday for talks with Egyptian President Nasser.

Christian Herter, U.S. undersecretary of state, met Wednesday night with Israeli Ambassador Abba Ehan and then had an "exchange of views" with French Ambassador Herve Alphand and British Minister John E. Coulson, acting for the absent Sir Harold Caccia.

ISRAELI ARGUMENTS

Authoritative sources said two basic Israeli arguments were in the message:

1. Nasser must be stopped. He is basic Israeli arms will mean defeat into political victory. He was committed to withdraw her troops from the Gaza Strip were based on "reasonable" hopes that the U.S. "will seek that such hopes prove not to be in vain."

Herter's response was understood to have amounted to an appeal that Israel not do anything rash. A rash act, in the U.S. view, would be for Israel to march back into Gaza.

REMINDS EGYPT

The Egyptians are being urged "to co-operate" with the UN Emergency Force. This is the diplomats' way of reminding Egypt that, while there is general recognition the 1949 Palestine truce gives Egypt legal control of Gaza, the world has been led to believe Egypt will not do so in a manner this right until a hot situation has cooled.

Dag-Gurion raised the possibility obliquely Wednesday that Israel might fight again. But Israel's Parliament his country is reserving its freedom of action. This evening he will make a public televised of the Oct. 29 Sinai campaign—and the subsequent prolonged diplomatic efforts to get Israeli forces out of positions they had occupied in Egypt.

In Cairo, the main effort by UN diplomats was directed toward smoothly the Egyptians. UN Undersecretary Ralph Bunche met for two hours with Nasser. He expressed profound regret that a Gaza demonstrator was killed by a ricocheting bullet. The UN commander, Maj.-Gen. E. M. Burns of Canada, abandoned his efforts to set up a five-man Gaza administrative body, accepting instead the 13-member council which had worked with the Egyptians.

20 Persons Die As British Plane Strikes Houses

MANCHESTER, England (CP) At least 20 persons were killed today when a British Viscount airliner crashed near Ringway Airport here.

An official statement said all 15 passengers and five crew members aboard the plane were killed when it crashed into a housing development.

Unconfirmed reports said another four persons were killed when the plane crashed into their homes. Two houses were demolished and a third partially wrecked.

Police said there were people inside the houses, but they did not know how many. A woman and small girl were rescued in the houses at the time of the crash.

OVERSHOT RUNWAY

Police said the plane, the first account to crash on commercial service, apparently overshot the runway while coming in to land on a flight from Amsterdam.

Bruce Martin, a free-lance newspaper who flew over the wreckage soon after the crash, said the plane tore through two houses, leaving a trail of burning wreckage.

"It was impossible to see how there could have been any survivors," he said.

The Viscount — Britain's most successful airliner—is a four-engined turbo-propeller plane.

About 100 Viscounts are now in service in various parts of the world, including Canada and the United States.

Liquor Permit System May Be Changed

TORONTO (CP) — Consideration is being given to changing the liquor permit system next year, Wilfrid Gollings, chief commissioner of the liquor control board of Ontario, said today.

It is believed the present system will be simplified by issuing an identification card instead of the board for $1, the same price now charged for a permit, and in which all liquor purchasers are recorded.

Liquor permit books for the new fiscal year which starts April 1 now are in the mail for clearance from the old permits is the color of the books.

Any change in the present system will have to be authorized by the legislature. No legislation on the matter has been introduced so far in the current session.

Under the new plan being considered, it is believed identification cards could be signed only by holders and must be produced if asked for while making liquor purchases. It would simplify present bookkeeping and clerical work

Approve Lounges

HAVELOCK (CP) — Voters in this village 26 miles east of Peterborough Wednesday approved the establishment of cocktail lounges and men's and women's beverage rooms.

Today's Chuckle

It may be a man's world, but we'll give you odds that it's in his wife's name.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: Fair and extremely mild weather prevails over most of Ontario. Relatively cool air covers Western Canada and nighttime temperatures at some points have dropped below the zero mark. A developing storm centre in Iowa is spreading snow into the area from Lake Superior and westward and over the north-western states. The snow is expected to spread over much of Northern Ontario tonight. Southern Ontario will experience increasing cloud and scattered early winds followed by showers.

HOUSE DEBATES HIKE IN LOANS TO FARMERS

Interest Rate May Also Be Increased

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition parties in the Commons believe the government intends to raise the five-per-cent maximum interest allowed for government-guaranteed bank loans on farm-stored grain.

Spokesmen for the Progressive Conservative and Social Credit parties voiced their predictions Wed. as the Commons debated the government's $25,000,000 addition of a bill, to double the amount of individual loans to $5,000.

The loans plan, due to expire June 1, would be renewed for the period between Sept. 1 and June 1, 1958.

Finance Minister Howe, who as minister responsible for grain marketing introduced the resolution, said the maximum rate of interest — now five per cent— would be fixed later by the cabinet.

It was not the time now, far in advance of Sept. 1, to set the interest rate. But it would be a "favorable" rate once it is fixed.

ASKS REDUCTION

Douglas Harkness (PC—Calgary South) asked for a reduction in the present rate. He said it is apparent that the rate should be restriction that a boost is in the offing.

This move is going to be very badly received by the farmers of Western Canada," Harkness said.

Mr. Howe said that during the 1955-56 crop year, grain producers borrowed slightly less than $8,000,000. But on Jan. 31, 1957, the volume of outstanding loans was less than $4,000,000.

CCF and other speakers reviewed past demands that the government scrap the legislation and meet the demands of western farmers by establishing a "system of cash advances on farm-stored grain.

Such proposals have been opposed in the past by the government on the theory that they would wreck the Canadian wheat board, the sole marketing agency for prairie wheat, oats and barley.

Two Men Killed In Head-On Crash Near Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP) — Two men were killed and two seriously injured in a head-on crash on Highway 2 west of Hamilton early today.

Dennis Urquhart, 25, a Hamilton lad he driver, and William J. Skene, 29, of Hamilton were the victims. Urquhart has been married only nine months.

Ross Holmes, 30, of Greensville was admitted to General Hospital with a fractured skull and broken leg. Police said he was the driver of a passenger in the taxi.

Another passenger, 23-year-old Raymond Smith of Guelph Line was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital. Officials said he was in fair condition.

Strange Boxing Contract Unfolded As PC Member Tells of Fighter's Life

TORONTO (CP)—The story of a Spanish professional boxer who came to Canada seeking a career with his fists but who found only poverty and mental illness was told Wednesday in the Ontario legislature.

The tale came to light during a discussion of boxing in Ontario. It was related by Harold Fishleigh (PC—Bracondale) member for Woodbine and Spanish consul in Toronto.

The pathetic fate of Pedro Jiminez who was matched with the veteran Vince Martinez earlier this year at Maple Leaf Gardens, Martinez beat the Spaniard who was then found to be suffering from a form of mental illness.

Jiminez went to see him, Mr. Fishleigh said, complaining about the terms of the contract under which he was fighting. Mr. Fishleigh said he sent Jiminez and a friend, interpreter to see Mervyn McKenzie, Ontario athletic commissioner.

"It was found that under the contract if Jiminez won he got $1,000 for a purse but if he didn't win, he got nothing," Mr. Fishleigh said. "Now, he can't box any more.

"He was told all about the money but he didn't remember. He took his wife and three children with him. But he only had three rounds and his hopes were dashed."

He said Jiminez subsequently was taken to a provincial mental hospital at the direction of Health Minister Phillips and the latter hoped he could eventually be cured.

"But in the meantime," Mr. Fishleigh said, "his wife and children have no means of support."

RETURNS FROM "MYSTERY" MISSION

Lt.-Col. Charles Screws is welcomed by his wife and son David, 11, at Travis Air Force base, California, as he brings in the first of 25 giant B-36 nuclear bombers at the end of a week-long training mission. Security measures were clamped down on the purpose of the flight, which covered thousands of miles to and from the Far East and South Pacific. Col. Screws was permitted to say only that his craft had been in the air 21 hours qn its last leg.

Bill Regulating Store Hours By Municipalities Sent Back

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost has sent back to committee proposed legislation that would have given municipalities complete control over hours that stores can operate.

He made this move following CCF and Liberal opposition members attacks on the legislation as the death knell of the small shop owner who was already being driven to the wall by big chain stores.

The legislation would have left it up to municipalities to pass early-closing by-laws after application for regulation had been received from at least "75 per cent of merchants in the same category.

At present a municipal council must pass a by-law within a month after receiving an applica-

The proposed legislation would also have allowed a council to repeal an early-closing by-law without the consent of at least one-third of shop owners in the same class as is now needed.

Premier Frost said the government proposal would break down the early closing hours by laws which had been built up during the last 25 years. The government proposal was not the answer, he said.

Mr. Frost said present law passed almost 60 years ago has created a "schmozzle." He pointed out that stores in unregulated areas could stay open.

"If there is a better solution, let's hear about it," he said.

It is expected that the legislation will be dealt with Monday by the labor committee which previously approved it.

Premier Frost said he would advise shortly whether a select committee will be appointed to study provincial labor laws.

He made this statement during the discussion of the Labor department's budget estimates.

Mr. Oliver said the government is not doing an adequate job by having casual amendments to the Labor Act. He said a general overhaul was needed.

Labor Minister Daly said the amendments were made to cope with new situations brought about by new industries. He said he was not averse to a select committee but "I would not be stampeded into changing what has stood the test of time."

Indonesian Premier Resigns, Sukarno Talks With Rebels

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Leftist Premier Ali Sastroamidjojo resigned today. President Sukarno proclaimed a "state of war and siege." in effect recognizing rebel military leaders, and summoned them to Jakarta for talks.

The rebels have staged four bloodless coups in less than three months, taking over control of virtually all of Indo. 3,000-island republic except Java. They defied the central government and demanded Sastroamidjojo's resignation, while generally pledging loyalty to Sukarno.

The outgoing government had lasted less than a year, although Sastroamidjojo served a previous term as premier in 1953-55.

Both North Sumatra and Celebes revolted in December. They were followed last week by East Indonesia—the Celebes, Timor, the Lesser Sundas, Flores and Bali. South Sumatra joined the movement last Saturday. On Tuesday the local army commander in Jakarta-appointed governor rejected the national government's authority on Borneo, Indonesia's largest island, and set up a revolutionary council.

Sukarno must try to satisfy the rebellious islands' demands for autonomy—possibly even a loose federation—and at the same time prevent the far-flung republic from disintegrating into a loose federation of autonomous states.

The outer islands complain that the Javanese who dominated the central government were diverting the bulk of the proceeds from Indonesia's exports—much of it from the other islands—to Java's benefit and were discriminating in developing the other areas.

The rebels and other critics of the central administration have tried to distinguish between Sastroamidjojo and Sukarno, generally reversed as the leader of the successful fight to throw off Dutch rule. However, the president's own policies of late have come under fire.

Sukarno recently proposed a plan to replace the country's Western-style parliamentary democracy with what he called "guided democracy." He proposed bringing all parties including the Communists into a new government and setting up a national council headed by himself which would hold veto power over both the cabinet and parliament.

Both the rebels and communists in Java have strongholds in Sumatra protested strongly against bringing the Communists into the government. Their protests were said finally to have induced Sukarno to give up the idea.

Arrest Two Men For Armed Theft

TORONTO (CP) — Police have arrested Ronald Yee, 28, and James Woodliffe, 24, and charged them with armed robbery and attempted murder.

Woodliffe was arrested at gunpoint in his rooming house a few hours after Yee, 28, was taken into custody. He had a bullet wound in his right leg. Police said they believe it was suffered during the attempted robbery when a gun accidentally went off in the victim's body into his attacker's leg.

The victim was Frank Simmons, 53, shot in the shoulder when a man entered his store March 8. He told police he knelt on the floor and began to pistol-whip him. The gun however fled when it went off.

James Walsh, 53, was robbed of $1,100 by two men who entered his house Feb. 12 on the pretext of using his phone to call a towtruck.

BUDGET MAY BE GEARED TO RESTRAIN CREDIT

Not Expected to Provide Tax Cuts

OTTAWA (CP)—An anti-inflationary budget, geared to restrain credit and produce a surplus for the federal government, likely will be presented to Canadians tonight.

Finance Minister Harris' budget virtually certain to be a pre-election one, is not expected to provide major tax cuts.

But it could well contain an announcement of a higher federal government decision to boost pensions by about 15 per cent for the aged, blind and disabled, if the distabled and the blind.

CITE INFLATION

Any immediate easing of the tax load is regarded as by no means mainly to cuts in some commodity taxes. This would be in line with views of federal spokesmen that inflation has not yet been licked and that Mr. Harris's surplus helps to keep the lid on spiralling prices.

The 53-year-old finance minister will start to read the budget speech—the first in the Commons shortly after 8 p.m. EST. It will cover the 1957-58 fiscal year starting April 1. About 30 minutes later he will let the country know what he has in store.

Barring big increases in government spending, he has enough strong enough to produce a hefty surplus, even with present tax rates, in the coming year.

REPORTED SURPLUS

Mr. Harris reported, in a white paper, a $282,500,000 surplus for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1956, and $2,000,000,000 in revenue for the year. A national production of $29,700,000,000 in 1956 outstripped his estimate of $28,000,000,000 made a year ago and added millions to his forecast in the last budget of $113,000,000 budget surplus for 1956-57.

This year, economists have predicted, national production may top $30,000,000,000 and $31,000,000,000, providing even richer tax revenues.

But inflation warnings appear to have put a damper on any big tax cutting in tonight's budget — a document on which the government's economic policy has been one of its campaigning for the election expected in the next few months.

MAY BE CONTROLS

Instead, hints have been made that Mr. Harris will attempt to get a tighter grip on the economy, perhaps by reimposing credit controls which were last applied in 1950-52 to restrain consumer spending and bank loans. Wage controls were also imposed.

Those curbs imposed minimum down payments and maximum repayment periods on consumer purchases. Whether any new controls would be imposed now is still a question.

The budget speech may include some major new tariff proposals dealing with imports of United States goods. There has been a tariff advantage over Canadian products ranging up to 15 per cent.

Mr. Harris also is likely to make public the tariff board's recommendations on the new overhaul of tariffs on steel and pipe. It is understood he will accept the proposals and announce plans for international negotiations to implement them.

Dismissal of Montreal Police Head On Vice Issue Reversed by Court

MONTREAL (CP)—The Quebec Court of Appeals today reversed a vice inquiry judgment which ordered the dismissal of Pierre A. Langlois as director of Montreal police.

The judgment opened the way for Mr. Langlois' return to Montreal's top police post, now filled on an acting basis by his bitter enemy Pacifique (Pax) Plante. However, even before he had been ordered there was reported a new crisis in the case with a report filed to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Mr. Langlois, a 56-year-old veteran of both world wars and chief of the RCMP, has been on leave of absence without pay since the vice inquiry judgment was handed down.

He asked for the leave of absence while Mayor Jean Drapeau was threatening to have him suspended by city council.

Acting Director Plante and Mayor Drapeau were counsel for the petitioners in the vice inquiry which named 20 police officers as having tolerated vice in Montreal between 1940 and 1950.

Some sources said Mayor Drapeau may again threaten to go to city council and seek Mr. Langlois' suspension pending an appeal to the Supreme Court. There also were predictions that Mr. Plante would take the step down without a fight from the police post he has filled for the past two years.

The feud between the two dated back to 1948 when Mr. Langlois fired Mr. Plante, then assistant police director. The dismissal for alleged insubordination came when Mr. Plante was gaining fame as a "vice buster" and directing raids in swashbuckling style on gambling joints and disorderly houses.

The vice inquiry judgment held that Mr. Langlois had deliberately bungled padlockings of gambling joints and bawdy houses. He also condemned on a general charge that he either knew — or should have known — some of the derelictions by other policemen.

Mr. Langlois' appeal entered a plea of duress of any deliberate dereliction of duty in the padlockings.

Cuban Students Foiled In Attempt To Slay Batista

Troops Repulse Assault On Presidential Palace

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Tank-backed troops have wiped out a bold student attempt to capture or kill President Fulgencio Batista in fighting that took an estimated 40 lives.

The government said the entire island was calm early today. A curfew, imposed after the assault on the presidential palace in the heart of Havana, was lifted Wednesday night. Citizens and tourists moved about as usual in bars, restaurants and night clubs.

Armored cars and tanks which remained near the palace, Batista's office and residence, were the only open signs of the trouble that erupted violently Wednesday afternoon.

There was no official announcement of arrests but it was evident that police were carrying out an intensive search for participants.

MANY WOUNDED

In addition to the 40 persons reported killed, an estimated 60 were wounded.

The dead included tourist Peter Koronda of Clifton, N.J. A stray bullet killed him as he watched the fighting from his hotel balcony.

Police said the rebel dead included Jose Antonio Echeverria, president of the University of Havana Student Federation, and Fauro Chaviano Prio Socarras was president.

Echeverria was identified as a friend of Fidel Castro Luz, young anti-Batista guerrilla leader who is operating in the mountains of eastern Cuba. The attack on the palace was timed to coincide with Castro, but the students undoubtedly were inspired by his guerrilla campaign.

RESENTMENT SEEN

Observers also attribute the abortive uprising to long-smoldering resentment against some aspects of Batista's regime. Cuba is experiencing prosperity, but many people have little interest in politics and inflation. Unemployment has been rising. Cuban students groups generally have been ahead of the dictatorial side of Batista's rule.

The assault was the first violent outbreak in Havana against Batista's five-year rule. Observers in Cuba have been pondering with revolutionary sentiment for months.

Princess Helen Of Greece Dies

ATHENS (AP)—Princess Helen of Greece, mother of the Duchess of Kent, died today of a heart ailment. She was 75.

The duchess and her sister, Princess Olga of Yugoslavia, arrived in Athens earlier today after their mother suffered a heart attack and were with her when she died.

Princess Helen was the daughter of Grand Duke Vladimir of Russia. In 1902 she married Prince Nicholas, third son of King George I of Greece. The prince died in 1938.

Three Children Killed in Two Separate Mishaps

TORONTO (CP) — Three children were killed in two separate accidents in Metropolitan Toronto Wednesday. Two of them were sisters.

The two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Morrison, Linda, 4, and Deborah, 2, were struck and killed by a truck while crossing the street four blocks from their home in the west end.

Linda's pronounced dead at hospital. Linda was pronounced dead at the accident scene. The accident occured on Keele Street in the stockyard area.

A witness said the victims were playing with other children just before crossing the street. The witness remained on the curb.

A four-year-old boy was fatally injured when struck by a car while attempting to cross a street in suburban East York. Police said William Walmsley collided with an eastbound car driven by Barbara Beron, 45, of suburban Scarborough.

The fatalities brought Toronto's traffic deaths for 1957 to 20, compared with 24 at the same date last year.

CORONER'S JURY FINDS CAR SWERVED INTO TRANSPORT'S PATH

A coroner's inquest was held Wednesday evening looking into the death of Robert McEachern of Argyle, one of three men killed January 25th, when the car in which they were riding was in collision with a transport on No. 3 highway on the Marysville flats.

The jury found that the car, in which the three young men were riding swerved into the path of the oncoming transport. The inquest was held before Coroner Dr. D. C. McVicker, of Deseronto.

FORCED OFF ROAD, CAR HITS CULVERT

CAMPBELLFORD — Jack Joseph Corr, 21, of Campbellford, received undetermined injuries early this Thursday morning when the small English model car he was driving veered off highway 30 and struck a culvert about one mile south of Havelock. Corr staggered to the door of a nearby home and collapsed. He was rushed to Peterborough Civic Hospital where his condition today was listed as not serious. Corr told police that he was forced off the road by an approaching car. The car leapt about 15 feet after striking the culvert, landing on its wheels.

REMANDED WEEK IN CUSTODY

Nelson Lameronte of Kingston was remanded one week in custody this morning by Magistrate R. C. Jackson of Madoc, when he appeared in magistrate's court in Belleville to answer to a charge of criminal negligence.

Lameronte was charged by Ontario Provincial Police following a two-car-transport crash near Shannonville a few weeks ago in which Clinton E. Root of Belleville was instantly killed.

More Signs Of Spring Seen

More signs of the coming of spring are looming up every day.

This morning Mrs. Frank Cormier of West Moira Street called and said she saw a flock of robins in her back yard.

Some time yesterday the ice in the Trent River went out. The river is open to the mouth of the harbor. Last year, if this writer's memory is correct, the ice went out on March 10.

Oak Lake is still iced over, but there isn't much snow between Belleville and Marmora.

The ground under earth is becoming more noticeable and by now parents are probably replacing their children's snow boots with rubbers.

Elmer J. Wood, Ex-Warden Of County, Nominated Liberal Candidate Hastings-Frontenac

Elmer J. Wood, 51-year-old Huntingdon township farmer, a former reeve of that township and Hastings county warden in 1956, will be the Liberal candidate for the Hastings-Frontenac riding in the forthcoming federal election.

Mr. Wood was named to contest the riding for the Liberals at the riding association convention held in Belleville afternoon at Bridge's.

The ex-county warden was the unanimous choice of the convention to contest the riding now represented at Ottawa by Progressive Conservative George S. White of Madoc. His was the only name placed before the nomination meeting.

Frank Andrews of Norwood was named Association president succeeding Norman Gilroy of Coe Hill, who resigned the position after many years in office. Vice-president is Frank Goode, Parham, while Gordon Moore of Madoc was returned as secretary and John Mercer of Norwood back as treasurer.

Addressing the convention were Williston Henderson, M.P. for Kingston, and Jim Scott of Lonsdale, Ontario, Liberal organizer for Ontario.

Yesterday's nomination meeting in the Marmora town hall was a comparatively quiet affair with less than 100 people in the hall as Mr. Gilroy called the meeting to order. Following the usual routine officials the first business on the agenda the offices were quickly filled and Frank Andrews of Actinolite chaired the balance of the meeting.

EXPRESS CONFIDENCE

Mr. Andrews, along with other speakers heard during the afternoon, expressed confidence in the return of the Liberal government of Ottawa and Mr. Wood in particular that the riding of Hastings-Frontenac would see the election of a Liberal member.

Calling for the support of party workers in the riding Chairman Mr. Andrews said that "we can win this election, but we'll have to get out and work."

This feeling was echoed by the candidate himself who assured that to successfully contest the riding "everybody will have to help."

Adding a touch of humor to the meeting Mr. Wood recalled that he had been elected reeve of his own municipality, in which he said there were 400 voters.

"I realize that Hastings-Frontenac is a strong Conservative riding," he went on, "but with your help I will do my best to win. With your support we can win."

A native of Huntingdon township and a farmer all his life, Mr. Wood has found time to serve his municipality well. As a young man he took an active part in junior farmer organization and activities; served on the township school board; was assessor for three years; then served six years in township council before becoming reeve in which capacity he served for seven six years.

He served as Hastings county warden in 1956, retiring from municipal life at the end of the year.

TOOK ORDERS IS CLAIM

The Liberal member of the House of Commons for Kingston riding, W. J. Henderson, told the gathering that John Diefenbaker, leader of the Progressive Conservative party, if doing his best to lead his clan toward discouraging a policy of free enterprise in Canada.

"John Diefenbaker," he said, "has not led his party to a policy of free enterprise. He became used to taking orders from the CCF leader during the pipeline debates last year.

"Mr. Diefenbaker will, gave $81 million to a company to bring a pipeline from Alberta to Quebec so easterners could benefit from a Canadian resource. Not more than two weeks ago that same company borrowed both parties $49 million of its loan. This was possible through the sale of shares in the project to investors from outside investors.

"If free enterprise can do it, let it. The Conservatives want everything to be run by the State."

Mr. Henderson pounced on a few statistics which revealed the Liberal record in both parties he has since 1886. The Liberals have had three leaders to the P.C.'s two. The Liberals known magazine is ready to bring in the elements."

The speaker said, "They call themselves Progressive Conservatives; there has never been a better contradiction of words than that."

SAYS PCs FRUSTRATED

Mr. Henderson said the reason many people believe the House of Commons to be a farce is because "the Conservatives are frustrated," and said that both parties anbaker spends most of his time away from the sessions and campaigning for the party in House."

A professor at the University of Western Ontario, J. Scott, Ontario organizer for the Liberal party, accredited the rise of the Canadian dollar "is worth more than any other country in the world" to the actions of the administration which runs Canadian affairs.

"The Liberal party," he said, "has gained the confidence of investors from every part of the world, and this, in turn, has resulted in the Canadian dollar reaching its peak buying power."

"It is the Liberals who have been here for quite some time, have given this country the best government it has ever had," Mr. Scott concluded.

Bell Telephone Co. Increases Ownership of Northern Electric

MONTREAL (CP)—Bell Telephone Company of Canada has increased its ownership in Northern Electric Co. Ltd., its manufacturing subsidiary, from 56.4 per cent to nearly 58 per cent.

The acquisition was accomplished Feb. 15 by purchase of 372,000 shares of Northern Electric at their estimated book value of Jan. 31 of $72.50 a share, or a total of $19,720,000.

The purchase was from Western Electric Company, American telephone - equipment manufacturing company, which still holds about 13 per cent of Northern Electric shares.

Announcement of the transaction was made today by Thomas W. Eadie, Bell president, at the company's annual meeting.

Dealing with other matters, Mr. Eadie said Ontario's proposed tax legislation "raises again the implication of double taxation," and on the basis of the company's present understanding its over-all corporation taxes would be increased by about $750,000 in 1957.

To pay this increased tax and to maintain the company's attractive financial position, revenues would need to be increased by $1,480,000, or by about 50 cents for each telephone in service. More than 13 cents of every dollar of income already was being absorbed by taxes in one form or another.

"We look forward to this evening's federal budget," Mr. Eadie added, "in the hope that it will resolve this problem of double taxation."

Mr. Eadie said certain important projects had been deferred, but, even so, construction expenditures this year would total $176,000,000, compared with $140,000,000 in 1956.

The number of people waiting for telephone service had been reduced from 47,000 to 28,000 in 1956 and a further reduction is expected this year. Customers waiting for individual service in place of two-party service increased by 19,000 but this is expected to "change for the better" soon.

The company also plans an "intensified effort" to raise standards of rural service, notably through reducing the number of telephones on lines which still carry too heavy a load.

Dies in Car

ADDISON, Ont. (CP)—A man was killed Wednesday night when the automobile he was driving left Highway 29 near here, plunged down an embankment and burst into flames.

Provincial police identified the victim, alone in the car, as Arthur Bailey, 24, of Smiths Falls, a power house engineer at the Brockville Ontario Hospital School.

The body was burned beyond recognition.

Addison is about 55 miles south of Ottawa.

Napanee Salesman Pinned Under Car, Seriously Hurt

Suffering multiple fractures of the ribs and undetermined internal injuries when pinned under the car he was driving after it went out of control on No. 37 highway, April 2nd, Wilbert Spencer, 24, of Napanee, is in serious condition in the Belleville General Hospital.

The accident occurred about 4 p.m. Wednesday as Mr. Bell was eastbound three miles south of Tweed. He was thrown from the car as the vehicle rolled on him. Rescuers had to jack the car up to get him free.

He was taken to hospital by ambulance where his physician, Dr. J. H. Bateman, this morning said his condition was still serious.

Provincial police Corporal Douglas Sears of Madoc investigated.

Softball League Sets Deadline, Names Officers

The Belleville and District softball league executive set April 15th as entry deadline and swore in slate by it at a general meeting held last night.

Seven team have expressed interest, including all five of last year's clubs, Mike Power pointed out last night's meeting were told that there would be no waiting for one or two years for admission.

Wednesday, April 10 is the final deadline for the rule re-day grace allowed. All teams wishing to participate must have the $35 entry fee in the hands of the secretary-treasurer, Don Gavey, by that date.

Frankford and Pointe Anne were the only teams represented last evening but other possible entries are Belleville Bobcats; Belleville National Steel; Trenton Legion Juniors, R.C.A.F. and Madoc.

Secretary Don Gavey read the minutes of the last meeting to the new executive present last night to open the affair.

The main body of the executive consisting of Jim Gordon, Earl Bargrave, vice-president Bill Berchtold, league organizer Gavey were elected at the initial meeting. The remainder of the executive was named last night.

The immediate executive is composed of Red Dunlop, Red Carson, Bill VanTassel and Raymond Rowe of last season, and newcomers Ken Hall.

Advisory board members are C. D. Hilly Hollins, Gerald Vance and Don Lee of last year with Gerry Alexander the only new member.

Several minor business matters were discussed during the evening's agenda. It was decided to drop the rule that a player must participate in three league games before he is eligible for city play-offs. Any player who has signed a player's certificate is now eligible.

An all-star team will be picked mid-way through the schedule consisting of players selected by managers and coaches. Exhibition games will be arranged for the "dream" team.

Obituary

MRS. BESSIE COULTER

The funeral of Mrs. Bessie Coulter was held from the John R. Bush Funeral Home on Wednesday afternoon. The service in the chapel was conducted by Rev. C. W. Coleman, who also said the committal rites in Thomasburg cemetery.

The bearers were Morley Sills, Wilbur Flaherty, Fred Wannamaker, Grant Coulter, Robert Smithris and Allan Vanderwater.

MRS. SAMUEL CHERRY

In ill health for the past two years, Mrs. Margaret Ann Cherry, 70 Pine Street, died in the Belleville General Hospital on Wednesday morning.

She was born in Wyevale, Ontario, 69 years ago, being the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hunter. For the past 29 years she has resided in this city, where she was well known and highly respected. Mrs. Cherry previously resided at Lindsay.

Mrs. Cherry took an active interest in fraternal organizations, being a member of the Belleville Chapter No. 55 of the Order of the Eastern Star and Mt. Zion White Shrine of Jerusalem No. 11 and was a Past Matron. Previous to her home, two sisters, Mrs. Bert Tricker of Calgary, Alta., and Mrs. Tricker of Swalwell, Alta., and one brother, Lorne Hunter of Swalwell, Alta.

Albino Raccoon Killed by Car On Highway

Leslie Scott of Actinolite while travelling along No. 7 Highway recently came upon a golden-colored animal lying upon the roadway. On closer examination it was found to be a raccoon that apparently had been run over by a passing automobile. Mr. Scott brought his strange find to the Tweed office of the Department of Lands and Forests for examination and later had it frozen awaiting suitable arrangements to have it mounted.

This young raccoon, since it showed some coloration in the pupil, particularly faint rings on the tail, and having eyes that were greenish rather than pink, cannot be described as a true albino. Instead it appears to be a condition in which pigment in the skin, hair and iris of the eyes is completely lacking resulting in overall white coloration and eyes which, because they have no color of their own, reflect a pinkish color from their own rich blood supply. Partial albinism may occur either in the light but solid color displaced by the typical or with normal color containing white patches.

True albinism is extremely rare in wild animals. Even partial albinism is sufficiently rare that specimens are always looked upon with interest such as that displayed by Mr. Scott.

Gas Ignited Still Burning In Drill Hole

Sidney township's 2nd concession painting contractor who this week struck gas, while drilling for water is still in the gas business.

Mr. W. C. Loucks had drilled down 84 feet into the limestone in quest of water when the drill bit struck a gas pocket Tuesday afternoon. The gas was ignited and is still burning.

Wednesday the drill casing was capped and a pressure gauge installed. The dial showed nine pounds of pressure although a leak developed at the bottom of the temporary casing. If the pressure is maintained Mr. Loucks hopes to heat his shop with the gas.

But he is still looking for water with the drilling rig again down to 50 feet in another hole started yesterday morning. Mr. Loucks hopes to strike water today.

Archie S. Lewis Heads Contingent To Jamboree

A. S. (Archie) Lewis, of Northern Electric Co., has been appointed deputy leader of the Canadian Indian contingent attending the World Scout Centenary Jamboree to be held in England next August. The appointment was announced recently by the Canadian General Council of the Boy Scouts' Association.

Scouts will gather from 79 countries for the Jamboree and will camp at Sutton Park, near Birmingham, 75th park was once a royal hunting forest and was given by King Henry VIII to the village of Sutton Coldfield over 400 years ago. It has been preserved as a national park ever since. About 33,000 boys are expected to attend, 1,600 of whom will be from Canada.

Mr. Lewis is an executive member of the Ontario Provincial Council and has been regional commissioner for Eastern Ontario for the past two years. He has been active in scouting since 1948 and attended the 1st World Jamboree at Niagara-on-the-Lake in 1935.

STUDIED IN PRISON

RIVERHEAD, N. Y. (AP)—Knowledge of the law gleaned while in prison enabled a convicted gigolo to free after serving 18 years of a 35-to-70 year term for armed robbery, Chester Campbell, 57, told Judge Edgar Hazelton Wednesday that conviction, in sentencing him, forgot to ask the routine question: "Have you any reason why judgment should not now be pronounced?" Hazleton then complied on the grounds he had been "punished enough."

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market was mixed to lower today during moderate morning trading. Industrials and base metals each lost a few decimal points on their index but western oils showed a gain of more than one-quarter of a point.

The trading pace was much faster than Wednesday with an 11 a.m. volume of 1,704,000 shares compared with 1,178,000 at the same time Wednesday.

Uraniums were firm as well as western oils but other groups on the board were set down slightly by profit-taking.

Industrial gains ranged to 2¼ points, led by Goodyear Tire, selling at 167½. Calgary Power was up 1¾ points at 64 and Bank of Nova Scotia a point at 56½. Other price changes were fractional.

Most uraniums were narrowly higher. Faraday was up 11 cents at $2.71. Milliken Lake and Stanleigh each added 10 cents. Falconbridge was ahead a point at 36 among senior base metals but other issues showed few changes. Consolidated Paper was added 15 cents at $1.60 among juniors.

Western oils were lightly traded.

NIGHT CLUB CAUGHT

NEW YORK (AP)—El Morocco, one of cafe society's favorite night spots, was slapped Wednesday with an $849,084 tax lien by the U.S. department of internal revenue. The claim was for additional excise taxes for the period between October, 1944, and September, 1951. Particulars were not given.

USEFUL PLANT

Flax was used to make ropes, nets and lines from the earliest times.

Oshawa Police Capture Burglars

OSHAWA (CP) — Two Toronto men were charged today with breaking and entering as the aftermath of an attempt to blow a safe in a building housing the Chamber of Commerce's motor vehicle licensing agency.

Lorne Anthony O'Brien and Carl Brennan, both 29, appeared today in magistrate's court and were remanded until Friday.

They said they were neighborhood resident's tip Wednesday night that two suspicious characters were "to blow the block off the map."

The trio fled as police closed in. Two were captured after warning shots were fired but the third got away.

Constable Art Hobbs, answering the citizen's call, found a ladder propped against the wall of a building housing the Oshawa Chamber of Commerce which also functions as agent for the highways department motor vehicle branch.

He phoned for reinforcements and the building was surrounded. As officers clambered through a roof skylight the intruders fled from the room where they had overturned a safe.

The safe contained $200.

Local Taxation Of Pipe Lines Now Allowed

TORONTO (CP)—A bill given first reading Wednesday in the Ontario legislature would permit local taxation of gas and oil pipelines.

The schedule of assessment ranges from seven cents a foot length for three-quarter inch pipe to $4.75 for 30-inch pipe.

Another section would increase to four per cent from two the penalty a municipality may impose on all taxes unpaid on the first day of default after Sept. 15.

Speaker Denies Report of Toronto Talk

MONTREAL (CP)—C. D. Jackson, editorial vice-president of Time magazine and a former special assistant to President Eisenhower, Wednesday denied saying in a Toronto speech that the United States touched off the Middle East crisis by force of arms down with Russia.

"All I said was that the U.S. had been looking for a situation somewhere in the world where it could call the Russian economic bluff. That situation developed in Egypt. I did not say that the U.S. plotted the Middle East crisis for a showdown."

In his Toronto speech, Mr. Jackson said Russia's shift to economic tactics was difficult for the West to combat because it set up a climate in which the West could be blackmailed by countries seeking aid.

Therefore, he said, the U.S. looked for a favorable situation for a showdown and found it, in the Middle East and Egypt's request for aid to build the Aswan dam. The U.S., withdrew its offer of aid when President Nasser was negotiating with Russia for aid. He said the move proved the emptiness of Russian promises of aid, including volunteers to help fight in Egypt.

Fifty British Teachers Will Be Recruited

LONDON (CP) — The Ontario government expects to recruit upwards of 50 British secondary school teachers, R. Bill Stewart, assistant superintendent of secondary education in Ontario, said Wednesday.

Stewart, who arrived in Britain last weekend, will personally interview each of the scores of applicants who are calling at the Ontario immigration offices in London. The regular immigration staff at the office drew up a preliminary list of suitably qualified teachers before Stewart arrived.

This marks the first time that Ontario has recruited secondary teachers in Britain, although in the three years starting in 1954 scores of elementary teachers were selected.

SATISFIED THEM

"The school boards have been very satisfied with the elementary teachers and now we are concentrating on high-qualified secondary teachers," said Stewart. "All were British subjects, hold a degree from a British university and hold a United Kingdom teaching certificate."

The teachers will go to schools whose boards have given a definite commitment to engage them. Stewart has already signed up about 16 teachers. He expects to sail for Canada April 16.

A big attraction for the British teachers is the Canadian salary scale, ranging from about $3,500 to a maximum of $6,500. In Britain a university honors graduate with four years experience is paid on a scale ranging from about $1,700 to $3,000.

Judges Named For Art Exhibit

Plans now are almost complete for the local art exhibits to be held in King George School March 21st and 22nd.

Organizers of the event — the Belleville Arts and Crafts Club — have now obtained a full panel of judges for the display.

They are R. Kozyluk, head of the art department of the Quinte Secondary School; Mr. Ritchie, head of the Belleville Collegiate art department and Mrs. H. Robbins, a well-known local artist.

In order to give judges sufficient time to judge before the exhibit all paintings must be in the Arts and Crafts Room, King George School, on Monday, March 18th.

There will be someone there to receive the paintings in the afternoon from 2-5 and in the evening from 7-10.00, or they may be brought to the Recreation Office, City Hall.

This is a local show of pictures to choose the best five paintings to represent the City of Belleville and District in the final in the next Ontario Amateur Travelling Art Exhibit.

Anyone requiring any further information in regard to the exhibit may contact the Recreation Office.

It is hoped that the citizens of Belleville will feel free to come to the exhibit and see what is being done at this field in their own community any time between 2.30 and 10.00 Friday evening to further encourage the field of adult education in our own community and to share a social cup of coffee.

France Plans Curbs on Credit

PARIS (Reuters) — The French government today decided on credit restrictions and import cuts as an urgent necessity to protect the national economy.

The measures were outlined after a four-hour cabinet meeting in a communique which said the government also will propose a new tax on rises in dividends.

Egypt Claims It Co-operates With UN Force

CAIRO (Reuters)—UN Undersecretary Ralph Bunche and Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns left for Gaza today as Egypt reported that "full co-operation" exists between herself and the United Nations Emergency Force which Burns commands.

Full co-operation was reported by Egyptian Field Marshal Abdel Hakim Hatem, Egyptian information director.

Hatem said: "Egypt does what she can to help UNEF carry out the duties placed on their shoulders by United Nations resolutions.

"The inhabitants of Gaza look upon UNEF as friendly forces and co-operate with them for the sake of peace and order."

The semi-official newspaper Al Gomhouria reported today that Gen. Hassan Abdel Latif, appointed Egyptian governor of Gaza Monday, was expected to go to Gaza today to take up his duties.

Bunche said in a statement issued today that he never used the expression "welcome or co-operate with" in connection with the Egyptian governor for the Gaza Strip.

The statement said Bunche was not allowed "to comment one way or another on the action" of a member state (of the United Nations)."

Wednesday, Bunche was quoted as saying after a two-hour meeting with President Nasser that "UNEF would co-operate with Egyptian administrators in Gaza."

125 Flee Flames

TORONTO (CP)—An apartment block fire forced 125 tenants into the street in suburban North York Wednesday night and resulted in damage estimated at $25,000, No one was injured.

The fire, of unknown origin, began in a locker in the basement storage room of the 40-suite building.

Five Are Held After Man Dies, Perhaps in Fight

NORTH BAY (CP)—Five persons have been held as material witnesses in the death Wednesday night of Ceci Norlander, 34, of Sudbury, Ont.

Mr. Norlander died in a West North Bay motel on Highway 11 three miles south of North Bay.

Those held are Lena Langevin, Virginia Moore, Paul Gratton, George Gratton and Bernard Piche, all of North Bay. The Grattons are not related.

Police believe a fight took place outside the motel between three men and Norlander, during which Norlander was killed.

The five had checked into the motel earlier in the evening. The motel owner received a call from their room about 9 p.m. asking him to call the police as a man was dead in the room.

Police Blotter

Two Herchimer Ave. youths have been charged with mischief by city police after they allegedly threw a bicycle into the Moira River.

Police Constable L. Kent reported he saw the two youths take a bicycle found leaning against a telephone pole on Station street and throw it into the Moira. He brought the youths to the police station and later fished the bicycle out of the river.

The Quinte Paint and Wallpaper Store on McAnnany street was entered during the night with entrance gained by removing the lock cylinder from the door. The cash register was said tampered with but nothing was taken.

An attempt was made to enter the White Meat Market but entrance here was not gained.

The night police patrol discovered a rear door at the Ireland Appliance store had been forced and entrance apparently gained. Nothing was reported missing. Both the two break-ins and the two attempt were investigated by Detective Harold Reid.

A Station street woman reported her kitten by a dog as she walked on Station street. The matter was turned over to city dog catcher Charles Thorn for investigation.

BUILD NEW TERMINAL

LONDON (Reuters) — A new air terminal, said to be one of the largest in Europe, and prefabricated buildings for public use, is due to be completed by September. The new terminal will be the centre of London, replacing the present British European Airways terminal near Waterloo railroad station.

Finance Holds Spotlight In N.S., N.B. Legislatures

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Finance held the spotlight in the Nova Scotia and New Brunswick legislatures Tuesday and there was not bright for taxpayers in either case.

In Halifax, Premier Stanfield brought in an interim financial statement for the year ending March 31 which showed Nova Scotia with a deficit of $1,485,000. The premier's statement indicated the province had spent $4,421,000 more than was estimated last spring when the Liberal government, defeated by the Progressive Conservatives in the October election, had budgeted for a surplus of $62,000.

Secretary-Treasurer Donald D. Patterson presented a $64,000,000 budget for New Brunswick this year. The only tax change exempts coal miners from a three-per-cent sales tax on dynamite purchased from their employers.

BLAMES OTTAWA

Mr. Patterson said "it was not prudent to make any downward tax changes" and laid most of the blame on the federal government. He said easing of the tax burden seemed unwise because of "the unrealistic formula of the new tax-rental agreement," Ottawa's failure to recognize the need of a national adjustment grant to the poorer provinces and future budget problems.

One of the government money bills introduced in the Alberta legislature would raise the rate on government construction loans for school construction to 4½ per cent from the present 3½ to 3½ per cent.

In the Manitoba legislature, Municipal Affairs Minister Edmond Prefontaine said his department is investigating municipal tax and assessment concessions granted to attract industry.

He said the government is "going slowly" with the investigation because it is not convinced municipalities should be denied the right to make such concessions. No one could be certain, he said, that industry would not locate somewhere else, perhaps outside the province, if concessions were not made.

PRODUCT OF THE PAST

Elsewhere on this page there is reproduced an editorial from the Montreal Gazette dealing with an address by Mr. Gratton O'Leary, associate editor of the Ottawa Journal, before the Canadian Club of Montreal.

Mr. O'Leary complains about "the pitiful craving for the unadventured life." His criticisms of the demand of so many Canadians "for what is called 'security'," and the desire to seek safety from change for security. Discovering the cause of a disease does not automatically cure it, but diseases are rarely cured until their causes are discovered.

What type of Canadians is it that has a grave security above all else? The answer, it seems to us, is that they are of many types. The only thing they have in common is their Canadianism, their residence in Canada. This may be so, but we might find the cause of the disease by an examination of our recent history, although the existence of a similar attitude in other countries should warn us that the cause is not an exclusively Canadian phenomena.

Mr. O'Leary referred to "men at 20 dreaming of 65," a reference to the existence of the desire for security amongst people who are just starting their life work. It is extremely difficult to discover any reason for such an attitude in the economic conditions prevailing today. Work is relatively easy to find and jobs with high wages and future are available even for those who lack extensive formal education. More and more, industry, facing a shortage of skilled craftsmen and technicians, is prepared to provide training opportunities for those desirous of taking advantage of them. This is in itself a form of security, but it is not the type of security about which Mr. O'Leary is complaining.

Why, indeed, today's youth seek security? To find the answer, perhaps we should consider the fact that the young man of twenty has been twenty years in the making. His attitudes are not the result of the present day's conditions, as they are the result of the influences of those who have guided him through these twenty years. Though youth may laugh at its elders, it follows their lead.

Therefore the attitude of today's youth is, therefore, a reflection of the attitude of older people, and the reasons for the craving for security on the part of these elders are not difficult to discover.

Almost all of the people to whom today's youth looks for its guidance have come through one, and often two, times of great stress, when security could not be grasped.

There are men and women who have adventured their lives in war. Remembering the old saying that one is living to keep them down on the farm after they have seen Paree," there were many who wondered how the soldiers, sailors and airmen — and their feminine counterparts — could be reconciled to a humdrum civilian life after the excitements of war. Some few did find the re-adjustment difficult. But many others welcomed it, either because they had yearned for a carefree existence from which their lot in the forces had caused them to agree with the observation that war is three quarters boredom and one quarter fear.

Boredom and fear, in a different but nevertheless testing form, came earlier to many whom today's youth take as their counsellors. Fear and boredom were the ingredients which made up the depression years for many Canadians.

To the veterans of war and depression, security was a bright prize of them, sensing the great change in economic conditions, have altered their conscious attitude, and would now join with Mr. O'Leary in deploring the unadventured life. Unconsciously, though, they may still weigh their thumb on the scales so that it tips the balance towards security when they advise the younger generation.

Today's craving for security, we suggest, is the product of yesterday's insecurity. It is, though, an understandable, its eradication will not be easy. Words like those used by Mr. O'Leary and by the editorial writer of the Montreal Gazette are pertinent, but they will be of little practical use of gaining attention if we appreciate the fact that the craving is not craven, but the logical result of past events.

MIND-READING DOG

Scientists are now probing the field of extra-sensory perceptions and are coming up with some amazing conclusions.

Nothing we have read, though, is more amazing than an implication in a report on Heidi, a London, Ont., dachshund which is reported to be able to do arithmetic.

Heidi is rewarded for a correct answer by a bit of meat or a piece of buttered bread.

Dr. John Paul, University of Western Ontario psychologist, says that if the person who is thinking of the right answer to the question also holds the food, the dog answers correctly nine times out of ten. But if one person holds the food while another thinks of the right answer, the dog's score drops to one out of ten. The dog apparently concentrates on the hand that feeds it.

The only possible inference is that here is a dog which can read the human mind.

Do all dogs possess this ability? If so, no wonder some of them often look bored.

LATE PHONE CALLS

On this he safely can depend:
At midnight I'll not phone a friend.

Whatever news I have to tell,
I'll wait till day to ring his bell.

I will not rouse him from his bed
To say what he has heard or read.

The most important news will keep
Till he has finished with his sleep.

The telephone's a handy thing,
But there are times it shouldn't ring.

Though Job was patient, after all
He never got a midnight call.

The Unadventured Life

Montreal Gazette

There are many people who are ready to define what they think is wrong with the world today. But we have pointed more accurately at one of the deepest troubles, or at the better words, than did Gratton O'Leary yesterday in his speech addressing the Canadian Club.

Mr. O'Leary, vice-president and associate editor of the Ottawa Journal, had been mentioning a number of dangerous trends, and then he said:

"Finally — and most frightening of all — is the pitiful craving for the unadventured life; for what is called "security." Men at 20 dreaming of 65, youth aspiring for a safe sedility, men becoming timid, editor and minister through shrinking from the duties and responsibilities of living."

Many an employer knows what Mr. O'Leary means. A prominent Canadian engineer recently said he was surprised to find that one of the first questions applicants for their first jobs asked was about the pension plan. It is not a coincidence about the future is a sound trait. But it is carried to excess when retirement becomes a matter of such intense interest even before work begins.

Yet it is true that the whole pressure of this age, the very climate of thought and feeling, is towards what Mr. O'Leary so aptly calls the unadventured life.

The very idea that one's life's work should itself be an adventure is not only deadened by the preoccupation with the charms of retirement, but it is actively resented as an evil that the technological progress of the future will gradually reduce closer to the vanishing point. But this impression, nor fear comes rather like a sentence to be endured, than as an early release on parole.

It is inevitable, of course, that education should become entangled in the attitudes of the time. Education is not something to be criticized as if it were perversely unwise. If modern education has its defects, these are defects of modern society.

And the central danger — if not the central defect — in that education may not know quite what to do with the cultural heritage. For that heritage is the freedom of the spirit, the very product of the adventurous life, the very antithesis of the security, the disregard of the safety of sedility.

As Mr. O'Leary put it: "We need leaders — men and women trained in the humanities, trained in those moral and spiritual things that have been so sharp in the past and which, inescapably, must be our stay in the future. Civilization is something more than superior plumbing."

But if, as is often claimed, the educational system may be hostile or even strangely indifferent with the traditional heritage of the humanities, it is chary of its banishment of society in general. The tragedy of our time, says Mr. O'Leary, is that there seem to be:

1. All know-how and no knowhow.
2. All facts and no knowledge.
3. All specialization and no wisdom.
4. All signposts and no destination.

But Mr. O'Leary, who said he was to make a "controversial" speech, spoke words that few speak but need often to be spoken. For the unadventured life is not broken down before they have grown up, content to look for security in things, though thus I speak." For it is only those who still hope who speak so strongly and so well.

Letter To The Editor

Curb on Wages, Profits Seen as Necessary

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

I have waited in vain for some one to comment on your article copied from "Industry" and published in your paper issued on Monday, March 4. This article sets some pertinent questions for Canadians. It appears that there is a great divergence between the mentality of Canada's labor leaders and their Canadian confreres. Who would support a Union leader in this country to even contemplate the idea of a reduction of wages? Who would back as well as a Taft - Hartley Act, strictly enforced, as a first step in the uncompromising enforcement of the Combines Act, accompanied by a 75% tax on excess profits. Our great handicap is our lack of integrity and moral viewpoint. This applies to all levels of our administrations, from the top, high office would hesitate to hold a man up at the point of a gun, but have no compunction in robbing him of his back.

Economy is something they only find in a dictionary. Canadians should stop to remember that most of the governments on an expenditure of hundreds of millions of dollars, and billions of government spends approximately five billions, all this with a population of 16 million people. It would not hurt us individually or collectively to do a little pruning and embellishments which we, today, consider necessities. Let us forget easily which can befall a nation in peaceful inflation, which is the result of spending this staggering sum so rapidly. Already your dollar is worth only about fifty cents. Increases in wages mean increased costs of raw materials, fabricated commodities, and if they are checked and stabilized, and excess profits curtailed, we are very likely to curb the inflationary spiral. The development of our natural resources is a desirable ambition, but would it not be as well to gradually step up a little and leave a little for future generations? Trees can be replanted, but every ton of ore mined is irreplaceable, and history proves that nature's resources can be exhausted. The present raping of our resources is not prosperity and it particularly is regrettable, as most of them are exported and not processed in Canada. If they were, our economy would be more stable. Our main object is to permanently reduce the cost of living and that can only be done by carrying out the remedies suggested.

A 100% Canadian.

Phoenicians Spread Ideas

Before the confused story of the second millennium B.C. had been cleared up to the extent it now has, it was the custom to ascribe to the Phoenicians many developments which were otherwise inexplicable, and which have since been proved to be merely of others. For example, Cretan hands. Nevertheless, though it may no longer be regarded as true that the Phoenicians were the first Mediterranean sailors, there is no doubt that they were among the first, and that after the decline of Crete and of Achaeni their commerce rapidly extended, so that from 1000 B.C. onwards they were the great carriers of the Mediterranean. Their commerce demanded writing or communications; and part of the form of the Phoenician letters is that they adopted and adapted the 22 signs of the consonantal alphabet of the Egyptians; popularized it throughout much of the Near East and it is from them that it bequeathed it to the Greeks, who added to its usefulness by inventing modern alphabets. The Phoenicians were not originators, but this spreading of ideas was a great contribution to civilization.

Another important role of the Phoenicians was the coast of Syria. The fruitful valleys, coastal inlets, and defensible islands were ideal for good and secure life; whilst the great cedars and other timbers of the hills of Lebanon offered materials for trade even before they developed their own specialized manufactures of jewellery, metalwork, and glass. The commercial list of Phoenician articles of commerce would be a considerable one for the ancient East and West: for they were famous traders not only by sea. Phoenicians were the length and breadth of the Mediterranean, through the Straits of Gibraltar, and possibly as far as the Scilly Isles and Cornwall, but also by land in caravans through Damascus to the East, King Hiram of Tyre and King Solomon of Israel had a joint plan for a through route to the Red Sea, where goods could be transhipped into Phoenicians ships built on the Red Sea, and so carried as far perhaps as far as India. The main and most interesting trade, however, was carried on by such ports as Sidon and Tyre to the West. These cities established warehouses and "factories" similar to those of the Venetians later on in the West. Portuguese, French, and English in India. Here and there at these ports, Carthage and Gades (Cadiz), became famous. Some of the voyages of Phoenicians were of a boldness not again manifested until the days of the Viking or the mediaeval Portuguese and Indeed according to Herodotus, the circumnavigation of Africa from east to west in the seventh century B.C. — From "Ancient History," by J.C. Strength for The Day

STILL MUCH LACK OF MERCY

A man who experienced for 3½ years the misery of a Japanese prison camp in the Philippines told recently in a public address that the Buddhism of Thailand, among whom they lived, paid no attention to their misery. Buddhism is a religion which emphasizes mercy, yet the Buddhist priests and believers passed by the misery of these unfortunate men day after day and did not even cast a glance in their direction. However, said the erstwhile prisoner, when their camp was located among Christian villages—and there were quite a few—Christians—they people did everything in their power to help these unfortunate men. Some of them risked their lives to serve put to death by the Japanese for such attempts. It was especially during the most severe conditions then prevalent to aid prisoner. One of the most stark and tragic illustrations of the difference of large sections of humanity throughout the world in the sufferings of their fellows. It is only the Christian world which seems touched by human infirmities. Through the United Nations, the principle of stewardship and fulness is being adopted as a world-wide policy. Still Communism continues its menacing flat against everything that threatens its power. But men who have springs from a loving heart touched by the hand of God is gradually winning out against the indifference of mankind.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

The Indispensable Dispenser of Health

The resignation of Anthony Eden reminded me of a news picture of the man someone sent me a year ago. The picture revealed a distant relative of mine, one of the signatures of British notabilities in recent years, namely, had taught me, to say neglected teeth, but I refrain from charging the bad teeth of the British country, said to poor dentistry or to austerity or to narrow, overrefining diet or to any of these factors embodied until I can study the question firsthand. Not that I can judge such matters better than other students but just that I have learned through painful experience that you can't rely on the judgments of investigators whose studies are subsidized by "grants" from corporations in the pharmaceutical or implement business.

I was privileged to spend one week in England as a guest and just long enough to realize more than ever before how much we owe and how far the sacrifices we have made — and is still making — to defend and keep the world free.

For many years it has been a typical "Yankee boast" that American dentistry is the finest in the world. If dentistry in England is not quite up to the American standard, the reason or one reason for it is evident — the average Englishmen just rarely afford it. I thought of this and other things when I found few Englishmen with pipes — I had expected to find most smokers smoking pipes — and I was told that the sale of tin of tobacco for approximately $10 (a pound) which would cost the last tenth of the country, said they'd prefer to smoke pipe, but they could no longer afford it.

I regret I was unable to investigate tooth-brushing in England. But I imagine and hope the health authorities, children, grown-ups, and dentists have a little more common sense about this silly practice than we have in Yankeeland.

It is time for us to grow up and dismiss the childish habit of brushing teeth, which as any one with I.Q. of a 12-year-old must see, does not prevent decay. We ought to grasp this fundamental fact: That soundness of the teeth and freedom from decay (cavities, dental caries) depends on good nutrition from infancy to old age, and keeping the teeth in good condition depends on good food, consulting your dentist as early and often as circumstances require.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE HANDSHAKE

I love to see people shake hands —especially men. The custom is a sort of guild sign, a token of mutuality of sincerity. I am a member of an interesting club in my town. Once a month every Tuesday, I am a happy member largely because of the friendliness on the part of all the men who meet there. I think of myself as an ambassador. Many of the names are of writers and artists who are known throughout the nation.

An editor invited me to dine at noon with him at the club in Cleveland. I went a little early and noted that most of the men there shook hands cordially as they came in. It made me feel proud to such a place where all men were so friendly.

Enemies do not shake hands! Friends do. After an important meeting is over, or upon meeting for one, it is customary for men concerned to shake hands in greeting and at the end of the conference and with each departure. A touch of sincerity in it. Men like one another or they don't. The best friendships have in them a great deal of themselves. Contestants in important competition shake hands, assuring their sportsmanship.

A handshake can be quite an accurate key to the character of the person. There is a certain connection to the personality of that person. There is a difference in the handshake of a person who has lost instantly you can see, and in whom you can place your confidence.

There is a wholeness to the sincere handshake, in contrast to the sort of guild sign. And while one that is cold, formal and distant communicates little quality of a handshake can be appraised by a glance. There is a genuineness, somehow, has a way of asserting itself even through the finger tips!

Sentence Him To College!

Rydeburgy Journal

If the record of one Ferdinand Waldo Demara Jr. were used as the framework for a novel, such as Philips Oppenheim might have written in his character creation might very well have assumed the proportions of "The Great Impostor" as the chief protagonist. Instead, Mr. Demara seems to land in jail periodically.

Who is Mr. Demara? He's Mr. Martin D. Godgart, a Connecticut chemistry graduate, professor Dr. Joseph C. Cyr, Canadian surgeon; nor several other people. But, was he ever a Trappist monk; or Pvt. Whoosit, U.S. Army; or Lieut. Whatchamacallem, U.S. Navy? Well, yes. And he was a Royal Canadian Navy surgeon, a Latin and English teacher in more than one school, and a Benedictine brotherhood member in Maine, etc. When he needs a university degree he forges it, but picks up somebody else's credentials and name. That last one he used when working as a guard on a Texas prison farm: he just took any prisoner's file, out of privacy from his periodic trips into the spotlight.

Mr. Demara has to do this because he never got past the 8th grade in school. Navies and schools are particular about those B.A.'s, B.Sc.'s, M.A.'s, Ph.D.'s, M. Ds. and such things. How would Mr. Demara ever save the lives of wounded men in Korea lives of wounded men in Korea with proper surgery, or pull the skipper's teeth, or entrance students and with success or dead languages, as he is known to have done, if he hadn't had to have done, if he hadn't had to have done, if he hadn't had

Anglers and Hunters Request Anti-Poaching Squads Be Provided by Government

TORONTO (CP)—Anti-poaching squads, similar to provincial police anti-gambling squads, have been proposed by the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters as a means of preventing poaching.

In a brief Wednesday to the legislature's fish and game committee the federation suggested rods by lands and forests department conservation officer on "occasional weekends."

It said such "flying squads" were particularly needed in Lambton County where the game warden "has an area of 8,000 square miles" to cover, which is an impossibility."

In its brief, the federation said "There has been many a story brought to light of immigrants and New Canadians wandering through our forests shooting anything that flies or walks. These New Canadians have been apprehended . . . showing utter disregard for the law of the land."

URGES EDUCATION

It said "invariably they will plead ignorance of the law" and urged that the department establish an education project to teach them game laws. If necessary the laws could be published in "foreign language newspapers."

Lambton County was the only one mentioned specifically in connection with flying squads.

The brief was one of four major ones presented at the meeting. Others were from the Lake Huron and Georgian Bay Commercial Fishermen's Association, the Northern Ontario Tourist Outfitters' Association and the Algoma Conservation Council.

Land Forests Minister Mapledoram termed "a dog in the manger attitude" an item in the Outfitters Association brief.

Ben Cummuskey of Kenora said in presenting the brief provincial parks should not have better facilities than commercial tourist camps in park areas.

BEST IT COULD

Mr. Mapledoram said this was "a day-to-manger attitude." He said the province's policy was to provide the best facilities it could.

The Lake Huron and Georgian Bay Commercial Fishermen's Association and the Algoma Conservation Council both urged strong action by the fish and game department to increase the fish population in Huron and Superior.

George Bishop of the Lake Manitou Property Owners' Association said 35 tons of fish last year were taken out of the inland lake on Manitoulin Island. "This rape of the lake must stop," he said. As a major source of fish for hatcheries, it would be damaged if commercial fishing was allowed to continue.

CONSERVATION

A. M. Lebano, presenting a brief from the conservation council of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry, asked that outdoor training be given in schools.

The Anglers and Hunters Federation said it already teaches conservation in 1,000 schools and said there was no reason why the subject couldn't be fitted in to the class week.

The federation also asked that: The minimum penalty in the Game and Fisheries Act be set at $100 with the maximum $500; the number of conservation officers be increased with a biologist in each forestry district;

No change be made in the opening date for rainbow trout angling in Southwestern Ontario with the legal length for the fish increased to 12 from 10 inches and the catch limit set at three; the season for angling for rainbow trout be revived to include Lake Superior with angling allowed from Sept. 15 to Nov. 30.

A closed session for lake trout of approximately six weeks beginning in mid-October be instituted on Lake Superior.

Warrant Officer Honored by Mess On Retirement

A Mess Dinner was held recently in the sergeants' mess at 6 Repair Depot in honor of WO 1 George Edward Grenke, who is retiring after twenty-nine years of service in the RCAF.

The dinner was presided over by WO 1 F. Hill, president of the 6 Repair Depot Sergeants' Mess. In addition to the members of the sergeants' mess, the dinner was attended by representatives of the Mobile Equipment trade from Ottawa, Toronto, Aylmer and Station Trenton.

WO 1 Grenke was presented with an illuminated farewell address signed by all present. He also accepted, on behalf of his wife, a beautiful engraved silver tray.

An honorary membership in all RCAF Sergeants' Messes was presented to WO 1 Grenke on behalf of the Air Staff by Wing Commander K. J. Thompson, CD, acting Commanding Officer, 6 Repair Depot.

WO 1 Grenke joined the Air Force on July 19th 1928.Chosen for the Radio Equipment trade, he was sent to Camp Borden where he remained until 1941 except for three short courses at Ford Motor Company in Windsor and Toronto. He also served at a number of other stations throughout Canada in the capacity of Warrant Officer in charge of Mobile Equipment Section. Some of these stations were Gander, Nfld., Sydney, N.S., Dartmouth, N.S., Hagersville, PEI, Summerside, PEI, Aylmer Ont., 2 Technical Training School, Camp Borden, 10 Repair Depot, Calgary and finally 6 Repair Depot.

In June 1952 WO 1 Grenke was transferred to 6 RD where he has served in two capacities — two years as Depot Warrant Officer and two and one-half years as Warrant Officer in charge of Mobile Equipment.

Promoted to WO 1 in July 1941 he retained this rank until 1 Oct 1946 when the permanent force was reinstated from the interim force, whereupon he reverted to the rank of WO 2. In April 1948 however, he was promoted to the substantive rank of WO 1.

WO 1 Grenke married Norma Schmirler of Bruno, Sask., in September 1931 and they have two daughters, Dawn and Lorna.

At present WO 1 Grenke plans to take a long rest and will probably take up permanent residence in the Belleville area.

Name Brighton Youth As Champion Showman

KEMPTVILLE (CP) — Howard McCann, 17, of Brighton, Wednesday won the title of grand champion showman at the Kemptville Agricultural School's annual royal show. Roy McHolm, 20, of Port Hope, was named reserve grand champion.

Murray Jackson, 17, of Brooklin won the grand champion livestock showman title while the livestock reserve award went to Roy Broadworth, 17, of Madoc.

Dr. T.W. Hawke, Cobourg, Heads Veterinarians

Dr. T. W. Hawke, Cobourg, is the 1937 president of the Quinte District Veterinary Association.

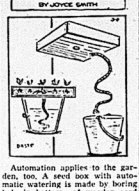
Secretary of the Association is Dr. Keith Harrison of Tweed with directors, Dr. Jack Hamilton, Belleville, Dr. J. F. McCorquodale, Belleville, and Dr. Charles Goodwin, Picton.

At a recent meeting of the Association, members heard Dr. Riordon Stevenson of Guelph lecture on the new advances in the field of veterinary medicine.

He noted that the whole scope of veterinary service is keeping pace with modern farming techniques by assisting farmers to reap profits rather than merely reduce losses. Livestock consultation and herd management services are increasing in demand and the use of penicillin to prevent bloat in ruminants pasturing rich legumes is being given serious consideration.

A poultry clinic is planned by Association members for the next meeting and material for the clinic may be sent prepaid to the Belleville Animal Hospital Dundas street, Belleville, for free diagnosis on sick or dead birds, or may be submitted through local veterinarians.

Co-operation of district poultrymen is asked in having material at the clinic by March 21st.



Find Bank Drafts But Miss Two Safecrackers

VANCOUVER (CP)—Bank drafts worth $375,000 have been seized by Vancouver police searching for two expert Montreal safecrackers, detectives missed the men when they raided a motel Tuesday, but they arrested three women whom they are holding for questioning.

The seizure and arrests resulted from co-operation between Vancouver authorities and eastern police trying to capture the men who blew open a Trans-Canada Air Lines safe in Montreal's Mount Royal Hotel March 4.

Five books contained bank drafts for U.S. currency. A detective classified all the drafts as "good as gold."

In addition to the bank drafts police seized $2,000 in cash, which they said had been left in the motel safe; a nine-millimeter automatic pistol and 47 rounds of ammunition.

Automation applies to the garden, too. A seed box with automatic watering is made by boring hole in bottom of wooden seed box. Draw 8-inch length of clothes line pair way through hole, for wick. Fray top, fill box with soil, and imbed frayed end. Place box in pail of water with bottom of wick submerged. Your seeds will flourish as never before.

Making Apple Cider Could Provide Brand New Industry

MONTREAL(CP) — Developments in two apple-growing districts of Canada point the way to establishment of a new industry.

A few experimental batches of apple cider have been run off in the Quebec government through the Mont Rouge Apple Co-operative with satisfactory results.

In British Columbia's Okanagan Valley, small lots of cider have already been made commercially and marke, tests carried out. More is to go on sale after legal technicalities have been overcome.

At a recent meeting here of the Quebec Apple-Producers Association, growers urged the provincial government to press more apples.

There were two reasons for the interest in cider: Loss of markets in the United Kingdom and several freats in 1935.

W h e n the United Kingdom switched to lower priced European apples, Canadian growers were stuck with a surplus that had to be disposed of before it spoiled.

Frost damaged trees so badly that many last season produced fruit below market standards for size and color. Generally, unsold apples are turned into juice and sauce.

But even these products, the Quebec association said, don't find the favor they should on markets.

In alcoholic form, the association speculated, apples might find more favor.

Establishment of a regular cider industry in Quebec would not only give growers an expanded market, it would cut short the flourishing but illegal business of bootlegging super-strength cider, the association said.

The cider plan has found favor among responsible officials. Quebec Agriculture Minister Laurent Barre, who represents the apple-growing county of Iberville, has warned that he is against "flooding the province with alcohol" but has no objection to controlled, hygienic production of unaspgared cider which contains about six per cent alcohol.

The B.C. cider, sold in small lots as a market test late last year, was produced in Summerland, B.C., by the Dominion Experimental Farm in co-operation with the Co-operative B.C. Fruit Processors, Ltd. It contained low alcohol percentage and was a light, sparkling brow with a fruity herd, like beer.

Main difference between B.C. and Quebec cider is due to the variety of apple used.

The Okanagan drink was made from Delicious apples, which give a sweet, light-colored juice. The Delicious variety is not extensively grown in Quebec.

Here the main source is McIntosh apples, which give more juice per box than do the Delicious apples, but yield a flat-tasting product.

Both types differ from England's popular ciders, generally made from tangy, sourish, specially - grown cider apples.

Weddings

MATTHEWS—VERMILYEA

Bridge Street United Church was the setting on Saturday, March 2nd., at 7.30 p.m. for a lovely evening wedding when Margaret Ann Vermilyea of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Vermilyea, became the bride of John Douglas Matthews, also of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Matthews. The Reverend H. M. Davis, B.A., pastor of the church, officiated before a background of red carnations, red tulips and white snapdragons in tall white standards, interspersed with ferns.

Mrs. Ron Bertrand, of Kingston, was the guest soloist, and sang before the ceremony, "I'll Walk Beside You," and "Because" during the signing of the register, accompanied by the church organist, Mr. Alec Gordon.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. S. E. Vermilyea, the bride was radiant in her white silk velvet bridal gown fashioned on princess lines in cocktail length with mandarin collar having a scoop neckline and long sleeves ending in lily points over the wrists. Her lace enhanced nylon net headdress, jewelled with brilliants and iridescent sequins, held her lace-edged finger-tip veil of tulle illusion, and she carried a cascade of red roses.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Sylvia Vermilyea as maid of honor, and Miss Judith Vermilyea as bridesmaid, both attired in red satin of cocktail length, and fashioned on princess lines with fitted bodices having three-quarter length sleeves and scoop necklines. They carried bouquets of white feathered mist, added white carnations, and wore matching headdresses with white feathered carnations and red velvet mitts.

Mr. Robert Matthews, of Orillia, attended the bridegroom, while Messrs. Earl Lancaster, Jack Kemp and Ted Haggerty, all of Belleville, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the bride's home, which was beautifully adorned with red tulips, red carnations, white snapdragons and ferns, for the occasion.

The bride's table was lovely in its appointment with white Madiera cloth, centred by a three-tier wedding cake, topped by a tiny bride and bridegroom, and misted about the base with white tulle, dotted with pink carnations. Tall white silver depos tapers in crystal holders and the bridal bouquets added a pretty nuptial note.

The bride's mother, wearing Dior blue with pale blue accessories and corsage of white and blue feathered carnations, received, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, attired in rose-pink blue with white accessories, and corsage of turquoise and white feathered carnations.

For travelling through the eastern United States, for her honeymoon, the bride chose a brown tweed ensemble in Dutch boy style, with brown fur jacket and corsage of yellow Sweetheart roses. Mr. and Mrs. Matthews will reside in Belleville at 241 George St.

Guests attended from Belleville, Kingston, Toronto, Orillia, Brighton, and Trenton.

A miscellaneous shower honoring the bride was given by the couple at Picton Point and friends. A tea was also held in her honor by Mrs. Wilbur Sherry, when the bride-elect was presented with a crystal cake plate.

ACCIDENTS COSTLY

BOSTON (AP) — The Institute for Safer Living says that if all accidents could be eliminated in the United States for one year the money saved could build 1,000,000 new single-family houses. The institute, sponsored by the American Mutual Liability Insurance Company, estimated accidents last year cost $19,500,000,000.

St. Julien Chapter IODE Views Two Films at March Meeting

Two films, "The Stratford Adventure," and "Passage and Power," were the highlights of the regular March meeting of St. Julien Chapter, I.O.D.E.

The Stratford adventure is the story of how the Stratford festival came into being. It is a story of the development of Canadian art and culture.

In January, 1952, the originator of the plan for a theatre festival outlined his ideas to the Stratford city council. A committee was formed and after much planning, searching for talent and deciding that a tep-like scale should be maintained, Mr. Patterson was sent to Europe where he engaged Alec Guinness, a leading actor and top executives in their field, to start production. In December of the same year Dr. Tyrone Guthrie, a world famous Shakespearian authority, auditioned nearly 400 actors and actresses. He also helped lay foundation plans, select plays and similar detailed arrangements.

OVER 1.00 CONTRIBUTED

In January 1953, a plan to raise $150,000 was initiated, for higher than the original amount set at $20,000. $40,000 was raised in Stratford in two months, further funds were raised outside Stratford and by mid June $157,000 was realized. There were over 1,000 contributors.

While the fund raising was going on, Cecil Charles, brought from Old Vic Theatre in London to act as production manager, was busy organizing.

The three and one-half ton canvas tent and the 10 ton concrete foundation was poured and the diamond shaped open stage was assembled and an opening night, July 13th, Richard III, with Alec Guiness and an all-Canadian cast presented the opening play.

There has been a succession of well-known Shakespearian plays such as "Measure for Measure," "Merchant of Venice," "Odipus Rex," "Taming of the Shrew," "Julius Ceasar," "Henry V," "The Merry Wives of Windsor," and "Tamboulaine the Great," to mention a few and the well-known names to head the cast.

A permanent theatre is now being built and His Excellency Governor General Massey laid the cornerstone for the new $1,500,000 permanent structure on January 28th. Progress is being made and by mid May should be ready for rehearsals.

Shakespeare's immortal plays will continue to be presented at a level of performance and diversion which his given Stratford, Ontario, a reputation rivalling that of Stratford, Warwickshire, England.

"PASSAGE AND POWER"

The second film, entitled "Passage and Power," is a picture loaned by the Canadian General Electric Company. It is a film about a great engineering feat going on right now and is called the St. Lawrence Seaway project. It tells about continuity of the Atlantic to the Great Lakes, and will rank high with other great world engineering undertakings.

As a symbol of co-operation between two neighbouring countries, it already is an element of international amity as the 3,000 miles of undefended border between them. As an instrument for the increase of trade and prosperity not only to our country, but to the whole continent and the world at large, and with such increase in trade a further cementing of world peace, it stands unexampled in recent years.

Prior to the showing of these films a short business meeting was held at which the regent, Mrs. G. Vince, and first vice-regent, Mrs. W. Easton, were named delegates to provincial annual meeting April 10, 11 and 12th.

An invitation was received from the Hon. J. R. Cooke Chapter, Stirling, to attend a fashion show this month.

Mrs. C. F. Bishop, services at home and abroad secretary, reported that a carton of knitting had been shipped to provincial headquarters. National Chapter reports that 87 cases of clothing, valued at $48,000 have been sent to the British Save the Children Fund for Hungarian refugees.

Mrs. Leonard Brettle, film convener, was thanked for arranging the film night.

Women's Activities

JOHNSTOWN W.A.

JOHNSTOWN — The Johnstown Women's Association held its meeting at the home of Mrs. A. A. Vandervoort on Thursday afternoon.

The Scripture reading found in Hebrews 11:1-10 was given by Mrs. C. J. Brunt. The lesson thoughts were read by Mrs. E. Stickle, concerning "Faith." Faith calls for pride trust and gives one an unquenchable longing for the living God. We all have days of dejection. Faith requires patience and co-operation with God. Faith frees us from inferiority complex and each of us can say "I know my Redeemer liveth."

Mrs. Clapp thanked Mrs. Vandervoort for the use of her home.

Mrs. A. Meyers thanked all the ladies who had sent cards to her home on the occasion of their 40th wedding anniversary.

The officers were then installed for 1957 by the past president, Mrs. G. Stickle.

An invitation was received from King Street Church asking the Johnstown ladies to attend their next Women's Missionary Society meeting on April 2 with Mrs. Parkman of Stirling as guest speaker.

It was arranged to have a day of quilting at the home of Mrs. E. Stickle on March 14 with a pot-luck dinner. All are asked to attend as the W.A. wants to put on two quilts.

Mrs. W. S. Harry and Mrs. A. Vandervoort will be responsible for the program for April.

A London poem was read, "A Penknife", by Mrs. Grant, "Girl of Touch" by Mrs. McLeod an Irish poem, "Wilful Gifts" was given by Mrs. G. Stickler. "New Every Morning" by Mrs. K. Stickle.

A game was played and refreshments were served by the hostess and conveners ending a nice afternoon.

CIVIC GLACIER

The city of Boulder, Colo., has exclusive rights to the Arapahoe Glacier which serves as a water reservoir.

Moira W.I. Enjoys European Travelogue

The March meeting of Moira Women's Institute took the form of an "Education Night," held in Moira school with Mrs. Nelson Welsh as convener.

Mr. Frank Windsor, of Canniton, gave a illustrated lecture on his trip to Europe last year with Canadian Postmasters. He took his delighted listeners through England, Holland, Germany, France, Switzerland and Italy.

Mrs. Collins, president of the Institute, thanked Mr. Windsor for his kindness and welcomed former residents of Moira, Mr. and Mrs. Holgate and Mrs. Windsor.

Mrs. John Farrell and Mrs. George Ewald each gave a reading, Mrs. Nelson Welsh favored with a solo and led a sing-song.

Refreshments were served to elicee a pleasant and profitable evening.

SAFETY COUSSE

A monthly hour of instruction in traffic safety is given in schools in some parts of West, Germany.

Hastings-Pr. Edward District Presbytery W.A. Held at Bridge St.

The spring executive of the Hastings - Prince Edward district Women's Association of Belleville Presbytery of the United Church of Canada convened in Bridge St. church on Tuesday commencing at 11 o'clock with the president, Mrs. J. E. Martin, welcoming the 49 members in attendance. Following the theme hymn, the secretary, Mrs. Kenneth Weaver, R.R. 3, Stirling, read the minutes of the fall meeting which were adopted.

The corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. G. Smith, Belleville, has been busy writing letters and sending notices of meetings and programs. One letter of great importance and interest was read from the Rev. H. Lane, assistant secretary of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service Department of the United Church of Canada in which he advised that he would be happy to accept the invitation of the executive to speak to the annual meeting on May 20th.

Mrs. Norman Crawford of R.R. 8, Picton, gave a full report of the literature department and introduced some of the new literature. The pamphlet "Christ and You", by the Rev. F. W. Munro was stressed for the lenten Bible study and worship.

Visiting and Christian Fellowship were given some discussion in relation to the secretary, Miss L. Johnston, Trenton, who also appealed to the local associations to appoint visiting committees.

At this time, the meeting adjourned to partake of a box lunch which was nourishing and stimulating.

The afternoon session opened with Mrs. R. C. Jackman, Madoc, devotional secretary, conducting a brief but impressive worship service. "God is the answer to every need. Today shall we not make a new covenant with Him. If we pledge ourselves to follow and give our lives wholly in His keeping Ho will lead us to higher plane."

REPORTS

Reports were continued and Mrs. R. Hodgin, Picton, temperance secretary; Mrs. R. C. Jackman, devotional secretary; Mrs. W. R. Hill, Trenton, christian citizenship secretary; Mrs. D. G. Carter, Picton, Christian stewardship secretary, were all pleased with reports received from the local associations but asked that more information be given and urged every W. A. to affiliate with the Presbytery W. A. This is done by remitting $1. for fee and ten cents for each member of the W.A. to the recording secretary of the Presbytery W.A., Mrs. Kenneth Weaver, R.R. 3, Stirling.

Mrs. A. Pyear, past president, has been endeavoring to find historical facts of the Women's Associations in the Presbytery and related some information that she has obtained. It would be interesting to know which church had the first W.A. or as was known before, church union, Ladies' Aid.

CHILDREN'S CAMP

A letter from the local Women's Christian Temperance Union was read asking the women to exercise a deeper interest in the Conneon Children's Camp which is interdenominational and operated on non profitable basis. The property is having to be purchased at this time and an appeal goes out for cash contributions so the Children's Camp may be retained. Donations may be sent to either Mrs. K. Weaver RR 3 Stirling; or to the manager of the Bank of Montreal, Belleville.

The president announced that all rallies have been most successful. The agenda for the annual convention on May 30th was drawn up.

Mrs. Marsh closed the meeting with prayer.

Dr. K.M. Douglas Addresses B.G.H. Alumnae

The regular meeting of the Belleville General Hospital Nurse's Alumnae was held Tuesday evening in the Ritchie Memorial Residence, with a large group in attendance.

Dr. K. M. Douglas, M.D., F.C.S., the guest speaker, was introduced by Miss Joanne Crocker, program convener, the topic being "Recent Advances in Surgery."

Dr. Douglas based his talk on the following four headings:

"Accumulated Experience from Statistics"; "Refinements in Technique"; "New Adjunctive Measures"; "New Operations".

Throughout the address, the members viewed slides of new procedures used in surgery and new equipment available.

A special vote of thanks was extended by Miss Elinor Boyce, president of the Alumnae.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting by Miss Elizabeth Jose and Miss Eva Nickle.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

MAKE YOUR HOUSEWARMING A CHARMING OCCASION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We have just moved into our new house, and I have been asked by several people if we are going to have a housewarming. We certainly would like to have one as we are so proud to have a home of our own at last. But I hesitate because, although we certainly could use some things for the house, it seems to me that a "Housewarming" is an obvious bid for a gift. So first will you give me your point of view on this, please? Then, if you think it will be all right for us to have our Housewarming, will you please answer some questions for me?

1. How soon after moving into the new house, is it customary to have a Housewarming?

2. How many guests is it customary to invite? Could we have two housewarmings, one for my husband's side and one for my side?

3. What are the usual hours for a Housewarming?

4. Are there any special duties for the host and or hostess?

5. Who admits the guests?

6. If gifts are brought, when should they be opened? What should be done with them after they are opened? (Our house is small, therefore not much room for display.) Is it correct for either husband or wife to open them, or should we take turns doing this?

Your help will be deeply appreciated. — V..R.

A Housewarming can be a most delightful occasion, heartwarming, memorable. When you invite relatives and friends, think of the invitation as a Welcome-to-Our-New Home, and don't worry about whether or not they will think they 'must' bring gifts . . . and this is as it should be.

1. No rule about this . . . give your Housewarming as soon as you can conveniently, as soon as the house is ready, to be "shown." (This includes closets in order, for guests to inspect!)

2. Naturally the number of guests depends on the available space. Better to have only one housewarming, if possible, but you may have two if you wish.

3. Saturday or Sunday afternoon is usually chosen, the hours usually from 3-to-6, or 4-to-7.

4. The hosts receive the guests with warm welcome . . . make introductions, see that all guests are happily taken care of, as is the way of all hospitality. You, the hostess, should invite several relatives and or friends to show the guests through the house; and two co-hostesses for each hour to preside over the tea or buffet table.

5. Ask one or two members of your family, or close relatives or friends, to be at the door, to greet the guests and indicate where they are to leave their wraps.

6. If possible, open the gifts as they are handed to you. The donors will want you to do this, to show your enthusiasm.) Put them nearby, on display for all to see. The hostess usually is the one to open the gifts, and the host may help in this happy procedure.

Have fun at your Housewarming!

Deauville Dandy

By TRACY ADRIAN

Mr. John, fabulous couturier-milliner, named this chic little chapeau "Deauville Dandy" and said it is an example of his suitor silhouettes. That we figured meant that this style was designed to top off a spring suit.

The one shown is made of textured Tuscan straw and is softened with a velvet band. It is worn with a knitted wool jacket and a wool skirt in the photograph but the hat would go equally well with any tailored outfits.

OLD ORNAMENTS

Among the earliest ornaments were small bronze imitations of animals.

Family Enjoyed 2-Year Sojourn In Europe

OTTAWA (CP)—You could call the Eakins family the happy wanderers.

Flt. Lt. James Eakins, his wife and five children returned to Canada after a two-year sojourn in Europe during which they made many trips from the RCAF base at Metz, France.

Native of Montreal, Flt. Lt. Eakins now is stationed at the Rockcliffe air base here. There are six small Eakins now, David, born in Ottawa six months ago, has yet to be initiated to globe-trotting.

One of the other five children, two-year-old Richard Pierre, was born in Metz. The others are Canadian-born. Mrs. Eakins herself is a native of Newmarket, Ont.

AT HOME ABROAD

After travelling around Canada and Western Europe the older children have developed an international outlook. They are Barbara, 13, Jimmy, 12, Betsy, 7, and Georgie, 4.

Snuggled into the family car, hauling a large trailer, the family visited such places as Germany, Italy, Switzerland and the French Riviera. Language seemed no barrier to the children, said Mrs. Eakins. "They managed to find their way into villages and make themselves understood in German, Dutch or French."

Schooling was carried on fairly regularly, too. But when the family first moved to a village near Metz the language barrier prompted a new type of grading. The school authorities put the Canadians into classes according to their height.

Back in Canada, Barbara said she was shy during her first day at an Ottawa school "but I made friends at recess."

Jimmy, the second-eldest, says he's all for returning to France —if only the boys didn't have to wear short pants to school.

Between 1939 and 1955, the number of cleaning and dyeing plants in Canada rose from 126 to 1,200.

Accent on Green for Sunday

By Mary Moore

You don't need me to tell you that you should be serving more fish to that family of yours. Your conscience keeps pricking you. The trouble is you know how to roast beef with your eyes shut, but when it comes to fish . . . if you do not have one a round or square pan."

HALIBUT RING PLATTER FOR SAINT PATRICK'S DINNER

One and one-half pounds halibut or other solid fish, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon each grated onion and chopped parsley, 3 tablespoons each butter or margarine, flour, 1½ cups rich milk, 3 eggs, salt and pepper. Wash the fish and simmer it in a little salted water until tender. Drain. Remove all bones from fish and flake into small pieces. Season well with salt and pepper. Add the lemon juice, onion and parsley. Melt the butter, stir in the flour, then the milk until thick. Beat the eggs, add them and the fish to the cream sauce and add more salt and pepper if needed. Mix well and pour into a well-greased ring mould. Stand in pan of hot water and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. about 45 minutes or until set. Loosen around edges with spatula. Turn upside down on chop plate. Let stand a few minutes then lift off mould. (Don't shake it—it may break the mould — just be patient, for after steaming a minute or so it loosens itself.) Fill the centre with quick-cooked frozen peas. As a border round the outside edge arrange buttered diced carrots and garnish them with quick-steam-pan-fried green pepper rings.

At half the price you can do the same thing with

CODFISH BALLS

By arranging them in a ring on the platter or baking the mixture in a well greased mould until puffy, in a hot oven, instead of frying it. Two cups finely, picked salt codfish and about 6 or 7 medium potatoes are boiled together until potatoes are soft. Drain well and mash together until very smooth. Add 2 well beaten eggs, 2 tablespoons butter and about ¼ teaspoon pepper. Beat until light as down. Drop by dessertspoonfuls into hot deep fat, frying only a few at a time. Drain on absorbent paper and serve as quickly as possible. Spinach would be pretty as a green with this if you want to go along with the Irish idea.

LOBSTERS TOPS

Canada's Atlantic fisheries produced $17,764,000 worth of lobsters in 1956, compared with $15,622,000 for cod.

"Have you heard the latest?" "New DAWN is a beauty soap with a deodorant right in it!"

Stops perspiration odour for a full 24 hours or more—beautifies your skin at the same time!

You've never used any soap like new Dawn—the bath and beauty soap with a deodorant right in it!

Here's why! Dawn contains Deodorine, an exclusive new deodorant. When used regularly and exclusively, Dawn checks the action of odour-causing skin bacteria for a full 24 hours or more.

An underarm deodorant is not enough. Dawn bathes away the cause of perspiration odour—keeps you morning-fresh all over. And this is very important —because of course you perspire all over.

Dawn is a beauty soap, too. New Dawn cleanses so thoroughly, so gently. And Dawn—with Deodorine—checks the action of bacteria that cause skin blemishes.

New Dawn helps keep your complexion fresh, radiant, satin-smooth. Dawn improves your complexion—the way a beauty soap should. And Dawn is mild.

Your whole family will love new Dawn—the family bath and beauty soap with the deodorant right in it. Be sure to try Dawn right away.

Look for DAWN in the blue foil wrapper.

DAWN WITH DEODORINE Keeps you morning-fresh all day long!

BEAUTY

SPRING SUITS DEMAND BEAUTIFUL POSTURE

Sheath skirts and tight-fitting jackets call for a slim figure, perfect posture.

The sleek lines of new Spring suits are a challenge. If a woman's overweight, it's time she got busy shedding the pounds that make sheath skirts and tight-fitting little jackets bulge incongruously. And, if she's not overweight but has developed the habit of slouching, the hour has arrived to start improving her posture. Even a custom tailored outfit has a bargain basement look if posture's poor so, before you buy that svelte number you have in mind, why not take a good look at yourself in a full length mirror.

After all, when you do buy the suit you want it to look as lovely on you as it does on the store model. To prevent disappointment, therefore, let's devote today to a lesson in posture.

To the mirror now . . . stripped down to bra and briefs. Stand in your usual posture, sideways. If you are average, you will see a definite bunchiness about the rear hip facade. The hollow at the small of the back dips in too far, the hips bulge out and back too much. Perhaps your shoulders are too rigid. If they are, relax, try to hold them in an easy position, head high.

Now, let's think about those hips again and what can be done to remedy your posture from the shoulders down. Stand easily. Use your hips as a single hinge and, locking the knees to keep them steady, try to move the whole hip section forward. If you can do this without any movement in the upper back or the knees, you will feel a pronounced contraction of the muscles in the lower abdomen which extends naturally up through the chest to lift it, and on up through neck muscles to stretch them and lift the head.

You actually can see a lengthening of the hipline in this stance. Do not, however, try all at once to maintain the hinge-forward posture of the hips. Relax and let your body go back to its customary position. Then, very deliberately, repeat the movement and relax again. You could call this an exercise—except that if you merely go through the motions as is so apt to be the case with a cut-and-dried exercise, you might as well skip it. The object here is not only to feel the muscular constriction, but also to develop, gradually, steadily, a keen sense of balance that tells you when hips are carried in their proper place and your torso weight is neatly stacked.

You can make this mirror stunt into a profitable exercise by practicing it daily. You should do it stripped down, in your bare or stockinged feet and with feet about four inches apart and toes parallel. But it is an inconspicuous little exercise you can perform whenever you think of it, when you are fully dressed throughout the day. The more often the better—for you'll catch on to the balancing that much faster.

Remember that with this Spring's figure-hugging silhouettes you can't cheat on posture the way you may have done with bouffant skirts.

NEW TRENDS

By VERA WINSTON

Many of the new fashion trends, such as sheer woolen, checks, the tunic, and blousing are incorporated in this new daytime dress. It is of wool in black and white checks. It is a tunic model and is blousy above the waist. A black calf belt marks the waist at its normal line. The center band lends strength to the silhouette. The tunic is 7/8 length with a curved point at the center and the under skirt is straight and narrow.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

LET DANNY MAKE A MAN OF HIMSELF FIRST

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm an only child and 18 years old. My mother raised me since my father left us when I was very young. I've always had practically everything I could ever want, because my mother comes from a large family and I think they all love me very much and take pride in me.

My boy friend, who is 18, was his parents' only child. They separated, and both married again. Then my boy friend first lived with his father, then his grandmother and finally went back with his mother. I think this made him very confused. Also, he was very hurt when his mother remarried, because he never got along with her husband.

Anyhow, he got into the wrong company, and last summer stole a car. Now he's in a reformatory. He's sorry for what he did, and when he comes home and proves to me that he loves me by getting a job and not running around with a wild crowd, I would like to marry him. That's what he and I both want more than anything else.

My mother says, though, that she will disown me if I ever go with a boy who has a record. She says that none of my family ever brought disgrace on our family and that if "I had anything to do with Danny, I'd disgrace them."

Could ours be love at 18? My mother says No. Yet I know there'll never be anyone else but him, because I go out with other boys, but yet never forget Danny.

How could I possibly give him up? Yet I don't want to cause any disgrace to my family. — E.B

Dear E.B.:

Undoubtedly it was Danny's confusions and unhappiness over the break-up of his home and his experiences thereafter that led him into "the wrong company" and finally into trouble with the law. But just because he made these mistakes, it certainly does not follow that he's a bad boy. It's quite likely, in fact, that he has in him the makings of a fine one, and that, if he can get the help he needs, he'll take himself in hand and develop into a good citizen after he gets out of the reformatory. But he will need help, and badly, and I'm very sorry that your mother feels as she does. For if she would take a sympathetic and understanding interest in Danny, it would do a great deal to help him become a man of good character.

While your parents broke up, too, you were more fortunate than Danny, because you apparently were always loved and protected.

What I suggest is that you write Danny and ask him if he won't send your mother a letter, telling her how sorry he is that he got into such trouble and that he sincerely intends, once he is free again, to lead an entirely different life. Tell him that you and your mother would like to have him come to see you, and that you will help him to get a job. Suggest that he write to you and your mother, and tell him that you will permit him to come and have a talk with him.

If he'll write this kind of letter, he might really do something to change your mother's attitude, for it is pretty hard for anyone to be hurt over a thing that is a real joy for both, especially when he makes it clear that he loves her in spite of her ability to help him. If she does turn him down, though, let me know, and we'll find further ideas.

Of course you won't make plans to marry for several years yet, until Danny shows what sort of man he is going to make of himself. But if he turns into one in whom you can have complete confidence, then I see no reason why you should not eventually marry him if you still wish to do so. He likely would be no disgrace whatever in marrying a young man who had the courage and the strength of character to make amends for a past mistake, and so proved he could be trusted to do the right thing in the future.

Bonspiel Draw Run by Woman At Calgary

CALGARY (CP)—Some know her as "Peggy." To others she is "Pete." She calls herself "Hey Hey." To thousands of curlers in western Canada she is "the voice" who knows all the answers" at the Calgary bonspiel.

In private life she's Mrs. Stanley Foss, blue-eyed grandmother who loves to cook and sew and entertain the neighborhood children.

But in the curling season there's not much private life for Peggy. As a secretary of the sport, curling takes up every waking hour, especially during bonspiel week. During the last bonspiel here her telephone at curling headquarters rang on an average of once a minute.

She sits at a desk in front of a large sheet of paper on which are marked the draws for every match in the bonspiel. She can tell at a glance exactly when each rink is to play, against whom, at what rink and on what sheet of ice.

She also has all the rules handy. She can tell inquirers everything from how many feet it is between the hog lines to how to count a rock that is broken in contact with another.

STAYS OFF ICE

Peggy's work actually starts right after Christmas when she begins her correspondence with various rinks concerning entries in the Calgary bonspiel. This year she sent out more than 1,000 letters.

The unusual part is that it is that Peggy has never thrown a curling stone in her life. When her husband, Stan—she calls him Bud —first took up curling, Peggy thought he would have to wear skates. After watching a few games, she decided it was something like croquinole and let it go at that.

Mrs. Foss says she sort of fell into her job at the bonspiel headquarters six years ago. Her husband was named secretary and vowed she would have nothing to do with it. Then she started taking entries over the telephone, helping with the typing and correspondence.

"Sometimes I have a sneaking hunch this whole thing was strictly premeditated on Bud's part," she says with a twinkle in her eye.

"It's pretty hectic. But I love it. Curlers are wonderful people."

Softened Sheath

By ALICE ALDEN

The sheath is with us although mostly in softened versions rather than the original stark silhouette. Youthful wearers love it and have adopted it in lieu of the wide, petticoated skirt even for party wear. Mayhap because it has a sheath look about it and is so figure-flattering, especially if the wearer is slender. Here is a new one for evening, a stunning sheath of silk shantung in navy or black with white lingerie collar and cuffs. An adjustable tie-back held to give a fine fit and lithe line. The dress is fully taffeta liner for shape retention

ENTHRONE BISHOP

BAIE COMEAU, Que. (CP)—A vigorous 41 - year - old ex-army chaplain, Msgr. Gerard Couturier, was enthroned here Tuesday as Bishop of the Gulf of St. Lawrence. His diocese runs eastward from Tadoussac to Natashquan and embraces Anticosti Island.

GIRL GUIDE, BROWNIE NEWS

Brownie Pack 3 — Brown Owl D. Jeffers.

The Pack held a Valentine party at which each Brownie made a valentine for her mother. Baden-Powell centenary badges were given at the next meeting, for which, as a project the Brownies will make toys and favors for the children in hospitals. Two Brownies have earned their house orderly badges, Carol Grey and Deanna Daelmadge.

Brownie Pack 4 — Brown Owl L. Duggan.

The Pack had a recent ceremony to present service stars to eleven Brownies. Heather Cassell, Dianne Chapman, Mary Ann Darlington, Colleen Gray, Linda Guest, Beth Kerr, Lynda McBride, Barbara McCracken, Heather Ogilvie and Doreen Plunder were awarded a 1-year service star and Bernice Barr was awarded a 2-year service star.

On March 6th the Pack was honored by a visit from District Commissioner Mrs. R. Settle. At this meeting Mrs. Settle enrolled Meribeth Clarke and Mary Lee Duggan.

Brownie Pack 7 — Brown Owl M. Townsend.

The Brownies had a valentine party. They also had a candlelight service for "Thinking Day". Linda Lane and Judith Ann Carson have recently been enrolled.

Brownie Pack 8 — Brown Owl C. Kuntze.

The 8th Belleville Brownies celebrated "Thinking Day" with a birthday party. Each Brownie had a cake with a candle and when they blew out their candles, they sent their good wishes to Brownies everywhere. At the March meeting a tomakers' badge was presented to Nancy Miller and the collector's badge was presented to Jan Jarvis and Frances Sheffield. Each Brownie was given her Baden-Powell centenary badge.

GUIDE NEWS

Coral Knott, Jackie Sharland, Gail Shannon, are dressing a doll in a Guide uniform and it will be sent to the Centenary Camp at Doe Lake, this summer.

Guide Company 7 — Lieut. C. Reid.

The Guides were presented with their Baden - Powell centenary badges. The company is working hard making a log book.

RANGER NEWS

1st Belleville Land Rangers — Captain D. Aikin.

The month of February proved to be quite busy for the Land Rangers. At the Patrol Leaders' Conference, Arlene Cox gave a short talk on Rangers. "Thinking Day" came up with the Rangers lending a hand with the service at the Collegiate. Two Rangers took part in the program, being June McFaul, and Arlene Cox. Beverley Samuels and Joy Butler acted as ushers for the Guides and Brownies. The Rangers helped with the nursery at the local association tea. The end of the month came to a close with an enjoyable evening spent with the Sea Rangers of S.R.S. "Quinte" at Picton. Miss Pat Cornell has joined the Ranger Company.

Women's Acfivities

W.M.S. E. AUXILIARY

The March meeting of the Evening Auxiliary of the W.M.S. was held at Mrs. K. S. Austin's with a large attendance. The president, Mrs. N. Crosby, presided.

Business followed. It was decided to take any good used clothing in the April meeting to be sent to Europe. Mrs. D. Fox volunteered to assist Mrs. J. Putnam with the Mission Band.

Worship was taken by Mrs. W. McColl. Theme of the worship was "Hope". Mrs. E. Ellis read the Scripture and Mrs. J. May gave a reading, "Hope".

Mrs. Newman took the study book with questions on Burma and Thailand, answered by all members present.

The president moved a vote of thanks to the hostess and also to Mrs. Newman and Mrs. McColl for the most inspiring worship. After the meeting closed refreshments were served by Mrs. McColl and her group.

MAY CONTROL OWNERSHIP

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is considering a suggestion that it introduce legislation to ensure that ownership of Canadian life insurance companies is retained in Canada, Finance Minister Harris said Tuesday. He was replying to aj question in Comment.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

ST. JOHN'S W.A.

CAMPBELLFORD — The regular meeting of St. John's W.A. was held in the Sunday School room with the president, Mrs. Robert Fox, presiding.

Routine business was discussed and Mrs. Johnston reported 25 calls made. The W.A. voted to purchase two woollen blankets for Campbellford Memorial Hospital. The ladies were reminded of the "Mother and Daughter" banquet to be held in May and of the "Opportunity Sale" to be held in that month also.

Mrs. Ward Archer and Mrs. W. A. Johnston were in charge of the program. Mrs. Archer presided, and Mrs. Sloggett read a Scripture lesson, Psalm 16, and led in prayer. Mrs. Allan Watson contributed a lovely solo, "Smiling Through."

An appropriate duet was sung by Mrs. D. Bennett and Mrs. D. Rutherford, accompanied by Mrs. George Nicholls at the piano.

A contest was also conducted, which was enjoyed.

TRINITY W.M.S.

MADOC — The March meeting of Trinity United Woman's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. Jesse Reid on Wednesday afternoon. The president, Mrs. Albert Empey was in charge and opened the meeting with quotations from some of the fine sermons preached by the Rev. Paul Smith during the Crusade, and which had impressed her most strongly.

During the business period, reports were received from stewardship secretary, Mrs. Bennett, who closed her report with a poem and prayer for the missionary, Miss Elsie Rosenberg, stationed at Regina.

Community friendship was reported by Mrs. F. Fleming. Miss Holmes reported on supplies and planned for the making of a layette.

The roll call was answered by an apron parade, proceeds for expense committee.

Mrs. W. McCoy and her associate helpers were in charge of the worship service and program. For the worship service the theme was, "The Whole Armour of God."

The Bible story, taken from Ephesians, was read by Mrs. R. C. Jackson, with comment being made by Mrs. McCoy. Mrs. McCoy was also in charge of the study book, "Burma and Thailand" assisted by Mesdames Fleming, Parks, Whytock, Lane, Tanner, Jackson, K. Gordon, Hayton, Empey and Garrison who gave short readings and Miss Olive Ash and Mrs. Arbis who gave a synopsis in d'Togue form, which was interesting.

Mrs. Jackson, Sr., closed the meeting with prayer.

A happy social half-hour followed with Mrs. Reid and her assistants serving afternoon tea.

CHRIST CHURCH W.A.

CAMPBELLFORD — The regular monthly meeting of Christ Church Woman's Auxiliary was held in the parish hall on Monday afternoon with a good attendance.

Devotions began with the singing of "Soldiers of Christ, Arise", followed by prayer and Scripture reading by Mrs. A. MacColl.

During the business session, final arrangements were made for an evening of color slides showing the latest in flower developments, to be held in the parish hall on Thursday evening, March 21 at 8 p.m. Mrs. W. Lelliott of Codrington will do the commenting.

The next meeting will be given over to packing the yearly missionary bale to be sent to W.A. house in Toronto for distribution.

The study book on South East Asia was begun with Mrs. Ronald Joyce taking the first chapter.

An interesting talk in the Church Army was given by Mr. Roy Smith and was enjoyed by all.

Tea was served at the close of the afternoon.

Mother's Helper

FOR THE FASTEST possible Valentine table trimming, take red construction paper and put a big paper lace doily on top—for each place setting. If you have a bit more time, cut the paper in a heart shape and use a small doily in the center. This is extra special for a little girl's Valentine tea party.

Y's Menettes Fashion Show, St. Patrick Tea, Well Attended

Refreshingly springlike was the dainty St. Patrick's tea and attractive fashion show sponsored by the Y's Menettes yesterday afternoon in the auditorium of the Y.M.C.A. The theme colors were in evidence in the trifoil shamrocks which adorned the walls and taunted forth between the entwined festoons of green and which wound round and round the tall, square pillars.

The tea table, with its white, Irish damask cloth, was also garlanded with a rope of Paddy green, and centred by white feathery chrysanthemums, mingled with green carnations and asparagus fern. Tall, green tapers in silver holders, and gleaming silver services completed the pleasing appointment.

In the quadrangle formed by the tall pillars, the white-covered guest tables were arranged so that the patrons might enjoy the delicious buttered nut-breads and tea, as well as watch the attractive models as they displayed the charming gowns, suits, hats, coats, luxurious furs, eye-catching jewellery and dainty shoes and handbags which added so much to the presentation.

RECEIVING

Receiving the guests were Ferne Williams and Jean Flindall, while taking tickets was Mary Schuman. The tea room hostess, Norma Clarke, graciously attended her guests. Those presiding at the tea table included: Mrs. G. Scott and Mrs. E. E. Pollwell; Mrs. H. J. Fuke and Mrs. L. K. Daniel. In charge of the kitchen was Doris Trill, assisted by L. Boyd, D. Pearson, G. Read, A. Leslie, H. Watson, J. Finny and J. Sine. Those who served were: R. Lowther, J. Holway, J. Wonnacott, D. Locke, M. Whitfield, S. Cronk, P. White, B. Campbell, B. Cass and M. Fletcher.

Promptly at the appointed time, the models, Audrene Moorman, Martha Booth, Mary Johnson, Irene Weir, Ingrid Bateman and Hazel Thomas, proceeded to display the latest fashions, with Harriet Stevens as their delightful commentator, attractively attired in misty pink, with pink accessories and gorgeous stole of platinum grey mink with pink corsage.

Among the styles shown were those of blouses and skirts, separate all-weather coats ; the popular car coats; jumper dresses; chic little hats in rough straw, with matching gloves; rich furs in stoles, throws, three-quarter length coats, and lovely jackets, some with the new flat backs, and others with the rippling four pleats.

MISTY VIOLET FOR SPRING

The outstanding colors in gowns were, shrimp, coral, misty mauve, black and white with abundance of floral designs, some on the wallpaper style. One suit which caught the attention was of misty violet with shorty jacket having Dolman sleeves, with an inverted box pleat in the skirt back. Most skirts were of the mid-calf variety, though one or two were noticed about two inches below the knee. Capes are also chic, and about elbow length.

The new printed silk so extensively used in dresses has the maximum of flattery lending itself to many types of dress, afternoon and cocktail. Wool holds, its own.

Among the furs new lamb is 'tops' and was demonstrated in the shortie length and the new 24 inch length with a casual back. Blue mink is next with its new flat back. Collars are rolled, and sleeves show a tendency to be narrower with smaller cuffs. Another coat was of pink pearl, also in the 36 inch length, was attractive, soft and lovely.

SMALL FURS FAVORED

The small piece furs are also much favored this season, and were shown in white Arctic fox, Canadian wild mink, sapphire mink, a natural.

The shoes favored open toes, strapped, in patent, with medium and high heels.

Costume jewellery was sparkling and gay and with the new aurora borealis in the spotlight.

Following the showing of styles, the drawing of the lucky tickets took place with the following results: ticket 1904, shoes, won by Miss Ronda Batt; cosmetic kit, No. 1982, Mrs. F. Lemmon; ticket 1937, Miss Denton, and hat certificate, 1888, Mrs. Arthur Clare.

Downstairs the bake table, under the convenership of Muriel Edwards, assisted by P. White and M. Fletcher, did a flourishing business, and the homemade bread, date and nut loaves, apple pies and buns, date squares, St. Patrick cake with its green icing, canned tomatoes, jellies, and caramel squares were soon things of the past.

LOCAL MERCHANTS

Local merchants participating in the fashion show included: Leslie's Shoes, Georgia Salon, Woodley's Furs and Hats; Marianne's and Wentworth Jewellers.

Special mention goes to Mary Faulkner for the St. Patrick decorations, and also to all concerned in an exceptionally fine fashion display.

Christ Church C.C. Has Full Agenda

A busy evening of sewing and knitting layette and bazaar articles, provided the Christ Church Contact Club with pleasant work and good fellowship for its regular Monday meeting.

Layette conveners, — Nadine Thorne, Marion Huson, and Francis Anderson requested that the girls please try to complete some of the sewing for the first layette package to be sent in April.

After the club prayer and roll call, June Woodley substituting for secretary Doris Stewart, read the minutes of the last two meetings.

Catharine Roulet requested that all children's winter clothing and apparel be washed and given into the club for use in the box to be sent to the Indian schools next month.

AUCTION SALE

President Alice Wonnacott, announced that next Monday's meeting would be an auction sale. All the girls wishing to bring friends to join in the fun will be welcome.

A motion was unanimously passed turning down the proposed project of selling prayer cups and plates. This decision was reached after a week of thought had been given to the idea.

An appeal was made to all the club by Mr. Fred Beeby, for 10 volunteer members to help conduct a campaign of all Church members to acquaint them with the proposed Evangelistic Mission which is being brought to Christ Church later in the season. Mr. Beeby will be appealing to all the Christ Church groups for workers to help put over this wonderful event.

COFFEE DELIGHT NIGHT

Bazaar convener, Mary Fletcher, wishes the girls to know that the tickets to be printed for the "Coffee Delight Night" and also five pounds of coffee have been generously donated to the club.

All club members were sorry to learn from president, Alice that group leader Aileen Smith would be leaving to take up residence in the west.

Evelyn Clarke presented Aileen with a nice gift on behalf of the Contact girls and expressed their sincere regret at seeing such a valuable club member and good friend leave.

A pleastn

A pleasant social half hour was enjoyed by the girls during which sandwiches, and coffee were served by hostesses Barbara Sweet, Mary Rompon and Micky Lake.

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

The March meeting of St. Andrew's WMS was held in the Sunday school room on Tuesday.

The president opened the meeting, with a devotional period, followed by the minutes, treasurer's report and business of the month.

The Welcome and Welfare committee reported 21 calls made to the sick and shut-ins.

Hugh Bandy sang a solo, entitled "My Task," with Mrs. Boyce at the piano.

The worship period was conducted by Mrs. Mantle and her group and had as its theme, "The Philippine Islands — the People and the Church", showing that of all the islands in Southeast Asia, best known are these islands annexed by the United States in 1898 following the Spanish - American War.

The American occupation was preceded by 333 years of Spanish rule — hence the name "Philippine", named for King Philip of Spain.

The struggle of the Filipinos against the United States began in 1899 and ended three years later with the American promise of independence for the Philippines.

DEMOCRACY'S LESSON LEARNED

The Japanese occupation of the Islands in World War II proves that the Filipinos had learned the lesson of democracy. They did not accept the slogans of the Japanese and they set up guerilla forces that fought behind the Japanese lines until the war ended.

Let us in our prayers, pray that leaders in education may be given guidance in their work that there may be a close unity among the Christians of the many islands.

There are special numbers, found on in the hymnals, who were not converted but are listed as pagans.

IVANHOE

Beulah United Observes World Day of Prayer

IVANHOE — An impressive World Day of Prayer service was held on Friday afternoon in Beulah United Church, Ivanhoe.

This service, prepared by Serena Vassady, formerly of Hungary, was adapted for use in Canada by a committee of the Women's Inter-Church Council of Canada.

The ladies were welcomed by Mrs. S. Twiddy and Mrs. George Wood. The theme of the service was, "Who Shall Separate Us?" Romans 8:35.

The introductory words and call to worship were given by Mrs. Keith Bray, W.M.S. president, who presided and led in the responsive passages.

Mrs. Archie Wickens read the Scripture from Romans 8:31-39

Readings, first, "The Peace of Christ Has A Healing Power;" second, "Woe Unto Us If We Do Not Witness To the Gospel," and third, "Christ Alone Is Our Future," were given by Mrs. Harry Radcliffe, Fuller United; Mrs Ward Holland, Bethesda United, and Mrs. A. Phillips, Beulah United.

The offering was presented by Mrs. Benson French and Mrs. John Wickens.

At this time, Mrs. George Wood gave an accordion solo, "Sweet Hour of Prayer."

The intercession and commitment part of the service was taken by the following: On the unity of the church in effective witness to the power of the gospel, Mrs. Lorne Hagerman, Salem United; For the Queen, all the royal family and all in authority over us, Mrs. Leslie Blakley, Bethesda United; For peace with justice and righteousness, Mrs. Lindsay Tanner, St. Thomas Anglican; For freedom from tyranny and oppression throughout the world, Mrs. Harold Thompson, St. Andrew's Presbyterian; For forgiveness, cleansing and consecration, Mrs. Walton Reid, Standard Church.

The hymns used were: "O God Our Help In Ages Past;" "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross;" "In Christ There Is No East Nor West," and "The Day Thou Gavest Lord Has Ended."

An inspiring address was given by the pastor of Beulah United, the Rev. George Teskey, B.A., who said in part:

"It is indeed a privilege and honor to be asked to address you this afternoon on this special occasion. When women throughout the world, of every race, creed and color, are meeting together to lift their hearts in prayer and praise.

"My thoughts this afternoon are centred around the verses found in John 15:15-17. The idea of not being able to be separated from Christ is a very wonderful one. Christ said: "Love one another." Today we are thinking of friendship and what it means. This word is used in varying forms and degrees. For the most part we use the term loosely.

"Christ has an unshakable trust in even the most ordinary person. He said, 'Ye have not chosen Me, but I have chosen you.'

"Let us think of the real meaning of friendship. Cicero, Aristotle and Buddha have given different definitions. But Jesus tells of real friendship, drawing people together in spite of their differences, friendship willing to spend, rather than receive, friendship that lies in loving rather than being loved.

"We are so prone to give only of the surplus if there happens to be a surplus. Jesus gave so much for us. What have we given for Him?"

"There's No Love Like His Love To Me," was sung by Miss A. Fleming. Mrs. S. D. Prest provided soft music and presided at the piano throughout the service.

The 1958 service will be held at Bethesda United Church. Mrs. Leslie Blakely will be key woman.

WALLBRIDGE

W.A. Sponsors Pot-Luck Supper

WALLBRIDGE — The W.A. pot-luck dinner was held in the church hall on Wednesday with a good attendance of adults, school children and some visitors.

Mrs. M. Phillips, president of the W.M.S. opened the meeting. Scripture was read by Mrs. J. Sine. Mrs. W. McMullen led in prayer.

Study lesson was taken by Mrs. Phillips, assisted by Mrs. F. Harris.

Secretary, Mrs. A. Spencer, read her report and treasurer, Mrs. I. Ketcheson gave her report, and several members paid their dues for 1957.

Mrs. H. Garrison gave a fine report of convention held at Bridge Street Church. "God gives us all His time, how much do we give, so when we are asked to do something for our church we should not say, 'No,' but do more of W.M.S. work." Mrs. Mullen gave her report of the evening session of Quinte. "God helps them that help themselves."

Devotional part closed with Mrs. J. Sine at the piano.

W.A. PORTION

The W.A. meeting followed by the president, Mrs. S. Nicolson taking charge. The treasurer, Mrs. H. Hinchliffe and secretary, Mrs. C. Sine, gave their reports. A donation was sent to the W.A. and W.M.S. by Mrs. J. Chisholm which was gratefully received, and all were glad to know Mrs. Chisholm was able to be around again after her recent fall.

Thank-you cards were read by Mrs. F. Harris from Mr. and Mrs. B. Hamman, Mrs. V. Moore and Mrs. Chisholm who received cards from the societies while ill.

The president received an invitation from Mrs. Omar Chisholm to attend a social evening at Stone Church. Slides are being put on by Mrs. H. Whitfield of her tour to England and France.

Pie and ice-cream are being served.

It was decided the W.A. purchase more hymnals. Plans also were discussed to serve at the Sales Barn on March 19.

WELLINGTON

W.I. Holds Euchre, Cribbage

WELLINGTON — The Wellington Women's Institute held a successful euchre and cribbage party in the town hall on Saturday night. Fifteen tables of euchre were in play and four tables of cribbage. Everyone seemed to enjoy themselves and after the games were over, the tables were all joined together and refreshments, consisting of a variety of sandwiches, pickles, cake and coffee, were served by the committee in charge of the party.

Later the prizes were given out for euchre: ladies' 1st, Mrs. Allan Pettingell; 2nd, Mrs. John Watt; low, Mrs. William Teskey. Men—Keith Blakely, 2nd, Mrs. Edna Fyne, playing as a man; low, Mrs. Suzie Dawn, also playing as a man.

Cribbage prize winners were: Ladies' 1st, Mrs. Wilbert King; 2nd, Mrs. Jim Callow; low, Mrs. Edna Platt. Men — Earl Lumley, Norman Foster; low, Mrs. Godfrey Upton.

A number of door prizes were also given: a basket of groceries went to Mrs. Sam Yourt; one large can of pineapple juice, to Charles Broadbridge; can of meat, to Wilbert King; large box of Kleenex, to Ralph Moore; box of icing sugar to Mrs. Harry Pierson; odd box of macaroni, to Harvey Allison.

Mrs. Al Ogilvy won the basket of groceries which was so kindly donated to the W.I. by a Picton grocer, for which the W.I. wishes to express its sincere thanks.

FOLK DANCES?

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The Charleston and the jitterbug are scheduled for a folk dance festival Friday, which means age may turn rock 'n' roll respectable too. The department of health and physical education at Southern Methodist University will present the "folk dances," along with ones more commonly accepted as such, at its seventh annual Folk Dance Festival.

MADOC

Impressive Day of Prayer Held in St. Peter's

MADOC — The World Day of Prayer was observed in St. Peter's Presbyterian Church with all Protestant denominations taking part, namely St. John's Anglican, Trinity United, St. Peter's Presbyterian, Standard, Holiness Movement, Pentecostal and Wesleyan Methodist.

Miss Vankleek, president of St. Peter's W.M.S., was in charge, and after announcing the theme, "Who Shall Separate Us?" and introductory words along with the story as to how the World Day of Prayer was started, Mrs. Dunning of the Standard Church, took charge, followed by Mrs. Barton of St. John's Anglican, who was again followed by Mrs. A. Empey of Trinity United, assisted by Miss Holmes, Mrs. R. C. Jackson and Mrs. Bennett. Mrs. Presney of the Holiness Movement, gave a brief address on "The Power of Prayer," especially needed in these troublesome days. Her address was worthwhile and she left her listeners with plenty of food for thought and prayer.

At this time Mrs. Jack Smith of Wesleyan Methodist, sang a lovely and appropriate solo, "Are You Living Where God Answers Prayer?"

Mrs. Brintnell, of Pentecostal Church, was in charge of the offering and as to why we give as well as pray.

Concluding the impressive service was the Intercession and commitment in charge of Mrs. Mrs. John Bailey of St. Peter's. She was assisted by Mrs. Jackson, Sr., Mrs. Griffen, Mrs. Dunning, Miss Earl Armstrong, and Miss Trotter, who in turn prayed for the Church, Royal Family, Peace, Freedom, and Renewed Consecration, closing a meeting which was most impressive, and possessing along into history of the church at large until the new year of 1958.

Mrs. Irene Crawford was pianist for the service.

St. Andrew's Observes Day of Prayer

TWEED — The World Day of Prayer, held in the Presbyterian Church on March 8th., was attended by a large congregation. The service was prepared by Serena Vassady, formerly of Hungary. It was adapted for use in Canada by a committee of the Inter-Church Council of Canada. The theme, "Who Shall Separate Us."

The introductory words were given by the leader, Mrs. Roy Hall of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, and the call to worship by Capt. Ethel Moore of the Salvation Army.

Other leaders were Mrs. Fred Mitchell of St. James' Anglican Church; Mrs. Hodgins, Mrs. Barnett, Mrs. Connor and Mrs. Deshane of St. John's United Church.

A Solo, "Pause For A Moment of Prayer," by Mrs. Wallace Provost of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, pianist, Mrs. Garrett Morton.

A brief address was given by Mrs. K. Wright of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

God of grace and God of glory
On thy people pour Thy power;
Crown Thine ancient church's story;
Bring her bud to glorious flower.
Grant us wisdom,
Grant us courage,
For the facing of this hour.

So be it Lord, Thy throne shall never
Like earth's proud empires pass away;
Thy kingdom stands and grows forever
Till all Thy creatures own Thy sway.

No Major Events Planned To Mark 15th Anniversary Of Start on Alaska Highway

Thicket Portage Newest Town In Rigged North

THICKET PORTAGE, Man. (CP)—fore than 200 construction workers, battling northern Manitoba's sturgeed elements and working there temperatures recently hit 50 below zero, are carving out a start on this province's newest town.

The site, 400 miles northwest of Winnipeg, now has two rows of tenthouses hidden under snow-laden spruce trees. The workers are building more tent - houses needed for additional men soon to arrive and work on permanent houses.

Except for survey marks outlining the future boundaries of Thompson, Man., and a small clearing surrounded by piles of fallen trees and debris, the men have little headway.

EXPECT BIG TOWN

But from this bush country, may come a town with a population of almost 20,000, say officials of International Nickel Company. The population will include workers at INCO's planned $175,000,000 nickel development in the vicinity of Moak and Mystery Lakes.

However, the men at the site now must prepare shelter and space for the tons of mine timbers, concrete and other equipment leaving here 24 hours a day by sleigh or truck of the Arctic Transportation Company.

Bush planes too will drop extra supplies, and giant stoves will be needed to store gallons of fuel, must be built quickly.

This centre, 60 miles southeast of Thompson and 185 miles northeast of The Pas, Man., on the CNR's line to Churchill, Man., now is a frantic centre where men and equipment arrive at a rate that taxes all facilities.

REALTY JAMBOREE

The lone hotel—it has room for 20 persons — bulges with more than 180 men. Recently, 109 men arrived late at night looking for a place to sleep.

The hotel management allowed them to sleep in the lobby, on the stairs and landings and took the overload to a nearby pool hall where the men were bunked on pool tables.

Freight trains are unloaded day and night and sleigh trains are sent on the trail to Thompson at all hours.

Construction of a Canadian National Railways spur line to Thompson was started late in February.

Within the next 12 months an estimated 2,000 workers will be busy on some phase of construction in the area.

Deficit in Old Age Pension Fund Now $56,000,000

OTTAWA (CP)—A rise in tax revenues reduced the deficit in the federal old age pension fund to $6,000,000 for the current fiscal year, compared with $50,000,000 a year ago.

Finance Minister Harris, in announcing this Wednesday in the pre-budget white paper, said he will charge the two-year $56,000,000 deficit to expenditures for the current year which ends March 31.

This is a departure from previous practice when there was a lag of one year in charging the deficit against budgetary expenditures. Mr. Harris gave no reason for the change.

The pensions of $40 a month are paid to all those 70 and over. They are financed by a special two-per-cent tax on personal and corporation incomes and sales.

In the current year, tax revenues rose to $372,000,000 from $316,200,000 in 1955-56. Pension outlays increased to $370,000,000 from $366,200,000.

Elderly Woman Dies in Blaze

LEFROY (CP) — An elderly woman was burned to death and two persons severely burned Wednesday night when an all-night explosion touched off a fire which destroyed a five-room home near this community 15 miles south of Barrie.

Mrs. Mabel Burke, 70, was trapped in the blazing house. In hospital are Mrs. Jean Burke, 28, her son Garry, 4, and Ralph Burke, a neighbor.

Firemen said the fire apparently started with an oil stove exploded in the kitchen where Mrs. Burke and the two boys were eating supper.

FORM LABOR UNION

CAIRO (AP) — The secretary general of the Arab Federation of Labor said today an international federation of labor for Asia and Africa will be formed late this month in Cairo. It will include Communist China.

Chartered Bank Heads Meet Coyne on Bank Loan Policies

MONTREAL (CP) — General managers of the chartered banks meet here today with Governor James Coyne of the Bank of Canada to examine proposals for revolutionary changes in chartered bank lending practices.

The proposals would direct all savings deposits into insured mortgages, government bonds and other long-term investments.

The meeting is closed. Its location has been a closely-kept secret.

James Muir, chairman and president of the Royal Bank of Canada, in an interview Wednesday that the meeting is only exploratory and "the beginning of continuing discussions."

The proposals will be subjected to a good deal of searching to scrutiny," before any decision is reached.

"Then, when and if we come to any decision which might alter the character of the chartered banks, there can still be no action taken on it until the proper amendments have been made to the legislation which governs the banks."

The plan, as outlined by Mr. Coyne Monday, would prevent the banks from using savings-account money for short-term loans. He said his proposals were prompted by an "abrupt drop" in the amount of chartered bank money allocated to housing loans. The bank loans for housing had dropped to almost nothing at the end of 1956.

The banks have on deposit now about $10,000,000,000, of which about 60 per cent is personal savings.

Mr. Muir warned against jumping to false conclusions from the proposals. There has been a tendency, he said, "to create the impression that drastic changes are about to be made immediately."

"It has even been said that savings in chartered banks are chartered banks might be impounded" he said. "This is of course absolutely ridiculous."

VANDALS STRIKE

MONTREAL (CP) — East-end vandals struck again Wednesday night, hurling bottles through dime and drugstore windows of two stores on St. Catherine St. Witnesses said a car carrying four or five men sped by the two stores—Legare Furniture and Charbonneau Lingerie — and bottles were thrown through the windows. Police said the car had been stolen a few hours earlier.

Defence Costs Up $18,000,000 Over Last Year

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence costs climbed $18,000,000 or one per cent in the 1956-57 fiscal year from the previous year.

A pre - budget white paper, tabled Wednesday in the Commons, shows that defence spending in the year ending March 31 now is estimated at $1,768,100,000, compared with $1,750,100,000 in the previous fiscal year.

In both years, Parliament appropriated $1,775,000,000 for defence. The government used $7,900,000 less than this in the fiscal year now ending compared with a $25,000,000 underspending in the preceding year.

For the fiscal year beginning April 1, Parliament will be asked to vote $1,722,000,000 for defence, a decrease of three per cent from the estimate for the year now ending.

LARGEST EXPENDITURE

Defence spending comprises the largest category of government expenditures. Total defence outlays in the 1956-57 fiscal year, including $221,500,000 for defence production and $4,000,000 for civil defence, accounted for 37 per cent of all government spending. In the preceding fiscal year defence and defence production represented 40 per cent of the total budget.

Expenditures on the RCAF went up nearly $69,000,000—to $773,800,000 from $705,100,000—while spending on both the navy and army declined. Army expenditures decreased by $12,700,000 to $394,200,000 and navy expenditures by $20,000,000 to $371,000,000.

Of $770,300,000, defence research cost $6,000,000 more than in the 1955-56 fiscal year. Expenditures on mutual aid—the program under which Canada supplies allies in the European allies—dropped by nearly $42,000,000 to $133,100,000.

Minister Favors Expropriating Bay At Honey Harbor

TORONTO (CP) — Lands and Forests Minister Mapledoram indicated Wednesday he is in favor of expropriating "the best bay in all of the province" a large bay in Georgian Bay reserved by a club of wealthy Torontonians.

The club referred to was the Honey Harbor club which owns 3 acres of land and 1,100 acres more under a lease held by 15 members of Honey Harbour and 25 miles northwest of Orillia.

Mr. Mapledoram in discussion at Bracebridge Tuesday, two men were part of the presentation to the waters of its bay. The judge ruled that boats could land only if in distress.

Robert James Boyer, (PC—Muskoka) in introducing discussion of the club at a meeting of the legislature's fish and game committee, said it was an unfortunate thing that 20 wealthy men can monopolize 1,100 acres of water that should be available to the people of Ontario.

SHOULD EXPROPRIATE

Mr. Mapledoram, in saying that he felt "personally that the land under the waters of the bay should be expropriated" by the province of Ontario," commented "this is a situation where public rights are being denied on the waters."

He said the whole situation will be investigated by his staff to ascertain whether legislation would be introduced at this session or next session or be dealt with the question.

Mr. Boyer said the "valuable" land in the area had been purchased at a time when there was little demand for undeveloped but this had changed and the situation could not be allowed to continue.

Lloyd Leatherby (PC—Simcoe) said the Georgian Bay Hunters and Anglers Association was "very incensed" over the matter. Mr. Mapledoram said he had received letters complaining about the club from a number of fish and game associations.

Poland Anxious To Buy Canadian Wheat On Credit

OTTAWA (CP)—Sale of 12,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat to Poland may hinge on cabinet approval of a three-year government loan to that Iron Curtain country.

Lodwik Dobranzski of Poland's foreign trade ministry said Wednesday his country made a "definite proposal" to Trade Minister Howe for purchase of the wheat on credit. Mr. Howe, he added, promised to put it before the cabinet.

Canada has sold large quantities of wheat to Poland and other Communist countries during the last few years, part of it on credit but in most cases credit was extended for only one year.

Mr. Dobranzski said Poland is interested in No. 1 wheat and will settle for $1.75 a bushel at the Lakehead or west coast. This would mean a $17,000,000 deal. The land was ready to put up some cash but a credit loan of between $12,000,000 and $14,000,000 might be required to close the deal.

REPAID IN PAST

Poland is reported to have repaid a similar credit granted to Canada in previous wheat deals.

The government likely will turn down the proposal. There is a huge pile-up of wheat on prairie farms although Canadian exports have increased so far this season. The situation in Eastern Europe is uncertain. This particularly true of Hungary where the flow of more than 1,100,000 bushels to Hungary but the revolt there has left sales this year in question.

Wheat sales to Communist countries totalled 44,800,000 bushels in the 1955-56 crop year, helping boost Canadian exports to about 329,000,000 bushels, third-highest since the Second World War. Russia bought 18,000,000 bushels and agreed to equal purchases in the following year. Poland took 12,000,000 bushels; East Germany 2,000,000 and Czechoslovakia 12,800,000.

ASKS CONFORM

TORONTO (CP) — The Railway Association of Canada Wednesday asked Toronto to conform with all the rest and extend daylight saving to the last Sunday in October instead of September throughout Ontario and Quebec. W. G. Scott, secretary of the association, told board of trade delegates would make the daylight saving period conform with others in eastern United States communities.

Acceptance and Ferry Flight Pilots in Unique Occupation

CALGARY (CP) — Men of 125 Acceptance and Ferry Flight Detachment of the RCAF here have a unique occupation requiring a variety of flying skills. It's a job guaranteed to keep the pilot and the move.

The unit, formed in 1948 is the only one of its kind in Canada and has eight pilots. It is part of Air Material Command and is charged with testing and delivering new aircraft, picking up and ferrying them to Calgary for repairs and running ferries and transport services such as Churchill, Man.

The eight pilots range in age from 23 to 37 with at least half in their 30s. All are seasoned airmen with at least 2,000 to 3,000 hours in the air among them. Flight Lieutenant Ken Fitt, Don Souter, 33, heads the list with 5,410 hours in the air.

Their operations are required, but Fit. Lt. Souter says the job breeds versatility. The pilot must "check out" on 14 different types of aircraft, any one of which he may be called on to fly at any time.

"It's a good life," says FO Neil Almond, a five-year veteran with the outfit, "you have to travel though. You're lucky if you have time to pack a toothbrush most of the time."

What often starts as a short one-hour return hop to Lethbridge, Alta., for a pilot ends up in a flight to Toronto or Trenton or some other distant air base. From these points, the pilot may ferry a plane to another station and return home after being away for as long as two weeks.

A look at the diary of FO Al Almond, with the detachment three months, shows this hectic week:

Tuesday: Flies crew of C-119 Flying Boxcar to Edmonton and returned.

Wednesday: Was flown to Lethbridge and tested CF-100 Delivered it to RCAF base at Cold Lake, Alta. Picked up Expediter and returned to Calgary.

Thursday: Was flown to Edmonton to pick up new T-33 jet trainer which he flew to Calgary.

Friday: Joined another AFTD pilot and flew back to Calgary with a Canso for overhaul.

Saturday: Flew to Lethbridge where tested CF-100, then delivered to its manufacturer at Malton for modification.

Tuesday: Proceeded to Trenton, Ont., picked up another CF-100 and delivered it to Cold Lake. Was picked up by another detachment pilot and returned to Calgary.

In this week, FO Arnold flew just 35 hours and 30 minutes. The weekly average for detachment pilots is between 60 and 70 hours.

Despite such hazards as flying shaky aircraft to Calgary for repairs, the detachment has a fine safety record. In more than eight years of operation it has had no fatal accidents and no accidents due to pilot error.

Canadian National Railways And Trans-Canada Air Lines Had Hefty Surpluses in '56

Canada's Net Debt Stands at $10,997,900,000

OTTAWA (CP)—Net debt of the federal government at March 31, 1957, were tabled in the Commons Wednesday. They are to be scrutinized by the railway committee of the House next week. The committee was set up Tuesday.

REDUCED SURPLUS

While TCA made no forecast of 1957 financial operations, the CNR said it expects a much lower net in 1957. Parliament and its committees.

Under the CNR's operating budget, the company also told Parliament, it plans to spend this year $268,700,000 on capital account for rolling stock and other improvements to the road.

For 1956, the CNR had a year ended March 31 surplus of $1,800,000 after setting up a surplus of over $35,000,000.

TAXES LITTLE

The 1956 surplus compared with one of $10,700,000 the year before and a deficit of $28,800,000 in prosperity year, 1954, a recession that impelled CNR President Donald Gordon to say Parliament must remember that it takes little to shuttle the CNR between the red and the black.

He described rail earnings as "sensitive" to changes in the level of activity. Even a modest variation in rail business could mean the difference between a deficit and a surplus.

Overall, the CNR had operating revenue of $774,800,000 and operating expenses of $703,600,000, both records. For the previous year, revenues were $689,300,000 and operating expenses $653,300,000.

TCA's gross for 1956 was $91,306,000, a leap of 18 per cent from $77,438,000 the year before. Expenses went up somewhat along the same scale.

Russia Wipes Out Post-War Debt to Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Russia has wiped out its post-war debt to Canada.

A pre - budget white paper, tabled Wednesday in the Commons, said that Russia in the fiscal year ending this month paid off the last $1,800,000 owing on the $15,000,000 reconstruction loan.

Communist Czechoslovakia paid off $10,700,000 on a $30,000,000 loan and now owes Canada only $2,000,000. Britain paid $30,000,000 on its 1942 interest-free $80,000,000 loan from Canada and now owes only $50,000,000.

The United Kingdom also paid $13,000,000 on the 1946 loan of $1,185,000,000, reducing the debt to $1,096,600,000. The $22,000,000 interest due on that loan by Dec. 31, 1956 was deferred.

Other countries still owing money to Canada are Belgium, France, the Netherlands, Norway, Greece, Romania and nationalist China, which has paid nothing on a $48,000,000 loan from Canada for the last four years. The government lists the loan to China as "inactive."

Mr. Lorne White is spending some time with his son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin White, Hucky's Point.

It is with regret word is received of the accident which befell Mr. L. Wannamaker and brother-in-law on Sunday. Both are in Belleville hospital suffering severe injuries. Mr. and Mrs. E. White and Mr. and Mrs. Ervin White visited their father on Sunday night at the hospital. Mrs. Wannamaker is in Belleville with her daughter, Mrs. N. Mackey.

DESERONTO

Hobby Club Deposits $85

DESERONTO — The Hobby Club held its first March meeting at the home of Mrs. S. Brown with 18 members present. Mrs. H. Trenaue was in the chair in the absence of the president. The meeting opened with the reading of the minutes by Mrs. K. Allin, secretary, and a letter of thanks for card of sympathy from Mrs. N. Thomas who recently lost her father.

Mrs. K. Jackson reported on the last teen dance which was held recently and which was such a success in every way. Also reported that the original donation of $30, given to the teenagers by the club, had been well invested, for it not only brought the enjoyment of four dances, but when she opened a bank account for them after the last dance, she had $85 to deposit.

The Hobby Club can justly feel proud of its efforts and proud of the teenagers, who have helped to make the project such a success.

Mrs. G. Walker reported on catering to the "Lions" Club dance, and Mrs. D. Dawson gave her report as sick and flower convener.

It was brought to the attention of the club that the resuscitator needed some new parts, and a vote was taken to have this matter attended to at once.

It was decided to discontinue the mystery prize for awhile, and for the next few meetings to have less business and more relaxation.

The members have worked hard on their recent projects, and feel entitled to a few carefree meetings.

The last of the mystery prizes was donated by Mrs. S. Brown and was a lovely planter which was won by Mrs. M. Trenaue.

Refreshments were served by the committee.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. T. L. McCullough on March 19.

Thomasburg

THOMASBURG — The pupils and teacher of the senior room of the public school recently enjoyed a delicious dinner served by the Thomasburg United Church W.A. in the vestry.

The regular monthly meeting of the W.A. was held at the time in the vestry.

The degree team of Thomasburg IOOF Lodge paid a recent fraternal visit to Stirling IOOF Lodge.

His many friends are glad to see Mr. D. Hubert out again after being confined to his home through illness for the past month.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Hines of Belleville were guests of honor at a recent party in the IOOF hall, Thomasburg. They were presented with a floor lamp and occasional chair and matching hassock. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

The CGIT Girls and Explorers Group held their regular meeting on Saturday afternoon at the home of Sharon and Judy Vance.

Sorry to repot that Mr. S. Fox underwent a mjor operation in Belleville General Hospital on Sunday. His condtion is still considered serious.

Hoffa, Teamsters Union Czar, Arrested by FBI for Bribery

WASHINGTON (AP) — James R. Hoffa, a power in the giant Teamsters Union, today faced charges that he tried to bribe a lawyer working for a Senate committee investigating racketeering in labor and industry.

Hoffa, 44-year-old Teamster vice-president, was arrested by the Federal Bureau of Investigation Wednesday night and charged with hiring John Cye Cheasty, a New York lawyer, to get a job with the committee and then feed him information from its files.

Two other arrests were announced at the same time, one in Florida and one in Detroit.

Both the FBI and committee Chairman John McClellan (Dem., Ark.) said Cheasty had co-operated fully in the month-long investigation leading to Hoffa's arrest. Committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy said Cheasty worked as "a double agent."

BAD DOCUMENTS

The FBI said that when Hoffa was seized, "he had in his possession documents from the committee files which he had just received."

Soon after Hoffa's arrest, he was taken before U.S. Commissioner James Splain on charges of violating federal bribery statutes.

Splain ordered Hoffa freed in $25,000 bond pending a hearing before the commission March 28.

The FBI said it also had arrested Hyman I. Fischbach, 47, a Miami lawyer, on bribery charges.

It said Fischbach, seized in Coral Gables, Fla., was named with Hoffa in a complaint filed in U.S. district court.

At the same time, the department said Mrs. Fred Doprescu, Hoffa's secretary, was taken into custody in Detroit as a material witness.

DRAMATIC TURN

The arrest of Hoffa, head of the central states conference of Teamsters, marked a dramatic new turn in the Senate investigation which thus far has been concentrating on allegations that west coast Teamster officials allied themselves with underworld figures and some public officials in an effort to control vice and gambling.

Thus far, Hoffa's name has not figured in the committee's hearings, although the Senate investigations sub-committee—which began an earlier inquiry along the same lines—announced in September it planned to talk with him.

The FBI said Hoffa "is reported to have hired" Cheasty Feb. 13 in Detroit, Hoffa's home city, to obtain a job with the special committee.

"At that time," the FBI said, "Hoffa paid Cheasy $1,000 and offered to pay him a total of $18,000 to report to him during the committee's investigation."

SAYS IMPORTANT

Kennedy described documents involved in the case as "extremely important." He said the documents were given to Cheasty by the committee in the knowledge that they would be passed along. Kennedy said the papers were not marked, but were "identified."

Documents involved, Kennedy said, were "two staff interviews with certain key people, a copy of a telephone interview between a member of the staff and a future witness, and other documents."

The FBI said Cheasty "fully co-operated" in the investigation. McClellan voiced gratitude to Cheasty "for his great courage and patriotic devotion."

TWEED

H-S Drama Club Presents Two One-Act Plays

TWEED — Tweed High School Drama Club presented two one-act plays and other entertainment in the school auditorium on the evening of March 8th with a large attendance present.

Mr. W. R. Hamilton, principal of the school, acted as chairman.

"Mrs. Murphy's Chowder," a one-act play, was directed by W. P. Buckley, as follows: Barney Murphy, a lazy Irishman, and his family, are in dire straits because of his inability to hold a job. His daughter, Erin, even refuses to marry Dennis Trask because she is the family's sole support. Dennis decides to market Mrs. Murphy's delicious chowder and make a fortune for the family, thus freeing Erin from her responsibility.

The cast: Mrs. Nora Murphy, Gwen Blakely; Barney Murphy, Larry Bennett; Erin Murphy, Shirley Plue; Dennis Trask, Don Hodgins; Bridget Murphy, Marion Ann; Nellie Driscoll (a gossip), Elsie Cadwell; Mrs. Cohen (Jewish business woman), Gwen Leal; Mrs. Pearson (a business woman), Helen Lemke.

Gymnastic display by Anthony Courneyea, Charles Courneyea, Hugh Allore, Elwood Varty, Bob Bonn.

The newly organized high school band made its first public appearance and played a number of selections which were much enjoyed.

Solos were given at this time by Bob Benn and Ronald Cassidy, two fine soloists.

Mr. T. N. Beatty, chairman of Centre Hastings District High School Board, presented a nice trophy to the girls' basketball team, the winners of Centre Hastings district.

PART II

"Fire Her Bad Luck," directed by W. P. Buckley, Effie Trask, a small town girl, convinces the world - be sophisticate of her colleges that she's no hick.

The cast: Effie Trask, Sharon Quinn; Lois (college male), Janet Hamilton; Hester, Carol Quinn; Jean, Mary Joan Quinn; two sophomores, the dates of Hester and Jean, Garry Dion and Exton Varty; George (Lois' date), Bill

Bethel United Scene of World Day of Prayer

RAWDON — On the first Friday in Lent 18 ladies from Rawdon circuit gathered at Bethel United Church for the World Day of Prayer service. On this day 142 countries unite in prayer for the peoples of the world. The theme was, "Who Shall Separate Us?"

Mrs. R. Sine, president of Bethel W.A. presided throughout the service and Mrs. H. Elliott officiated at the piano.

The Bible lesson was read by Mrs. W. Heath and the various parts by Mrs. J. Carlisle, president of Wellman's W.M.S.; Mrs. F. Jeffs of Mount Pleasant, and Mrs. J. Barron of Bethel.

Mrs. D. Heath sang "Are You in the Inner Circle?" Mrs. T. Laycock read a selection entitled "The Power of the Bible".

The offering was gathered by Mrs. E. McKeown and Mrs. F. Reid and amounted to over $4.00.

The various prayers were given by Mrs. E. Summers, Mrs. J. Matheson, Mrs. K. Tompkins, Mrs. W. G. Fletcher and Mrs. D. Johnson.

In 1956 the money received provided literature for Africa, India, Japan, Korea, Latin America, Pakistan, Trinidad, the International Missionary Council at London and New York, and the National Council of Church of Christ in the United States of America, and many other departments of work. The service closed with "So be it, Lord. Thy throne shall never, like earth's proud empires, pass away."

STIRLING

Many Attend River Valley Euchre Party

STIRLING — A record crowd of 67 adults and several children attended River Valley euchre party at the school house on Friday evening under the auspices of the Institute.

There were 26 guests from Trenton, Frankford, Burnbrae, Wellman's, Bethel, Carmel and Stirling.

The party was convened by Mrs. P. MacMullen and her assistant, Miss Marion Carlisle. There were 16 tables in play.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Wannamaker donated the coffee and Mr. and Mrs. G. Brooks the prizes. The winners were: Ladies, Mrs. J. R. Donohue and Miss Joyce Reid of Bethel; men, John Hoover and Glen T. Hinds of Wellman's; lucky seven, Mrs. Lloyd Morrow.

Mrs. MacMullen expressed thanks to Miss Marion Carlisle who had been her assistant for two years and announced a meeting, St. Patrick's night 17th on Friday the 15th at the euchre party, when Birthday was sung in honor of Burt Bedford who had enjoyed a birthday anniversary on March 5.

Sandwiches, cake, biscuits and cheese, nibbles and coffee were served by Institute members and all enjoyed a social half hour.

Marmora

DAY OF PRAYER

MARMORA — The World Day of Prayer in Marmora was held in the Free Methodist Church with a good representation from each of the other denominations. The leaders were presidents and officers of church organizations. The prayers were offered by Mrs. O. Miller, Mrs. Roberts, Mrs. D. Gray, Mrs. F. Sieglerwerk, Mrs. W. Cuckes and Mrs. Fickle Wells. Mrs. Fleming gave an inspiring address and Mrs. R. Shatford sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Mrs. Mawer was pianist for the service and Mrs. F. Grant and Mrs. E. Hewitt received the offering. The inspirative service closed with the benediction.

MADOC

DDG Matron OES Pays Official Visit

MADOC — On Monday night, Mrs. Marian Easterbrook, D.D.G. Matron of District No. 12 Order of the Eastern Star paid her official visit to Madoc Chapter No. 143.

Mrs. Floss Kincaid, Worthy Matron, and her officers exemplified the work in a most efficient manner and received sincere compliments from the D.D.G.M. on her address.

She chose as her subject, "Fidelity" and the members and their visiting members were given a real treat and left with pleasant memories of Mrs. Easterbrook's visit to Madoc chapter.

Assistant Matron, Mrs. Bev Keller, presented the D.D.G.M. with a gift in appreciation of the pleasure all had in her visit.

Despite the bad weather, visitors were present from Belleville Minerva, Napanee, Bancroft and Tweed chapters.

A pleasant social time was enjoyed after the close of chapter with the Madoc ladies serving refreshments.

Tweed

TWEED—Mrs. William Biddle returned from the Belleville hospital the end of the week after undergoing surgery.

Mrs. "Bud" Loyst, of Moira St., was the lucky winner at the appreciation draw on Saturday. She held a 10 per cent ticket on a pot of $393. The winner has to be at the corner of Spring and Victoria Streets to claim the cash prize, else another name is drawn until someone present is there to claim the amount.

Dr. Russell Scott was the guest speaker at the Tweed Kiwanis Club Thursday night. He is president of the Belleville Fair Board.

The Rev. W. K. Pace is attending a special meeting of a committee appointed to study the relationship between Christianity and national life. It is being held in Toronto and the planning is by the National Board of Evangelistic Mission. He will be in Toronto two or three days.

Sorry to report the illness of the Presbyterian minister. The Rev. M. W. Heslip resides in Madoc but is the minister in Tweed as well. His work is being carried oh by Mr. Wood of Buckhorn.

Mrs. W. Courtney planned a successful and enjoyable evening for her officers of the past year of the Rebekah Lodge. The evening was spent at her home and 18 ladies were present. The evening was spent in playing cards and the hostess served refreshments in conclusion. The ladies presented Mrs. Courtney with a gift showing the high esteem in which she was held by her past officers.

Misses Mary Ann and Christine McLean spent the weekend at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Montgomery.

Several teams of high school pupils are bowling quite extensively on Tuesdays and Thursdays of each week at the Tweed Bowling Way.

The night classes at the high school ended rather abruptly last Monday evening. It was understood that there would be 14 lessons but when the "Who's Who" counted the cash, it was found that due to lack of funds the classes would have to be cut to 12 lessons. The largest percentage of the students were very disappointed. At present, it is anticipated that the classes will be carried on again next winter for a similar period.

Visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Gehan over the weekend were Mr. Lorne Gehan and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lefebvre. The latter are from Ottawa, and she is the former Betty Gehan.

Chicken pox seems to be making its rounds amongst the small fry of the village.

Mrs. Hopper, of North Victoria St., went to her mother's home in Marlbank, on Wednesday, and she and her mother, Mrs. Stinchcombe, attended the 63rd anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Beckwith's marriage, who are Mr. and Mrs. Hopper's grandparents, and Mrs. Stinchcombe's mother and father.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Foster, Mrs. Barr and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jones were honored at a dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Foster on Sunday, on the occasion of the birthdays of Mrs. Harry Foster and Mrs. Harold Foster and Mrs. Roy Jones, the latter two being twin sisters.

Mrs. Millie Comer, of Colbourne St., passed away recently in the Belleville General Hospital. She had made her home with her sister, Miss E. McGowan, and brother, Mr. Jim McGowan, in town. She suffered a stroke and was taken to hospital and died March 10th.

PROTECTED DOG

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—Two armed dog catchers and a dozen policemen were held at bay more than an hour Wednesday by two 14-year-old boys who said one of the dog catchers tried to kill their pet. The boys were jailed and charged with assault to murder and discharging firearms inside the city limits. They were armed with a .22-calibre rifle.

CAMPBELLFORD

Harry Slean Speaks on Adequate Wiring

CAMPBELLFORD — Harry Slean, field supervisor of the Electrical Service League of Ontario, was the guest speaker at the Monday noon luncheon of the Campbellford Rotary Club at the Parish Hall, here.

Mr. Sean explained to the Rotarians that the Electrical Service League is a non-profit organization sponsored by the H.E.P.C. of Ontario, to promote safe and adequate wiring. The speaker said that the services of the organization are free to any-one contemplating building a new home, or rewiring an old one.

HIGH STANDARD

A representative of the League will consult with the home owner or his contractor to help plan the number and location of electrical outlets in the home, and the number of circuits required to handle them. The standards of the League are higher than those required by Hydro, and when a home is wired according to the League standards, a red seal is given to the home owner to dis-play, to show that the wiring is safe and adequate above the standards.

Mr. Slean said that whereas the wiring in homes constructed ten or 15 years ago was adequate for the appliances used at that time, the wiring is not nearly adequate for the wide variety of electrical appliances found in homes of to-day. A quarter century ago, there were only a few dozen appliances used in homes, but today elec-trical appliances and gadgets number into the several hund-reds.

OVERLOADING BLOWS FUSES

The common cause of blown fuses, according to Mr. Slean, is overloaded wiring. Many home owners simply install a fuse of higher amperage believing this to remedy the situation. This merely causes the overload to be born by the wiring, which gets hot and may start to burn, caus-ing a fire in the home. "If fuses blow, it is a sure sign of inade-quate wiring," said the speaker.

A film showing the inconven-lence and the hazards of inade-quate wiring was shown, which brought home to the Rotarians present, the necessity of having to-date wiring system in their houses.

Rylstone

W.I.

WELLINGTON

Consolidated School Features Parents' Night

WELLINGTON — Wellington Consolidated School held its annual parents' night on Friday evening on the conclusion of education week.

The rooms and corridors were filled and all could hear the excellent voices of the children as they guided their parents, grandparents and friends from room to room.

Each classroom was was decorated for the occasion with drawings, writing and other work of the pupils. One could hardly choose which was the best as all were excellent.

FINE HANDICRAFT

Worthy of special mention in Mr. Snider's room was the woodwork made by the boys and the sewing by the girls; also a scale map of the village showing every street with all the houses, the cottages along the lake, with the names of all occupants of the houses. Credit of this goes to Ian Hudson, who worked hard for about six weeks to complete this project.

Also on the board were outstanding Biblical colored pictures drawn by Rhonda Cleave and Judy Bryant.

Much admired in Mrs. Freeman's room was the health house. This was made of cereals, biscuits, raisins, fruits, even to a bottle of milk on the door step.

There was also a large map showing the voyage of Marco Polo to China; and on the wall on shelves were Chinese relics.

Mrs. Sarles' and Mrs. Campbell's featured the Indians, with wigwam, guarded by an Indian, with relics and headgear.

Mrs. Shannon's room featured health posters and a display of art.

Mrs. Harris' featured plasticene models, looking very lifelike, and Mrs. Trmuble's room specialized in bookwork, maps and art.

Miss Tait's featured mining, with a train load of different coals, and ore, leaving the mines; also small handmade wooden animals and St. Patrick posters.

Miss MacDonald's room looked nice, as on every desk there was a paperweight, made from a potato, representing an Irishman's head; door stops made of wood in the shapes of crowing roosters, and dogs.

Every room had its pupils handwork out for all to see.

The teachers are to be congratulated on the splendid exhibition of work done by their pupils. To finish the evening, all the teachers were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Snider.

Crofton

CROFTON — The Good Neighbor Club met at the home of Mrs. Hagar on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Alyea and children of Pleasant Bay were Sunday guests of their mother, Mrs. V. Bongard.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Jones have returned home from a holiday in Florida.

Mrs. W. Elliott and Mrs. A. Pyear attended an executive meeting in Belleville at the home of Mrs. G. Dobbs. Plans were made for a special meeting at Port Hope in May.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Eggleton attended the funeral of their cousin, Wing Commander Walter Johnson in Trenton on Tuesday of last week.

Several folk from the village attended the funeral of Eric McCoy at Madoc. Mrs. McCoy is a teacher on the public school staff.

EXCHANGE WORKERS

TORONTO (CP)—J. G. Bisson, chief commissioner of the unemployment insurance commission, Tuesday announced a plan between France and Canada to exchange on-the-job training for workers of each country. The two countries have agreed to allow the admission of a limited number of trainees to learn occupational skills not ordinarily available to the worker in his own country, he said.

STIRLING

St. John's Church Holds World Day of Prayer

STIRLING—A large number of ladies from the village and surrounding area were in attendance at the World Day of Prayer service held on Friday in St. John's Anglican Church, Stirling.

Mrs. Melville Tanner, president of St. John's Missionary Society, gave the introductory message on the theme, "Who Shall Separate Us?"

Mrs. H. C. Secker read the Bible lesson and all sang, "O God Our Help in Ages Past."

Mrs. Gerald Brooks, president of River Valley W.M.S. led in the meditation on "The Church," after which the group sang, "When I Survey The Wondrous Cross."

Mrs. Elizabeth Foster, president of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Missionary group, conducted the portion based on "Peace, Witnessing and Victory." She was assisted by Mrs. Don Fargey, Mrs. O. Dalrymple, and Miss Gena Spry, and all sang, "In Christ There Is No East Nor West."

Mrs. Arthur Packman gave a short address and Mrs. Roy Eggleton contributed a vocal solo.

Mrs. George Carlisle, president of St. Paul's W.M.S., conducted the giving of gifts. Because we pray and give to Christian leaders, Christian literature is provided; the hungry are fed, and the suffer receives aid and comfort.

The prayers were given by Mrs. Carman Fitchett, Mrs. Thomas Tanner, Mrs. Jack Bush, Mrs. W. H. V. Walker, Mrs. Earl Eggleton and Mrs. Maurice Clancy.

The offering was gathered by Mrs. George Noble and Mrs. Frank Harding.

The service closed with, "The Day Thou Gavest, Lord is Ended," and the benediction of "The Peace of God."

Bruins Push Canadiens Over On Second Rung After Edging Rangers 2-1

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

THIS COULD BE IT

Tonight could see the emergence of the McFarlands as finalists against the Whitby Dunlops for the Eastern Ontario senior "A" league championship. The Macs, highly confident they can turn the trick, trekked to Cornwall this afternoon in quest of their fourth straight victory and the taking up of the titular culprits against the Blairmen.

However, while there is life there is hope and the Chevies haven't given up the ghost by any stretch of the imagination. True they have what appears to be a stupendous task in front of them for they must win three games in a row to cop the semi-finals gonfalon. However, one of these games, if it is necessary, will be played on Belleville ice, and the Chevies haven't been doing so well down this-away.

While there is a lot of optimism in the city over the Cornwall-Mac outcome, nothing should be taken for granted. This Chevy bevy is far from a beaten crew and you can bet your gran-mammy's Sunday bustle they will be out there to do or die in tonight's important tussle. And there is the possibility they will have big Joe Lepine, their 200-plus defenceman, back in harness. Joe threw a tendon or two in the first game of the series here, and has been sidelined since.

Coach Gerry Plumenden told this department in the Cheries dressing room prior to the game here the other night, that he expected Joe would see action by Thursday. However, Lapine will probably have lost a lot of his effectiveness, and while he's a bulwark behind the blueliners for the Chevies, it would be folly to state that his absence has been the sole reason for the club losing every game since he was put out of action.

Assuming that the McFarlands do emerge victorious over Cornwall and meet the Dunlops for the group honors, the upcoming finals series should bulge the seams of arenas in both centres.

It was rumored in the press box the other night that the Eastern Ontario finals would be restricted to the best-of-five series but this customary best-of-seven set is being played in the western Ontario senior "A" league. It is a fact that champions of both leagues must be declared by March 23, but that is no reason, if there is any truth in the matter, that the eastern series should be cut.

Manager Drury Denyes of the McFarlands when informed of the possibility stated emphatically "Over our dead bodies. This series will go the full seven games if necessary —and that is what it is going to be."

And it can be safely asumed that Denyes was echoing the sentiments of Manager Wren Blair of the Whitby club. The distance between the two centres is a comparatively short one and there is no reason, legal or otherwise, why the series should be restricted to five games. And as Copacabana (Zwick's Island) Tamale, the copy boy snorted, "Why worry about seven games. We'll take dese guys in six, or less."

If and when the Macs dispose of the Chevies tonight or Friday (we're not taking anything for granted) the finals series might get under way in Whitby on Saturday night. That would leave a week to play the rest of the best-of-seven games, if and when, and send the east-west playoffs on their way the week following.

. . . The Dunlops will be minus the services of Charlie (Chuck) Burns one of their ace snipers. Chuck, who wears a silver plate in his head as a result of an injury incurred during his junior "A" days, is a baseball player of more or less note. It must be "more" for Chuck will be in Florida from now on with the Toronto Maple Leafs baseball club. He is one of four Canadian players to be taken south to the Leafs' training camp. In any event, Chuck's hockey days for this season are over, and he will be missed by the shock troops of the Dunlops. He is said to be a fine catcher and will be trying out in that capacity with the Toronto club.

In the blood-is-thicker-than-water department, it must be said the Ottawa Valley clubs are more or less loyal to one another when they are not in competitive action. The Pembroke sports editor refuses to say "uncle" for the Chevies despite the fact they are on the short end of a 3-1 games count. He predicts with a decided air of optimism that the Chevies and Dunlops will battle it out for the league championship.

We do not know if Gordie Bell is supersitious, but if he is, it just as well perhaps that the Mac-Cornwall game was played Tuesday instead of yesterday. For Wednesday, March 13 was Gordie's natal day and he celebrated it in fitting manner the night previous with his second shutout of the series. And the boys for whom the Bell tolls join this department in "Many Happy Returns." And that goes double, for birthdays and shutouts.

"WE'RE PULLING FOR YOU, SMITTY"

The news that Jack Smith, popular sportsman and the dean of icemakers in Memorial Arena, not to mention the boss greenaman at the Lawn Bowling Club, had been stricken with a heart attack and was hospitalized, came as a shock to city sportsmen and many others. Smitty is one of the "workingest" guys we know and he will be greatly missed by many in many places. Sportsmen and his many other friends join in wishing the "little guy" a speedy recovery to health and a great many more years in this troublesome old world.

Webb Wins Over Wilf Greaves

CHICAGO (AP)—Fourth-ranked middleweight Spider Webb scored his 19th straight victory with a 10-round unanimous decision Wednesday night over Wilf Greaves, 21-year-old Edmonton native now fighting out of Pittsburgh.

Webb weighed 159½, Greaves 161¼.

Webb now is asking for a shot at the winner of the May 1 Sugar Ray Robinson - Gene Fullmer championship fight.

Webb, a 26-year-old Chicagoan, had a lot of praise for Greaves, who substituted for Randy Sandy at the last minute when Sandy injured his hand.

"Everyone thought Greaves would be a pushover just because he was a substitute," said Webb. "But that isn't always true. This boy is strong, plenty strong. He hit me with some of those rights and it's a good thing I'm in condition otherwise I might not have shook them off."

Webb went into the ring a 6-1 favorite.

Happy-Go-Lucky Leo Labine Haileybury's Gift to Boston Is Sparkplug of Beaneaters

By KENNEDY WELLS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

When the chips are down, Boston Bruins can count on their clown.

The clown is happy-go-lucky Leo Labine, probably more famous around the National Hockey League for his rink-side sallies and his dressing-room pranks than his scoring prowess. But when the Bruins need goals Leo can shoot with the best of them.

He scored the tying goal and assisted on the winner Wednesday night as the Bruins scraped to a 2-1 win over New York Rangers in New York and moved into a tie for second place with Montreal Canadiens, who have a game in hand.

The loss kept the Rangers from wrapping up fourth place, but with their 10-point bulge over Toronto Maple Leafs, a formality. Last to Canadiens tonight will assure New York of the last playoff berth.

Boston's victory came on a goal by veteran Fleming Mackell with 15 seconds left in the game. New York's goal was scored in the second period by Dave Creighton.

It wasn't until 12:50 of the third period that Real Chevrefils, Boston's top point-getter, passed defenceman Doug Mohns in front of the Ranger net Mohns relayed to Labine who golfed the puck past Lorne Worsley.

It was the 25-year-old Haileybury, Ont., native's 15th goal this season and his fifth in the last six games.

Mackell's winner, at 19:48, was his 21st goal this year and represents a comeback for the 27-year-old centre who scored only seven times last year and voluntarily took a cut in pay, with promises of a bonus if his production improved.

The game saw the return of Boston's high-scoring Jerry Toppazzini, dressed for the first time since his face was badly smashed in a collision with Detroit Red Wings' Ted Lindsay several weeks ago.

Canadiens will face the Leafs tonight with two regulars missing from their lineup. Left-winger Bert Olmstead has a cracked ankle bone and is still wearing a cast and rookie winger Stan Smrke is out with a knee injury.

Two other Canadiens missed practice Wednesday but will play. Maurice Richard had an affected thumb lanced and Jean Beliveau took a rest on doctors orders.

That 500 Record

Nine Goals Away, Five to Play Rocket Richard Unconcerned

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Wri ter

MONTREAL (CP) — Maurice (Rocket) Richard, the amazing right-winger of Montreal Canadiens who is only nine goals away from an unheard-of 500, isn't unduly concerned about approaching such a fantastic National Hockey League record.

"The way people talk they seem to think I'm going to stop right there at 500," the 35-year-old Rocket said Wednesday.

"Why not 505 or 508 or something else? It seems to me that 500 is just a big, round figure.

It doesn't seem likely Richard will last long enough to see 500. His club has only five games left. But you never know about the fanning unpredictable Rocket, idol the infamous Montreal Forum riot was born.

Campbell, nevertheless, has always had great personal admiration for Richard's ability.

"I think he is absolutely fabulous," says Campbell.

"The thing that makes him great is the burning interest and fire that stimulate him. His ability is inside him.

"I can't conceive of him being ordinary in anything. Perhaps if he had less of that fire he couldn't have done so well. As for his temperament, it's a question whether without it he could do all the things in hockey he accomplishes so well.

"I am not trying to compare him with any other player, but fellow Richard has something extra."

Richard's present 491 goals were scored in 13 seasons of regular-season play. Because of injuries and illness he had played the full schedule in only seven of his 13 seasons. In addition he has scored 101 goals in 62 games of the post-season Stanley Cup playoffs.

Closest to Richard's career figure is Gordie Howe, brilliant star of Detroit Red Wings, who has 350. Howe will be 29 years old March 31.

Richard has scored 31 goals in 58 games this season. He missed seven games because of an operation on his elbow.

What about next season—after he has passed his 500 birthday Aug. 4? How long will he continue playing?

"I wouldn't even guess. You can never tell what is going to happen. Right now I feel fine and my legs are in good shape, too."

Ontario Boxing Should Be Probed Says CCF Leader

TORONTO (CP) — Boxing in Ontario should be completely investigated, CCF Leader MacDonald told the legislature Wednesday.

He said a look at the situation a year ago by the legislature's committee on government commissions showed "evidence that practices sort of verged on racketeering in boxing."

"A year ago, a man in Toronto was charged with bookmaking and he was convicted," he said. "He was given only a one-year's suspension from his boxing promotion by the Ontario Athletic Commission."

"Yet today that man is responsible for a good deal of sport promotion. He was responsible for amateur boxing at the Palace Pier. He gets $1,000 a week from the CBC for TV rights."

"Is this type of thing to be ignored?" asked the CCF leader.

He did not name the man in the legislature.

"At the same time, a boxing club in Sudbury was suspended indefinitely by the athletic commission," said Mr. MacDonald. "Surely such a difference in penalty?"

"The northern club might have been doing something wrong in connection with boxing," Labor Minister Daley said. "This man did nothing wrong in boxing, but it was in racing."

'Spud Islanders' Most Improved Curling Rink

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator John T. Haig told the Senate Wednesday that although Prince Edward Island curlers didn't win the Canadian championship at Kingston last week, they showed the greatest progress during the year.

The Progressive Conservative leader also paid high tribute to the city of Kingston for its reception of the curlers.

Mahovlich Edges Bill Sweeney On All-Star Team

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

TORONTO (CP) — Frank Mahovlich, versatile forward with St. Michael's College Majors, has been named centre on the Ontario Hockey Association junior A all-star team.

Mahovlich, who made the half-season all-star team as a left winger, drew five of seven possible votes. He scored 31 goals this season, tops in the league.

Three Toronto Marlboros made the team: Defencemen Don Cherry and Harry Neale, and right winger Bob Nevin. Left winger Eddie Shack and goalie Bruce Gamble, both of the champion Guelph Biltmores, round out the team.

League scoring champion Bill Sweeney of Guelph lost out to Mahovlich. Sweeney drew one vote, from coach Father John Crowley of St. Michael's, who could not name his own player.

Coach Rudy Pilous of St. Catharines voted for Mahovlich as a left winger, naming Bill Kennedy of Marlboros at centre.

Rule Canadians Out of Hockey

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Two Canadians playing hockey for the University of Michigan will be ineligible for the National Collegiate Athletic Association championship this week-end on the grounds that they accepted expense money from a professional club.

An NCAA Aspokesman said Wally Kilrayed of Toronto and Mike Buchanan of Ottawa took expense money from Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League during tryouts while they were in high school.

Buchanan was injured in an exhibition game against Detroit Red Wings last month, and was not expected to play anyway.

Kingston Hangs Up Puck Gear After 8-1 Defeat by Whitby

Second game of the series is set for Saturday at Kitchener, with the third in Windsor Sunday. Playing his last game with Whitby was Charlie Burns, and he scored two goals. Burns will fly to Fort Pierce, Fla., to try out with Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League.

Fred Etcher also scored twice for Dunlops, Bus Gegnon, Ted O'Connor, Gordie Myles and George Samolenko each tallied once. Mike Bukacheski scored the only Kingston tally.

At Timmins, Billy Adamo, winner of the Bill Watson Memorial Trophy as the league's most gentlemanly player, scored two goals for Purkies. Bill Pirie, Doug Hunter and Bob Tilley counted one each. Paul Balecki, Gilles Pierre and Chick Guarda were the Timmins marksmen.

Scheduled tonight are Belleville at Cornwall, with Belleville leading the best-of-seven set 3-1, and North Bay at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior A southern group round-robin playoffs.

Windsor Bulldogs have found a scoring punch just in time for the Ontario Hockey Association senior A western division finals.

Through the season the Bulldogs though they finished first, were a relatively low-scoring team. Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, by far the highest-scoring team, finished second.

The Dutchmen scored six goals Wednesday night, but the Bulldogs scored seven and took a 1-0 lead in the best-of-five playoff.

WHITBY OUSTS KINGSTON

In the eastern division, the champion Whitby Dunlops advanced to the finals, trouncing Kingston CKLCs 8-1 to take the series 4-1. Dunlops will meet the Belleville-Cornwall winner in the final.

South Porcupine Porkies defeated Timmins Flyers 5-3 to take a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven finals in the Porcupine Mines Senior League. The teams tied 2-3 in the first4game of the series.

A sellout crowd of 5,400 watched the action at Timmins. Dutchies broke fast for a 3-1 lead in the first period, but Windsor was back with a 4-3 advantage after the second period.

Gord Haidy, Frank Bathgate and Joe Klukay each scored two goals for the winners. Walter Pawlyshyn getting the other. Jack Taylor had two for Kitchener, singles coming from George Scholes, Ken Laufman, Art Hurst and Jack McKenzie.

Rules Changes in Baseball Seeds for New Rhubarb Crop

By JACK HAND

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Its a warm July night at Comiskey Park. Minnie Minoso is up with the bases loaded, two out and the score tied in the last of the ninth. Don Larsen of the hated Yankees zips a fast ball through the strike zone and the plate - crowding Minoso is nicked on the arm.

Imagine the fans stormy reaction when the plate umpire gives the "strike three" sign and motions for a new supply of baseballs for the extra innings.

That is the way it may be this summer, a season that could produce the highest rhubarb crop since Ty Cobb left the game.

Cal Hubbard, supervisor of umpires in the American League, has been visiting dugouts before the exhibition games, briefing the managers, coaches and players anent the rule changes that are in effect this year.

HECTIC YEAR SEEN

"I've been telling people all winter that there appeared to be some fun at the ball parks this year," Hubbard said in an interview.

"The new rule says if a ball is in the strike zone when it touches the batter, it shall be called a strike whether or not the batter tried to avoid the ball.

"It doesn't say so in the rules but we have agreed to interpret it that the ball shall be dead after it has a man in a case like that. Otherwise you'd have all kinds of arguments about interference and obstruction."

Hubbard said the rule he expects to give batters the most trouble is the one that reads "a batter shall not leave his position in the batter's box after the pitcher comes to a set position or starts his windup. If the batter pitches, the umpire shall call 'ball' or 'strike' as the case may be.

"This means just what it says," Hubbard warned. "No more of this fiddling around to wipe an imaginary bug out of the eye or shake the bats while the pitcher waits.

Another rule change says that a pitcher, with nobody on base, must deliver the ball to the batter within 20 seconds after he receives the ball. Last year the pitcher had to throw 20 seconds after he toed the rubber. Now he must release the ball promptly to the pitcher. If a pitcher takes more than 20 seconds, the umpire shall call "ball."

"Some catchers, Yogi Berra, for instance, walk out half way to the pitcher to return the ball," said Hubbard. "No more of that. The catcher must return it promptly or he'll be out of the game after a warning or two.

SPORT IN BRIEF

SWEDES SEEK NEW DATE

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Hockey officials said Wednesday they have asked Canadian officials about the chances of arranging a Canadian tour in the fall for the Swedish world champion team.

A spokesman for the Ice Hockey Federation of Sweden said a fall trip would suit the Swedish players better because they now are scattered throughout the country.

Sweden recently decreed Russia to win the World and European championship.

DIVER TO TURN PRO

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Pat McCormick, America's two - time Olympic diving champion, said Wednesday she is turning professional.

The 26-year-old diving queen, winner of two gold medals in each of the last two Olympics, announced shortly after returning from the 1956 Games in Melbourne that she would retire.

"But ever since the offers to turn professional have been so good it would be ridiculous to turn them down," she said.

SHOW VETERAN RETIRES

TORONTO (CP)—It's not every scal that can get an honorary life membership in the Toronto Angelers' and Hunters' Association.

Sharkey, a performing sea-lion, will no longer be featured at this year's Canadian National "Sportsmen's Show in recognition of his nine years service. This is Sharkey's last appearance with the show, sponsored by the Toronto Anglers' and Hunters' Association.

ADDED HAZARDS

BRANTFORD (CP)—They are adding extra hazards to the Arrowdale golf course here — a couple of sewers which will cost erratic shooters one stroke each. City engineer G. H. Richards says a month-long job of laying $300,000 storm and sanitation sewers across the course has started. The dinging will cross fairways 1, 7, 8 and 9.

GLASGOW COMING

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — The Glasgow Celtic soccer team, 16 times Scottish champion, will play eight games in Canada and the United States during May and June. It was announced Wednesday.

Toronto, Montreal and Detroit will see the tourists.

BOMBERS SIGN GUARD

WINNIPEG (CP) — Vernon Uecker, 22-year-old guard from Texas Christian University, has signed with Winnipeg Blue Bombers for the 1937 Western interprovincial Football Union season, club officials announced Wednesday.

Campbell Bros Lose Exhibition

TORONTO (CP)—A tricky sheet of ice proved too much Wednesday night for the Campbell Brothers rink of Avonlea, Sask. The runners-up in the Canadian curling championships at Kingston lost 13-9 to Bob Metcalf's Royal Canadian four in an exhibition match.

Don Campbell, who has been offered a job as professional at the Royal Canadian Club, threw second stone for the losers.

If Campbell accepts the Royal Canadian offer, he will become the first curling professional. His duties would be similar to that of a golf pro.

Hershey Whips Springfield 5-3

HERSHEY (AP)—Dune Fisher scored two goals Wednesday night to lead Hershey Bears to a 5-3 win over Springfield Indians in the American Hockey League's only game of the night.

Other Hershey scorers were Don Cherry, Arnie Kullman and Floyd Smith. Springfield marksmen were Ed Slopinsky, Bob McCord and Dale Anderson.

Golden Bears May Stay in Ontario Union

SARNIA (CP)—A glimmer of hope that the Golden Bears may stay in the Ontario Rugby Football Union came from Alderman Harry Turnbull Wednesday at a special meeting of the parks board.

He quoted M. J. Chilton of Sunria as saying that a group of local men was prepared to guarantee up to $3,000 for the Bears' continued use of Athletic Park, which is under city park management.

Chilton is first vice-president and acting president of the ORFU.

RINK LOWER RENTAL

The Bears withdrew from the senior league Monday, giving one reason as the lack of fan support and the other rental it has had to pay for the park.

At the park board meeting Wednesday, the decision was reached on possible new rental charges. Ald. Turnbull urged a decision before Easter when the ORFU directors will meet here to talk about the 1937 season.

Vice-Chairman Frank Byer said an immediate decision was difficult because three board members were absent.

At Kitchener, directors of the ORFU Dutchmen decided Wednesday to carry on with season ticket sales. They expressed strong belief Sarnia will be in the four-team league again.

Lou Bendo Wins Pinkney Trophy

TORONTO (CP)—Lou Bendo of Windsor Bulldogs of the Ontario Hockey Association senior A wrist-shot division was announced Wednesday as winner of the Dave Pinkney Trophy for the 1936-37 season.

The selection was made by sports writers and sportscasters of the home towns of the league's seven division clubs.

The trophy was presented by the western group in honor of the late convener, Dave Pinkney of Stratford.

Bendo scored 28 goals and was credited with 23 assists for 51 points during the regular season.

Training Camp Notes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Granny Hamner, a knuckler guy who won't give up in spite of a shoulder injury that ended his shortstop days, seems ready to make a strong bid for a pitching berth with Philadelphia Phillies.

A star shortstop in the major leagues for 10 years, Hamner went to the mound Wednesday against New York Yankees in an exhibition game at Clearwater, Fla., and was credited with the 8-5 victory in 10 innings.

Hamner, 39, pitched the last three innings and allowed only one hit, while striking out five Yankees and issuing one walk.

Big Reginald hit a home run in the last half of the 12th off Bobby Shantz to win for the Phils.

Hamner mixed a knuckler with a fast curve. The 5-11, 180-pound righthander injured his left shoulder during a night game last May when he dove for a ball. Last November he underwent an operation for a ripped tendon, but it wasn't successful. The shoulder hindered his batting swing, and late in the 1956 season he got three regular games as a pitcher.

TOO EARLY TO TELL

Manager Eddie Sawyer said it was still too early to tell about Granny as a pitcher, but he's going to give him every chance.

Whit Wyatt, Phillies coach, says one thing in favor of Hamner is a strong right arm.

"He's serious and learns quickly," said Whit. "I think he can develop into a pretty good pitcher."

Pittsburgh Pirates won their fifth exhibition game without defeat, a 3-1 decision over Boston in 10 innings. Harold Pritchard's single, a double by Bob Skinner, and Bill Virdon's single broke up the game.

Cleveland made it 4-1 in the cactus loop. Rookie Roger Maris socked a two-run homer in the first inning and the Indians beat Baltimore Orioles 9-5.

After losing four in a row, Chicago Cubs clipped New York Giants 9-3. Solly Drake, Don Fondy and George Freeze hit homers for the Cubs, while Willie Mays got his first homer, a three-run job.

BUMS BATS BOOM

Brooklyn peppered three Chicago White Sox pitchers for 14 hits, including homers by Pee Wee Reese, Dick Gray and Gil Hodges, for a 9-4 victory.

Home runs by Gus Zernial and Hal Smith helped Kansas City Athletics squeeze out a 5-4 victory over St. Louis, with the victory credited to former Yankee pitcher Tom Morgan. Al Dark hit a two-run homer for the Cards.

Cincinnati rapped three Milwaukee hurlers for 14 hits, and won 11-4. Hank Aaron, Johnny Logan and Ray Shearer belted four-baggers for the Braves, and Roy McMillan and Pete Whisenant for the Reds.

Eddie Yost of Washington doubled in the fifth, advanced to third on a sacrifice and scored on a fly ball as the Senators edged Detroit 3-2. Earlier Al Kaline of the Tigers and Washington's Jim Lemon homered.

Marlies Trounce Teepees 9-3 in Series Opener

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Marlboros blasted five third-period goals Wednesday night to take a 9-3 victory over St. Catharines Teepees and a 1-0 lead in their best-of-five senior Hockey Association junior A semi-final series.

The Marlboros were never behind. Bob Nevin tallied two goals for them and Henry Marczak, Carl Brewer, Bill Kennedy, Harry Neale, Ian Anderson and Ron Casey each scored once. Ed Horkstra tallied twice for St. Catharines and Jack McKenzie once.

Referee Cooper Roddy handed out 19 penalties, 10 to the Teepees. Don Comben and Bob Nevin received majors for fighting with less than a minute left in the game.

Windsor Tiger Is Young Man With a Problem

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Young Reno Bertola is the victim of the "squeeze play."

The 20-year-old infielder was paid an estimated $25,000 bonus to ink a Detroit Tiger contract in August, 1953. Since then he has played one full season of baseball—with the Triple A Charleston Senators. And the Tigers can't send him out on option without first obtaining waivers on him.

"I guess I'm a little like some other guys around the club," said the Windsor, Ont., youngster. "Maybe if I were a little better player—or a little worse—things would be a little simpler."

THEN UP BY BUTLER

Since he signed a bonus contract, it was two years before Bertola could be farmed out. But the Tigers kept him, and he started the 1956 season at second base.

His batting average after 22 games was only .182, so down he went to Charleston. He rattled American Association pitching to a .289 tune in 125 games.

This year Bertola is far down the list of infield contenders. The Tiger brass is coupling on Jim Finigan at third with Bertola's original position. And if Finigan fails, it's likely that Reg Boone, who is being tried at first base, will go back to third.

Bertola says he would rather be playing regularly, at Charleston or elsewhere, than riding the bench. But the Tigers have to look ahead, to 1958, 1959 and the years to follow.

Young man with a problem, that's Reno Bertola.

WANT ASSURANCES

DETROIT (AP)— The city of Cleveland must give "definite assurances of financing" by this weekend or the 1958 Pan-American Games will probably go to Guatemala, Douglas F. Roby said Wednesday.

EDMONTON (CP) — Official congratulations and a hearty round of desk-thumping greeted Matt Baldwin's Canadian championship curling rink as it held the floor briefly in the Alberta legislature, Wednesday.

It was the first time in the history of the legislature that any sports champion has been invited to the floor of the House. With Skip Baldwin were third Gordon Haynes, second Art Kleinmeyer and lead Bill Price.

Room one bidding was like this:

West	North	East	South
1 D	1 S	Pass	2 H
Pass	3 S	Pass	3 NT

Opening lead from west was a spade. The timing was with the opponents to take a spade, two hearts, one diamonds. It downed three no-trump by one trick. Which is the fate three no-trump deserves.

Whether west opens the bidding or not, south should insist on playing it in four hearts. To permit north to play it in no-trump is an obvious indication that the players were no-trump hounds.

The result in any one deal does not prove the correctness of its bids. But in this case, three no-trump is defeated by normal lead and the kind of defence these players should put up.

On the other hand, four hearts is easy to make unless west is a clairvoyant and starts with an opening lead of his diamond ace. This is not likely without having the neck of a giraffe.

Training Camp Notes

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — New York Giants, still in the market for a catcher, announced trading Charlie Silvera of Chicago Cubs.

Charles Feeney, Giants' vice-president, and John Holland, general manager of Cubs, ended a long meeting Wednesday. Nothing was developed, although it is known the Giants also are interested in a good right-handed pitcher while the Cubs could use a southpaw hurler. New York has seven lefties in camp.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Elston Howard, New York Yankee catcher and outfielder, was revealed today to be sidelined because of a pulled muscle high in the back of his left leg.

He has not appeared in an exhibition game, and will not be in shape to resume training for a few days.

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—A report came back from a Los Angeles bone specialist Wednesday that Chicago Cubs' shortstop Ernie Banks has nothing more serious than a strained shoulder muscle and may play Saturday. The most happy guy in the Cub camp was manager Bob Scheffing.

"I was worried there for awhile," Scheffing said of Banks, a real rose among the eighth-place thorns the new club boss inherited from Stan Hack.

GREECE TOPS SPAIN

ATHENS (AP) — Greece defeated Spain 2-0 Wednesday in a Mediterranean Soccer Cup match.

Trenton Ousted By Midland

MIDLAND — Midland's high-scoring Canadiens moved into the OMHA Juvenile Minor "A" finals when they swamped Trenton Gouids 11-2, to take the semi-final round 16-5.

Canadiens' opponents in the final will probably be Port Colborne.

Don Wilcox was a one-man gang again for Canadiens with five goals and an assist. Single marksmen went to Doug Campbell, Al Arbour, John Brodeur, Jim Wilcox, Gord Brand and John Bourgeois.

Gerry Austin and Ed Lewis scored for Trenton, who trailed only 1-0 at the end of the first period and 4-1 after two frames. Both goalies, Rodger Gray for Midland and Dick Wright for Trenton, played outstanding games.

Minor Hockey

All four divisions of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association saw action at Memorial Arena last night in city playoff games.

MIDGETS

Team Five took a commanding six-goal lead in their goals-to-count final series by whipping Team Six 8-2. The second game is slated for next Wednesday night.

John Brennan turned in one of the season's top performances when he scored no less than five of the winner's goals. He fired the first two, added the fourth, and closed his club's scoring with another pair. Pat Asselstine, W. Boufford and Bob Dolan each added one goal while Boufford picked up three assists. Wayne Wiite and Thompson each drew one assist.

Team Six scored both goals in the dying minutes of the game, one by Bill Skelly and the other by Wayne Woods. Bob Langabeer and G. MacDonald earned helpers.

JUNIORS

Bantam semi-finals got under way with a pair of first-game contests. The Red Wings edged the Maple Leafs 3-2 while Canadiens shaded the Barons 2-1. Both games were the first in goals-to-count series with the second games scheduled for Saturday morning.

Hub Poitier gave the Red Wings their one-goal lead, scoring his club's initial goal and adding the tie-breaker. Cam Wallbridge also scored with Garry Sine getting the lone assist. John Lewis and Bruce Sloans tallied for the Maple Leafs with Dale Archer helping on one.

Jimmy Dahl netted the Canadiens' second marker after Rod Begbie had scored earlier. Ronny Morgan was the lone Baron marksman with Bob Blazer and John Rivest drawing assists.

PEEWEE

The Maple Leafs and Canadiens qualified for the group finals with victories last night.

The Canadiens were forced into overtime before edging out the Rangers 4-3 and 7-6 on the round while the Maple Leafs shut out the Red Wings 4-0 and 4-0 on the series.

The final series will be played in the form of a doubleheader next Wednesday night. All peewee action has been cancelled for Saturday morning since the all-star team plays in the tournament at Peterborough. All-star players are reminded that the bus leaves the arena at 9.30 sharp on Saturday.

Brian Skinner tallied his second goal of the game at 1.27 of sudden death overtime for the Canadien victory. Dennis Ray had a goal and an assist with Jimmie Maize also scoring. Jim Rutherford had an assist, Brian McBride, Allan Mott and Jimmie Woodcock scored for the Rangers, all unassisted.

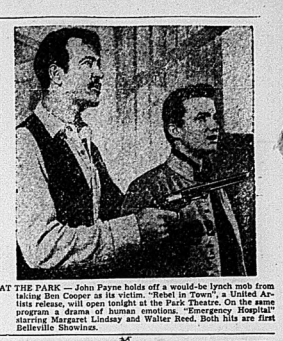
Arthur Lucas was the big gun for the Leafs, scoring twice and assisting on the other goal. Norman Richards had a goal and an assist to share the spotlight with Lucas while Jay Kiser helped on one.

SQUIRT

The Red Wings and Maple Leafs will meet for the squirt title in a double-header on Saturday morning.

The Leafs shut out the Black Hawks 1-0 last night and 3-0 on the round. Red wings also won last night over Canadiens 3-0 and took the semi-final series 4-3.

Larry Stewart fired the Maple Leaf marker last night while Jimmie Pointer netted the lone goal of the Red Wing victory.



This Saturday morning and next Wednesday night will complete the 1956-57 season of minor hockey in Belleville.

AT THE BELLE — Lovely Vera Miles is the romantic interest in "The Wrong Man," playing tonight at the Belle. The master of suspense, Alfred Hitchcock, brings you all the thrills and excitement of "Rear Window", in this new drama of mistaken identity. Henry Fonda and Anthony Quayle, are co-starred.

AT THE PARK — John Payne holds off a would-be lynch mob from taking Ben Cooper as its victim. "Rebel in Town", a United Artists release, will open tonight at the Park Theatre. On the same program a drama of human emotions, "Emergency Hospital" starring Margaret Lindsay and Walter Reed. Both hits are first Belleville Showings.

Stewart Refuses to Capitalize On Military Career for Publicity

By BOB THOMAS

(First of two articles on James Stewart)

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Most of Hollywood was surprised when President Eisenhower nominated James Stewart to be a brigadier-general in the U.S. Air Force reserve.

Even his co - workers weren't aware that Stewart had remained active in the air force, in which he rose from private to squadron commander in the Second World War.

That is typical of Stewart. He has refused to capitalize on his military career for publicity purposes. (Oddly, his nomination was announced the same week his new film about flight pioneer Charles Lindbergh was opening in New York. But Stewart had nothing to do with the timing.)

POPULAR STAR

He will, in fact, make no utterance that isn't in keeping with his quiet dignity. Probably it is this integrity both on the screen and off that has made him one of the most popular film stars in the world — and perhaps the highest paid.

James Stewart is a mature, sober citizen who still seems boyish despite his greying hair. He will be 49 May 20, in usual fashion—hating but sincere — he answered a barrage of questions:

Q. You've had offers to run for important offices in Pennsylvania and California. Why haven't you entered politics?

A. I don't think I'm equipped.

Q. How do you pick your scripts?

A. Well, I read just about everything that comes along. That's all I have time to read, in fact. Every once in a while you come across something that hits you as worth taking a chance on.

Q. Are you as rich as people say you are?

A. That depends on how rich they say.

Q. They claim you're very well fixed.

A. (After long pause) Yes. I'm well fixed. I'm a wealthy man.

Q. Do you have any idols among other actors?

A. I don't know if they're idols. But there are some actors whose work I've always admired. (Spencer) Tracy is one. I've always thought (Henry) Fonda was an excellent actor. The same for (Humphrey) Bogart.

Charles Van Doren Turns Down Money for Teaching

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Before he was tripped by a relatively easy question Charles Van Doren made some difficult decisions and came up with the right answers on the television program Twenty-One (NBC-TV, Mondays, 9 p.m. EST).

Now Van Doren has made the most difficult of many decisions — and come up with the right answer. He's turning down the easy money. He will continue to teach at Columbia University and go to work for his doctorate in English literature. He is going to write what he wants to write.

Ever since Van Doren, 31, began winning money on the quiz program, he began winning the esteem and literally the affection of television viewers. He became, as they say, the hottest personality on television in this winter season.

Profitable offers inundated him. They have increased since he was defeated Monday evening by Mrs. Vivienne Nearing when he failed to remember that Hudson is the king of Belgium. There are offers to deliver lectures, to make recordings, to endorse an amazing array of commercial products, to make guest appearances on all kinds of TV programs.

Wisely, he obtained an agent to handle these complex affairs. Now, says his representative at Music Corporation of America, he "will do nothing that is inconsistent with his career." As of this writing he has turned down every offer—except one. He will appear on NBC radio's Conversation, that excellent program which returns to the air March 21 for a regular Thursday evening series (at 8:30 p.m. EST.)

Quebec Hockey

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP)—Quebec Aces moved up a 4-1 lead in the first two periods and held off a rally to defeat Trois-Rivieres Lions 5-4 in a Quebec Hockey League game Wednesday night. The loss prevented the Lions from moving back into a tie for third place with Montreal. The Aces already have clinched the championship.

Yvan Lavoie, called up from Cornwall to replace the injured Jacques Marcotte, turned back 22 shots in the Trois-Rivieres nets.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By FRANCES DRAKE

For Friday, March 15, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Control emotions and keep sensitively alert for defects in plans and other possible errors. Avoid impatience, doubt, anxiety. Familiar matters favored.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Use your bright mind to differentiate between delicate, subtle matters and everyday problems and chores. This may not be an easy day perhaps but one needs such days for checking, repairing, etc.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — No forlorn looks! Brighten up, show your sunny side. Everyone has personal woes but not entirely comfortable but, if you take them in stride, you won't fall.

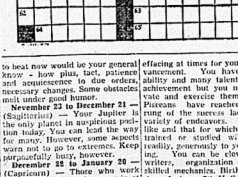
June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Take wise precautions in all important and tricky matters and where there are dangerous tools, machinery and the like to be handled. But don't worry or anticipate trouble. Do smile.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — You may have to urge yourself forward at some moments today. Keep ambitiously, carefully busy and particularly serene if your day is demanding. Calm, patient endeavor always gives satisfaction.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Reading down through the Signs one might think the day is impossible of benefit to anyone. That is not so, but there is a need for alertness and caution if all are to get best results from endeavors, and to avoid needless errors. This applies to Virgo, too.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Heed Taurus. You can put the day in the credit column. This does not mean you will reap showy gains but you can accomplish through good work, research, study, etc.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — A combination hard to beat now would be your general know - how plus, tact, patience and acquiescence to due criteria, necessary changes. Some obstacles melt under good humor.



November 23 to December 21 — (Sagittarius) — Your Jupiter is the only planet in auspicious position today. You can lead the way for many. However, some aspects warn not to go to extremes. Keep purposefully busy, however.

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn) — Those who work faithfully and steadily can gain at daily occupation, in selling, managing, work or business methods intelligently, consistently. Be careful, watch details but don't worry.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — Well - made plans, matters properly prepared can bring new benefits. Don't give way to irritability or impatience. Keep forging ahead in your intelligent manner and things won't go wrong.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Set a goal and aim at reaching it as directly as possible. Today stimulates your innate intuition and sense of direction. Avoid straining or fretting, but "plough" on with faith. You'll win. You busy today are usually gentle, kindly in manner, reasonable and fair in your judgment of others. You are, however, too self-effacing at times for your own advancement. You have splendid ability and many talents for true achievement but you must cultivate and exercise them. Many Pisceans have reached the top rung of the success ladder in a variety of endeavors. What you like and that for which you have trained or studied will respond readily, generously to your handling. You can be clever actors, writers, organization workers, skilled mechanics. Birthdate: Andrew Jackson, 7th U. S. president. Harold L. Ickes, former Secretary of the Interior.

RESIGNS OVER SALARIES

GODERICH (CP) — A dispute over teachers' salary increases in the Goderich District High School has resulted in the resignation of board chairman Harry Ford. Member of the board for 15 years he voted in favor of a new salary agreement made with the teachers in February which the board later rescinded.

MARMORA

Madoc, Marmora Battle to 3-3 Overtime Tie

MARMORA (Special) — Madoc held off elimination here last night by gaining a 3-3 overtime tie with Marmora in the fifth game of their OHA Intermediate "C" northern section final series.

The best of seven affair now stands at three wins, one loss and one tie in favor of Marmora. Last night's game was the closest that Madoc but the natural ice there was in poor condition, forcing the move to the artificial ice at Marmora.

The game was one of the closest witnessed here this winter. Madoc opened the scoring after only 36 seconds of play with Jud Seymark the marksman. Ken Trumble tied the game at 15:35 on a solo effort and the score remained 1-1 until the second frame.

Jimmy Carswell put Madoc ahead at 15.36 with the only goal of the period.

Bob Lavender sent the game into overtime by bagging the equalizer for Marmora at 5.04 of the third heat with Ken Trumble assisting.

Smith gave Madoc the lead for the third time at 5.31 of the ten minute overtime period with Jackie Wardhaugh assisting. This lead was short-lived however as Earl Cousins took Trumble's pass to make it 3-3 at 7.15.

Ken Trumble collected topped the Marmora attack with a goal and assists on other pair.

Madoc drew eight of the eleven penalties assessed.

Summary

First Period

Madoc Semark	8.36
Marmora Trumble	15.35
Second Period
Madoc Carswell	15.36
Third Period
Marmora Lavender (Trumble)	5.04
Overtime
Madoc Smith (Wardhaugh)	5.31
Marmora Cousins (Trumble)	7.15

Egypt's Attitude Toward Canucks Now Less Hostile

CAIRO (CP)—Egypt's attitude toward Canadian United Nations troops appeared less strained today although there still was no formal word the Egyptians would accept scheduled Canadian reinforcements.

Tensions increased by erroneous press reports here of Canadian actions in the Gaza Strip relaxed somewhat after several news papers made indirect retractions.

Canadian Ambassador E. H. Norman, saying he was aware of "rumors of difficulties" concerning the proposed entry of additional Canadian troops, met Wednesday with UNEF officials.

Later he said, "Responsible UNEF officials have assured me that there is no basis for concern on this point."

MORE HOSPITABLE

The Egyptians, admittedly opposed to Canadian participation in the UNEF at the outset, gradually had become more hospitable as the Canadians won popularity among the citizens and the officials with whom they dealt.

Reports of new objection came as Cairo newspapers reported that Canadians are responsible for the fatal shooting of an Arab youth during a demonstration Sunday in the Gaza Strip.

Wednesday most papers retracted the story after an Egyptian official blamed the shooting on a Danish soldier. Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada, UNEF commander, said the "unfortunate" incident occurred when the youth was struck by a bullet which ricocheted as the soldier fired over the heads of the demonstrators.

The reported opposition came as somewhat of a surprise since the Egyptians had raised no objections when issued routine notification in mid-February of the necessary Canadian reinforcements.

OTHERS ARRIVE

A draft of 32 Gaza-bound Canadian reconnaissance troops now is at the staging area near Naples. The remainder of the 105-man squadron of the 5th reconnaissance regiment is expected there within a few days.

Board Payments Are Increased

TORONTO (CP) — The workmen's compensation board expects to pay out $50,000,000 in benefits to injured workmen this year, board chairman E. E. Spar-row said in his annual report tabled Wednesday in the legislature.

The estimate is nearly $11,000,000 higher than actual expenditure last year and $16,000,000 more than 1955.

In 1956, 65,000 employers were receiving or assessed. 1,500,000 employees received coverage under the act. With the extension of coverage to include retailers of goods it is expected that this year 120,000 employers with 1,750,000 employees will be protected.

Attacks Of Indigestion Gone... Pain Relieved

Woman Praises Synlona, "Now Nerves Are Calmed Down—Sleep Soundly Once More."

"For a long time I suffered with faulty digestion and Synlona is the first medicine to really help me," said Mrs. Pearl Vinson, R.R. 4, Bear Line (near Chatham) Ontario, in a recent report.

Tells Her Experience

"I would get awful attacks of indigestion, gas and heartburn.

"More recently pains set into my back and muscles and many days I could hardly move.

"Nothing I ever used brought me one thing and another without getting relief at any cost, imagine how pleased I am with the good results I'm getting from Synlona. In only a few days I noticed that the aches and pains were leaving my muscles and it cleared up the gas, indigestion and heartburn. Now my nerves are calmed down, I can retire early, sleep soundly at night and feel rested when I arise in the morning."

If you suffer as Mrs. Vinson did, don't let the time pass. Synlona has helped thousands of men and women troubled with gas and can do the same for you.

Synlona is sold and recommended by Dulan the Druggist.

MR. TWEEDY by Ned Riddle

"Sorry, Tweedy—still no income tax refund in the mail for you."

Hastings County Roads

NOTICE to TRUCKERS

For the next few weeks, local truckers and others engaged in hauling over County Roads will be required to observe HALF LOADING REGULATIONS to prevent unnecessary damage during the defrosting and break-up period.

By your co-operation you will not only earn the good will of the general motoring public, but also that of the County Taxpayer. You will also benefit yourselves directly by minimizing the damage, which in turn will hasten the date when you can again practise full loading.

W. L. LANGLOIS,
County Engineer.

CUBAN

The brief attempt on Batista began with a caravan of buses and cars roaring into the palace plaza. A band of armed student rebels streamed off.

Apparently operating under prearranged plans, one group immediately started into the palace while other attackers took cover in nearby buildings and laid down a curtain of protective fire.

Shooting also broke out in other parts of the city.

Palace guards went into action and word was sent to Columbia barracks, eight miles away. Tanks and troops quickly poured into the city, cordoned off the palace area and opened a counter-attack.

Batista was said to be lunching on the second floor of the palace when the attack was started. After riding out the fighting on the floor beneath him, he went to his private office and directed the army counter-attack.

"All I did was to use the telephone and give orders to my aides," Batista said, "although my loudest was not heavy and hand."

About 20 of the student-led attackers and three guards were killed in the fighting at the palace. Two other deaths came in other clashes in the city.

The attackers also seized radio station RELOJ briefly and for 20 minutes broadcast false announcements that commanders of the armed forces had been overthrown.

The action in the palace area died down after about two hours but the army's military command announced order was restored.

Batista, who calls himself "an idealist but a practical one," scoffs at the dictator label many Cubans and others have put on him. He claims credit for wide social reforms and says he works only for the welfare of Cuba.

Cypriot Rebels Make Peace Offer As Leader Seized

Ready to Stop Terrorism If Archbishop Is Released

NICOSIA (Reuters) — Security forces captured a major Greek Cypriot terrorist today as government officials considered a new truce offer by the anti-British EOKA underground.

Caught near Paphos was Aristidou Prounbiotis, generally believed to be operational chief of EOKA. He had a £5,000 price on his head.

Prounbiotis' capture came less than 24 hours after leaflets distributed on city streets offered to stop the underground war which began two years ago "as soon as Archbishop Makarios is freed."

The Greek-Orthodox churchman was exiled to the Seychelles Islands in the Indian Ocean last year. The British have refused to free him until he renounces violence.

Governor Sir John Harding said Thursday night he would be "the first to welcome any move toward a genuine and permanent cessation of violence with all its tragic consequences.' Later he said he is certain the British government "would not show any lack of imagination in handling the situation."

Sources close to the Greek Cypriot church, which has been predominant in the struggle for enosis (union with Greece), said the governor's statement was "good and hopeful."

Atomic Power Reactor Explodes In New Mexico

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (AP)—The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said today the core of a test atomic power reactor exploded during testing on Feb. 12. No one was injured, but the power unit was destroyed.

The reactor core, in essence a stripped-down model of a power reactor, was, because of its "naked" nature, whimsically dubbed "the Godiva."

It consisted of a sphere of uranium 235 about 6½ inches in diameter suspended on a tripod.

The AEC announcement said no damage was done to the building "and radiation contamination has been removed by standard cleanup methods."

The uranium core itself did not explode. Pieces of the core "flew apart" under pressure of heat from an increased chain reaction which the AEC said was caused by a "combination of special test equipment."

SCREWS BROKE

The uranium sphere consisted of six pieces in three sections. Screws holding the sections together couldn't withstand the strain of the reactor heat and gave way, scattering pieces of the sphere for "several feet" around the room housing the Godiva.

Godiva was first built in 1951. "More than 3,500 experiments of various kinds had been conducted with the assembly," the AEC said.

One spokesman compared the destruction of the reactor core to "what happens when you hold a hot glass under cold water."

ACTOR CAN'T WORK

LONDON (AP) — George Raft has been refused government permission to work in Britain in the movie, "Passport to Treason," producer Raymond Stross said Thursday. Stross stated no reason for the action and said Raft could not be available from the labor ministry. British Actors' Equity said it had nothing to do with the matter.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: A slow moving disturbance over the Lake Superior early this morning will produce unsettled weather throughout Ontario for the next 48 hours. A band of showers and thunderstorms will extend from the southern and central regions of the province shortly after midnight, heralding the arrival of cold air from the mid-western states. Showers are expected to give way to widely scattered snowflurries tonight and Saturday.

In the north country, temperatures were mild overnight with snow in the west and scattered showers and isolated thunderstorms in the eastern part. Little change is expected in these regions today and Saturday.

Pilot Rescued After Jumping From His Plane

TORONTO (CP)—A 22-year-old Swedish-born contractor jumped from his light plane as it glided five feet above the water of Toronto Island Thursday and then watched the craft turn itself into a graceful landing.

He said he narrowly escaped being trapped in the aircraft when a strut-bit him as he leaped as he jumped.

The pilot hauled out of the water by Ernest Flood of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club who was on his way across the bay.

FISHERMEN RELEASED

Find 3-Year-Old Drowned in Bathtub As Baby-Sitter Held for Loitering

DETROIT (AP) — Three-year-old Patricia Tiernan, who was kidnapped from her home in nearby Pontiac Thursday, was found drowned Thursday night in a bathtub at a small hotel in Detroit.

Police said they found the body after following directions given by a teen-aged baby sitter who was picked up for loitering near the Southern Michigan prison at Jackson.

State police said Madeline Allred, 18, of Pontiac was undergoing routine questioning when suddenly she blurted out:

"But I did kill a baby down in Detroit today. I held her under water for two hours."

They quoted her as saying, "I also had an urge to kill people." Then, they said, she gave the information on the hotel where Patricia's body could be found.

As police questioned Miss Allred they heard over the police radio that she was wanted as a baby sitter who had disappeared with Patricia from the home of the child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Tiernan.

Miss Allred had been employed as a baby sitter for the last three weeks. Police quoted her as saying she was released from a state mental hospital in July of last year.

Miss Allred was held on an open charge for Detroit police.

HOUSE APPROVES INTRODUCTION OF GRAIN LOAN BILL

Govt. Will Continue To Assist Farmers

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons, after some forceful persuasion by Trade Minister Howe, has approved introduction of the government's proposal to continue its guarantee on bank loans for farm-stored Prairie grain another year.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, among others, opposed the move Thursday on grounds most farmers want cash advances for the grain they must hold because the Canadian Wheat Board can't find markets for all of it.

But as opposition members continued to debate a second day against the resolution introducing the government proposal, Mr. Howe finally said he would withdraw it unless the House took some action.

The measure could not be fought for 75 weeks, he said, as it was a year ago before the House approved initial legislation to guarantee bank loans up to $1,500 at a maximum five-per-cent interest. The new loans, to be available from next Sept. 1 to June 1, 1958, would be doubled to $3,000 with the cabinet setting the interest rate before fall.

Mr. Howe said the measure must be approved quickly since other matters such as the budget debate and an external affairs debate on today—would delay it.

After a couple more opposition speeches the resolution was allowed to come to a vote, which the Liberal majority carried to approve introduction of the measure 41 to 28 against the Progressive Conservatives, CCF and Social Credit.

Earlier Mr. Diefenbaker said the introduction of the measure represents a complete disregard of the western farm organizations." They had made a demand a system of cash advances from the wheat board.

That is not so, said Mr. Howe. The measure met "the unanimous request" of the farm organizations as the three Prairie wheat pools, the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, the United Grain Growers and the farm unions.

C. G. (Gordon) McCullough (Moose Mountain) said Mr. Howe used "subterfuge" and "tricks" to get them to ask for cash loans.

Mr. Howe promptly demanded and got a withdrawal on the ground this statement was "an insult to the farmers." Mr. McCullough revised his statement to say it might have been coercion "in certain quarters."

Highlights of Budget

OTTAWA (CP) — Highlights of Finance Minister Harris' budget speech Thursday night:

Personal and corporation income tax rates remain unchanged.

Family allowances boosted $1 monthly to $6 for children under six years and to $8 for those 10 to 12, effective Sept. 1.

Effective July 1 universal old age pensions to persons 70 and over raised to $46 monthly from $40.

Benefits for war-disabled pensioners and "burned out" veterans increased effective July 1, by $25,000,000 a year, about 20 per cent in each of the various categories.

Maximum monthly payment on old age assistance, blind and disability pensions, shared with provinces under means test, raised to $46 from $40, effective July 1.

Immediate removal of 10-per-cent sales tax on tea, coffee, cocoa, prepared desserts and some other grocery articles.

Deductible medical expenses in 1956 and future tax years to include full-time nursing-home care for taxpayer or dependents and full-time care for retarded children.

Taxpayer option of standard $100 deduction — unsupported by vouchers — from net personal income on account of medical costs, charitable gifts, union and professional dues. Receipts required for full claim when more than $100 deducted. Effective on 1957 income tax.

Deductions of $400 from taxable income in 1957 allowed for certain dependents such as student-children with incomes up to $950, instead of $750.

Deduction by self-employed and by employees of up to 10 per cent on earned income on payments for approved retirement savings plans, effective Jan. 1, 1957.

A $2,000,000-a-year boost in Maritime rail subventions and federal offer to build steam power plants in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

Special excise tax of 10 per cent on soft drinks, candy, chocolate, confectionary and chewing gum repealed immediately.

No change in taxes on liquor, beer, tobacco products, wines, automobiles, radio and television sets.

Tax reductions amount to $55,000,000 and social welfare payment increases to $93,000,000 in 1957-58 fiscal year.

Revenue estimated at record $5,170,000,000 and expenditures at peacetime high of $5,018,000,000.

"Surplus of $152,000,000 forecast for year starting April 1, compared with $282,500,000 in year ending March 31.

All provinces but Ontario and Quebec indicate agreement to enter new tax rental pacts with Ottawa.

Canada to seek new trade negotiations with Australia; may seek tariff changes on steel, rubber and other products in fall world talks.

U.S. Probe Renews Charges Canuck Envoy Linked to Reds

WASHINGTON (CP)—Questions probing a Canadian ambassador's views on the Middle East crisis have been asked by a member of the U.S. Senate investigating committee which renewed allegations of communism against the career diplomat.

The transcript of a closed hearing of the Senate internal security sub-committee which brought in the name of E. Herbert Norman, Canadian ambassador to Egypt, was released Thursday night.

The record of the Wednesday session, centring on U.S. security reports concerning Norman and questioning of John K. Emmerson, counselor of the U.S. Embassy at Beirut, Lebanon, linked the Canadian with one of the accused in the Soviet spy ring exposed in Canada in 1946.

Emmerson testified he has known Norman since 1940 and had no reason to think Norman was a Communist.

The session marked the second time in six months that the sub-committee has sought to link Norman with communism. It made public in 1951 a charge by a witness that Norman had attended a school for Young Communists at Cape Cod, Me., in 1939.

At that time the Canadian external affairs department expressed complete faith in Norman, then acting head of the Canadian delegation to the United Nations, and filed a strong protest with the U.S. state department saying he had been double-checked for security.

Canadian reaction this time was again sharp. Questioned in Ottawa about the report, External Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson said:

"I have nothing to say about attitudes we have on the English and French invasion" of Egypt.

Emmerson said the Anglo-French intervention in the Middle East had not yet taken place.

TOKYO (Reuters) — Japanese Socialists who called on the Russian Embassy Thursday night to ask an end to nuclear tests were told to mind their own business. A Socialist leader said the Russian officials told the Japanese visitors will not "tolerate foreign intervention in Soviet domestic affairs."

PREMIER ATTACKS FISCAL POLICIES OF FEDERAL GOVT.

Claims Surplus More Than Given in Budget

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost attacked the fiscal policies of the federal government in the Ontario legislature Thursday amid desk thumpings and angry shouts that he was using the legislature to fight the coming federal election.

Mr. Frost criticized the Ottawa budget surplus, saying it was actually more than $500,000,000 instead of the nearly $300,000,000 announced by Finance Minister Harris. At the same time, Mr. Frost said, Ontario was being treated ill in equity funds in tax fields which belonged to the province, and in the way they did to the Dominion government.

OLIVER REPLIES

His attack brought an immediate reply from Liberal Opposition Leader Oliver who said the premier's statement was inspired by the visit Wednesday of Progressive Conservative Leader Diefenbaker and was purely political.

He said Mr. Frost is trying to put the blame on the federal government because of inability to deal fairly with municipal financial needs.

"There are ways to do what we ought to do without letting the cat out of the bag," Mr. Oliver said.

Mr. Frost said, the Ottawa surplus was achieved by putting $50,000,000 into a reserve account for local projects, by government inventorying and by putting another $80,000,000 into the Civil Service superannuation fund as well as by setting up the Canada Arts Council earlier with $100,000,000.

PLAYING POLITICS CHARGED

John J. Wintermeyer, Liberal financial critic from Waterloo North said he regretted the premier had used the legislative assembly for political purposes. "If ever there was a demonstration of misery at its best, it was this afternoon."

James Maloney (PC — Renfrew South) said he objected to the federal government, stating that Ontario gets an increase of old age pensions by $6 a month is a "belated attempt to bribe the people of Canada."

He said Prime Minister St. Laurent has celebrated his last birthday as prime minister.

Roscoe Robson (PC Hastings East) said the big grocery chain stores are trying to raise the cost of living by manufacture and lower the price paid to producers. He said farmers must organize so they can control the sale of their produce.

He suggested a select committee should be formed to investigate the consumer-producer price spread.

Canadian Type of A-Power Plant Likely to Be Cheaper to Operate

PHILADELPHIA (CP)—A top Canadian scientist said today the type of atomic power plant Canada is building likely will produce electricity more cheaply than that being built in other countries.

Dr. W. B. Lewis, vice-president of research and development of Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., directed the conference on atomic energy in industry that this possibility probably will be proved within 10 years.

Canada now is building an experimental heavy water power plant three miles south of the Ontario-Quebec border. Ontario Commission's Des Joachims generating station on the Ottawa River, some 130 miles away, will use steam.

Heavy water will be used to cool the plant and a liquid metal that will be heated to a high temperature to produce steam from ordinary water. This steam will drive turbines.

Other countries building atomic power stations are using gas to cool the reactor and graphite as a moderating agent.

"Recent studies . . . suggest the possibility that the heavy water moderated reactor might within 10 years show a cost advantage over the gas - cooled, graphite moderated reactor and maintain this lead for many years," Dr. Lewis said.

The Canadian plant is being built by Ontario Energy of Canada, a Crown company. Ontario Hydro and the Canadian General Electric Company are to share the $14,500,000 and is expected to be operating in early 1962. It will not produce electricity economically but will give scientists the information they need to design large economic stations.

Dr. Lewis told the conference that in Canada nuclear power will be economic only if it can be produced at less than 4.5 mills a kilowatt hour. This target now is considered possible."

Canada had not kept operational information on NRX to itself. But the information had been treated as second-hand by other countries and they had missed the general significance of the Canadian advances.

These statements were included in the text of a speech issued to the press before delivery.

Govt. Spreads Thin Layer Of Tax Cuts In Harris Budget

150,000 Persons Will Be Taken off Tax Rolls

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has spread a thin layer of tax cuts below the Canadian paying public in a pre-election budget sugared with bigger baby bonuses, pensions and concessions for the candy set.

Labelled "trivial" by the official opposition, the budget unveiled by Finance Minister Harris Thursday night left individual and corporation income taxes unchanged.

But it provided the means of an automatic $100-a-year deduction in lieu of medical and other claims, a move that will free of eliminating about 150,000 persons from the tax rolls and benefit, all told, about 70 per cent of all Canada's federal taxpayers. The deduction is applicable on taxable income starting this year.

And with the aim of moderating inflation by encouraging savings, it allowed taxpayers to deduct up to 10 per cent of their earnings to cover payments on all forms of approved retirement or annuity plans.

BENEFIT 2,000,000

But undoubtedly the biggest feature of the budget was increased social security benefits, covering more than 3,000,000 persons and totaling about $93,000,000 in the new fiscal year opening April 1.

Old age pensions paid to those 70 years and over—about $15,000 — will be increased by $6 a month to $46, effective July 1. Its social fields where costs are shared with the provinces, there will be a similar increase on July 1 to $6,000 between 65 and 69 getting old age assistance; 9,000 blind and 35,000 disabled, provided provinces agree.

Some 1,800,000 families will benefit by a $1-a-month increase in family allowances. This will bring the bonus for children under six years of age to $6 monthly and for those in the 10-12 age bracket to the maximum of $8. These increases, first in 12 years, go into effect Sept. 1.

Benefits for 242,000 war veterans and their dependents will be increased about 20 per cent starting July 1.

POST-ELECTION BOOSTS

All of these boosts become operative after the anticipated June election.

J. M. Macdonnell, opposition financial critic, said the tax cuts, aimed at eliminating a lot of minor claims, are at the 10-per-cent excise tax on soft drinks and candy and on cosmetics are "trivial."

Mr. Harris had built up a surplus of $282,000,000 in the current year and despite this, had not reduced income tax rates.

With perhaps an eye on the housewife's vote, Mr. Harris eliminated the 10-per-cent tax on tea, coffee, cocoa, as well as prepared desserts, pickles, catsup, relishes, sauces, mayonnaise and salad dressings.

Many to Benefit From Increased Govt. Payments

OTTAWA (CP)—Approximately 1,196,000 individual Canadians and 1,300,000 families will benefit from increased pension and social welfare payments announced Thursday night by Finance Minister Harris.

The 1,196,000 Canadians include about 815,000 over 70 now receiving federal old age pensions; 139,000 getting federal-provincial old age assistance, blind and disabled pensions, and 242,000 veterans' war disability pensions or various veterans' allowances.

The 2,800,000 families are the number expected to receive higher family allowance payments.

Teen-agers Given Stern Scolding By Magistrate

Two teen-agers who, for no apparent reason, threw a bicycle into the Moira River on Wednesday night, appeared before Magistrate R. C. Jackson of Madoc in police magistrate's court in Belleville yesterday afternoon and went away with one year suspended sentences and a stern scolding from the bench.

The youths, both of Belleville, were picked up by Constable Leo Kent after they were seen to take a bicycle, which was leaning against a pole, and lower it into the river at the end of Pinnacle St. They were charged with causing wilful damage.

When Magistrate Jackson asked them why they committed the the offence, the youths could not reply.

Delbert S. Miller, 20, of Bloomfield, was sent to jail for one month for stealing a number of used car batteries from his employer in Bloomfield and selling them to a local junk dealer. The booty was valued at $272.

Accused Given Six Months for False Pretences

Carl MacDonald, R.R. 7, Peterborough, was convicted on each of the charges by Magistrate R. C. Jackson of Madoc at county court in Belleville.

MacDonald was sentenced to serve six months in jail on each of the false pretences counts and the uttering charge, to run concurrent, and ordered to pay $53.50 in costs or in default of paying to spend an additional 10 days in jail.

A seventh charge of false pretences was not dealt with because he felt his request to be sent to a training institution for inebriates would be fulfilled.

On passing sentence, Magistrate Jackson made a recommendation that MacDonald be admitted to the hospital after he serves his full time.

When MacDonald heard his sentences he respectfully said to the magistrate, "Thank you, Your Worship," this is the fairest treatment I have received in a court."

MacDonald has a record of 34 previous convictions, none of which were committed with violence.

Decline in Home Building Seen by Figures Released

A total expenditure in the construction industry of $5,094,941 in 1955 dropped to only $1,341,033 in 1956.

Statistics for January and February of this year are up slightly in value, finally to stiffen the borrowing terms discouraging speculative building, and secondly to scarcity of building lots within the city.

While home building has been retarded by tighter money, major industrial, government, institutional construction and renovation is continuing at an accelerated pace.

All major expenditures now scheduled fall into this category and are of a commercial or institutions rather than separate structures.

STORE BEING EXPANDED

The largest industrial expansion will be the addition to the Loblaw Store on Pinnacle Street in a southerly direction. This one-storey addition to the shopping floor will extend the entire 147 feet of the store and will be composed of concrete block and brick fronted with glass windows to Macola ville. This is a $70,000 contract.

The Bank of Nova Scotia will spend $27,000 in renovating the interior of the ground floor of the Cherry Press building for its new office.

J. and J. Cash (Canada) Ltd., will make a $9,000 addition to its new stock room.

Alterations to the Quinte Hotel in which the steps on Pinnacle Street will be incorporated in the interior and a new elevator installed, involve the expenditure of $25,000.

Institutional building is a major factor with $70,000 allotted for expansion of the Christ Church Parish Hall, and $22,000 planned for alterations to St. Andrew's Church, facilitating more space for Sunday School accommodation.

Employees of the CNR Recreation Association have raised $10,000 towards payment of a new club house and the CNR addition housing a recreation room and canteen.

Many Motorists Caught Napping

Local auto licence issuer Fred O. Symons has been saying it for the past week or more and today he could just be so-called correct as prophesied that many motorists would be caught napping on March 15th.

Yesterday the office of the licence issuer was crowded all day long as motorists queued up in a last minute rush to get their markers and driving licences before the March 15th deadline. Closing time came at five o'clock with the line showing no signs of diminishing.

This morning the lineup was seen again as motorists sought to procure markers so that they could get the license they require.

Police said today orders were to charge motorists driving with 1956 markers, although at late report no cars with last year's plates had been stopped.

Bram Humphreys Awarded High Masonic Honor

William Bram Humphreys of 19 Campbell St., Belleville, Ont., has been awarded the designation of Knight of the York Cross of Honour, it was reported today. This honorary degree, highest in the York Rite of Freemasonry, is conferred only on those who have held the highest office in each of the four bodies of the rite. Mr. Humphreys becomes the 6,240th to have received the award in the past 27 years in North America, although there are four million members of the fraternity.

Mr. Humphreys served as Master of Eureka Lodge of Masons in 1954; First Principal of North Hastings Royal Arch Masons in 1937; Master of Zabul Council, Royal Select Masters, in 1955; Preceptor of King Baldwin Preceptory, Knights Templar, in 1954. Mr. Humphreys also served as Patron of Minerva Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, in 1950.

He was elected to membership in Quinte Rotary and his election confirmed by Convent General of the Order on March 1st.

There are fifty-three Priories of the Order in North America with a present membership of 4,800.

Montreal Crowd Welcomes Return Of Police Chief

MONTREAL (CP)—A crowd estimated at more than 300 today cheered Lt.-Col. Albert Langlois as he returned to work as Montreal's police director in the wake of Thursday's court of inquiry decision which cleared him of charges contained in a vice-inquiry judgment.

Mr. Langlois took leave of absence shortly after the decision 29 months ago to await the outcome of the appeal from the vice inquiry judgment which indicted him of dereliction of duty during the free-spending and graft-ridden war years.

The welcoming crowd included a large number of constables, some in uniform and some in civilian clothes.

They cheered when Mr. Langlois stepped out of his car in front of police headquarters and then formed into lines along the path and stairs leading to his office. They crushed into his office after him and brother said "Il a gagne ses epaulette's tha's won his spurs)."

BAW SOLVER DILEMMA

STRATFORD (CP)—Benny Kalic, 6, went on a tree-climbing venture in the suburbs Thursday while his mother was away. He slipped and got wedged in a tree some 30 feet from the ground. Police used a boat to free the lad, who was uninjured.

MRS. CARL FRAWLEY
Detroit - Deseronto

Mrs. Grace Hart Frawley, 62, a native of Deseronto, died suddenly immeasurably to the advancement Wednesday in St. Joseph's Hospital, St. Joseph's-a-Mercy Hospital, Detroit.

Mrs. Frawley, of Ryles House, 1200 E. Jefferson, born in Deseronto, Ont., and trained at Toronto General Hospital.

She was on the original staff of Henry Ford Hospital and taught nursing there. She was also an instructor to graduate from that institution.

Her dedication to alleviating the ills of mankind was strengthened by her own experience with physical suffering.

A polio victim, Mrs. Frawley underwent more than a score of painful operations and offered herself for one of the early experiments with penicillin.

After retirement from hospital work, she served for several years as an industrial nurse for the Gemmer Manufacturing Co. A heart ailment forced her to retire.

Services for Mrs. Frawley, member of the Third Order of St. Francis, will be at 9.15 a.m. Saturday in the Verheyden Funeral Home, 16300 Mack, and at 10 a.m. in Annunciation Church, Parkview and E. Jefferson.

Egyptian General Assumes Post As Gaza Governor

CAIRO (AP)—Egypt was represented in the Gaza Strip today by a major-general designated as governor, 20 military policemen, 20 officers and 12 civilian officials, Dispatches from UN troops still in the major military force in the disputed area following the arrival in Gaza City Thursday of the group sent by President Nasser to resume civilian control for Egypt.

There was no retaliation so far from Israel. Earlier, Premier David Ben-Gurion had served notice that his government reserved "freedom of action" if the Egyptians came back to Gaza.

The Israelis pulled out last Thursday on the assumption the UN Emergency Force would exercise both military and civil control of the Mediterranean coastal strip.

The new Egyptian governor, Maj.-Gen. Hassan Abdel Latif, arrived late Thursday with his 72 man escort.

A UNEF platoon was on hand to receive Latif, and the Arabs in Gaza lined the city streets with signs "Long live Nasser, long live Arabism, welcome to the Egyptian administration."

The U.S. state department announced yesterday it would not start soon on resumption of U.S. aid to Israel. The department denied that it has thus left a bargaining tool to Egypt and Jordan also is considered.

In London, government and opposition joined in demanding that the UN guarantees be obtained for Arab aggression.

Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and any settlement must include guarantees against Israeli extension of territory as well as guarantees for the Arabs against Israeli territorial expansion. He said that the Gaza Strip should be made a UN responsibility.

Aneurin Bevan, the Labor party's foreign affairs spokesman, told the Commons that the UN and government expect the UN to "see to it that Israel has the courageous faith (in pulling out of the Gaza and Gulf of Aquba areas) will not be unrequited."

Jackson Will Be Questioned On Statement

WASHINGTON (CP) — Senator Lyndon Johnson, Senate Democratic majority leader, proposed today that Senator Jackson (Dem.) question former presidential assistant Sherman Adams on a statement he was reported to have made in Toronto regarding the Middle East crisis.

Johnson cited a dispatch from Toronto quoting Adams as saying in a Tuesday speech that the U.S. kindled the Middle East crisis by withholding support from the Aswan Dam project in Egypt.

Senator Jackson (Dem.) Jackson denied making the statement that the U.S. touched off the crisis in the showdown with Russia.

"All I said was that the U.S. had taken a firm stand situation somewhere in the world where it could call the Russian bluff," Jackson told a reporter. "That situation developed in Egypt, and Russia was the one that plotted the Middle East crisis for a showdown."

Johnson said he was aware that President Eisenhower, questioned on the subject at his press conference Wednesday, had referred to it as "speculation."

But, Johnson added, "this was speculation by an informed expert who served in privileged this field, who said he had lunch with Secretary Dulles after Dulles' earlier offer of aid for the Aswan Dam was withdrawn."

Special subcommittee, chairman William Fulbright (Dem. Ark.) said Jackson will be requested to appear at the earliest possible time.

TEST TORONTO SIRENS

Coroner's Jury Told Woman Bled to Death

HAMILTON (CP) — Jeannie Dean, 29, whose battered body was found stuffed under porch steps Feb. 26, bled to death from 31 wounds on her head and body, a coroner's jury was told Thursday night.

The jury found the woman died at the hands of "a murderer or murderers unknown." More than 100 witnesses testified during the inquest of Mrs. Dean, 26, held by police as a material witness.

The Coward denied evidence of other witnesses that he had been cruel to the woman on many occasions.

Both witnesses traced the woman's movements up to Saturday, May 26, when she left a liquor beverage room with a man. Witnesses said Coward was not the man.

Coward said the woman had stayed with him at another house Friday night, and he had left her at 6 a.m. Saturday, after a quarrel.

Coyne in Middle Of Hot Exchange In Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Harris, and J. M. Macdonnell engaged in a heated exchange Thursday night in the Commons after the budget speech. Governor James E. Coyne of the Bank of Canada was in the middle.

Mr. Macdonnell, Progressive Conservative financial critic, said Mr. Coyne has been quoted as saying that he was "minding his political neck out" in various suggestions he made to the chartered banks.

"I feel constrained to say that I consider that a most extraordinary statement for the governor of the bank to make," he said.

At a press conference Monday Mr. Coyne was asked whether he was "minding his political neck out." Mr. Coyne replied he did not think so.

ASKS EXPLANATION

Mr. Macdonnell asked Prime Minister St. Laurent to refer the matter to the Commons banking committee, which could call Mr. Coyne to the committee.

Mr. Harris then asked: "I wonder if the honorable member would agree that noble sentiments can be expressed only by those who feel ignoble?"

"Shocking hypocrisy," shouted Donald Fleming (PC—Eglinton).

Mr. Macdonnell replied: "It is (Mr. Harris) is suggesting that I'm not sincere in what I said, and I'm surprised in what I said, he is wrong."

The egg market was reported unsteady on grade A large and quiet on other grades with re-oelpis sufficient for a light demand.

Country dealers are quoted on graded eggs, delivered Toronto: A large size, oiled, wooden cases, tenderable lots, 39 cents. Eggs, in fibre cases, graded: A large 36; A medium 35; A small 32; B 31; C 28. Wholesale to retail: A large 41; A medium 40; A small 37; B 36. C 33.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP)—Steers sold at strong prices this week reports the Dominion Public Stockyards. Medium quality in this class advanced 25-50 cents a hundredweight. Heifers and yearlings were steady. Cows were steady and unchanged with bulls active at strong prices. Calves and lambs were generally unchanged. Hog prices declined $1 a hundredweight at the close.

Cattle receipts were down 600 head from last week and about 900 head less than the same week 1956. Western receipts totalled 700 head. One carload was reported a shipper to eastern Canadian slaughterers with no exports to the United States. The beef trade was listless.

A slightly lighter run, coupled with a scarcity of top - quality steers strengthened steer prices, although there was no apparent advance on choice steer prices. Steers of intermediate quality gained 25-50 cents a hundred weight over last week. Stockers were stronger and advanced 50 cents in the replacement cattle division. This trend influenced medium quality steers and following last week's lead, some of these were sold as replacement cattle.

PRICES

Slaughter cattle: Choice steers $19-20 — a few lots $20.25; good $18-19; medium $16-17; common $14-16; good heifers $16-17; choice $17-17.50; medium $14-16; common $12-14; choice fed yearlings $21-21.50; good $19-20; medium $16-18; good cows $12-13; medium $11-12; common $10-11; canners and cutters $7-9.20; good heavy bologna bulls mostly $13-13.50—a few $14; common lights $10 a hundredweight.

Replacement cattle: Good stockers $18-19; common and medium $15-17 a hundredweight.

Choice veales: $31; good $26-29; common and medium $14; bonor calves a few $19-12.

Hogs: Grade A $29.50; sows, mostly $25—some light sows $27; stags $15 a hundredweight, on a dressed-weight basis.

Sheep and lambs: Good native lambs $22; westerns $22.50; medium $18-21; common $16; good sheep $7-10; culls $3 a hundredweight.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market was mixed today in light morning trade. Investors were cautious and most prices moved in fractional ranges.

The industrials was ahead a point at 114 among industrials. Other price changes were fractional.

Advocate gained 30 cents to $8.25 among junior base metals. Trading in the mining section was light and actions showed a mixed tone in fractional-range trading. Coppers were firm. Cowichan gained 15 cents at $1.50 and Irish added 10 cents at $1.48.

Uraniums were mixed. Stanrock gained 15 cents at $5.05 but Faraday lost 25 cents at $2.53 as profit-taking appeared.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 4 11-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Thursday's noon rate was 91 21-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.67¼, unchanged.

Canadian Envoy Has Satisfying Talk With Nasser

CAIRO (CP) — Canadian-Egyptian relations took another improving step today with a statement from Ambassador E. Herbert Norman that he had an understanding meeting Thursday night with President Nasser.

"I didn't go to discuss questions relating to the arrival of the remainder of the Canadian contingent to the UN Emergency Force," Norman told The Canadian Press. "This is a matter which concerns directly the Egyptian government and competent UN authorities.

"I might add, however, as I indicated two days ago, I have learned from responsible UN officials here that there is no basis for concern on this point.

"I might say about my talk with the president that we discussed in a friendly, frank manner the general picture of Egyptian-Canadian relations and I believe that the talk may have helped toward better understanding on both sides on policies and purposes of both countries, particularly with relation to the United Nations."

FALSE CHARGES

The Egyptian press has been hurling charges of imperialism against Canadian leaders and charging falsely that Canadian troops fired shots in Gaza which took one life and wounded two demonstrators.

The charge was denied indirectly in some sections of the press and radio by reports that Danish members of the UNEF fired the shots, but reports have appeared in other Middle East countries including Lebanon, where earlier charges branding the Canadians as murderers stand undenied. Reliable reports reaching here say the charges appeared in the Beirut press from correspondents in Gaza.

It now seems assumed that the 165-man Canadian reconnaissance group waiting at, or en route to Naples, the UNEF staging area, will complete the last leg of the journey to the Abu Suweir base in Egypt as soon as mined technicalities are cleared up.

Police Blotter

City police were active last night rounding up LCA offenders, while provincial officers apprehended two motorists for drunk driving.

Yesterday a Toronto man complained that four wheel disks from his late model car were stolen from the vehicle while it was parked on the collegiate parking lot Wednesday night.

And at a local restaurant police were called to waken a sleeping customer. Investigation revealed the man was "sleeping one off" and he was charged with drunkenness.

Conservation Groups Ask Govt. To Require Tests for Hunters Before Issuing Gun Licences

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario conservation groups, concerned over the number of shooting accidents in the province, today asked the government to require tests for hunters before issuing them gun licences.

A brief presented to the legislature's fish and game committee by the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters said accidents caused by the misuse of firearms "are increasing at an alarming rate" and asked that a licence be issued only if the applicant could show a certificate from a conservation or other group that would show familiarity with safety regulations.

The request was supported by all groups present. In addition, the Algoma Conservation Council ask that no .22-calibre rifles be permitted in the bush during the deer and moose seasons except under proper licensing.

After discussion, delegates agreed this should apply only in Northern Ontario. In Southern Ontario .22-calibre rifles were needed for shooting predators.

Another point appearing in most of the briefs asked that the early last possible season should be given to hunters on the various hunting seasons, rather than handling of announcements, conservation groups in various areas could ask for changes in the dates if conditions had changed since they were first discussed with the government.

The federation also called for a "complete investigation" of duck hunting conditions in Kent County. It said there were too many large privately-owned areas in the country where a "handful" of wealthy owners hunted.

The Northern Ontario Tourist Outfitters' Association asked that no bear trap and the bounty paid on wolves in favor of a small group of professional wolf - killers, the bounty be extended to cover cub wolves.

The Algoma council, composed of the Algoma Tourist Operators' Association, the Sault Ste. Marie Chamber of Commerce conservation committee and the Eastern Lake Superior Association of Commercial Fishermen also asked that:

The deer season be continued as in 1956.

ASK SHORT SEASON

The moose season in the district of Algoma, south of the Agawa River and east as far as Chapleau road, should not open before Nov. 1, and the shooting of bulls only should be permitted.

In presenting the Sault brief, Robert L. Curran said the long moose season, permitting the shooting of any moose in a territory extending from the north shore of Lake Huron to the northern Canadian National Railways line, and starting as early as Oct. 13, was a "startling development."

He said strong protests from various Algoma groups failed to alter the situation.

Member Launches Personal Attack On CCF Leader

TORONTO (CP) — The CCF party was described Thursday as the moderate wing of the Communist party by Robert Macaulay (PC—Toronto Riverdale) when he launched a personal attack in the Ontario legislature on CCF Leader MacDonald.

Mr. Macaulay, lawyer son of a former attorney-general of the province, said that while the CCF leader appeared to have some ability and intelligence he apparently was unable to believe that there could be a sincere difference of opinion between members of different parties.

Pleading with the CCF leader to give other members some credit for intelligent thinking and to stop throwing mud at every member who stands up to oppose CCF views, Mr. Macaulay reminded Mr. MacDonald he was just a private member of the legislature.

Mr. Macaulay said he was not prepared to speak at length on the subject of the CCF leader at this time but next year "I will have more to say about him. I am working on the speech now."

When Mr. MacDonald grinned across the floor at him, Mr. Macaulay snapped back:

"I get so sick and tired of looking at that smirk on his face. If only he knew how ill it makes most people."

Worm Sellers Ask Protection Against Boys

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—The Michigan Bait Dealers Association appealed to the state conservation commission Friday for protection against small boys.

The association said its members have an agreement to sell worms for 30 cents a dozen. Youthful business rivals undercut them and sell the worms for 15 cents, the association said.

It asked the worms be put on the protected list as are minnows used for bait. This would require a licence to sell worms.

The commission rejected the proposal.

Finnish Trains Hit Head-On, 18 Persons Die

HELSINKI (Reuters)—At least 18 persons were killed and more than 50 injured today when two speeding trains collided head-on, "burned up in the air like frightened horses," a witness said, and collapsed in ruins.

The crash, in southwest Finland, left a pile of wreckage 60 feet long and 30 feet high.

Both trains were travelling about 50 miles an hour when they met on a stretch of single track between Tampere and Haemeenlinna, the Finnish State Railways said.

The express from Tornio, north-west Finland, to Helsinki, 10 coaches drawn by a steam locomotive, reached the single track at the same time as the three-coach diesel train from Helsinki to Pori, which was 84 minutes late.

Soldier Convicted

SOEST, West Germany (Reuters)—A Canadian court martial today convicted Pte. Louis Antonya, 22, of London, Ont., of manslaughter and sentenced him to five years imprisonment with hard labor.

Antonya, an East Africa-born Negro, was charged with murder in the death of Harry Gebhardt, a German youth stabbed New Year's Day who died later in hospital.

Antonya had pleaded not guilty. The verdict and sentence will be reviewed. Antonya also has the right of appeal.

CHARTERED BANK PRESIDENT CORRECTS ERROR

On Wednesday, referring to the Bank of Canada's proposal that deposits in savings accounts in chartered banks be earmarked to back long-term loans, such as insured mortgages, the Ontario Intelligencer observed:

Most of us ought to reserve judgment on this proposition, because the specialized knowledge necessary to judge it intelligently."

We thought that was sound advice when we wrote it. We still think so. But, alas, it is advice which is not being followed.

We can not blame the Toronto Globe and Mail for not taking it, because that paper's editorial, denouncing the proposal in the strongest terms, appeared before the Ontario Intelligencer' editorial was off the press.

Nevertheless, we are now in a position to say, if not "we told you so," at least "we would have told you so if you had waited for a day."

The Globe and Mail said: " . . . people have hitherto been able to do with their savings as they pushed Ottawa's scheme promptly changes that. Their savings would be impounded."

Almost certainly with this misleading statement in mind, Mr. Jeanne Mush, chairman and president of the Royal Bank of Canada, said on Wednesday there had been a furor which "creates the impression that drastic changes are about to be made immediately. It must have been said that savings in accounts with the chartered banks will be impounded. This is, of course, ridiculous."

That is no apologetic for the Bank of Canada speaking. That is the president of a chartered bank.

If there is a furor, the Globe and Mail must at least share responsibility. The concluding sentence of its editorial said that in the event that the public must make clear, by every means it can, that it stands right behind them." the word "them" referring to the chartered banks, which the Globe and Mail has charged with refusing to accept the central bank's proposal. The chartered banks, however, are moving more cautiously.

Probably as the result of the Globe and Mail plea, it was able to publish on Thursday letters opposing the plan.

One of these letters revealed the amount of weight which ought to be given to the views of the average citizen, which is exactly nothing. This letter includes complaining about the "seizure" of private property, and likening the proposal to the way the Russians took over private bank accounts in countries behind the Iron Curtain, said that if the plans were put into effect and every owner of a savings account drew out his money immediately, there would be a breakdown in the whole banking system of the country. Now this is true. But it would not be a new situation. The banks do not make money to pay interest on savings, to meet their expenses and to provide their shareholders with a profit by locking up money in vaults. They loan it out. They keep how sufficient cash on hand to pay off all their depositors at the same time.

Yet, warped through this letter-writer's view of banking operations is, there is a kernel of truth in the nutty letter. The central bank's proposal does involve a reduction in the liquidity of the bank's assets — since mortgage loans are for a much longer period than the ordinary short-term loans to businesses or individuals. It is this question of the liquidity of bank assets which the general managers of the chartered banks will study most carefully before making public their attitude upon the proposal.

Once again, we suggest that those of us who are not economists ought to be interested in the situation but ought to reserve our judgment until the opinions of the experts are presented for our perusal.

CHANGING PRESTIGE

It appears that the prestige attached to fitting into any particular category such as "athletic star," "college graduate," "egghead," "specialist," etc, varies with the advancing times.

We recall the day when outstanding amateur athletes were heroes of the community. Worshipped by schoolboys who aimed to emulate their feats and admired by adults, they rated highly as citizens.

Today people either ignore or feel sorry for athletes who don't make a good thing out of it. Nobody seems to want to be champions unless their success is going to help them buy a car. Only a few addicts recall the names of winners of amateur championships in the community.

Next to go the college graduate had a real selling job on his hands to convince prospective employees that his diploma was worth a few dollars a week more than the services of a high school graduate.

Now company representatives are parked permanently on the campus bidding frantically for the favors of students of last year's leaving.

Intellectuals, or "eggheads," as they are known in the United States, have also emerged from a tough period, particularly south of the border where McCarthy's attempts to smear some leaders of liberal thought with a red tinge created an unfavorable if essentially false connotation.

While the egghead may not be popular, a rising demand for his exceptional abilities in the upper reaches of many fields is beginning to bring him new found financial affluence and public respect.

For a while the specialist, that highly trained man who knew a great deal about a specific subject and little about anything else, promised to hold the centre of the stage but he is now being outdated by many facets of 'on rushing events.

To his specialized knowledge must be added a new ability to understand and commune with his fellow man along with a keen interest in matters touching his own endeavors. The course of events is making a broader and better man of the specialist.

DREAM SHIP

I sail to England now and then;
When morning comes I'm back I know exactly where we are.
again.
I am the captain of the ship,
Upon the bridge I make the trip,
And often—say from seven to nine,
I'm at his table when I dine.

I know the purser and the mate,
I've learned their troubles all are great.
By checking with the northern star
And when suddenly there blows a gale,
I never lean across the rail.

I nightly sail the briny deep
An hour before I go to sleep.
The skill of which I am so proud mind.
I'm of the rugged sturdy kind.
I bravely battle wind and deep
Until at last I fall asleep.

Children's Shanty Town

By Joe Benjamin in Unesco Features

It is a stretch of industrial wasteland, bordered on one side by docks, and at first glance it looks like a dumping ground used by demolition squads, a familiar sight in many cities of post-war Britain.

But for the children of Grimsby, a small Arctic fishing port listed town on the east coast of England, this area of land really represents a world of adventure, a crazy, ramshackle community which, for the summer holidays, they run according to their own rules without interference from grown-ups.

It all started in 1954 when a small band of teachers, social workers and housewives decided to try something new in the way of playgrounds to attract children away from the streets or playing around the dockyards.

Discussions were held with members of the Town Council and the National Playing Fields Association. A public meeting was held in the Drill Hall and the Grimsby Adventure Playground Association was formed as an experiment.

The idea quickly gained support: the local Corporation agreed to pay the salary of a leader, the Parks Department agreed to the loan of a wooden shed, a local businessman offered the site and the National Playing Fields Association contributed towards the cost of fencing. A number of local businessmen gave money to buy tools, and several firms supplied the playground with various materials, from old beams and doors — corrugated iron and a battered old car.

When the playground was opened in July, 1955, about a hundred children ranging from toddlers to 15-year-olds — from the rough-and-tumble dockside families — turned up. Many of them had already appeared in the local juvenile court.

Yet none of the children were delinquent in the true sense. They were, rather, the victims of overcrowded conditions, neglected only in the sense that their parents had never been made for their leisure time. Parent groups, with their regular program of physical sports, were not adventurous enough to attract them for a long holiday.

But from the start there was no doubt about the playground's success. Youngsters clamored for playground passes. Free meals were distributed and "dens" started springing up all over the plot.

A committee was formed to organize activities, and two responsible youths, aged 15, were elected to it. They took their responsibilities very seriously, helping to run the tools preventing bullying and starting a mail box in which they were given to proposing and rejecting names for the playground which ranged from "Bug Hole" to "Paradise" until the problem was finally solved by Stanley Turner and Terry suggested "Shanty Town".

During the six-weeks' holiday Shanty Town became more than a collection of "dens": it developed a real community. Rules were drawn up: "Bug Hole", "Joe's Cabin", "Paradise" and even "Chateau de Excellence".

Things took a great step forward with the opening of a Fire Station. The firemen, Eric Agard and Tony Wilson, were given a playground with a battered pram, a fire bucket and a stirrup pump, and hosepipe ensuring that "camp" fires did not get too big and were put out in emergency.

The Shanty Town General Store was built and put in charge of two 13-year-olds, Terry and Brenda, who were eager to practice their arithmetic. When cuts and bruises were treated, they sought out friends with bolls. Police constables, aged 13 to 15, maintained law and order, under the leadership of bullying or breaking other rules, and reporting facts in mails which were returned to the community store.

Organizers of the experiment had been somewhat anxious in the early days about the fate of toddlers, who were liable to suffer in the older children's rough games. A special corner for the under-fives, screened off from the this was carried out, the older children themselves produced a solution.

Bert and Jim, who had just completed their third den, set to work to build one for the tiny tots. By no means the largest on the playground, it was certainly the neatest. With sloping roof, front and back windows, front porch and fence all around, it was the only den completely roofed. Inside the other children built a nicely beveled low brick wall, for the sole use of the under-fives. This was completed with no suggestion or interference from the grown-ups who were observing operations.

When in September the children return to school, a 14-foot-high, two storey house complete with garage, balcony and interior staircase built entirely out of scrap by the 9- to 14-year-olds stood as a proud reminder of what might be achieved in the future. The children had collected and sold scrap iron to the value of more than 5 pounds, most of which had been spent on nails and tool repairs. Not one tool had been lost.

The experiment had been a success. In August 1956, the playground was re-opened with the assistance of the local Education Authority and the National Playing Fields Association. In addition, the Nuffield Foundation became interested in the scheme, and donated money towards providing facilities for adventure activities. A hut was built, equipped with lighting and heating, is now nearing completion and the children themselves are full of advice on how it should be used. It will, like the future, be very much theirs.

Letter To The Editor

Article Had Reference To U.S. Legislation

Editor, Ontario Intelligencer,

While your new column, "The Golden Years," is most interesting, and is no doubt performing a worthwhile public service by disseminating information regarding the problems of retirement, there does appear to be one serious disadvantage to this feature.

I refer to the fact that this is apparently intended to be a Canadian column. Such features appear to be increasing by reprinting in the Canadian press and, unless carefully edited by a qualified person, lead to the spreading of much information which does not apply to our Canadian way of life.

For example, in the March 9th column, your writer comments on Social Security and says, "Most of us first commences at age 65. Of course, we have no benefit by this name in Canada. We have Old Age Security, which commences at age 70 for certain citizens who are qualified to receive the payment.

No doubt many readers of your paper are like myself — they resent the continued American influence to which we are daily subjected and would prefer to read articles of Canadians and for the Canadian viewpoint.

Yours very truly,
Charles D. Lundy, C.L.U.

Trappers Vanishing

Sudbury Star

This is the year of the vanishing trapper. The convention of the Ontario Trappers' Association in Sudbury proved one thing—the trapper is following in the footsteps of the lumberjack and prospector. He is passing over the hill where he will enter the land of memory and then move on to take his place in the pages of history.

Conversation around the convention floor heard the oft-repeated story: "I quit trapping. It doesn't pay." The trappers didn't say fur was scarce. The story was usually one of rising costs and insufficiently rewarding to make trapping worthwhile. Much through no fault of the fur buyer.

Mildly will turn to a ranch mink as fast as they can for the wild mink. The fur farmer lives in a comfortable house and regulates his hours of work by the chores that have to be done. Not for him the bitter cold, the long treks along the traplines hundreds of miles from civilization, the days in the blinding, freezing lash of the blizzard or a can of beans in a shelter and the joy of the warmth of the cabin known as home.

Time was when nothing could match the rich beauty of wild furs. Fur was scarce, careful breeding, diet and special care can now produce furs. Because animal dy and processors have develop ed techniques that can turn out fur garments as fine as all but the most expert. A fur by another name may be skunk or rabbit.

The trapper is also thrown into competition with imported foreign furs. He doesn't have the organized voice of industry to lobby the government on his behalf and the important goods that force down prices. The fur trader, the fur buyer and the retailer who put life and color into the pages of Canadian history.

The final curling match for the possession of the Hyman Cup was played last night between rinks skipped by R. A. (Bert) Backus and G. H. McArthur. The contest, which was an exciting one, was witnessed by a large number of spectators, and the result was a victory for Bert Backus's rink. The following composed the rinks: R. A. Hughes, H. Bryant, Dr. Kinnear and Bert Backus, skip, 19; G. M. Fryfogle, O. H. Scott, H. Horbridge and G. H. McArthur, skip, 10. After the match the players and members of the club gathered in the club rooms and an excellent supper was served. T. Ed. Ketcheson, the worthy president, presided, and he presented the Hyman Cup to Mr. Backus and to Dr. Morley A. Day he presented the Club Trophy. Mr. Ketcheson thanked Mr. Sheffield, secretary, Harry Stock and the members of the various committees for their excellent work during the season. Brief speeches were made by Harry Stock, G. H. McArthur, Percy Fairley, W. Mitchell, Judge J. F. Wills and Dr. M. J. Clarke.

50 YEARS AGO

Trenton's crack hockey team, which has not been defeated so far this season, came here last night and stacked up against a local bunch composed of four O.H.A. Juniors and three others, who it may be fairly stated, were equal to the O.H.A. boys. The game was a fast and clean exhibition of hockey and was enjoyed from start to finish. The Trenton lads proved themselves to be a fine lot of players, all of the amateur boys, ages 16 and 17 years, playing the wings, as the point of the Trenton team and they did most of the scoring. The final score was 9 to 5 in favor of Trenton. The following composed the team: Goal, Phillips; Point, Hamilton, Allen, Storms, Burke and Baker; Forwards, Tierney, Smith, O'Rourke, Cummings, Fletcher, H. Armstrong, and A. Armstrong. The referee was James Connolly and he handled the game satisfactorily.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

GUARD THE DYKES

Many months ago the newspapers and magazines were full of stories and pictures of the terrible floods in England and the Netherlands during which so many lives and so much property was lost, and so much misery. In low areas beside the sea must be eternally vigilant. It is not enough for them to trust the dikes and sea walls built by their fathers. They must watch out for themselves.

In this country too we have cause to be alert and for other things besides floods. Our democratic freedoms and our sharing in the government are always likely to disappear if we are not on guard. It is not enough that our fathers fought and established our rights, the fight must always be continued in some form in each generation.

On the level of the individual there is always danger of carelessness. The small break in our moral or ethical dike, if not promptly repaired, can let in a great flood. The attitude of "just this one time won't matter" has led many to a state where nothing matters at all. It is better to stand, like Horatius, a lone figure, fighting for life in the turbulent flood of moral abandonment.

Abe Lincoln Curses Phone

Brantford Expositor

From Philadelphia we have a report saying that Abraham Lincoln expressed some regret this Tuesday that Alexander Graham Bell ever invented the telephone.

"Crazy people are always calling up wanting me to give them the Gettysburg Address," complained Mr. Lincoln, who used to be a navy yard worker. Feb. 12, he explains, is not his birthday anyhow; he was born in November.

However, we can understand why he was named Abraham Lincoln. He is a Negro, 67 years of age, born in Virginia, and his name was passed on to him from his father, who was called after the famous President.

But if the modern Mr. Lincoln hadn't been pestered by telephone calls, because of the indispensable convenience can also be an almost intolerable intrusion on privacy—he would have been "caught up with" by some other bothersome means of inquisitive communication. And newspapermen are not the only ones who want to ask questions.

At a risk of boring our readers, we remark that the invention of the telephone once said here, at the beginning of the Christian movement: it wouldn't have one of the damned things in the house!"

Teeth are More Than Something to Look At

I didn't finish my comment on "bad teeth" in Britain yesterday. Unlike Americans, the English "bad teeth" are not so much neglected teeth, as the product of poor nutrition and an inability to pay for "new teeth."

Here in Yankeeland a good many ninnyhammers, whether they brush their teeth every day or every Saturday night or just on holidays, drift along with one or two or several teeth missing, either because they think a suitable denture will be too expensive, or the dental work will hurt too much, or perhaps they can conceal their edentulous condition by holding the mouth just so. Ninnyhammers, I say, because they fail to consider the important reason for having a suitable denture inserted immediately after loss of the tooth: It keeps the face from getting out of shape; it keeps mastication efficient; it promotes good digestion; it helps to maintain vite and longevity.

Maybe it's a little late now for Mr. Eden and other British leaders whose teeth appear shocking neglected to prevent physical deficiency through, nutritional deficiency through the years. They like a few million Americans are quite well informed about physiology, hygiene, oral digestion, nutrition, conservation of teeth, vite and longevity, perhaps cannot hope to get back where they were before they began dunking and gumming their food. But installation of functionally efficient dentures will at least enable them to arrest or retard degeneration.

These poor geeks must learn to regard the dentist as an indispensable dispenser of health.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A man with whom I go bird watching very early Sunday morning is manager of a large general emporium and his duties take him on fairly frequent trips to the United States. He always brings home one of those handsome big one pound tins of a very good grade of American pipe tobacco.

Now, he is not a pipe smoker himself. But he leaves the tin on his desk in the office, and all pipe smokers within the organization are invited to come in at any time and help themselves to a pipe full.

This goes not only for the office manager, who is the most senior pipe smoker in the outfit, but for two or three clerks who admired the pipe, as well as for one of the elevator men and the two maintenance men employed in the building who come on duty about 5 p.m. each day.

It is quite an experience to be sitting in the manager's office and see a man come in the door, smile deferentially, calmly fill his pipe, and carry away a load.

"I'll tell you what it does," explained the manager, after I had remarked on it in the office. It destroys that fake air of aloofness and personal dignity on the part of management, at the moment at which is one of the chief sources of tension. - It unsuits him.

"And it is friendly. I find pipe smokers the most friendly, conversational men. You can't be a chatterer and smoke a pipe. Then all of the boys get something on their mind, they come in and fill their pipe, whenever they suspect I have something on my mind, they come and fill up. I find the bulk of a man with something on his mind lighting his pipe. It relaxes him.

"Well," I enquired, "how about confidential visitors? Do they ever visit you coming in when you are talking to important people about things that are nobody else's business?"

"That's the very point," explained the manager. "There is no confidential business around here. Every business is everybody's business. We're all in it. And that's why tobacco is the symbol of the very thing."

"But," I pointed out, "only pipe smokers are invited."

"No," he smiled, "they're just specially invited."

BUILD BETTER

The body—the home of the mind, the heart and the soul — is the most wonderful piece of constructive creative work in all this world. Its reactions are controlled by most present and noble care is most pronounced. The heart, that keeps this machine alive and in good order, is amazing. A little kindness to it goes a long, long way.

We would build this body better and better if we only respected it more. The happiest and healthiest body is that one which we look upon as God's temple, usefully engage in work to try and make it a sacred trust, surrounded with good influence and high purposes. There is a line in that beautiful poem by Oliver Wendell Holmes, called "The Chambered Nautilus," where he wrote: "Build me more stately mansions, O my soul."

We can be our own inspiring genius by daily striving to build this life of ours better and better. Wise old Benjamin Franklin, as a young man, kept a little book, in which he jotted down the things he resolved to do. Then he would look it over at the close of each day to see if he had improved himself. Little by little he enriched his life and built up an influence and personal power. Few Americans had a greater influence for good than this great genius.

Nothing is so important as constantly building our lives better and better. As the Bible reasons with us: Sensitivity, mental health and the high purpose are sure to build hope and faith and a generous portion of happiness for which we all long.

We all need to feel growth of mind and a mellowness of heart. A love of God and of our fellowmen is sure to follow. All fear is blotted out and that lonely sense of insecurity disappears. Why not keep building better and better?

Office Needs Rocking Chair

London Free Press

James Creelman, businessman of Bass River, Nova Scotia, says that every office needs a rocking chair to become standard equipment in business offices because the business executive is a fellow in dire need of rest and relaxation, and the old rocking chair is his most platform rocker type which does not tip and does not damage hardwood floors.

"A lot of tired businessmen would visit their offices if they took time out for a rock in the middle of the day" says Mr. Creelman, who is the proprietor of the Dominion Company of Bass River.

We think chair maker Creelman has a point. In fact we think he has more than one. He had virtually no frustration, no ulcers, no high blood pressure, no insomnia and no rush. By all means restore the rocker—and the things that went with it.

Tri-Zone Badminton Tourney Attracts Many District Stars

Top badminton stars of Ottawa, Central and Eastern Ontario clash in the Tri-Zone Invitation Tournament at Belleville Armouries tonight and Saturday.

Two hundred entries from the finest men and women players between Toronto and Quebec have been received by entry captain Helen Law.

Leading contenders for the men's singles are expected to be Ralph Wintle, the defending champion from Ottawa who has recovered from an auto accident in which he lost an eye but is still playing strongly; cagey southpaw veteran Dave Waddell, also from Ottawa; youthful Ken Smith of Oshawa, regarded as a top threat since his recent victory in the Central Ontario singles; George Long, finalist to Smith also hailing from the motor city; Don Ayre the hard playing Peterborough ace who held the Central Ontario singles in 55 and 56; and the perennial Kingston champion Johnny Johnson, who forced Wintle to three sets in the recent St. Lawrence District championship.

International campaigner Grant Henry and Ken Crowe will be shooting to defend their men's doubles diadem won in the first playing of the Tri-Zone at Picton last year. They face a rough road to the title with such contenders as Dave Waddell-Ken Martindale of Ottawa, Central Ontario champions Garry Tighe - Bob Gallagher of Oshawa and Johnnie Johnson-Doug Duncan of Kingston on the varnish.

The Ottawa southpaw's keenest competition in the women's singles may come from Doreen Reddick of Oshawa and Nan Stevenson of Peterborough, winner and runner-up for the Central Ontario singles and Kingston's leading contender, E. Constantine.

Miss Hayman and Lorna Rice of Ottawa are favored for the women's doubles but will meet determined competition from Oshawa's Doreen Reddick - Lil Beamish and Kay Hopkins - Vi Matyas, the top teams of the Central district. E. Constantine-E. Foser will bid from Kingston.

The experienced partnership of Miss Hayman and Dave Waddell will attempt to defend mixed doubles honors against last year's finalists Grant Henry and Marg Baker of Peterborough.

The rising young teams of Ken Smith-Kay Hopkins and George Long-Doreen Reddick of Oshawa are possible upset winners while Johnny Johnson and E. Constantine of Kingston are also capable of surprise.

The number of entries received from the competing centres are: Peterborough 49, Belleville, 45, Trenton 26, Ottawa 13, Kingston 10, Picton 10 and Napanee 3.

The Picton Chamber of Commerce Trophy, presented for the team scoring the most points, will be defended by the Peterborough contingent.

Belleville winners of last year were John McDonald and Bill McBride who took the men's doubles consolation, and Madge Cowley and Marian Salisbury who won the women's doubles consolation.

Play commences today at 7 p.m. and continues all through Saturday with all finals Saturday evening.

Door prizes will be presented and a dance and reception will be held following the completion of the finals.

Thieves Rob Jewelry Store

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Thieves stole diamond rings, a large number of watches and other goods from Young's Jewelry Store on downtown Talbot Street Wednesday, with store officials estimating the loot at more than $13,000.

The store was closed for the Wednesday half - holiday. Police believe that entry was made with a key through the front door, as there was no evidence of the door being forced.

The only clue was the report of a neighboring workman who said he saw two well - dressed young men leaving the rear door of the store, and each carrying a new suitcase. Two such cases were missing when the stock was checked.

HAY CHAMPION

WOODSTOCK (CP) — Archie Armour of Dorchester in Middlesex County won the Ontario hay championship Thursday at the Oxford Seed Fair. Last year's champion was Alex MacInish of Embro.

Trenton Shades Oshawa 5-4 To Even Series

The Trenton Quinte Comets evened their OHA Intermediate "A" series with Oshawa here last night at one game each when at the Belleville Memorial Arena they downed the visitors 5-4. Oshawa won the first game played at Bowmanville. The next game in the four-of-seven series is slated for Bowmanville on Saturday night.

Trenton went into the lead in the first stanza and were never headed the first period ending 3-2 for Trenton and both teams scoring twice in the second. There was no scoring in the final stanza.

Austin Scott stood out for the winners netting three goals with Brian Mulvihill and Bob Taylor getting the other two. Oshawa marksmen were Gary Copeland with two tallies and Al Baker and Gil Hughes with one each.

Thirteen penalties were handed out, two of them majors. Trenton received six and Oshawa seven. The majors went to Taylor of Trenton and Gerrard for fighting in the third period.

Pontiac makes the rest look under-sized or over-priced!

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

READ that headline again and realize how much it tells you about Pontiac.

First place, it says Pontiac is a big car at a down-to-earth selection of prices . . . because there are 32 Pontiacs in every budget bracket to bring pride and comfort to anyone's driving. Yes . . . Pontiac is big—big and brawny, through and through, with extra safety-power in a great new choice of engines, from the 148 h.p. Strato-Six to a blazing 270 h.p. Strato-Streak V8. And there's extra strength in its newly-designed frames—extra quality in its "Body by Fisher" construction.

Second place, that headline says other cars look smaller, skimpier, beside your new Pontiac. That's true, because everywhere you look Pontiac makes no compromise with quality and style. Inside and out, Pontiac offers you more for every car dollar you invest.

The trouble is . . . this headline doesn't go far enough. It says nothing about Pontiac's famous "Level-Line Ride" or how your new Pontiac handles on any highway, on every curve and hill. This beauty makes its own tracks on tight corners . . . makes tracks fast for wherever you want to go. Even mountains melt under these smoothly-spinning wheels. But don't take anyone's word for Pontiac's performance, styling and luxury. Do yourself the favor of a Demonstration Drive—soon—at your nearby Pontiac dealer's. Today would be perfect!

BIRTHDAY PARTY

A party was held last night at the home of Mrs. Jack McMurter, R.R. 3 Belleville, in honor of her 43rd birthday with approximately 19 neighboring friends present.

The evening was spent in playing games with everyone winning a prize.

Refreshments, including a delightful birthday cake, were served after which Mr. McMurter opened her gaily wrapped gifts, thanking each donor for the kindness extended to her.

At the close of the party, all sang "Happy Birthday" and extended to Mrs. McMurter wishes for many more.

Christ Church Parish Guild Presents Gift

The regular meeting of the Christ Church Parish Guild was held with a splendid number of members and visitors present.

Mrs. F. Beeby, president, extended a gracious welcome to visitors and members.

Mr. E. Beeby spoke on the Mission to be held in Christ Church November 15th to 20th, which is to be conducted by Rt. Rev. Richard Rees. Mr. Beeby asked for volunteer visitors for this Mission.

The secretary, Mrs. E. Colbourne, read several "thank you" letters from sick and bereaved members, also a letter of thanks from Mr. Velleman to members of the Guild for their work in hemming sheets and towels for the Retarded Children's Home," and inviting all to visit the home.

A financial report was given by Mrs. A. Watkin, treasurer.

The Guild members will have a Corporate Communion on March 20th.

Reports were given by Mrs. Kempston, Mrs. R. Follwell and Mrs. J. Jones.

Mrs. I. Winter, parish secretary, read a report on the Vestry Council Meeting held recently.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. J. Hickey introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. T. F. Townsend, wife of the assistant pastor of Holloway Street Church. Mrs. Townsend thanked Mrs. Hickey for her kind remarks. The topic of her talk was "Strength Will be Waiting," which was most inspiring and enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Beeby thanked Mrs. Townsend for taking time out of her busy life to come and speak to the Guild, also for the wonderful thoughts she had left.

A panel discussion on "Lent" was held with Mrs. J. Hickey, Miss F. Fitzgerald, Mrs. L. Bishop, Mrs. L. Jordan, Mrs. V. Slavin and Mrs. F. Mason taking part, which proved to be quite interesting. Everyone on the panel agreed that "Lent has not lost its purpose, and a definite approach to Lent is personal sacrifice."

Past President Mrs. B. Wonnacott presented Mrs. M. Button with a prayer book, a gift from the Guild and wished for her a pleasant and happy trip to England. Mrs. Button, in expressing her thanks to the Guild for her gift, said she had enjoyed working in the Guild and she would certainly miss it, as she would be moving to Montreal when they returned from England.

Mrs. Button gave the Guild members an invitation to visit her in her new home in Montreal.

Mrs. Beeby, president, closed the meeting with a prayer.

Tea and fruit bread were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Beeby, Sr., and Mrs. A. Watkin.

WEDDINGS

CRONIN — LALONDE

A very pretty wedding was solemnized recently in St. Carthagh's Church, Tweed, Ontario, when the Reverend J. J. Shannon united in marriage Mary Lucille Lalonde, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LaLonde, of Tweed, to Francis Joseph Cronin, of Belleville, son of Mrs. Joseph Cronin and the late Mr. Cronin. Yellow and white chrysanthemums adorned the altar.

The wedding music included, "Ave, Maria;" "Panis Angelicus," and "Mother at Your Feet is Kneeling."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was charming in her waltz-length bridal gown of Swiss silk embroidery and satin featuring a molded bodice with "V" shaped neckline at back and front, and long, sheath-like sleeves of Swiss embroidery. The bouffant over skirt of Swiss embroidery ended in embroidered scallops over a sweeping underskirt of nylon tulle over satin fastened in the back with tiny tulle buttons. She wore a coronet of tulle leaves, and oval, shoulder-length veil of silk illusion, and carried a bouquet of white hyacinth bells and red garnet roses.

Miss Morna LaLonde, of Tweed, attended the bride, attired in a ballerina-length gown of Romance blue suede lace with fitted torso bodice having an oval neckline, neckline and elbow sleeves. She wore a matching headdress and carried small, white 'mums mingled with pink, Sweetheart roses.

Mr. Terry McCormick, of Toronto, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Richard LaLonde, of Iroquois, Ontario, and Mr. Carl Cronin, of Belleville, were ushers.

The reception was held in the Tweedsmuir Hotel, Tweed, where the bride's mother, attired in mink brown rayon tiention crepe with nylon lace and net, tan accessories, and corsage of yellow roses received. Receiving with her was the bridegroom's mother, wearing floral print in seasonal shades accented with black velvet, and corsage of white 'mums.

For the wedding trip to Bermuda, via air, the bride travelled in French toast lace over taffeta with brown accessories, muskrat shortie coat, and corsage of white roses. Mr. and Mrs. Cronin are residing in Belleville.

Guests attended from Hamilton; Iroquois; Belleville; Toronto and Tweed.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was honored by a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. Carl Cronin, Belleville.

INDIAN TEA

DOIG — LLOYD

White chrysanthemums and white snapdragons interspersed with ferns formed a lovely setting in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, on Saturday March 2nd, at 10:00 a.m. for a pretty wedding when Dora Marie Lloyd, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Lloyd, became the bride of John Murray Doig, of Belleville, son of Mrs. James Doig, of Belleville, and the late Mr. Doig. The Reverend Peter Murphy officiated.

The wedding music was rendered by the Reverend Sister Wilhelmina, who accompanied the soloist, Mr. David Stephens, in the singing of "Ave Maria," "On This Day", and "Jesus, Jesus, Come to Me."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. C. M. Lloyd, was enchanting in her gown of nylon net ruffles gathered with touches of silver thread, to a fitted bodice with jacket of handclipped Chantilly lace, the tiny satin buttons finishing the neckline. Her headdress, a queen's crown gathered with fan-pleated tulle and trimmed with tiny seed pearls and rhinestones, held her finger - tip veil of tulle illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of red, Sweetheart roses and white hyacinth bells, with rosebud - knotted streamers.

Miss Jean Lloyd, of Belleville, sister of the bride was the only attendant, attired in moss green crystalette over satin and net, featuring a fitted bodice tapering to a "V", with sailorbow collar. The three-quarter length skirt was gathered at the bodice with inserts of crystalette sprinkled with flowered net and rhinestones. She wore a picture hat of matching moss green, and carried a bouquet of rust-colored 'mums mingled with white hyacinth bells.

Mr. Phil G. Bennett, of Point Anne, was groomsman, and the ushers were Mr. James A. Alexander, of Picton, and Mr. Bruce J. Farrow, of Belleville.

The reception, which followed the ceremony, was held in Holy Rosary Hall, with the Reception Room providing vocal selections. Mr. Phil Bennett presided as master of ceremonies.

The bride's table was pretty with its three-tier wedding cake, centred by a pale gold wool boucle with matching tuxedo box type hat, and mauve and black — quarter sleeves; mauve and black accessories, and mauve orchid corsage. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore pale blue silk with blue accessories, and corsage of pink roses.

For the wedding trip through the United States to Saskatoon, the bride wore a wool suit with black skirt and sailor-boy jacket of black and white check, with white hat, and corsage of red Sweetheart roses. Mr. and Mrs. Doig will reside in Saskatoon.

Guests attended from Toronto, Oshawa, London, Kingston, Point Anne, and Picton.

The bride, previous to her marriage, was the honored guest at a shower at the home of Mrs. Jean Bromley, given by the girls of the office staff at the Commercial Credit Corporation, and also at a party by the office staff of Commercial Credit.

Missionary Tells W.A. of Life in Nigeria

The regular meeting of College Hill W.A. was held in the church on Wednesday.

Mrs. Jean Thomson presided. The theme for the day was based on "Faith". The guests from Kingston Road, Front Road Centre St., Tabernacle and Canniton were graciously welcomed.

Mrs. Eva Jenkinson gave the financial report. Three sick calls were reported by Mrs. Annis Dickens. The offering was received and later presented to Mrs. Layman to be used for missionary work.

Mrs. Audrey Flunder had charge of the devotional period, assisted by Mrs. Florence Watson and Mrs. Doris Price. Each gave a reading based on theme "Faith".

Mrs. Nellie Greenwood introduced the guest speaker, whom she had known for a number of years, Mrs. Vera Leyman, a missionary to Nigeria, now home on furlough after 14 years of service.

Mrs. Leyman said it was a pleasure for her to be with the ladies and speak to them of her work in Africa. She said in part "Have faith to go to another country — first be called to serve in a foreign country — the field is the world, we do need to take them the good news of the gospel — we go forth to tell them —we must have faith; go ye therefore and lo, I am with you always—God knows best and we must leave things in His hands—not only faith, but love, earthly love, and God's love. We go to heal and teach.

They were 135 miles from a doctor, had from 50 to 90 patients each morning, followed by a song pel service. There is so much unCleanliness, infection, neglect of babies and death. They have a soul for which Christ died. They now have plane service over Nigeria, which is a great convenience. No one is sorry for being a missionary. It is no sacrifice so many here and so few there, to be disobedient, obey Him and have full joy and peace."

Mrs. Flonie Rits thanked Mrs. Leyman for her inspiring words.

The meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. E. Farnsworth.

Refreshments were served and a social half hour enjoyed.

Dr. Robert Brain Lectures on 'Care of the Feet'

St. John Ambulance Nursing Division No. 150 held its regular monthly meeting at Headquarters, 294 Front Street, on Tuesday evening last. This was an open meeting attended by members of the division from Trenton and Belleville, guests and the Red Cross Homemakers.

Mrs. R. J. McLuskie, retiring superintendent announced the appointment of Mrs. Edith Anderson as divisional superintendent. The appointment of Mrs. Gertrude Ellsworth of Trenton as the nursing officer, and Mrs. Barara Haynes as divisional officer was also announced.

Dr. Robert Brain, who established his practice in Belleville in 1954 was the speaker of the evening. Doctor Brain is a graduate of the Ohio College of Podiatry, holds his Batchelor of Science Degree, and is a graduate doctor of Surgical Podiatry. Dr. Brain explained the difference between Chiropody and Podiatry, explaining that 90% of all foot troubles are caused by some condition of the general health of the patient, rather than the foot itself. Foot troubles cannot be cured by shoes alone. Corns, calluses, warts, thickening of nails might be caused by foo deformity, arthritis, injury, vitamin deficiency. Almost any disease known which the body suffers might affect the foot in some manner.

He advised frequent washing of the feet — once or twice a day, changing shoes often, trimming toe nails properly, wearing the right size shoes, exercise by wiggling the toes, keeping the feet dry.

During the evening a picture was shown stressing the care of the feet, and the need for regular examination of the feet, which is an important as regular examination of the teeth, eyes, a

The meeting closed with a social half hour, lunch and announcement that the annual inspection of the division would be held on Wednesday, April 11th, in the Army and Navy Hall, Belleville.

HEALTHFUL WAY TO STOP THE CONSTIPATION HABIT

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN WITH MILK - NATURE'S GREAT FOOD COMBINATION

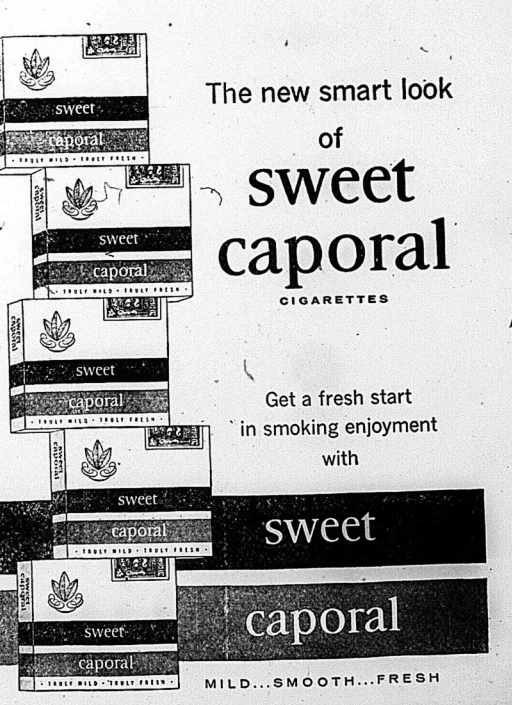
Aid to regularity enjoyed by millions

Good food bulk in effective cereal form

Doesn't this make sense to you? If you suffer from the occasional constipation habit (often brought on by lack of dietary bulk), the way to go about correcting the condition is to restore natural food bulk to your diet.

This is the simple, everyday reason why Kellogg's All-Bran has given effective relief to millions of people. Even to some who struggled with irregularity for years.

If this sounds like you, wouldn't you be wiser to put your faith in nature and try All-Bran? Kellogg's—the original ready-to-eat bran cereal with all the benefits of whole bran left in. Just a morning serving provides all the bulk you need daily.



All-Bran has an old-fashioned bran muffin flavour that lots of folks prefer over any other cereal. And a single bowl served with hot or cold milk gives you essential nutritional values as well.

We recommend that you eat half a cup of All-Bran with milk, every day for 10 days. Try it. See if you can't put yourself back on the track this safe, pleasant, inexpensive way.

All-Bran must satisfy you on all counts or you may return the empty carton and get twice what you paid. That's a promise from Kellogg's of Canada, London, Ontario.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU'RE REALLY A COLLEGE MAN, CHARLES!

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm a 19-year-old boy who is a junior in college. I'm average-looking, fairly well-to-do and, of course, interested in girls.

A few weeks ago, I met a very beautiful girl whom I had seen several times at church. I took her to a college dance and we arrived home at the hour agreed upon. We had met each other's parents before we left.

At the dance we had a very good time, and I really thought we had "hit it off good." She said herself she never had a better time.

Three times since then, however, she refused dates with me. Then I thought I had chased her enough and asked her if she ever wanted to go out with me. For some reason, she said no and I said goodbye courteously and went home. At all times when with her I had conducted myself as a gentleman.

Now here is the heart of the problem.

Recently I met a very attractive and wonderful college freshman. We have dated twice, and I have also had dates with other girls. I've had some fun, yet I feel as though I'm "laughing on the outside and crying on the inside" because I keep longing for the girl who rejected me. I'd like very much to know what you think is going on, and how I can start enjoying fully my future dates, because even though I only have also had dates with other girls. this other girl a comparatively short time, I can't seem to forget her. — Charles

Dear Charles:

You don't sound like a college junior to me. You sound more like a high school freshman. Get wise and figure this thing out in a realistic manner.

Obviously, you didn't "hit it off" with this first girl as well as you thought you did. Otherwise she would have been just as eager to continue the friendship as you were. So where do you go from there?

I'd say you're already on your way, since you've met another girl who is "very attractive and wonderful." All you have to do now is to put your heart—and you can, if you really try—into giving her and any other girl you take out the very best time you can, and I guarantee that it won't be long before "forgetting" the first girl will take care of itself and you'll be enjoying those dates fully. That's the way those things invariably work at your age.

Answer: I am glad it fitted into your diet so well . . . you can make the

with it. If using Quick-Sauce Mix (Jan. 29/57) measure ½ cup Dry Mix and stir in until thick 4 cups water. Add 2 or 3 chicken bouillon cubes. That will replace the White Sauce called for in this recipe which follows: 2½ cups white stock (chicken or veal stock cleared) or water to which 2 or 3 chicken bouillon cubes have been added, 2 hard lettuce heads, outside leaves discarded, finely shredded, 2 tablespoons rice, ½ cup cream, ¼ tablespoon finely chopped onion, 1 tablespoon butter, yolk 1 egg, few grains nutmeg, salt, pepper. Gently cook onion 3 minutes in butter, add lettuce, rice, stock (omit dry mix until last if used). Cook until rice is soft, then add cream, beaten egg yolk, nutmeg, salt and pepper. This is a lovely soup. Recipe for Escalloped Vegetables has been sent by mail.

Minerva Chapter O.E.S. Marks 31st Anniversary

Minerva Chapter No. 138, O.E.S., celebrated its 31st birthday in the Masonic Temple on Friday evening.

The auditorium was suitably decorated and a large number of members and guests were present to celebrate the occasion.

Among the honored guests were Mrs. Allison Gough, Past Grand Matron; Mrs. Audrey Elliott, Grand Chaplain; Mrs. Mary Ellen Crawford, Grand Electa of the Grand Chapter of Ontario; Mrs. Edna Broad, Mrs. Bella Wonnacott, Mrs. Edna Dobbs, P.D.D.G.M.'s and presiding officers and presiding patrons of a number of chapters in the district.

The Worthy Matron, Mrs. Lillian Pottruff, and the Worthy Patron, Mr. Larry Henning, extended a hearty welcome to all present and wished them an enjoyable evening.

The charter members were introduced, welcomed and presented with corsages.

Many letters and cards of congratulations were received.

During the evening, Mrs. Audrey Elliott was presented with an honorary membership from Minerva Chapter by Mrs. Edna Dobbs.

The Past Worthy Grand Matron cut the beautiful birthday cake, and wished the chapter many more happy and successful years.

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served.

Round and square dancing followed, bringing an enjoyable evening to a close.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

CONCERNING "HOW DO YOU DO"

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP:

When you acknowledge an introduction say "How do you do." This is the always-correct acknowledgment. Never, never say "Pleased to meet you." Show the "pleased" in the gracious way you respond to the introduction, and in your cordial expression.

READER REGARDS THIS SHOWER INVITATION AS "THE END"!

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A little while ago you said in your column that it is "amazing" to what lengths some people will go to give a shower so they can gather in the loot for a relative or friend. I couldn't agree with you more. And today I received a shower invitation that really is "the end"! A girl whom I know, although she isn't a close friend of mine, sent me an invitation to a shower she is giving at her house for a very close friend of hers who several years ago was a co-worker of mine.

This girl who worked in my office I didn't know very well, never saw her outside our office, and haven't heard from her since she went to live out West. Now, the invitation explains, "she is to be married in May, and although she won't be able to be at the shower, because of the distance I thought it would be nice for her friends to get together to give her a shower and then I will send the presents to her." Now I ask you, Mrs. Beeckman, have you ever heard of anything more ridiculous in the Shower-line? (P.S.: Of course I won't go to the Shower.) — A.R.

I agree with you, A.R., that this invitation to a shower of Miss Absentee is ridiculous, and certainly she absolutely no point as far as you are concerned. Whether or not it is, as you say, "the end" I wouldn't venture to say, for a more far-fetched "reason" for giving a Shower may turn up any day! I doubt if the hostess will be too much surprised when she receives your brief note of "regret" to this invitation . . . anyway she tried!

'Can You Teach' Theme at Teachers' Training School

"You Can Teach" was the theme of a Teachers' Training School, sponsored by the Belleville Council of Christian Education, over the past six weeks. The school has been held in Victoria Ave. Baptist Church on Sunday afternoons with an average attendance of 55 teachers.

Following the opening by the dean, Mr. John Bablak of Tabernacle United Church, and a brief devotional period at each session, the speaker, Mrs. L. Fisher, of Christ Church, gave an instructive talk, based on the text-book "You Can Teach", by James F. Berkley.

A chapter of the book was covered each Sunday, consisting of the following subjects: 'You Can Learn to Teach'; 'How Teachers Help Pupils to Learn'; 'The Various Methods of Teaching'; 'How to Use Lesson Helps'; 'The Use of the Bible in Christian Teaching', and "Beyond the Sunday Class Session.' On all but the first Sunday, Mrs. Fisher demonstrated before a real class on the platform, using a different age group at each session.

DISCUSSION GROUPS

Discussion groups followed under experienced and capable leaders in this order: Mrs. E. A. Cornish, of Tabernacle United Church; teachers of children 3 - 8 years of age; Miss Jean Boswell, of Bridge St. United Church, teachers of children 9 - 11 years of age; the Rev. T. F. Townsend of Holloway St. United Church, teachers of teen-agers, 12 - 17 years. Written assignments were given the groups in order to qualify for certificates on completion of the course.

CERTIFICATES PRESENTED

On Sunday last, certificates were presented by Mr. John Bablak and Rev. T. F. Townsend.

Mr. Bablak tendered thanks to Mrs. Fisher for her remarkable instruction and to the discussion group leaders, who accomplished a great deal of work in their respective groups.

The president of the Belleville Council of Christian Education, Mr. Frank Benson, also tendered thanks to Mr. Bablak and his committee for planning and conducting the training school. Mr. Bablak closed the final session with prayer.

NEW CLEANSERS KEEP SPRING SHOES LOVELY

Shoes will play an even more important part than usual in the outfits to be worn during this Spring of 1957. Manufacturers have gone all out to make them as gay and colorful as possible and chances are, if you just love pretty shoes, you'll want to splurge on them this season—and in a veritable rainbow of colors. Never have we seen such variegated hues in leather, swede and fabric-shoes. They come in dozens of shades of blue, offbeat tones of mauve, green, pink. The reds are dazzling and, as for the striped, plaided, polka-dotted and floral printed numbers . . . well, there's not a chance that you can't match any outfit you have in mind—and without looking too far.

Such pretty shoes demand good care, of course. And, with this in mind, manufacturers are coming to the rescue with a number of new shoe cleaners and other grooming gadgets to keep yours in perfect condition always. For leather shoes, for instance, there's a new waterproofing product which you can use on even your dressiest footwear. There have been water-repellent products to protect shoes before this, of course, but one of the drawbacks was that, after using, it was almost impossible to give shoes a glossy shine. With the new one, however, far from hindering the application of a polish, the silicone-containing product actually results in a glossier shine when shoes are polished. For ease of application, the waterproofer comes in an aerosol push-button can that sends out a fine spray to enfor not only the entire surface of the leather but also the folds and indentations beyond the reach of previous water-repellant compounds.

For suede shoes there's also a colorless spray in an aerosol can. This one is a real beautifier which, according to its maker, "actually raises the nap while renewing the color and imparting a fresh, glistening luster to the suede." This product is non-inflammable and there's no risk of excessive wetting or drenching since the fine spray dries almost immediately. It is pleasantly scented and can be used with perfect safety on any color but white. For white shoes, there's another cleaner, also available in an aerosol container, which you'll want to keep in mind during the summer. Nurses and other workers who wear white shoes the year 'round have found it the perfect answer to the problem of keeping white shoes immaculately clean.

The example you set your children . . . your unexpected gift . . . a game of 'leap frog' or a 'piggy-back' . . . these are a few of the attentions you bring your family that could never be measured in dollars and cents.

Apart from these considerations, however, you are the one who brings home the pay cheque. Your contribution as a breadwinner has a definite value. Your salary clothes your family, feeds them, houses them, and educates your children. If you and your salary were to be removed from the scene, your family's way of life could still be maintained — in accustomed surroundings, in the same neighborhood, with old friends — if you take the precaution of safeguarding their future through the Sun Life of Canada, one of the world's great life insurance companies.

The Sun Life, of course, can never take your place, but it can replace your salary. To find out how easily this can be done, contact the Sun Life agent in your community. He can advise the proper insurance coverage and he will be glad to discuss your particular situation with you and your wife. You will be under no obligation.

When someone's counting on you . . . you can count on life insurance — Sun Life

Canadian Garden Service

BY GORDON LINDSAY SMITH

Strangely enough it is far more difficult to design a formal garden with its straight rows and paths than it is to create one with curves and clumps and a general informal layout. Anyone with a string, of course, can plant perfectly straight rows of petunias or roses or tulips but it takes an expert to make a garden like that look really attractive.

The average person with average skill and an average lot is far better advised to stick to the simple, and nine times out of ten, more interesting informal layout. In this, of course, along the straight walls of our house or the boundary fences, there will be no chance for weaving at the back, but by planting in clumps and beds of various widths and curving edges we get an informal appearance at the front. As a rule the bigger flowers and taller shrubbery go at the back but just to break the monotony we occasionally bring something forward. We also plant in groups of two or three to a dozen of each species depending upon size, rather than as single individual specimens.

In the centre of almost any garden layout, no matter how small, will be a piece of lawn and around that we group flowers and shrubbery. Rather than hide all the foundation line of the house, or all of an attractive wall or fence, we leave irregular spaces here and there between clumps of shrubbery or beds of flowers. If the garden is a fair size, too, it is an excellent plan to arrange trees, shrubbery and taller flowers so that part of the layout is hidden and only revealed when the visitor moves along. If possible have a curving path rather than a straight one but make sure there is some reason for the curve even if you have to make one by planting a tree or a clump of shrubs.

Vegetables divide themselves into several main groups. There are those that are hardy like lettuce, radish, the first potatoes, carrots, beets, cabbage, peas and such things. These can be planted almost as soon as the soil is fit to work. They will not mind a touch of frost.

Then there are the semi-tender things like the main planting of potatoes, beans, corn and so on. These should not be planted until danger of frost is over and the soil and air are beginning to warm out.

At the end are the really tender tomatoes, melons, cucumbers, peppers, etc. Frost will kill these instantly and they will not thrive until both soil and sun are really warm.

From all of this the beginner should not decide to plant all of his vegetables in the order mentioned. These directions are only for the first of each group. In order to spread out the garden, both for flowers and vegetables, it is vital to spread out the seeding dates.

Most experienced gardeners make at least three plantings of standard vegetables like carrots, lettuce, corn, beans and peas. They plant one third as early as possible, another third from two to three weeks later and the last third later again. In this way the harvest is spread over weeks instead of just a few days.

Next week — Tailored to fit.

New Heat Makes Room Underground

Before remodeling this basement was dingy and dusty. Maybe yours is not this bad. But here were a pot-bellied incinerator, an old ash-producing heating plant and a separate boiler for hot water supplies. This was fine equipment in its day, but times changed. Housebold help became expensive, and housewives did not enjoy the chore of running down to stoke the furnace.

After remodeling you wouldn't recognize the same basement. A modern gas heating plant and automatic water heater made it practicable to clean up the old cellar, lay colorful floor tile with an inlaid shuffle board and panel the walls with colorful knotty pine. The American Gas Assn., advises that adequate venting as shown here, is one of the wisest precautions to take. From then, it's fun.
